

ALUMNI ISSUE — JANUARY, 1964

★ FEB. 8 MARKS HOMECOMING FETE ★

With Homecoming scheduled for just over a week away, finishing touches are being put on blue prints designed by Alumni Association Executive Committee officers to insure returning alumni and friends a day of reminiscing and entertainment. Highlighting the full day and evening of colorful events will be the dedication of J. Ed. Millis Dormitory for men at 3:00 p.m., followed by a jointly sponsored Open House in the four fraternity lounges of the building.

Other highlights will include the annual Homecoming banquet featuring our own College president, Dr. Wendell Patton, as guest speaker, and Bill Henderson, Association president, as Master of Ceremonies; an Alumni basketball game featuring some of the College's outstanding performers of yesterday; an "All-Greek" pep rally where campus sororities and fraternities will challenge one another in original cheers; and a Homecoming Dance, following the important conference clash between our Purple Panthers and Catawba.

Tradition will also be very much in evidence with Homecoming displays dotting the campus, the crowning of a lucky girl as Homecoming queen, and the opportunity to visit former professors and old friends, as well as to take a tour of the campus.

All in all it adds up to a wonderful day of activity which we hope a record number of our Alumni will take advantage of. Following is a complete schedule for the day:

Coach Quinn going over strategy with squad against Western Carolina. Panthers won contest 83-70.

Quinn's Panthers Post 10-1 Record At Midseason Point

Perennial powerhouse in the Carolinas Conference, High Point's Purple Panthers are making a strong bid to take over the top rung in league basketball standings. Paced by co-captain Phil Garrison and 6' 9" center Dale Neel, the college quintet has raced to a 10-1 record thus far, losing only to Elon in overtime by two points. Elon currently holds top position with a spotless conference record.

Also lending considerable help to the Panther attack has been the shooting and rebounding of 6' 7" Bill Fallin, the other co-captain; Barry Smith, All-Conference guard; and Kirk Stewart, probably the best sixth man in the league.

By far the most important victory for Coach Tom Quinn's charges was a 83-70 home court verdict over nationally NAIA ranked Western Carolina.

With a little over half the season remaining, it may be premature to predict the final standings but many second guessers are favoring High Point to take the league crown. Let's hope their estimation is correct.

Graduate Record Exam Given Seniors

High Point College gave the Graduate Record Examination to each of its graduating seniors this January, having been designated as a Testing Center by the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, New Jersey. Heretofore students at the College wanting to take the test have had to go to a general testing center to do so. Since many colleges and universities require the Graduate Record Examination for entrance into their graduate schools, this is an important service to graduating seniors of High Point College.

The Graduate Record Examination consists of three tests: an area test, an aptitude test, and an advanced test.

The area test measures the performance of students at HPC with the performance of students at other colleges and covers the fields of humanities, natural and physical sciences, and social sciences.

The aptitude test is designed to give the graduate school information about the student's educational background and is divided into two parts: a verbal ability and a quantitative ability test.

The advanced test measures the student's comprehension of the materials basic to success in the field of his intended graduate major. Advanced tests are offered in some 17 fields of interest.

$25,000 AWARDED HPC

A grant of $25,000 to High Point College was approved recently by the Board of Directors of the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation, Inc.

The request for the grant was made in order that the College could secure some science equipment for the biology and chemistry laboratories and payment will be made over a two year period.

A contributing factor in the approval of this grant was the progress made by the alumni in supporting their College through the Annual Giving campaign.

ADAMS SCHOLARSHIP DOUBLES

As a departing gift the Class of '63 set aside $800 to inaugurate a scholarship in honor of Louise Adams. In the past eight months contributions have swelled the value to just over $1600, or double the original gift.

ALUMNI ANGLES

At no other time during the year does alumni interest focus on the campus of Alma Mater quite as much as at Homecoming. In recent year returning graduates have matched and surpassed the previous year's attendance time and again, resulting in extensive planning to make the day as entertaining and stimulating as possible. With the added incentive of offering free basketball tickets for the Catawba-Panther Homecoming contest to those contributing to the Annual Giving Campaign during the past eight months, we are expecting one of the largest crowds in the forty year history of High Point College.

While on the subject of these tickets, I might mention that this is but the first step in a program designed to show our appreciation to the hundreds of alumni giving their time and support to the ideals and future of this institution. Never do we want to leave an impression that our alumni are valuable for one thing alone — monetary worth. During the coming months we hope to introduce new and varied projects aimed at developing a renewed sense of loyalty and pride in the minds of our Alumni and sincerely hope you will offer your comments and suggestions.

A note of appreciation goes out to Alumni Association President Bill Henderson for making the funds available to pay for the tickets being distributed to Annual Giving contributors.

PRESIDENT PREDICTS IMPORTANT YEAR FOR COLLEGE

The beginning of a New Year is sufficient reason for most of us to pause for reflection and introspection. A moment in which to examine our successes as well as our failures in terms of our goals provides the foundation for the well-meant, but often times broken, resolutions and promises to do better. And so it is with educational institutions. Church-related colleges in particular should use this time of year not only to thank God for the many opportunities offered for Christian service, but to critically and objectively appraise our efforts, readjust our sights, and establish a firm commitment to make this coming year better than the last.

Our Annual Report for last year has just been published, and I hope that most of you have shared with me the joy of seeing another year of successful accomplishment added to High Point College's magnificent record. If you haven't received a copy at this point, please drop me a line so that I may forward one to you.

Perhaps a brief glimpse at our hopes and plans for next year would be in order. The quest for continued improvement of quality in all areas of college operation — educational program, curriculum, faculty, students, instruction, administration, physical facilities, etc. — is so fundamental and eternal it seems almost redundant to mention with our plans for the coming year. However, quality improvement is the cornerstone for each and every project of the College, so it must head our list for 1964. Supporting this theme we hope to move forward on many fronts during the coming year.

Educational Program — An entirely new and improved curriculum which will encompass a broad, general education and at the same time allow for necessary specialization is believed possible in our proposed three-phase educational program. A Curriculum Committee, headed by Dr. Harold E. Conrad, has just submitted the first draft of the proposal to the faculty, who is expected to take action within the next few weeks. It is entirely possible that a new professional degree for prospective elementary and secondary teachers may also be approved. It seems reasonable to expect that this new program should be in operation with the beginning of the 1964 school year.

Campus Improvement — Plans for the acquisition of additional adjoining properties for future expansion of the College has been under way for many months. These are rapidly materializing as the College obtains the County property on Montlieu Avenue and approaches the closing stages of negotiations for other pieces of property bordering the campus.

Endowment — An aggressive plan for strengthening and improving our endowment has already been developed by far-thinking Trustees; the first step in acquiring valuable commercial property for development as income-producing investments for the College has been taken. We hope that within three months architects and contractors will have begun active development of some of these properties.

New Students — A substantial increase in the quality of incoming freshmen is expected. We have increased entrance standards and have redoubled recruiting efforts so that our selection ratio will be higher. To date we have approximately 100 more applications than we had at the same time last year and these are of significantly higher quality.

Faculty — An even stronger faculty is expected next year as we make every effort to find better qualified faculty members for teaching vacancies. Short objective appraisals are made of every teaching faculty member; salaries are being increased; and fringe benefits, including the improved retirement plan and group insurance, are being added. Two of our faculty members have been awarded grants for individual research projects under the sponsorship of the Piedmont University Center—Dr. Paul Gratiot and Dr. William Lazaruk will begin these early in 1964.

