AN INVITATION

May I extend to each of you a personal and very special invitation to attend our Homecoming Activities on February 3. For several years Homecoming has been gaining in magnitude and in popularity. We feel this year will be the finest Homecoming ever.

I wish particularly to call your attention to our new venture in "Continuing Education." This is designed to provide an Alumnus with the opportunity to hear someone of note in his own field present the new trends, latest developments, new ideas, thus making Homecoming valuable as well as enjoyable.

Won't you mark the date on your calendar now and make plans to attend?

from our house. We listened to the shots for a day and a half, then went out to Mulingwishi until the battle was over. We got so jumpy that we thought every strange noise was a shot. For us it is a strange war because we have no enemies. The Katangese are our friends and the U. N. are in theory our protectors. However, we didn't wait around for a stray bullet, which can go two miles. We're glad it's over for a while."

DURHAM-ORANGE COUNTY CHAPTER

Some thirty persons were present for the December 12 chapter meeting at the Methodist Retirement Home in Durham. Musical entertainment was provided by Miss Mary Lou Troutman and Miss Martha Wallace, High Point College students. Miss Gail Geyer, Miss High Point College, and Ron Wachs, Alumni Secretary, were also guests of the chapter. A very interesting and informative program was presented by Mr. J. H. Allred, former Dean of Students at High Point College and currently Professor of Modern Languages, and Dr. William Matthews, Associate Professor of Education and Psychology. Allred outlined very vividly the College's thirty-seven-year history and Dr. Matthews followed with some long-range projections for the school's progress. A question and answer discussion period followed these presentations.

FORUMS — CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR ALUMNI

Webster defines a Forum as "an assembly for the discussion of public matters or current questions."

In keeping with an increasing awareness that an institution's academic responsibility to an individual is not terminated at graduation, High Point College is offering four Faculty Forums as part of this year's Homecoming program. The Forums will be presentations of new developments within an academic area with especial attention given to how advances affect High Point College and her alumni.

Leading the Forums will be Dr. E. O.

THE NEW IMAGE

The public image of the College's alumnus/a seems based upon a double standard. Perhaps even we, the alumni, share this twin vision, in part or in tota. Taken as individuals, we enjoy public esteem in many areas of our lives. We are the leaders of society, so to speak. Our corporate image is another matter—at once the respected individual becomes the butt of many not so funny jokes and cartoons. Alumni group activities are supposedly conducted on a superficial and frivolous plane. A serious surveillance of the problems facing American higher education makes us wonder, however, if it is not past time for a long look at this anachronistic image. This academic inventory-taking will not necessitate jettisoning the Homecoming displays or the ball game or many of the traditional aspects of Homecoming and alumni-ship. But it should bring to us an awareness that alumni activities can and must transcend to more serious activities.

Whether or not private higher education can successfully meet the impending challenges of the coming decade depends, in increasingly large proportions, on how seriously alumni acknowledge their opportunities for service to alma mater, and conversely, alma mater's (and let us leave generalities and become specific — High Point College) service to her alumni. We are realizing time and again our obligations to keep you informed as to what is happening in academic circles, so that our concerted efforts might materialize in an enlightened institution that is honestly attempting to deal with problems and issues of life.

Toward this end we are inaugurating in the 1962 Homecoming program, forums in four areas — Natural Science, Business, Education, and Religion. Directing these forums are Dr. E. O. Cummings, Dr. Robert Hislop, Dr. Dennis Cooke, Dr. W. R. Locke, respectively. (Details concerning time, place, etc., can be found elsewhere in this Bulletin.) We ask your support of, participation in, and reaction to this innovation in the Homecoming agenda.

Ron Wachs,
Alumni Secretary

REUNIONS — 1932, 1942 and 1952

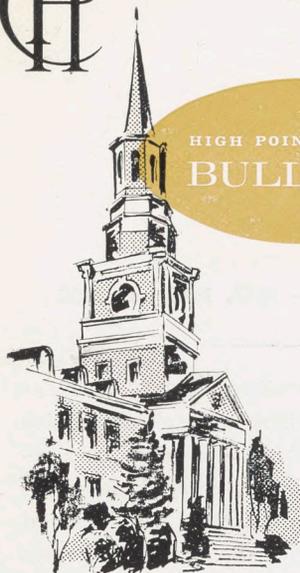

Are you of the Class of 1932, 1942 or 1952? If so, you have a special invitation to be at this year's Homecoming for a reunion which is being planned for your class. The reunion program will begin at 12:00 noon. To solve the problem of when the classes having reunions might eat lunch, the alumni office has arranged for the College dietitian to prepare box lunches for $1.00 per person. This will make it possible for each class to have their own reunion and lunch simultaneously at some other place on campus — besides the already crowded cafeteria. Please let us know if you are attending so that we might let the dietitian know how many lunches to prepare.

The Class of 1932 will meet in the classroom on second floor of the Student Center, the Class of 1942 will meet in the classroom across the hall from the Bandroom in the Fine Arts Building, and the Class of 1952 will meet in the Bandroom. If you do not know where these particular places are located, there will be numerous persons on campus who can direct you.

We hope you will plan to be at Homecoming, especially if you have not been on the campus recently. We believe you will like the improvements and additions you will see as well as enjoying the happy time of seeing old friends and classmates.

MECKLENBURG COUNTY CHAPTER

As the material for this Bulletin was being prepared, final arrangements were being made for the January 12 meeting to reorganize the Mecklenburg County Chapter. The Rev. Lee R. Spencer, temporary chairman of the planning committee, has arranged for the meeting to be held at his church—Hawthorne Lane Methodist Church in Charlotte—and Dr. Wendell Patton is to be guest speaker.

SUMMER SESSION - 1962

High Point College is this year conducting its thirty-fourth summer school session. To be admitted to the summer school, students must meet the regular entrance requirements or hold a State Teacher's Certificate. The first term will begin June 6, and will end July 12. Registration for this term will begin at 8:00 a.m. June 6, in the Student Center. The second term will begin July 13, and will end August 18. Registration for this term will begin at 8:00 a.m., July 13, also in the Student Center. For further information regarding the summer school, please address Dr. H. E. Conrad, Director, High Point College, High Point, N. C.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

In keeping with the Education for Leadership program of the college, three special programs are being offered here this summer.

Performing Arts Workshop

The Fine Arts Department is offering its first annual Performing Arts Workshop this summer. The workshop is designed to give those students seriously interested in opera and drama a six-weeks period of intensive training. Private lessons, class instruction, and actual stage performance comprise a part of the study. Three semester hours of college credit will be given. For further information, write to MR. J. FRYHOVER, HIGH POINT COLLEGE.