These, as well as other ideas and projects which are unfolding daily, suggest that 1964 may be one of the finest years in the history of the College. At the same time we will not become blind to our errors, our mistakes, our failures, because it is only through our acceptance and understanding of these that we can climb to greater goals.

We sincerely hope that 1964 will see on our campus an increased awareness of the spirit and love of Jesus Christ and understanding of the meaning of Christianity and unselfish service. It is no exaggeration to say that without the support from our Alumni none of these plans for '64 would have been possible. When we rise to the 50% Alumni Participation goal, you will begin to see truly great things at your Alma Mater.

May God bless you and yours and make 1964 a healthy, happy, and prosperous year for you.

Cordially yours,

Wendell M. Patton

Commission Executive Visits High Point College

Dr. Gordon Sweet, executive secretary of the Commission on Colleges for the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, visited the High Point College campus January 27-28.

Dr. Sweet's visit was a follow-up to the official visitation last May, and completed the Ten-Year Self-Study recently engaged in by the College.

The self-study, a part of the program of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, was begun nearly three years ago. The first phase of the study was devoted to setting the goals and purposes of High Point College. Following this a number of committees were appointed, each to investigate a separate section in the program of self-evaluation. Final phase of the study came in editing the various reports and coordinating them into a concise, over-all report.

Through this self-study, the administration and faculty of High Point College expected to learn their weaknesses and strengths and to increase their efficiency in relation to the goals of the college by making necessary changes where needed.

Completion of the self-study was followed by a visitation from the Southern Association, whereby the inspection team sought to determine whether High Point College is meeting all Southern Association standards. They checked the self-study against the campus itself to make certain the analysis was complete and to determine how well the College has projected for the future.

FIVE FAMILIAR FACES AWAIT RETURNING ALUMNI

Miss Adams

Mr. Allred

Dr. Cummings

Dr. Hinshaw

Mr. Yarborough

Homecoming to Alma Mater is an event to which college alumni always look forward. It is a time for reminiscing, reliving memories, laughing over predicaments that really didn't seem funny at the time, renewing old friendships, and observing with pride how the College has progressed.

On hand to greet alumni at Homecoming this year will be five professors who have had an important part in the College's growth, but who have also kept it the same warm institution it was when it opened in 1924.

These remarkable people have chalked up 178 years of service to the College: J. Hobart Allred has 39 years; Nat P. Yarborough, 38; Dr. Clifford Hinshaw, 36; Dr. E. O. Cummings, 35; and Miss Louise Adams, 30.

What made them stay in the face of the adversities that the College endured in developing into the progressive institution it is today? There can be only one answer: "A strong sense of mission."

Allred, who was at the College the day it opened, says, "We had Roberts Hall and two dorms, with a little frame building for a bookstore. The power plant was there, without the smokestack it has now. Automobiles were a rarity, but one thing we had plenty of — mud!"

Yarborough, who came to the College the next year, recalls that mud was still the order of the day.

Miss Adams, who came first as a student in 1925 and returned as a teacher in 1933, recalls vividly that peas instead of grass had been sown in front of Robert Hall. She still remembers the night the sophomores made the freshmen shell the peas, which they had for supper in the dining room, which was then in the basement of Roberts Hall.

During these early years there were staggering financial problems. More often than not payment of faculty salaries was much in arrears. Students often paid their tuition in produce, and faculty members, in turn, took produce as partial payment of salaries.

Yarborough is convinced that, "High Point College has just plain had providential help."

In remembering the eras the College "endured", Allred says, "We ran the gamut of flappers, lipstick, and chewing gum. But through it all we were making traditions that belong solely to High Point College. The spirit we developed was one of warmth and friendliness."

While students were dedicated to making the College a success, they still had time for "special" activities that live in memory and mellow with time.

"One morning we found a cow tied up in the auditorium," recalls Yarborough, "when the auditorium was on the third floor of Roberts Hall."

And who can forget all the times the Tower bells and Old Yaddin have clanged out mysteriously in the wee morning hours?

But High Point College has gained strength through its hardships. Allred believes strongly that "There is no crises we would have to face in the future that we could not survive."

To these five people, the past reverberates with memories. "I can hear the footsteps of a lot of people who have gone on still echoing in the corridors," Yarborough reminisced, an unmistakable tightness in his throat.

And when High Point College alumni return for Homecoming, they will find these five familiar faces waiting to greet them, each reflecting the loyalty and devotion of countless others who have made the College a forward-looking, progressive institution.

HOMECOMING BREAKS RECORDS

A crisp, sunny day found a record number of alumni registering at the Student Center on Homecoming Day, Saturday, February 8, to join their former classmates and friends in a day crammed with activities.

Starting off the day was a faculty-student basketball game in Alumni Gymnasium, with the faculty, worn and spent at the end of the hour, squeaking by the winded student team by a mere single point: 48-47.

Visiting alumni lunched with students in the Harrison Hall Cafeteria, and then spent the next hour visiting their former professors, who remained in their offices the early part of the afternoon to receive guests.

The colorful fraternity and sorority displays attracted a lot of attention in the early afternoon, with the Theta Chi Purple Panther drowning an Indian taking top honors. Second place for the displays went to Sigma Phi Epsilon's "cool cat" breezing by a boat-load of patched-up Redskins.

Highlight of the afternoon's activities was the dedication of the J. Ed Millis Dormitory, with Dr. Ralph Taylor, Methodist Superintendent of the High Point District, as featured speaker. As a part of the dedication, Mrs. J. Ed Millis, widow of the man for whom the dormitory was named, unveiled a beautiful oil portrait of her late husband as a gift to the College to be hung in the reception hall.

Alumni had an opportunity to see the new dormitory at Open House activities following the dedication. Refreshments were served to visitors in each of the four fraternity lounges.

At a Greek pep-rally held in the gymnasium in the late afternoon, alumni had an opportunity to see a number of well-executed and intricate—as well as unusual—cheers. Although the Kappa Delta "beatniks", the Alpha Gamma Delta pin-wheel, and all the others drew hearty applause, the Phi Mu sorority's cheer showing the "Panthers" downing the "Indians" won first place. First place for fraternities went to Theta Chi's drill and cheer.

Over 375 alumni attended the banquet in Harrison Hall Saturday evening,

ANGEL EXPERIENCES BROADWAY SUCCESS

The road to success on the Broadway stage is long and filled with formidable pitfalls created to halt all but the most talented and determined. Adrienne Angel '48 majored in music at High Point College and has gone on to carve a successful career for herself in the glittering world of show business.

Currently Adrienne is working as an understudy for Noel Coward's Broadway hit "High Spirits". She has had similar roles in "Bells Are Ringing" and "First Impressions". Other highlights include singing operatic arias with Salvatore Baccaloni on Ray Bolger's show and appearing in comedy sketches on the Ed Sullivan Show.

In addition Adrienne has had numerous leading roles in summer stock productions, done commercial work for various national advertising concerns and worked in several trade shows.

Principal speaker at the banquet was High Point College's president, Dr. Wendell M. Patton, who spoke on the importance of the Church-related liberal arts college in today's society. The banquet adjourned in time for alumni to journey to the gymnasium for the next phase of the evening's activities.

The alumni basketball game preceding the Panther-Catawba contest was well worth seeing. The Blue Team downed the Gray Team 33-31. Playing for the alumni teams were Jim Swiggit, Randleman; Wolfy Unger, High Point; Jake Steele, Potomac, Md.; J. C. Bledsoe, Goochland, Va.; Hugh Hampton, Lewisville; Willard Formyduval, Fayetteville; Bobby R. Dunbar, High Point; Danny Sewell, High Point; Paul E. Stanton, Columbia, S. C.; Thomas K. Embler, High Point; Bob Davidson, High Point; Jack Byerly, Jr., Jim Teachey, and Wayne Cheek.

Principal Speaker at the banquet was President Patton.

REVIEW

There was no "just squeeking by" for the Panthers against Catawba. Before a record crowd of some 3400 spectators, High Point downed Catawba by a resounding 80-57 score.

Half-time activities were begun with Dale Brown's presentation of awards for the display and cheering contests. Gold cups and handsome plaques were awarded to the winning sororities and fraternities. Charlie Nesbitt, president of the Student Government Association, presented last year's Homecoming Queen, Miss Judy Raykes, and the bevy of beautiful girls making up the 1964 Homecoming Court.

Miss Kay DeMik, a petite blonde junior from Charlotte, was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1964 by Bill Henderson, president of the Alumni Association. She was presented the traditional bouquet of roses by last year's queen.

Following the Purple Panther victory, some 200 alumni and students joined together in attending a dance in Harrison Hall, enjoying the music of the Buck Wuchae Combo from Greensboro until around 11:30 in the evening, thus culminating activities for one of the most successful Homecoming Days in High Point College's history.

ALUMNI NOTES

Two of High Point College's Alumni Chapters held annual winter banquets during the month of January. Mr. M. T. Lambeth, Director of the Children's Home in Winston-Salem, was guest speaker at the Forsyth County social held in the Goodwill Industries Center. Hugh Hampton '40 was presented the Chapter's annual Outstanding Alumnus Award.

New officers elected for 1964-65 include Ken Berrier '51, President; Dick Zarbock '47, President-elect; Dell Conrad '61, Recording Secretary; Catherine Phillips Hamilton '41 Corresponding Secretary; and Don McGee '59, Treasurer.

The Cannon Memorial Y. M. C. A. in Kannapolis was the scene for Cabarrus County's social get-together. Following a delicious chicken dinner, Association President Bill Henderson discussed the past history of High Point College and its role in the future.

Mrs. Heldreth Gabriel '38 served as chairman of the banquet committee.

On Tuesday, February 4, the Thomasville Alumni Chapter held a dinner meeting at Memorial Methodist Church in Thomasville. Lawson Allen, Business Manager of the College, delivered the principal remarks for the evening. Following the dinner a group returned to Alumni Gymnasium to witness the Panthers 134-point outburst against Guilford College. H. C. Hudgins '54 is chapter president.

On Saturday, February 29, the Raleigh Chapter will hold a dinner meeting beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Y.M.C.A. in Raleigh. College President Wendell Patton will serve as guest speaker for the occasion.

HPC MAKES GIANT STRIDES IN LAST DECADE

Annual Report Shows Unusual Growth In All Areas

At the end of High Point College's 39th year in the City of High Point and its 107th year of existence, its Annual Report indicates that giant strides have been and are being made toward making High Point College one of the top liberal arts colleges in the State.

● The Report shows that in the past ten years the College's enrollment has almost doubled, both in the regular and summer sessions. Growth of the Evening School, since its establishment a few short years ago, has been phenomenal, with 1963's enrollment of 559 nearly trebling 1962's figure of 188 students.

In the past ten years the number of graduates per year has increased 25%. Of the students enrolled ten years ago, 4.6% were from out-of-state; 1963's enrollment figures for this category climbed to 20.6%.

● From a faculty of 39 in 1953, last year's teaching staff numbered 57, with 27 of these people holding a doctoral degree, a figure that doubles that of ten years ago. Average faculty salaries have been raised nearly 62% over what they were in 1953.

The number of courses offered at

HAVE YOU REALIZED:

1. Your youthful dreams?
2. The resolutions of your finest hours?
3. The glory of a shining hour of dedication?
4. The fullness of victorious self-giving?
5. The wonder of mastery of things?
6. The satisfaction of a life well-lived?

Why not give to High Point College that which you do not need and can't take with you. Your gift will bless.

Proposed new Science Building, still in the planning stages.

the College has risen from 268 in 1953 to 316 in 1963, with 13 academic departments being represented and 17 major fields of study. The degrees offered are the same: the A.B. and the B.S. degrees.

The library, having only 21,972 volumes in 1953, now has 56,200.

● High Point College's operating budget has more than doubled over the past ten years, as has also its endowment. The plant book value of the College has risen over $1,000,000. The only indebtedness shown for the College is for the new J. Ed Millis Dormitory for men, constructed last year and opened this past fall.

Alumni participation, coming to only .7% in 1953, now stands at 25.5% for last year—a record jump enviable at any institution.

● The Annual Report lists several outstanding accomplishments of the past year: the growth of the Fellows

Program; plans for a new Science Building; completion of the J. Ed Millis Dormitory for men; the College adjustment program and the Aerospace Education Workshop, both of which will be continued; the completion of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Self-Study program; and the installation of a new Language Laboratory.

● Plans for the future include the completion of a curriculum study; the addition of property to enlarge the campus; a self-study of the Teacher Education program; the addition of four new tennis courts; the increasing of faculty salaries as student fees are increased; the encouragement of research programs; and a re-study of the administrative organizational plan of the College.

States Dr. Patton in the Report: "We are beginning to accept as reality the fact that High Point College is one of the strongest and finest in our state."

Two New Trustees Named To Board

Two new members of the High Point College Board of Trustees were elected at the annual Board meeting at the College Wednesday, March 4.

Elected were Delos S. Hedgecock, High Point, and Charles F. Carroll, Raleigh.

Hedgecock, a High Point business man, began his business career in 1917, and has been interested in farming and cattle, real estate, and contracting and building. He is the president of Hedgecock Lumber Company, Inc., High Point, organized in 1928; president of Kernersville Lumber Company, Inc., Kernersville; and president of Hedgecock Builders Supply Company, Inc., Guilford, organized in 1956. Last year he became owner of the Sheraton Hotel, High Point.

Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Raleigh, began his career in education as a teacher in 1921. He rose to the position of principal, and became State Commissioner of High School Textbooks in 1936. He became Superintendent of Public Schools in High Point in 1937.

He received his A.B. degree from Trinity College, Durham, in 1921, and his M. Ed. degree from Duke University in 1930. In 1952 he was awarded an Honorary LLD degree from High Point College.

Carroll has also been active in organizations for exceptional children, for educational television, and for the North Carolina Symphony.

SCHOLARS PROGRAM AGAIN!

The program which was initiated three years ago has helped students to meet the economic pressure of college life. Last year workshops (student work) provided nearly 48,000 hours of work for students. The total cost of all scholarships and student work amounted to more than $50,000—against this tremendous outlay the scholar program provided for a little more than $3,000. We are thankful for that, but literally hundreds of individuals industries, and businesses ought (could, should, will) to give thousands of dollars to aid ambitious, energetic, worthy young people.