Aerospace Workshop

For the first time, High Point College is giving opportunity to secondary and elementary teachers to gain general information and understanding of aviation and the progress made in our air space age. Outstanding persons in the field will present this course. Among these will be an Air Force Reserve Officer, representatives of National Aviation Education Council and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. This course will be limited to thirty public school teachers from North Carolina and will cost $70.00 for room and board, in addition to tuition. Several scholarships will be given. This program will run from June 6-20. For further information, write to DR. L. M. HAYS, HIGH POINT COLLEGE.

Experimental Session

Mindful of the fact that no admissions standards are perfect, and in an effort to qualify doubtful high school graduates for college admission, High Point College will conduct an experimental preparatory session during the regular summer session. Candidates for the program will be recommended to the preparatory session's director by the Director of Admissions of any college wishing to use this service as a means of admission qualification. For a resume of the courses and the cost and for any additional information write to MR. GRADY WHICKER, HIGH POINT COLLEGE.

SABBATICAL LEAVE PROGRAM

Dr. Locke

A new program, called the Summer Sabbatical Leave Program, was set up last fall by the Board of Trustees. This program is open to members of the faculty who have been with High Point College for at least three years. Under the plan, the College will pay a faculty member's regular salary while he spends the summer in travel, research, or study in his respective field of scholarship.

Dr. Lewis

The first members of the High Point College faculty to participate in this program are Dr. W. R. Locke, head of the Department of Religion, and Dr. Lew Lewis, head of the Department of Fine Arts. Dr. Locke, accompanied by his wife, will leave sometime in June for a tour of Egypt, Greece, Jordan, Israel and Europe. Following his trip, Dr. Locke plans to spend the remainder of the summer in study and attending several conferences for teachers of religion. Dr. Lewis is looking forward to his sabbatical summer as "the opportunity for uninterrupted work on my composition. It will be either a ballad, a chamber opera, or a work of similar proportion in the contemporary vein, for band or orchestra," he said. Later in the summer, Dr. Lewis may possibly attend the music festival in Aspen, Colorado.

ALUMNUS IN SCOTLAND

C. W. Faulkner, Jr., '58, is working for a year as assistant minister in Dunfries, Scotland. Here are excerpts from a recent letter to HPC:

"Not often does one find a Methodist Minister serving as Assistant Minister in a Presbyterian Church, not to mention a kirk of the Church of Scotland. This unusual arrangement has provided opportunities for valuable experience to be gained and for lasting friendships to be made . . . My work here is like that of an assistant minister anywhere . . . The history and heritage of St. Michael's provides a most interesting setting for the beginnings of a young minister's career. The Scots are a wonderful people among whom to start a ministry. They do not usually say too much, but they mean what they say."

(His address—St. Michael's Manse, Bankend Road, Dunfries, Scotland).

BASKETBALL SEASON ENDS

After finishing the regular season with a 12-11 record, the Panthers upset top-seeded Lenoir Rhyne 91-77 and third-seeded Elon 80-73 in the conference tournament before losing the championship game to second-seeded Western Carolina 69-58. Four of the HPC starters—Barry Smith, Joe Keith, Dave Wickham, and Dale Neel—are freshmen and the other—Phil Garrison—is a sophomore. This fact coupled with a strong bench marks the Panthers as a real threat for the next few years. Garrison, selected to the all-tournament first team, also won the Most Valuable Player Award for the second consecutive year. Smith and Wickham were chosen to the all-tourney second team.

NEW DEAN NAMED

Jesse L. Taylor, director of the Parks and Recreation Department for the City of High Point, has been named Dean of Students for High Point College. Taylor will assume his new duties June 1, or as soon as he can terminate his position with the city. He replaces James L. Nelson, who requested a return to full-time teaching duties, and has been promoted to the position of assistant professor of business administration.

GOAL NEAR

Now definitely within the range of easy attainment, our goal of 18% alumni participation is certain to be surpassed. Here is a resume of alumni giving through February 17, 1962: 588—Loyalty Fund; 3—Fellows; 19—Gym Fund; 206—Lindley Memorial Scholarship Fund (includes 100% participation by Class of 1961)—totaling 816 persons or 16.3%. See Page 3 for Alumni Honor Roll. Contributions to the Loyalty Fund total $4,227.85. This is the amount that would be received from $70,464 invested at 6% interest. Thus the alumni are providing the college with a form of "living endowment."

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS

Dr. Liston Pope, formerly Dean of Yale Divinity School and currently Gilbert L. Stark Professor of Social Ethics at Yale, and Major General W. C. Westmoreland, Superintendent of The United States Military Academy at West Point, New York, are to be speakers at the May 27 commencement exercises.

Dr. Pope, a noted clergyman, educator, and author, is to deliver the 11:00 A.M. baccalaureate sermon. He has been a member of the Yale faculty since 1938. A native of Thomasville, N.C., Dr. Pope is presently on leave of absence in North Carolina on a faculty fellowship. Under his leadership as Dean, the Yale Divinity School expanded both in its program and in its physical plant. He was Director of Religious Education and assistant pastor of the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church in High Point from 1932-35, before moving to New Haven, Conn. A leader in the world ecumenical movement, Dr. Pope has been active in many organizations aimed at religious unity. He is noted in both sociology and religious fields and two of his books, "Millhands and Preachers" and "The Kingdom Beyond Caste," have made extensive impact on current social thoughts.

Appointed Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. on May 13, 1960, Major General Westmoreland is its second youngest commandant at forty-six. Only General MacArthur, at thirty-nine, was younger. Himself a graduate of West Point where he was first Captain of Cadets, General Westmoreland distinguished himself during World War II serving in the North African campaign, the Normandy Invasion, and the European Theater. After the war, he took paratroop and glider training and subsequently became chief of staff of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg. Among his decorations are the Legion of Merit with two Oak Leaf Clusters, French Legion of Honor, Republic of Korea Service Medal, and Belgian Fourragere. Major General Westmoreland is to speak at the 3:00 P.M. graduation ceremony in Memorial Auditorium.