Have you responded?

DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL, FORWARD!

Will you help to plan and to build a greater High Point College?

Watch for announcements.

BOARD OF FELLOWS REACHES PEAK IN YEAR'S DRIVE

The High Point College Board of Fellows reached a peak membership this year, increasing the number of donors from last year's 30 to a new high of 35.

A responsibility of the Endowment Committee of the Board of Trustees, headed by Charles E. Hayworth, and the Annual Gifts Committee of the Development Council, headed by J. H. Millis, the drive for Fellows included assigning 47 individuals 179 prospects who were invited to membership. This year's campaign closed February 1st. Next year's Program will begin soon.

The Fellow Program was established to provide an opportunity for individuals and organizations to share in the vital work of High Point College. A gift of $1,000 entitles the donor to a certificate of membership and an identification card giving access to all public functions on the campus, including athletic events. In addition, each member has the privilege of helping plan for the future growth of the College, the inner satisfaction of sharing in the shaping of young lives, and the honor of being named as a Fellow in a citation, the College catalog, and the College yearbook.

The idea of a Fellow Program is not new. For centuries the University of Oxford and many other European universities have carried on a Fellow Program. One of Oxford's most renowned Fellows was John Wesley, who, along with others, shared his abilities and his means with the University for many years.

Sharing their abilities and means with High Point College through this year's Fellow Program are Alcoa Foundation, Warren L. Anderson, Mrs. Myrtle H. Barthmaier, Mr. Jack H. Campbell, Mr. J. Harriss Covington, Mr. Frank Dalton, Mrs. Frank Dalton, Mr. Doak S. Finch, Mr. Tom A. Finch, Jr., Mr. John C. Foy, Mr. Horace S. Haworth, Mr. Charles E. Hayworth, Mr. David R. Hayworth, Mr. Delos S. Hedgecock, High Point Bank and Trust Company, Mr. I. Paul Ingle, Mr. C. T. Ingram, Jr., Mr. Charles L. Kearns, Mrs. Eleanor Powell Latimer, The Lilly Company — Mr. W. R. Campbell, Mr. Wayland E. Linthicum, Jr., McCrary-Acme Foundation, Inc., Mr. Holt McPherson, Mrs. J. E. Millis, Mr. James J. Millis, Mrs. L. K. Mobley, North Carolina National Bank, Mrs. Annie Mae Powell, Mr. John M. Reeves, Mr. Leon Schute, Mr. Robert M. Silver, Mr. Edgar H. Snider, Western Electric Foundation, Mr. Elliott S. Wood, and Mr. Frank S. Wood.

NEW CURRICULUM APPROVED BY BOARD AT ANNUAL MEETING

The adoption of a new, revised curriculum, the result of a year's study by a curriculum committee headed by Dr. Harold E. Conrad, was approved by the Board of Trustees of High Point College at their meeting Wednesday, March 4.

The new three-three curriculum embodies a three-phase program for three degrees, two of which are conventional in character and the third meets the requirements of the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction which are required for 1967.

The three degrees offered under the revised curriculum will be Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Arts in Teaching. The work toward each degree will be divided into three phases.

First, 40 semester hours of basic general requirements will be required for all three degrees.

Second, core requirements of 20 semester hours will be required for the B.A. degree; 12 semester hours for the B.S. degree; and 12 semester hours for the A.B.T. degree.

Third, concentration requirements will be required according to the number of hours determined for each major field.

Freshmen enrolling next year will enter under the revised curriculum, which in the case of the A.B.T. degree, will enable them to graduate under the requirements which must go into effect at all institutions of higher education by 1967. The A.B.T. degree will affect teachers in the field of elementary education, art education, business education, music education, and physical education.

Graduates intending to teach in high school, under the new state requirements for 1967, must major in the field in which they expect to teach, plus meeting other requirements in education courses.

Students who are now enrolled at the College will have the option of graduating under the revised program or the catalog in effect at the time they enrolled.

The Board approved a motion that a telegram be sent by President Patton as secretary of the Board of Trustees to the basketball team at Gastonia expressing the sentiments of the Board and pledging support of the team.

CAN IT BE?

Recently I talked to a High Point business man in his place of business. Within a few moments the subject of High Point College and its needs was projected. He said a strange thing: "Why doesn't the College get money from the City Treasury; the City of High Point owns and supports it."

Here in the downtown business section of High Point a successful business man actually thought that High Point College was a municipal college!

In another section of the State, and again in another state, I was asked if High Point were a municipal college or a community college. These people, but not a High Point business man!

Of course, you know that High Point College is a church-related, independent liberal arts college. You must realize also that not one cent of our income is from tax sources. High Point College depends upon gifts, student fees, Church support, and endowment income to meet its budget.

Mr. Allen

High Point College seeks your support, for it is worthy of it.

High Point College without apology asks for your consideration in your will, in setting up a trust fund, in giving buildings, endowments, scholarships, loan funds.

Consider, and call us.

● Loan Fund Established For Average Students ●

The Rev. W. H. Dyar, Minister of the Tabernacle Methodist Church, Greensboro, and Mrs. Dyar have established a student loan fund at High Point College.

To be known as The Reverend and Mrs. William Heller Dyar Loan Fund, it is designed to aid the regular or part-time "average" student who is ineligible for other aid based on high scholarship and who is in need of financial assistance.

Administered by the Financial Aid Committee, loans up to $75 per term may be made at 3% interest for a period of six months, with the time limit extended to a maximum of twelve months if necessary.

States Mr. Dyar, "The loan could be used for books, tuition, or emergencies. It might be the help that some student needs to make it over a hill, and there are hills."

It is not often that we find a person with such deep insight into the needs of those who are simply "average" students. We are delighted that the Rev. and Mrs. Dyar have established this fund.

The Rev. Dyar was graduated from High Point College in 1951, and Mrs. Dyar in 1950.

● 'MISS TENNIE' LIVING MEMORIAL AT HPC ●

Mrs. Tennie Highfill Fox, who all her life was interested in seeing young people grow intellectually, spiritually, and morally, has left a time-enduring memorial to herself at High Point College—a loan fund of $15,000 for worthy and needy students.

Mrs. Fox, who was 84 years old when she died, was the youngest in a family of 19 children. A second cousin to Sidney Lanier, Mrs. Fox became interested at an early age in teaching the “young-uns” as she called her students. Her interest in seeing children learn took her to many teaching posts in North Carolina, and her former students cherish many fond memories of “Miss Tennie” as she was affectionately called.

According to one of her former students, Miss Tennie had the knack of “being a child with children.”

She states, “I recall that we had an old iron stove in our classroom, and Miss Tennie used to warm the biscuits and sausages which the children brought to school in their lunches on it.”

Miss Tennie’s niece, Miss Geneva Highfill, who teaches English at High Point Central High School, remembers that her aunt had a deep love for beauty and that she was fond of all kinds of little animals, especially cats.

I, John Doe, devise and bequeath to the Trustees of High Point College, Inc., a corporation existing under the laws of the State of North Carolina and located in the City of High Point, County of Guilford, State of North Carolina, and its successors forever, one hundred acres of land in High Point Township for the general purposes and uses of the Trustees of High Point College, Inc., at the discretion of the Board of Trustees.