Mr. Paul's appointment was made at a meeting of the Alumni Executive Committee on April 4. He began work on May 1. During the month of May he will work with Ron Wachs for a period of training. He comes to High Point College with an excellent background in the field of business. During the 1962 commencement, the Class of 1937 will hold its twenty-fifth year reunion. Class President and Mrs. Paul Owen (Agnes Louise Willcox) invite members of the class and their families to an informal Coke party at their home at 312 Louise Avenue in High Point on Saturday, May 26, from 2:30-5:30 P.M. He says that this party will give the members of the class an opportunity to renew friendships and do a bit of reminiscing in a leisurely fashion. Special tables will be reserved for the class at the 7:00 o'clock Buffet Dinner to be held in Harrison Hall.

LOAN FUND ESTABLISHED

Did you ever need a few extra dollars during an emergency when you were at HPC? Occasionally a student finds himself faced with this situation and the Alumni Executive Committee has taken steps to help meet this need. A loan fund has been set up to go into operation next fall to aid students needing money for emergencies. The interest-free loan is on a short-term basis and is not to exceed fifty dollars. To be administered by the Alumni Secretary and his committee, the $500 for the loan fund is being set aside from the Alumni Loyalty Fund. This is another way in which alumni are able to help in the continuing work at HPC.

ANNUAL CONFERENCES

For the ministers in the two North Carolina Conferences, we publish the following advance information on the High Point College Alumni dinners during the annual conferences. For the Western North Carolina Conference, June 8, a breakfast at 8:00 in Waynesville High School has been planned. For the Eastern North Carolina Conference, a 5:30 dinner, Tuesday, June 19, has been planned for Westminster Methodist Church in Kinston, N. C. Further information regarding these events will be soon forthcoming.

NEW ALUMNI OFFICE

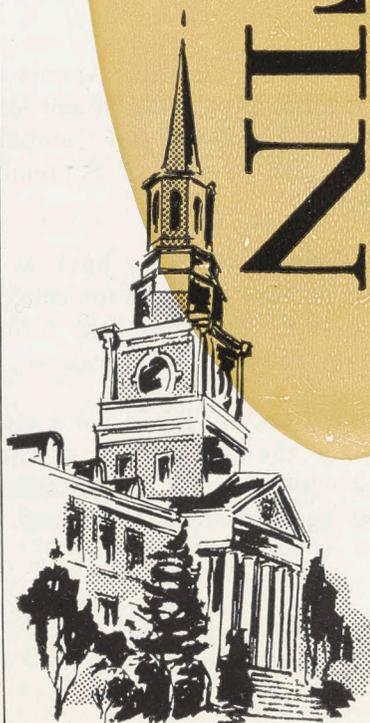

On June 11, the Alumni Office was moved from Roberts Hall to its new quarters at 901 Montlieu Avenue (to be known as the College Relations Building), which is one block west of the main campus. The move was necessary to alleviate the crowded conditions in the office areas of Roberts Hall. We now have a reception room, Executive Secretary's office, and a records and mail room.

In addition to the Alumni Office, the following offices are also located in the College Relations Building: Development, Placement, News Bureau, and Guidance-Counseling.

MATCHING GIFT

Our goal in Alumni giving for the year June 1, 1962 to May 31, 1963 is 25% of the Alumni contributing a grand total of $10,000.00. There is a matching gift of $5,000.00, to be given by a friend of the College, who is vitally interested in the Alumni program, awaiting our attaining this goal. This means that each Alumni contribution of $10.00 will equal $15.00, and each contribution of $50.00 will equal $75.00, when we meet our goal.

Since June 1, the following have contributed: 1929—Mrs. Blanche Ingram Fulp; 1930—Miss Rosalie M. Andrews; 1931—The Reverend Kenneth Lyons; 1937—W. C. Koontz, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. HIGH POINT COLLEGE

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY'S MEMO

I have been on the Alumni Association Staff for three months now and would like to report on some of my activities.

So much of my work is of an intangible nature that it is necessary for me to stop every so often and take stock of the situation. The main item of business for the month of June was getting set up in our new offices; with this accomplished, we can now go on to more important tasks. One of my main concerns has been that of Alumni record keeping, and I have given much time and thought to this project. A decision has now been made on the type of system we need, and we will be working to put this into operation.

I have visited several other Alumni offices, talked with their directors, and I have gained a wealth of information that I hope to put into action. I have attended several Alumni Chapter meetings and plan to attend, insofar as possible, all Chapter meetings in the future. We hope to double the number of active chapters from the present ten to twenty during this year.

I have written, with suggestions from other colleges, a Handbook on Chapter Organization, which, I believe, will not only help in the organization of new chapters, but will also increase the effectiveness of existing chapters.

We have all but two of our Class Agents set up for our fall communications program and are looking forward to a successful Loyalty Fund Campaign to be concentrated during the months of September, October, and November.

All in all, I believe that I now have at least one foot on the ground and am ready to undertake the tremendous job of making ours the best informed and most active Alumni Association anywhere.

As I have said before, my job is not a one-man operation. I must have the full support of the Alumni, Administration, Faculty, Staff, and Students. Any time you have any suggestions or questions, please let me know.

HOLY LAND JOURNEY

Dr. Wil'iam R. Locke, Chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy, visited the Holy Land this summer on a summer sabbatical, a new program recently adopted by the College. He was accompanied by his wife.

In Jerusalem, the Lockes visited Old Jerusalem, the Via Dolorosa, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Dome of the Rock, and the Temple Area.

At the Church of St. Peter in Gallicantu, the Lockes saw the Old Street of Steps, where Jesus walked when He was brought from Gethsemane to the house of Caiphias.

They also visited the village of Qumran, where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found, and Old Nazareth, where they saw the cave in which the Holy Family is said to have lived and Joseph's carpentry shop.

The ruins of a synagogue in Capernaum were interesting to the Lockes, for one can be reasonably sure Jesus carried on some of His ministry there. They also visited the ruins of Old Jericho.

Of special interest to the Lockes were the ruins of Caesarea, where they saw a Crusader's castle and a Roman amphitheater, which dates back to Jesus' time, when Caesarea was the Roman capital.

One of the most impressive things the Lockes found was what the people of Israel have been able to accomplish through sheer determination coupled with modern scientific methods. These people are turning a barren desert, where water shortage is a major problem, into a fertile land by conserving water resources and putting them to the best possible use through irrigation.