John Doe

Witness _____

(Bequests may be made for specific purposes. A codicil may be added to any will.)

Her devotion to teaching must have been deep and genuine, for she taught at a time when she must have made all of $20 a month.

Were Miss Tennie alive today, she would be a strong advocate of the program for quality education, for all her actions during her life were directed toward such a goal. During her teaching career, Miss Tennie fought persistently for the institutions she believed in and loved. Seeing the need for retirement benefits and for increasing the pay for teachers, she devoted long and tedious hours to those causes.

Realizing her own personal need for adequate preparation for teaching, Miss Tennie went to “summer school and summer school and summer school,” recalls Mrs. Eva Futrell, a niece.

Perhaps it was this realization that led Miss Tennie to establish a loan fund to make it possible for students to prepare themselves more adequately and more easily than she was able to do for herself.

Miss Tennie was a teacher in High Point just before High Point College was becoming established on the present campus. A Methodist Protestant, she was keenly aware of the need for and the services rendered by a church-related liberal arts college. A deep affection for the College grew and was nurtured as she watched the young college’s valiant struggle for survival during the depression years and the recovery period following.

When Miss Tennie died in 1960, this woman of modest means, still crusading for quality in educating the children she so loved, directed in her will that a part of her estate go to High Point College to assist worthy students in obtaining an education.

In its second year of operation, the Tennie Highfill Fox Memorial Loan Fund has provided assistance to four High Point College students in their quest for an education, two in the 1962-63 academic year and two this year.

Miss Tennie will always be a living memory at High Point College through the students she is helping attain the training she considered so necessary for her “young-uns.”

Have you made plans for your good work to continue after you can no longer attend to it personally? By remembering High Point College in your will you can be assured that your interest in quality education will live for years to come.

SCHOLAR PROGRAM IN FINAL EFFORT

The next two months will find the Development Council and the College Relations office giving chief emphasis to the Scholars Program.

During the past three years the Scholars Program has been carried to individuals, churches, business firms, and other groups to enlist these in providing financial aid for worthy students. The program has been successful in that contributions of more than $8,000 have been received which in turn helped more than 100 students further their education.

Gifts of $100 or more entitle the donor to annual standing as a member of the Scholars. However, gifts of any amount are gladly received. Gifts this year have ranged from $5 to $1,000.

Letters are being sent out from the College to a large number, inviting them to become a member or send a gift. No direct personal solicitation is planned for the spring.

Listed below are the names of those who have contributed this year:

Dr. Wendell M. Patton	Henry G. Bell
J. E. Stafford	Dr. R. T. Wilder
Thomas Car Works	Stanford Brookshire
Major and Mrs. James F. Payne	W. F. Womble
L. B. Pope	W. Lawson Allen
Dr. Harold Hamilton	F. Logan Porter, Sr. (Memorial)
Dr. Theodore Antonakos	Harold C. Bennett
Dr. L. B. Holt	James B. Lovelace
A. M. Terry	Herman H. Smith

Others who have contributed are Dr. Marshall E. Ginsberg and Lloyd O. Hughes. More than $3,000 was contributed by these people in the 1963-64 program.

PILGRIMAGE MADE TO CARRICK GARDENS

High Point College students recently made their annual pilgrimage to the grave of Dr. D. B. Carrick, whose famous daffodil collection was given by his estate to the College to become the Carrick Memorial Daffodil Gardens.

Delivering a short memorial address to Dr. Carrick at the graveside was Charles Nesbitt, president of the Student Government Association.

Carrying bouquets of daffodils from the Memorial Gardens as a tribute to Dr. Carrick were Carolyn McAllister and Betty Treece. Floral tributes from the Gardens were also placed on the grave by Larry Amick and Larry Shalleross.

Accompanying the students were

Dr. Patton, Mr. Holt McPherson, and Mr. W. Lawson Allen. Special guests at the occasion were Cary W. Carrick, the late Dr. Carrick's brother, and Mrs. Carrick.

The D. B. Carrick Memorial Daffodil Gardens have been landscaped during the past year, a memorial marker has been placed in the Gardens, and benches and pathways are available for visitors who want to walk through.

Some of the rarest daffodil bulbs in existence may be found blooming in the Gardens. For years before his death in 1962, Dr. Carrick had experimented, collected, and pampered his prize flowers. Today their beauty is enhanced by the quiet, wooded area in which the Gardens are located.

Ford-Sponsored Seminar

High Point College has been invited to participate in a program of management training for colleges and universities, presented by Knox College at the request of the Ford Foundation.

Some fifty colleges, selected according to geographical location, size, and type of institution have been invited to take part in the Knox Seminar program, which offers a unique feature in its consultation service which will be provided individually for each college and which will be available during the interval period between principal sessions.

These sessions will be held on the Knox College campus, Galesburg, Illinois.

Designed to cover a 15-month period of time, two principal sessions are scheduled, the first to be held for one week in June, 1964, and the second scheduled for June, 1965.

Two one-day progress meetings are scheduled during the interval, one in December, 1964, and one in February or March, 1965.

The seminars are designed for participating colleges to submit problems confronting them with an eye toward practical solution through the use of special techniques taught and the consultant services offered.

Mr. Allen

Participants in the program from High Point College will be Dr. Wendell M. Patton, President; Dr. David W. Cole, Acting Dean of the College; and W. Lawson Allen, Business Manager.

The program is being financed by the Ford Foundation.

Development Council Recommends Capital Funds Drive

The Executive Committee of the Development Council at its March 25 meeting recommended to the Board of Trustees that a capital funds drive be held in the fall of 1965.

In making its recommendation to the Board, the Committee also included a recommendation that selection of the firm to act as agents for the drive be made as soon as possible.

Also under study by the Committee is a "split-dollar" insurance plan. Appointed to study the program are Fred Alexander, J. H. Millis, and W. Lawson Allen.

President Patton reported to the Committee on the outlook for High Point College, emphasizing the need for long-range planning, the need for future buildings, and pointing up some problems all church-related colleges can expect to have to face in the future.

Presiding at the meeting was Co-Chairman Charles E. Hayworth.

What Has Been Stolen?

"Procrastination is the thief of time," someone has aptly said. Of course, procrastination (the act of putting off a decision or deed), is the thief of more than time.

You have been planning to do something for High Point College, but you haven't got around to the actual transaction. A few years ago a man of considerable wealth was approached by a college vice-president about a gift to the college. The reply was, "One of these days I'm going to do something handsome for the college, but I'm going to wait until the president leaves."

The years have gone. The president has retired and died. The speaker, too, has died. When his will was probated by which he conveyed his wealth to the heirs, not one clause contained anything "handsome for the college." Procrastination stole a million dollars from the college and almost that amount of estate taxes was paid from the estate.

WHAT DOES A COLLEGE MEAN TO A COMMUNITY?

A college such as High Point College is of untold value. It is valuable to the business life of the city. Nearly a million and a half dollars turned loose in High Point every year in salaries and purchases, not to say anything of the students' purchasing power, is indeed important.

High Point College is valuable as a cultural influence in the community. If there were no public programs at the College, the fact that sixty faculty members and more than one hundred other employees live in the community makes a difference in the City.