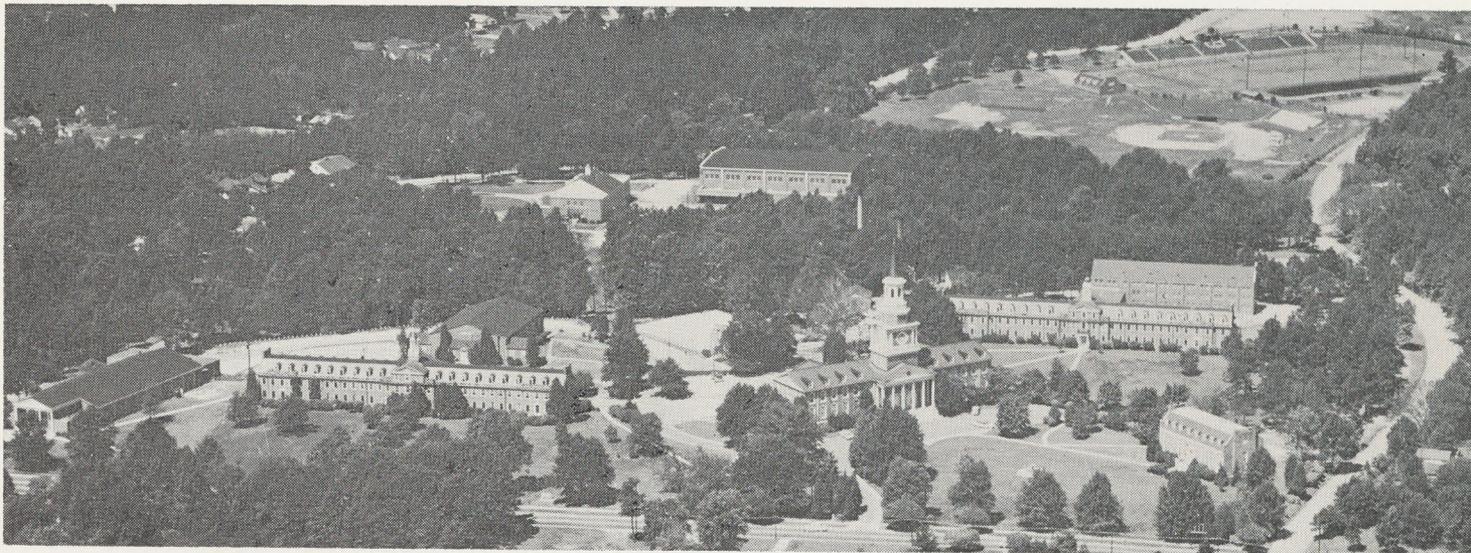

The Lockes were also impressed with the tragedy of a divided Holy Land, the "No Man's Land" and barbed wire separations, and the restriction of travel between Jordan and Israel.

CAMPUS SCENE

Roberts Hall (the main administration building), named in honor of Mr. J. C. Roberts of Kernersville, was the first building to be erected at High Point College. It was built in 1922 and houses administrative offices, classrooms, faculty offices, and the Lindley Chapel, which is named in honor of Dean P. E. Lindley. Woman's Hall (a dormitory for women), named in honor of the women who had an active part in promoting the College, and McCulloch Hall (a dormitory for men), named in honor of The Reverend J. F. McCulloch, who promoted the idea of a college through the Methodist Protestant Church, were erected closely following Roberts Hall. Woman's Hall houses 124 women and McCulloch Hall is home for 225 men. Roberts Hall, Woman's Hall, and McCulloch Hall have recently been remodeled and are used to the fullest capacity.

FACULTY NOTES

The Faculty Seminar for the 1962-63 academic year began on September 6 and concluded with a dinner for the faculty, staff, and their families on September 8. Dr. Patton stated that we have one of the best faculties in the history of the College. There have been three additions to the faculty since the new members were announced in the August Bulletin. They are: Dr. Glenn R. Webb, Biology; Mr. John D. Martin, Psychology; and Mr. Robert D. Davidson, Physical Education. Mr. Davidson is an Alumnus of High Point College, having graduated in 1955.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY'S MEMO

My first two memos to you were mainly concerned with the Alumni Program of High Point College. Now, and in succeeding issues of the Bulletin, I want to bring to your attention some facts concerning Christian Higher Education. The fundamental purpose of High Point College is to educate students to be leaders in their respective fields. The College's approach to this purpose is unique in that it strives to provide for emotional maturity, as well as intellectual needs. This is stressed by the motto of the College. "Nil Sine Numine," which translated means "Nothing Without Divine Light."

Christian Higher Education, as everything else, costs money. Most Alumni are unaware of the fact that they attended college on a partial scholarship. Private schools pay an average of 45% of each undergraduate's cost of education. Excluding the cost of room and board, the combined students of all the colleges in this country pay only one-third of the cost of their higher education. In the United States, the college professors, through inadequate salaries, are subsidizing the education of their students by an amount which more than doubles the total of alumni and corporate gifts and endowment income of all colleges and universities combined. If tuition were raised to meet the total cost, only the rich would be able to secure an education. Therefore, colleges make up the difference and hope to be remembered when their Alumni are in a position to help their Alma Maters. Our combined tax dollars support the colleges and universities operated by the State, but we must support Christian Higher Education through our individual donations to the private colleges of our own choosing. High Point College and Christian Higher Education need your support now!

PRESIDENT'S REPORT TO ALUMNI

So much progress is taking place and so many interesting things are happening that it is difficult to know what to bring to your attention. Our Annual Board of Trustees Meeting was held October 10, 1962. One of the most significant actions was the election of officers of High Point College. This is the first time official recognition has been given our major administrative officers and we feel that it is a highly significant step.

By working together the past few months, we have developed an improved administrative organization which established an operating level composed of four major divisions:

College Relations, headed by Mr. W. Lawson Allen, which will include all public relations of the College. Specifically, this would encompass Alumni, Fund Raising, Development, Endowment, News Bureau, Placement and any activities related to developing our public image. We have grouped all of these functions together and located them in the house known as "The College Relations Building". We hope that you will come by and visit this operation the first chance you get.

The Dean of the College, Dr. Harold E. Conrad, heads the Academic Administration Division, which includes not only responsibility for and selection of the teaching faculty through department heads, but the Evening School and Summer School. In addition, all responsibilities for registration, the maintenance of academic records and admissions would be inherent in this Division.

The function of the Dean of Students has been transferred to a Division of Student Personnel, which is headed by Mr. Jesse L. Taylor. Basically, this Division is responsible for student activities, student services, and student control. As in the past, health services, watchmen, counselors, and house-mothers report in this area.

The fourth Division established was that of Physical and Financial Management, directed by Mr. Arthur B. Williams, Business Manager. The responsibilities inherent in this Division are supervision and direction of all auxiliary services, including the cafeteria, the Bookstore, Post Office, and dormitories. The entire physical plant, both buildings and grounds, are under the direction of Mr. Williams, as well as budgetary control and purchasing.

This basic organization provides the same work so that every function, every operation, and every employee in the College is responsible to one of the four major operating division heads. The Division Heads and the President comprise the officers of the College, charged with the responsibility of carrying out and administering and implementing the policies set forth by the Board of Trustees and by the faculty. All of us who have examined and studied various organizational plans believe that this is the soundest and most efficient plan for High Point College.

The past year most of our activities have been centered around the Self Study, which is required every 10 years by our accrediting agency, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. We have been engaged in this project approximately a year and a half and are now in the process of editing and publishing our overall report. This has involved work by every faculty member, as well as the Board of Trustees. We will have on our campus next spring an inspection committee appointed by the Southern Association to make the final appraisal.

The plans for our new men's dormitory are proceeding on schedule although we do have the minimum amount of time in which to complete this building and have it ready for occupancy by September 1, 1963. Working drawings have been completed, application for a federal loan has been filed, legal advertisements have been inserted in local papers, and bids were read at a public opening on October 25, 1962, at the College. We hope that within ten days following the awarding of bids that we will actually begin excavation for building the dormitory. It is anticipated that some 275 working days will be required for completion. As most of you already know, this building is of unusual design in that no housing facilities will be provided on the first floor. Instead, we are providing fraternity lounges with the necessary storage space and equipment for social functions built in each one of them. We believe that fraternities will make use of these facilities and become even stronger.

Another point of interest to Alumni is that for the first time in the history of the College we are publishing a profile of our college operations for the past year. This is an annual report in capsule form of all pertinent facts and information by which we can appraise the college operations. Since it is our first venture, we are not sure how many to print or what the response will be, so I would urge you to drop us a card if you would like to receive a copy. Even though we have not completed a satisfactory plan for financing, the Board of

SUMMER SABBATICAL

"Putting 'The Merchant of Venice' into operatic form has been quite a challenge," said Dr. Lew Lewis, head of the Department of Fine Arts, who last summer was awarded a Summer Sabbatical by the college to engage in a work of his choice.

"To begin with," he explained, "there was the job of selecting a work to do. It had been my plan to do a simple, short opera of a work of similar size for band or orchestra."

But in the process of selection, Dr. Lewis became interested in converting "The Merchant of Venice" to opera, with complete musical score, orchestration and libretto.

"It was like starting out to write an article and ending up with a novel," he stated.

In order to fit Shakespeare's play to opera, Dr. Lewis found it necessary to do a great deal of cutting and revising. "Shakespeare and I have two things in common," he jested. "First, neither of us has ever been to Venice. Second—and forgive the pun—our principal character, Shylock, and I have had as our principal objective to make 'cuts' in 'The Merchant of Venice'."

But revising was not the only problem Dr. Lewis faced. All of the stage music he had written prior to "The Merchant" had been in the field of musical comedy, and much of his past writing had been in contemporary style.

In writing for full opera rather than for musical comedy, Dr. Lewis found that he had to develop the technique for writing "recitative," where everything must be sung and the plot must move forward through song.

"This was all new to me," he stated, "and I practically had to get a new outlook in writing. Also, 'The Prophecy of Amos' was written in contemporary style, for example, and 'The Merchant' had to be written in romantic style. The two are quite different, and I found it to be quite a task."

Although finishing "The Merchant of Venice" in one summer proved to be an impossible task, Dr. Lewis expects that it will be completed this year. It will consist of five acts.

"The first presentation will be in High Point," Dr. Lewis declared, "and will be under the direction of Jay Fryhover, who is in charge of choral music at High Point College."

It is anticipated, however, that even though the opera may be completed this year, many months will be spent in rehearsal and preparation before presentation.

Dr. Lewis lauded High Point College and the Summer Sabbatical program which made his work possible. "Very few colleges of this size and type give the support that this college does to the fine arts in all kinds of ways. Although the basic purpose is to give the professors a chance to learn more things and to grow professionally," he stated, "it is still practical support of the fine arts, and in this case, specifically music. It is a fine thing to have a college interested in the creative arts as well as in research."

FOREIGN STUDENTS GIVE CAMPUS COSMOPOLITAN ATMOSPHERE

Students at High Point College this year have a wonderful opportunity to become acquainted with the mysteries of the East and the romance of other countries. There are students from Sarawak, Bolivia, India, China, Cuba, Greece and El Salvador studying on our campus.

Kirtikumar Christian is from Baroda, India. In his second year at High Point College, he is a senior majoring in business administration.

Jose Robert Velado is from San Salvador, the capitol of El Salvador in Central America. This is his second year here. He is taking his major in business administration and minor in sociology.

Aris Mastrogianakis came to High Point College from Heracleon, a city on the island of Crete in Greece. He expects to transfer to the University of North Carolina to complete his education to be a pharmacist.

Three students from Bolivia are here this year. Alfredo Saintz and Roberto Vasques were close neighbors in Cochabamba where they studied at the American Institute. Their teacher was a graduate of High Point College, Gary Cornell '59. A pre-engineering freshman, Alfredo has studied English for only one year. Roberto has had ten years of English. He is majoring in biology.

Guillermo Zalles, from La Paz, Bolivia, has been at High Point College for three years. He lives off the campus with his wife and daughter.

Two refugees from Cuba are enrolled this year. Carlos Prado is from Havana. His father, a minister, teaches in the United Seminary in San Juan, Puerto Rico. A second semester sophomore, Carlos is majoring in music.

Elisa Rodriguez is a transfer student. Originally from Cuba, her father is a Methodist minister in Mt. Airy. A sophomore, Elisa plans to major in languages.

Philip Wong from Hong Kong, China, is a senior majoring in chemistry. After graduation, he plans to work for one or two years and then go on to graduate school.