The College serves as an educational force in High Point. Hundreds of alumni have received college training in the classrooms. Teachers, lawyers, doctors, business men, and scores of other professions are manned by High Point College men and women.

High Point is fortunate to have a College. High Point College is fortunate to have a city like High Point.

Lela H. Coltrane Establishes Scholarship Fund

The Lela H. Coltrane Scholarship Fund has been established for the College by Mrs. Lela H. Coltrane, High Point College trustee from Raleigh. The fund will be administered by the Financial Aid Committee of the College.

The purpose of the scholarship is to aid the average or above average student who is in need of financial assistance. An entering freshman must have a minimum of a C-plus average and an upperclassman must have and maintain a minimum of a 1.5 grade-point average to be eligible for the scholarship.

Preference will be given to North Carolina students who are preparing for a church vocation.

High Point College is grateful for the support which Mrs. Coltrane has shown the College and for the interest she has exhibited in helping our students through establishing this scholarship fund.

ALUMNI DAY

On Saturday, May 16, six classes will hold reunions as a part of Alumni-Senior Day. The annual banquet honoring seniors will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a featured speaker to be announced later.

Those classes holding reunions include the Class of '54; Class of '49; Class of '44; Class of '39; Class of '34; and Class of '29.

Charitable Gifts Favored In Tax Cut

The Revenue Act of 1964 has made it easier for tax payers to make substantial gifts to High Point College. As an example, Mr. B. had a taxable income of $20,000. Last year he paid $5,280. In 1964 he will pay $4,380, giving him $900 more spendable income for 1964. This makes it possible to give approximately $1,250 without reducing spendable income from the 1963 level.

The five-year carry forward feature of the new tax law favors the donor in that a lump sum can be given even if it exceeds the 30% deduction allowance. If a person gave property to the College worth $30,000 and he has income of $30,000, under the old law he was forced to give only $9,000 each year. Under the five-year carry forward he could apply $6,000 each year for four years following the year in which the gift was made. This allows a taxpayer-donor room for other charitable giving up to $3,000 per year.

The five-year carry forward was extended to corporations also instead of two years formerly.

Under the new tax law an employee is taxed for premiums paid by his employer on group insurance in excess of $50,000. An employee can avoid this tax if he designates the College as beneficiary of his insurance. This must be done before April 30, 1964.

Mr. Allen

Building Progress Reported

Four new tennis courts for High Point College have been completed and are now in use.

Located east of the Alumni Gymnasium, the new courts are surfaced with asphalt and coated with a tough plastic topping.

The area is fenced.

The old tennis court area behind the Student Center has been converted into badly needed parking space.

A marker for the D. B. Carrick Memorial Daffodil Gardens has been recently erected by the east bridge in the Gardens.

Of brick construction, the memorial marker is about four feet high and a bronze plaque honoring Dr. Carrick is inlaid on its slanting top.

In the planning stages is an addition to North Hall Dormitory for Women. Designed to complete the "H" originally planned for the women's dormitories, it is hoped arrangements can be made for completion of the new wing for occupancy next fall.

The new wing will house some 96 women students.

Association President Henderson To Speak At Alumni Day Planned For May 16

Although Homecoming traditionally gathers the lion's share of spotlight, Alumni Day at High Point College in recent years has been quite successful in drawing graduates back to Alma Mater to take part in an afternoon and evening of activities and fellowship. Very simply, Alumni Day is set aside to honor the alumni of High Point College as well as the graduating Senior Class.

This year Alumni Day will be observed on Saturday, May 16, and six classes will be celebrating reunions:

- Class of 1954—Tenth Reunion
Class Agent—H. C. Hudgins, Jr.
- Class of 1949—Fifteenth Reunion
Class Agent—Max Meeks
- Class of 1944—Twentieth Reunion
Class Agent—Willis Gupton
- Class of 1939—Twenty-Fifth Reunion
Class Agent—Porter Hauser
- Class of 1934—Thirtieth Reunion
Class Agent—Rev. Joseph Coble
- Class of 1929—Thirty-Fifth Reunion
Class Agent—Grover Angel

The program will begin with a social hour from 5:00-6:15 p.m. in the Student Center, where light refreshments will be served. It is intended that this time will be used for alumni to chat with their classmates in an informal atmosphere. At 6:30 p.m. a buffet supper will be served in Harrison Hall with classes celebrating reunions sitting together as groups.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Mr. William R. Henderson, president of the High Point College Alumni Association. Other highlights during the evening will include comments from President Wendell Patton welcoming the graduating seniors into Alumni Association membership, and the presentation of an "Alumnus of the Year" award by Bob Parrish, chairman of the Awards Committee.

Mr. Henderson

The Class of 1939 has been making special arrangements in honor of their 25th Reunion and plans have been completed to hold their banquet in the Sheraton Hotel.

Alumni are invited to set Saturday, May 16, aside and join their classmates on campus. To make reservations simply fill in the blank found on Page 3 of this Bulletin and return it to the Alumni Office by Wednesday, May 13.

Bulldozers are shown breaking ground on site of new girl's dorm which will house 96 coeds.

Construction Under Way On New North Hall Wing

The Spring air at High Point College is currently filled with the noise of heavy machinery and workmen's tools. Under construction is the completion of North Hall dormitory for women which was approved by the Board of Trustees at their last meeting. Designed by Leon A. Schute, the new wing is being built at a cost of $200,000 and will be ready for occupancy by the fall semester.

Designed to accommodate 96 additional women students, the construction is being done for two reasons. First, the College has had an unusually high number of well-qualified women applicants and the Admissions Office was being forced to reject superior students because of lack of housing. Second, the completion of North Hall is part of the long-range plan for college development and fulfills the objective of the building committee when North Hall was begun in 1958. This construction will complete the "H" originally planned for the women's dormitories.

The total number of students the College can accept will not be increased but there will be an increase in the number of women students, very nearly equalizing the ratio of men to women students on the campus.

The rooms will be of the same type as those in North Hall, and will contain a lavatory and built-in dressers and wardrobes. Electrical outlets and storage space will be increased and two girls will be housed to a room.

As a part of the blueprints the architect is making an attempt to include a meeting room as requested by the Women's Dormitory Council.

When the building is completed, the courtyard facing the campus will be landscaped and a decorative wall for privacy may be put up.

BULLETIN

WHAT'S SPECIAL ABOUT HPC?

"Education is the leading of human souls to what is best, and making what is best out of them; and these two objects are always attainable together, and by the same means. The training which makes men happiest in themselves also makes them most serviceable to others . . ."

—John Ruskin: "On the Benefits of Education"
Stones of Venice, 1853

The calibre, flavor, outlook, and spirit of a good college should have something special about it, and it requires no special barometer or Geiger counter to identify what's special at High Point College.

First, we have a special kind of student. He is no beatnik with dirty face and sloppy clothes. He will try a beard now and then, but it will be rinsed out once in a while! He is not culturally starved, for his hi-fi, trumpet, and paperbacks on the shelf reflect a taste for art and literature. He may gulp his food, but he would never eat pie with a knife.

He is normally rebellious. Above average in intelligence, often brilliant, he has assessed his family, church, school, and state to the degree that he knows their answers are not always right. Yet arbitrarily in his loyalties, he is looking for his own footing in morals, religion, social relations, and to some extent in politics.

Aware that High Point College has been church-related since its founding, and conscious of its long line of alumni who have gone into useful professions, he feels that he wants to find a useful answer to his life plans. He is open to conviction as to what that answer is.

Second, High Point College seeks to reach some special objectives with these special students.

One of these is to cultivate a capacity for selecting what matters to the educated person. From a vast store of available knowledge, High Point College offers a selected curriculum. A student could spend four years in the Library of Congress or on the campus of a huge university where thousands of courses are offered and remain uneducated. An ordered body of knowledge, structured with principles, related to essentials, and aimed toward major values, can only be the result of selection.

Third, a special effort is made at High Point College to see that all our students confront the problem of which values matter. This concern for value must never be let go by default. It is a major delusion of many an educational program that the values will get identified by themselves and critical powers for understanding and developing them will arise by magic. Without smothering students with advice, or stifling them with supervision, High Point College confronts its students with the constant expectation that they will become decent and responsible adults.

The test of our success lies in the capacity of our students to discover the America that can yet be realized, not the America that has been; in their help for a world community, not in a disdain for the cultural chaos now exploding on every continent.

Can you tell a High Point College man, or woman, by his appearance, manners, accent, or vocation? Probably not. But you should be able to identify him by his alert concern for the welfare of his generation, conceived in perspective of his past, and aimed for ends that will make us proud we knew him.

May we count on your support in our task of "leading human souls to what is best, and making what is best out of them"?

Adapted from ideas in "Outline," March, 1964.

WATCHWORD—PROGRESS!

How does one measure progress?

One method is to lay the contemporary image beside an idealized projection—what we would like to see our institution become. While the risk of dreaming too big or too small is clear, about the best we can do is to project our College as we know it now into a future which we assume will be somewhat similar to the present.

*New Dorm Wing
Rises Rapidly*

Through its Long-Range Planning Committee, High Point College has projected itself for the decade of the 60's, but it has become more than just a long-range plan. It has become a working design for the transition of the College from what it was in 1960 to what we hope it will become by 1970.

We set for ourselves four principal objectives:

- to improve the teaching — learning situation
- to improve the facilities and program of student service
- to expand the student body
- to find the financial resources to realize the objectives above.

One's first reaction is to look at the last objective and exclaim that this is the real problem and that if we only had enough money our problems would all be solved.

There is just enough truth in this to make it an attractive answer and also a dangerous one.

We certainly need the money! The price tag we placed on the kind of progress we wanted to make in the decade was high. A large portion of the total was earmarked for future buildings.

How are we doing? The new wing to North Hall is only one of the major buildings projected. A chapel, its tall imposing spire a counterpoint to the academic tower, is a dream that must be realized within the next few years. And what about an adequate Science Building? Perhaps an administrative building that can pull together the now-separated business of running the College?

Yet, for all expansion, this is not the most important element in progress.

Measuring progress, we ask ourselves: how well are we doing our job of finding good teachers, the best if we can get them; of finding good students, the best if we can get them; and creating an opportunity and an environment for developing the essential ingredients that comprise quality education to challenge both students and teachers?

The most important question is, how do you measure progress in people? This year we graduated a young man who will begin his seminary training this fall. He will become an outstanding Methodist minister. He invested four years of his life with us. We, in turn, invested in him a proper share of our physical plant, our endowment, our faculty and staff, a library full of books, 999 other students who were picked with great care, and the deepest concern of which we are capable.

There are other young men and women moving from this campus to new responsibilities this year. They take to their new challenges disciplined minds and bodies and devoted spirits to face the making of a culture that is always being remade. They leave here teachers who are even now dreaming bigger dreams, eager to begin again the continuing dialogue with new inquiring minds and receptive spirits.

So the process goes on and becomes a living, growing relationship, and this is progress. You can't always measure it, but you know it's there.

SCIENCE AT HIGH POINT COLLEGE

The National Science Foundation recently awarded High Point College a grant of over $8,000, to be matched by the College, for improving the instructional equipment program in the Department of Biology and Geology. This will enable our students to increase their participation in independent research. The grant will be administered by Dr. William Lazaruk, department chairman.

Dr. Lazaruk

Of Chapels And Challenges

'The Christian College is the Lighthouse of Civilization'
—Woodrow Wilson

Students at High Point College are constantly making discoveries—some which astound, some which frustrate, some which revolt, and some which enrich. As one educator has so aptly said, "We must try to help students see the significance of what they are learning and make it meaningful right then and there."

This then has become the task of the church-related, liberal arts college—to help students fit what they have learned into the proper Christian perspective.

Is High Point College a Christian college? By intent we are. It was and is so planned. We are openly, avowedly, unashamedly and unapologetically dedicated to the Christian perspective—and yet we are eagerly open to conversation with any honest seeker after truth.

High Point College is for all men and women, without regard for race, nationality or religion. A student can enter a Mohammedan, Jew, Christian, or heathen and while here receive the respect of the college community and enjoy all the advantages of the institution and go forth after four years believing in One God, many, or none. BUT WHILE HE IS HERE, HE WILL SOON LEARN WHAT WE BELIEVE TO BE THE TRUTH AND WHY WE BELIEVE IT.

The one weakness in a forceful presentation of our Christian beliefs is the lack of a chapel and religion building. How many dreams, shared by a multitude of people, would be fulfilled by the erection of a place for worship on the High Point College campus, a building dedicated to the learning and understanding of the Christian concepts so important in a society which must depend upon Christianity as a leveling factor in its rapidly-changing culture!

Having such a religious center available for classes and meetings where students could discuss questions about where Christianity fits into our social life, in politics, in day-to-day relationships would lead to a richer, fuller development of the group-life experience of our campus.

In short, the wondrous vision of a Christian community in our academic life, in our group life, and in our outreach would become a splendid reality!

The grant will enable the College to:

- Dr. Lazaruk was recently awarded a second research grant by the Piedmont University Center. He will do research on the Effects of Mineral Elements on the Growth of Fresh Water Algae. Last summer he was awarded a National Science Foundation Grant to do independent research at Duke University Marine Laboratories.

- put into effect a modernized and improved curriculum
- prepare and direct able students into advanced work
- qualify students for assistantships at graduate institutions

Moving Forward

At the end of its fourth year of operation, High Point College's Evening School is once again reporting phenomenal growth in its services.

In number of students enrolled, the total has increased over 160 above the same period last year. Of the 720 people enrolled by the Evening School this year, 535 were not enrolled as regular students on the campus.

In courses offered and instructional staff, students enrolled at the Evening School were able to choose from 62 courses offered by 45 teachers. Last year 51 courses were offered by an instructional staff of 38 teachers.

An interesting fact is that men students at the Evening School outnumber women students about 2-1/2 to one.

The growth of the Evening School since its establishment four years ago has been tremendous.

"We ended our first year of operation with 352 students," states Dr. Clifford Hinshaw, Director of the Evening School, "and we only offered 28 courses."

Since that time the number of people being served has steadily increased.

"They come for a variety of reasons," explains Dr. Hinshaw. "Some of our evening students are working toward completing degrees, some are meeting teaching certification requirements, and some come simply to learn a subject in which they are interested."

Whatever the reason for their coming, the High Point College Evening School is making available to those engaged in full-time employment an opportunity to continue their education on a part-time basis.