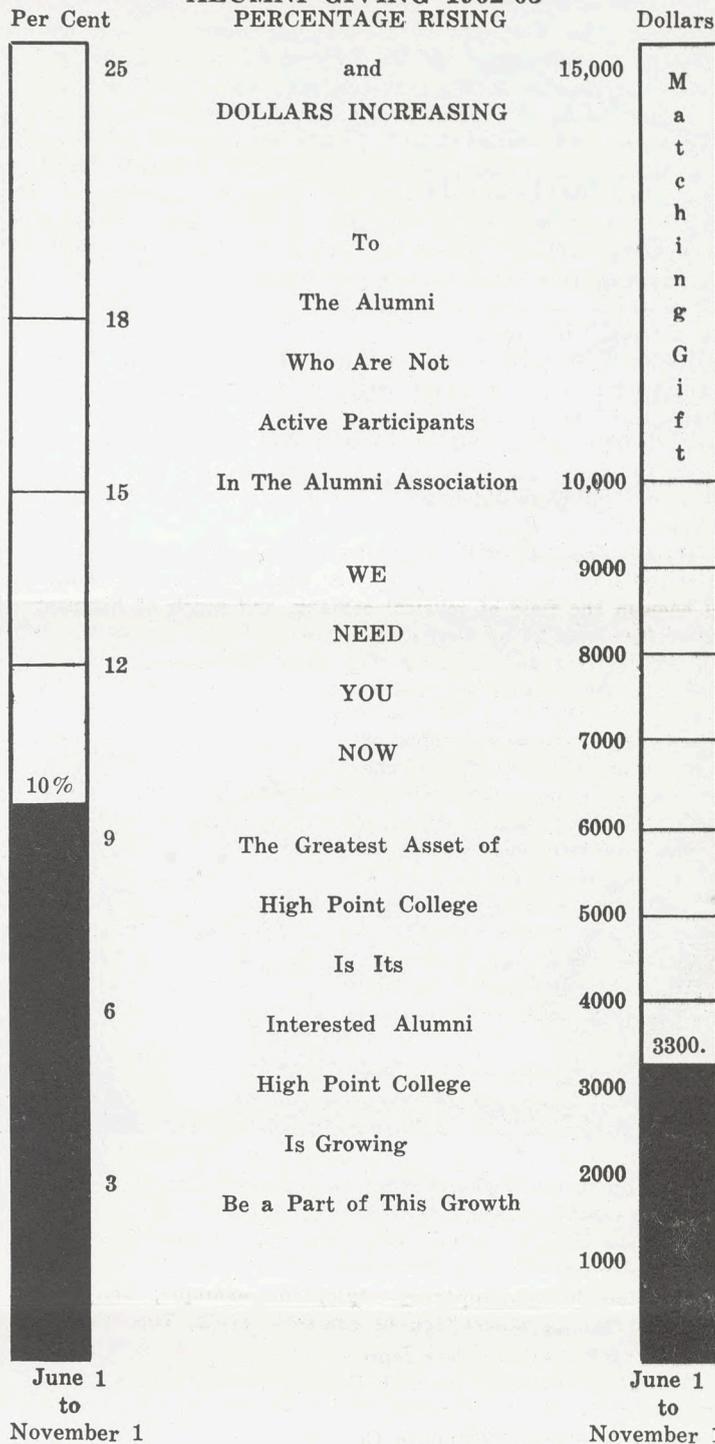

Grace Cheng Chin is at High Point College because there are no universities in Sarawak. She chose High Point College because the man she loved and hoped someday to marry is a student here. Lu Yang Sieng was a teacher at the Methodist missionary school of Grace's father before he came to the United States to study to be a doctor. After Grace had registered for college, she found that there was no room in the dormitory for her. Lu solved that problem. He met the plane in Nashville, Tennessee, they got married and rented an apartment here. Both are pre-med students.

It is a privilege to have these students on our campus.

PLACEMENT SERVICE

The Job Placement Program of High Point College is a program not only for the current year's graduates, but is also available to all Alumni. Students are assisted in obtaining part-time employment, recent graduates are assisted in locating their first position, and all other Alumni may be assisted when they desire to change employment. It is our hope to enlarge our Placement Program and to be of service to all ex-students of High Point College. Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, Director of Teacher Training, handles all teacher placement, and the Director of Placement coordinates with the various department chairmen and with employers throughout the state. When you are in need of placement service, contact the Director of Placement, High Point College.

PRESIDENT PATTON TOURS EUROPE FOR EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH

Dr. Wendell M. Patton left November 7 on a three-weeks' tour of the educational institutions in Europe and Russia. The tour was sponsored by the Comparative Education Society, an international organization for the encouragement of international comparative educational studies and was for the purpose of doing research on European school systems. He returned December 1.

Dr. Patton is one of two North Carolinians who made the trip. The tour visited schools in Scotland, England, Holland, Germany, Austria, Russia, and Denmark.

"My particular interest was in higher education," stated Dr. Patton. "I was especially interested in the methods of controls of colleges, for there is a drastic difference between the American and European systems."

In Russia, Dr. Patton stated that he had a variety of interests. "I wanted to learn the objectives and fundamental purposes of their education as opposed to ours," he stated, "as well as the balance they maintain between a liberal arts education as opposed to vocational and technical training." He also expressed a high interest in how the Russians determine the quality of performance and achievement and the basis of admission to the schools.

FACULTY NOTES

Mrs. Shirley Yokley Rawley '59 has been appointed an instructor in the English Department.

Dale Hodge '62 was recently selected to serve as the first full-time laboratory assistant in the Biology Department.

Dr. E. O. Cummings has been appointed director of the newly organized Industrial Coatings Center, and Mr. W. Lawson Allen was appointed to the Center's Board of Advisors.

FINCH LECTURER

Francis Gerald Ensley, Bishop of the Methodist Church, Iowa Area, and Finch Lecturer for 1962, spoke to the High Point College students on November 7.

His first lecture, which was delivered in assembly, was titled "When the Hour Comes." In his lecture Bishop Ensley said, "God sets the limits of our lives, and He makes the rules; within those rules, we exercise a measure of freedom in what we do in our lives."

He also emphasized that God's control over man is final as well as flexible.

"If a man sows good, he will reap good; if he sows wickedness, he will reap wickedness," said the Bishop.

He also stated, "To live every day as if it were your last is profound wisdom. Live every day so you have furthered rather than hindered God's purpose. In this way, the mysterious powers and pressures of our day will not be able to fashion us as they see fit, and we shall be able to face them with responsible courage."

Bishop Ensley held an afternoon seminar in which he discussed "Methodism and the Ecumenical Movement." In the evening he completed the series with a lecture entitled, "Christian Social Action: Its Justification and Strategy."

A DIFFERENT CHRISTMAS

Jack had settled back with the evening paper, his feet perched on the hearth. This was the nicest part of the day, and Jack was enjoying his favorite pastime. Mary, as usual, was entrenched in the kitchen.

"Look, Mary, there are only a few more days until Christmas. Aren't you ever going to get through? You've baked hundreds of cookies and pounds of candy. The house smells like a Sweet Shoppe."

"What do you mean, you still have Old Mrs. Parks, Uncle Caleb, and Ralph to bake? Don't tell me you have them in the oven! . . . Mary, have you crawled into the oven, too? You haven't said a word . . . Better be careful, this may be the most different Christmas you've ever had!"

"What! You want me to cut out more plywood lollypops! There aren't enough candy canes! Don't you remember? We weren't going to do as much this year. Yes, I know the neighborhood kids enjoyed the yard decorations. Yes, they did ask us to leave the gingerbread men chasing each other and the striped canes until the middle of January. If you hadn't been so obliging, most of them would not have gotten broken. Of course, I remember how the Tuttle children cried when we took them down. I also remember how I almost froze to death about twelve o'clock that night trying to get that blasted spotlight focused on the right spot . . . What do you mean, we're going to have to get another one, Don't you know those things cost money?"

"But the children, what? Isn't Christmas for somebody other than the children? . . . Oh! Mrs. Parks! By the way, is she still in the oven?"

"What? Of course, I can get serious. Sure, I understand, but! . . . Christmas. Yes, I know Christmas is for everyone."

"Tell you? Tell you what? Who do you think I am?"

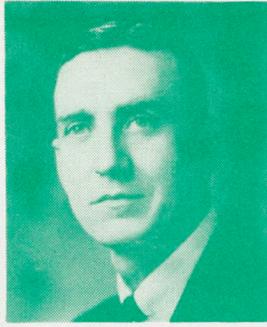

"Yes, Dear, Christmas is a celebration. A celebration of the birth of Christ. Yes, it is a time of great joy and of giving."

There is quiet for a few minutes, and Mary hears Jack, "For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

Later, the voice of Jack drifts up from the basement. "Will we need any more red paint? By the way, had you thought of doing anything for the Brown children? I understand their dad has had a pretty rough time this year . . . You're a cagey one. I wondered what those packages were in the closet. Of course, I don't mind."

Over the sound of the buzz saw, Mary heard Jack singing, "Away in a manger, no crib for a bed, The little Lord Jesus laid down His sweet head . . ."

It's almost Christmas, and though there are dark clouds, "Joy to the world, the Lord is come" is as present today as it was almost 2,000 years ago. This year, make yours a different kind of Christmas.

THROUGH THE EYE OF A NEEDLE

American higher education has experienced many dilemmas in the last fifty years which have been propounded by the most renowned educators, but none seem of the gigantic proportions currently assumed by the problem of admission — WHO SHOULD OR SHOULD NOT GO TO COLLEGE! Most institutions have tackled this problem with the same reserve or conservatism that has been used to solve countless other questions. Some larger schools have gazed lovingly into multi-million dollar IBM crystal balls, smugly knowing that after millions of cards have been punched, and miles of magnetic tape run, the answers will be correct and that no academic drop ratio will exist at the end of the freshman year. Yet, despite untold hours of research, stacks of statistics, and reams of charts, our national academic failure ratio remains relatively stable. Why have these wizards failed? Where have the computers gone wrong? What has caused the admissions crisis?

I should like to submit:

1. Mushrooming population.
2. Growing public emphasis on education.
3. Misconceptions through mass media advertising.
4. Creation of the "Bulge" image by the colleges themselves.

No one can question our growing population. Segments of our government spend small fortunes predicting trends and planning for a growing America. Have the colleges kept pace?

Six out of ten American families now plan to educate their offspring beyond the secondary school level.

This tremendous change in attitude has been brought about by the third link in our chain: Mass media advertising. How often have you watched the college door close on the very nose of your youngster as the television announcer quietly chants, "will there be room for your child?" Have you lain awake nights visualizing the vanishing college professor — lured away by lucrative salaries in industry? Have you been awakened at 4:00 A.M. with an empty feeling in the pit of your stomach, knowing that you'd better start looking for that college now even though your oldest child is just beginning the fifth grade? You are being influenced by our mass media "crash" program.

Perhaps you've been more fortunate and have had the opportunity to discuss some of these problems with a director of admissions. He probably told you that he's filled for 1973. His job no longer holds the element of recruiting; counseling is now the major task at hand. The cardinal sin and the easiest road to unemployment for an admissions director is to open school with an empty bed. The colleges of this nation didn't start the snowball rolling, but they have added a lot of snow to the image.

But my "raison d'etre" is not to explain the total problems in this field, but rather is to give to our alumni an understanding of High Point College's policies and procedures concerning admission.

We received our first application for the fall of 1963 in June of 1962. Since High Point does not have an early decision plan, this candidate will not hear finally from the office until the first week in February. As applications come into our office, the initial steps in processing begin with the stamping of the application, "date received." This becomes an important date since admission requests are read by date received.

From this first point information begins to accumulate from a variety of sources. High school transcripts, in the main, are not received until the end of the first semester of the student's senior year. This means that a judgment is made on the basis of three and one-half years of secondary work rather than on the full record since a decision must be given prior to the completion of the senior year. Most students are now taking the required admission test, the Scholastic Aptitude Test (College Board), at the December examination date. Therefore, scores are received in our office just prior to or immediately following the Christmas vacation period.

The entire month of January is devoted to the reading of applications. Candidates are then grouped by an internal classification system which is based on a weighted merit scale. While applications are read by date received, they are not necessarily accepted in that order. Acceptance letters are mailed to the most qualified candidates on the first Friday in February, with additional letters being mailed on each Friday following until the class is filled.

From this point a waiting list is developed, usually beginning with women's dormitory candidates. As cancellations occur, candidates are moved from the waiting list into the vacated position, with the next name on the waiting list moving to a new and more desirable position. Thus the office tries to maintain an accurate judgment of the expected number of students as well as to notify, as early as possible, those candidates who do not qualify.

I have often expressed amazement that something so simple could become so administratively complex in such a short space of time. This explanation of procedures, I felt, should preface any remarks concerning policies of admission. Admissions policy is established through the cooperation of the faculty and administration. The Admissions Committee, composed of both teaching faculty and administrators, creates guide-lines of operation for our office. Major policy changes must pass still another hurdle, the general faculty session. The Admissions Committee must recommend major changes to the general faculty for ratification, thereby giving each teaching faculty member a voice as to the type of student admitted.

It must be noted that in the establishment of any policy which seeks to regulate or control individual personalities, certain flexibilities must be incorporated in order to insure the maximum benefit to all involved. Our current standards require a candidate to rank in the upper one-half of his graduating class, to present good scores (a discussion of this point is too lengthy in nature for this publication) on the SAT, and to present good recommendations from the secondary school principal, the guidance counselor, or an appropriate school official. Although realizing there may be certain variables and deviations from any norm, we have learned from experience that candidates who do not meet these qualifications can expect to encounter a good deal of difficulty in our program.

The admissions office must wear many masks in its efforts to assure an efficient program. All-important public relations must be maintained at a high level since daily we must contact parents, high school counselors, prospective candidates, prospective scholarship donors, grandmothers, aunts, and uncles, as well as a host of others. The admissions officer must possess "the patience of Job, the courage of Richard the Lion Hearted, and the durability of a grey mule. If he can spend half his life on the road visiting schools without getting lonesome and then come back to the college to receive a blast from the faculty members about the dumbness of the current freshman class without being discouraged or losing faith in himself, he should be given top place for consideration as an admissions officer." It is inevitable that all elements will not find satisfaction in the decisions rendered, but it is reasonable and right to assume that decisions will be made with the best interest of the student and the college in mind.

It occurs to me that the alumni may be interested in the type of candidate now so eagerly sought by colleges across the country. The "ideal student" has the looks of a Hudson or a Kelly, the wisdom of the ages, the maturity of 70, the inquisitiveness of a cat, the personality of a Skelton, and the money of a Getty. Competition for this type of student is unspeakably keen. In reality, however, there is no "ideal" student since selection along these lines would result in a definite stereotype, a sad state of affairs for a liberal arts college. The air becomes ecstatic when a bright young student exhibits an insatiable quest for learning rather than getting grades, often a rare occasion in our competitive society.

In an effort to find this right youngster we have devised a number of devious schemes to uncover talent. Prediction equations, entrance examinations, writing samples, and personal interviews all are designed to help the admissions officer select only those students qualified to attempt the program. We seek the student who is creative, the individual who can step forth in his own time to take a look at the society which surrounds him, grasping that which is truth, rejecting that which is fallacy. Recognizing this individual is not an easy task nor a sure one, no matter how trained the eye of the observer.

I have been asked to explain ways in which the alumni may help in this undertaking, and I shall try to relate several points which I feel are paramount. The individual alumnus can be of tremendous assistance in the primary contact with students of a given area. Rather than outline, organize, and publish methods of contact with students, I would rather rely on the resourcefulness of the alumnus. Planned contacts are good, but spontaneous ones are better. This is not to say that good planning is no planning at all, but rather that genuine interest in the student coupled with sincere interest for alumnus add up to an excellent prospect for admission. By keeping abreast of school activities in the area, the alumnus can be a constant source of referral for both student and college.

I have tried to mention some of the problems now facing our institution and higher education. The Admissions Office welcomes contacts from the alumni, and we encourage your active participation in our program. Many of you will be called upon within the next years to represent us at annual college day or night programs in your area. From time to time we may ask you to serve as an interviewer when there is an applicant from your local secondary school who cannot come to our campus for that purpose. We hope that you will respond with enthusiasm and that such efforts of service will be beneficial to you as well as to the student.

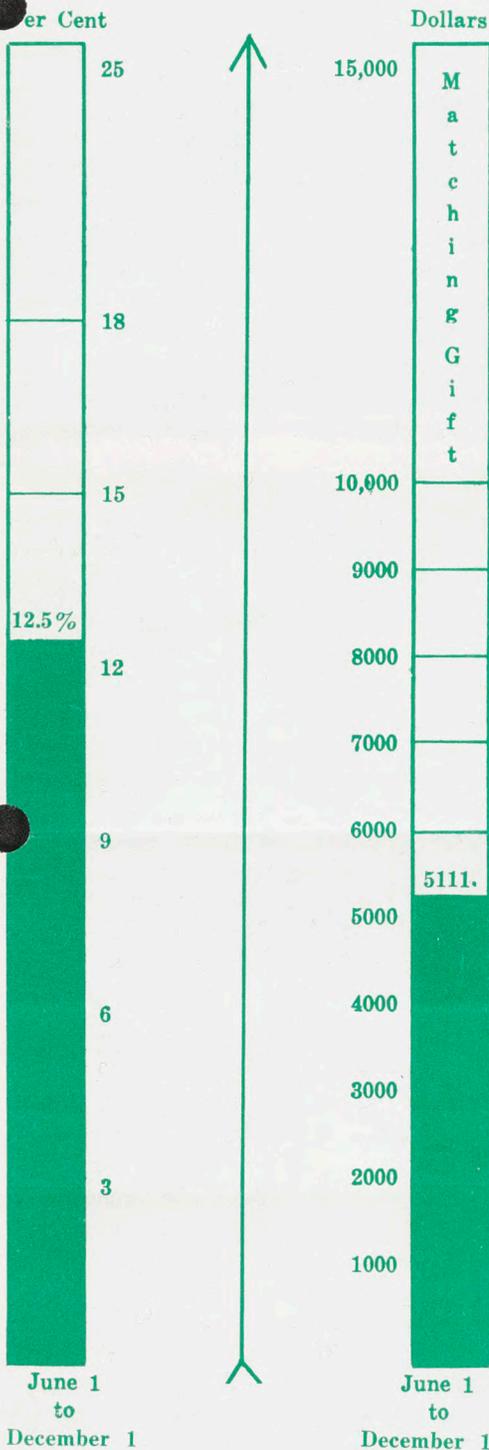

There are good days ahead for High Point College. We would like you to share in this future.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

"Reporting for '62" is a report of the College's 1961-62 academic year and is presented to all who have invested in High Point College. Your investments have been both great and varied. For some it has been financial support and for others time and effort. Special talents and resources, as well as loyalty and enthusiasm, have been made available to us. Above all we have always felt prayers and best wishes. It is to you we make this "state of the college" report.

What is the condition of our college? In a word—good. Our faculty is strong, the student body is the best yet, the budget remains balanced, standards are improving, and the college is accepting new responsibilities and tackling problems heretofore undreamed—but not accomplished without mistakes and false starts. However, each forward step has provided a new vantage point for seeing more clearly what is ahead. Many steps must be taken before the full potential of our college is realized, as an educational and spiritual force and as a dynamic contributor to our community.

Progress thus far has been because of your interests and efforts. It will be your continued support that allows High Point College to maintain and improve its programs as we build for the future.