Fund-Raising Firm Holds Seminar On Proposed Drive

The Cumerford Corporation, fund-raising consultants, held a one-day seminar at the College on May 19 at the request of the Development Council.

In connection with the proposed Capital Funds Drive for the fall of 1965, the meeting was held for administrators who will be involved in the campaign. The study course included discussions on Fund-Raising Today, How Colleges Raise Money, The "College" Campaign, New Methods in Fund-Raising, Development on the High Point College campus, and a summary session, including questions and answers.

If we work upon marble, it will perish;

If we work upon brass, time will efface it;

If we rear temples, they will crumble into dust, but

If we work upon immortal souls,

If we imbue them with principles with the just fear of God and love of our fellow man,

We engrave on those tables something which

Will brighten to all eternity.

The Art Of Giving: Estate Planning

Estate Planning is an art: its goal is not merely to avoid taxes — it is to create lasting satisfactions. Our wealth should not merely be preserved, it should be preserved in such a way as to express our own philosophical values. By helping to perpetuate some vital cause which we respect—whether in education, medical care, or some other area—we go as far as we can go in making of our wealth a double boon: a tangible reassurance, and an intangible delight.

Many people fear that giving money for the support of their ideals may mean a sacrifice for their loved ones. But in fact these two goals of giving are usually complementary, not competitive.

There are many advantages for a donor who combines his charitable giving with an estate plan. The combination of the two can produce impressive tax savings that will sometimes "pay for" charitable giving. In addition, there may be savings in administrative costs, and there will certainly be increased assurance that a reliable estate plan will benefit those in whom he is truly interested . . . his intentions will not be defeated by intestacy or unintended bequests.

The Development Office of High Point College encourages alumni and friends to investigate how a charitable gift in an estate can be fruitfully coordinated with the overall estate plan.

If your estate looks as if it may reach a sizable sum, you owe it to yourself and your loved ones to consult with your lawyer, trust officer, and other tax advisers.

If the Development Office can help you or act as a stimulus to action, we should be pleased to do so. We would be interested in discussing with you any plan you may have in mind whereby educational excellence may be stimulated by your looking ahead and planning for the future.

Every Great Campus Has A Symbol

The College symbol may be the bell, the tower, the garden, the library, or it may be the product of the College.

What should be the symbol of High Point College? The bell from old Yadkin College? The tower of Roberts Hall? The Carrick Gardens? The dormitory? The professor who has given his life to High Point College? Or will our lasting symbol be the average High Point College graduate?

Surely, if these or other symbols shall be applied to High Point College, each of us ought to look again at his own image. What kind of symbol?

Record Summer Enrollment Pursuing Varied Programs

All Featured Courses Contribute to Success Of Summer Session

High Point College's summer school enrollment reached an all-time high this June, as more than 700 students streamed across the campus and joined the tortuous line that wound outdoors and up the drive from the Student Center. This figure represents an unexpectedly large jump over last summer's first-term enrollment of 525 students.

States Dean Harold Conrad, Director of the Summer School, "Some of the students had been standing in line since the early morning hours in order to be assured of getting into the classes they wanted."

Some of the classes were so large that it was necessary to call in extra teachers to take care of the overload. This was especially true of English classes, and Mrs. Lucille Godwin, who was scheduled to join the staff of the English Department in the fall, was called in early to take care of the heavy enrollment.

The new men's dormitory was filled, and some 57 women are housed on the campus.

● AEROSPACE EDUCATION WORKSHOP

The Aerospace Education Workshop got off to an early start by touring Seymour Johnson Air Force Base the second class session. Transportation was by airlift from the Greensboro-High Point-Winston-Salem Airport in an Air Force C-47.

Students viewed millions of dollars worth of equipment, including the "Hound Dog" and "Quail" missiles, as well as the KC-135 strato-tanker and the B-52 bomber, which carries the "Hound Dog" and is capable of carrying the X-15. They also toured the maintenance shops where the missiles are kept in flying order, and had a general tour of the base.

Climaxing workshop events was a visit by the NASA Spacemobile. Students learned where we have been in space travel, where we are now, and the Spacemobile showed them where we are going.

This is the third year of operation for the Aerospace Education Workshop, and it continues as one of the more popular summer courses.

● AMERICAN HISTORY CARAVAN

The American History Caravan increased its enrollment by some nine students this year. Students have just completed an intensive three-weeks study on the campus and began their tour on June 28. This year they are visiting Chattanooga, Atlanta, Macon, and Bentonsville, touring sites in the surrounding areas of each location sea.

One modification this year is that students are staying in college dormitories along the way rather than camping out as they did last year.

● COLLEGE ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM

The College Adjustment Program reached an all-time high enrollment of 50 students this year, the third of presentation. Dr. L. B. Pope, Director of Guidance and Counseling, is directing the program, with Dr. Sam J. Underwood teaching the English classes and Dr. Paul Gratiot teaching the history. Dr. Pope gives instruction in how to study, budgeting time, and other facets of making the transition from high school to college an easier one.

For the third straight year the Alumni Giving Campaign of High Point College has exceeded the totals of the previous year in both gifts received and total number of alumni participating. During the 1963-64 campaign 1508 alumni, or 25% of the entire alumni body, sent in gifts totaling $15,358.

Although these totals fell short of the projected goals of $20,000 and 30% participation for 1963-64 the Alumni Executive Committee is still proud of the progress being made in this area. Alumni will recall that in 1960-61 a grand total of $570.00 was contributed by 2% of the alumni body.

During the past year we have made extensive use of the personal contact technique in approaching our alumni. Area Agents were established in Henderson, Albemarle, Denton, Jamestown, Kinston, Pilot Mountain, Randleman, Statesville, Stokesdale, Salisbury, Gastonia, Norwood, Asheville, Sanford, Trinity, and Mocksville. In addition several of our alumni chapters established committees to work on this project among HPC alumni in their locales. Needless to say, we could never have enjoyed the same level of success without the hard work of these dedicated people, willing to take time from their busy schedule to promote the future growth of Alma Mater.

In September the Alumni Executive Committee under President Bill Henderson's leadership will meet and project new campaign goals for 1964-65. It is the sincere hope of this committee and High Point College that these goals, if met, will serve as another stepping stone toward a plateau of between forty and fifty per cent participation so necessary if we are to fulfill our dreams of major foundation support.

A very sincere "thank you" goes out from the Alumni Office to each and every person who has played a role in the success of our program this year.

ALUMNI ANGLES

By Dale Brown

The year just ended has been a most enjoyable and challenging experience for the Alumni Office and me personally. The opportunity to work on the other side of the fence, so to speak, from that of a student has given me much of the insight I lacked as an undergraduate. It has also made me realize just how great the potential of High Point College is when one considers how far it has come in just forty short years.

The backbone of any institution of higher learning is its faculty and alumni. Having traveled across the state and back as well as to Washington and Richmond during the past nine months attending alumni functions has convinced me that a majority of alumni are vitally concerned with the future of their Alma Mater.

With the exception of one or two examples, the overall strength of our alumni chapters has increased during the past year in several ways. Membership has swelled and many more recent HPC graduates are playing a role in the activities of the individual chapter today. Strong leadership is being elected to key positions. More important, the chapters are becoming increasingly aware of their responsibilities and reasons for existence.

It is the sincere hope of the Alumni Office that we can continue to expand our program on all fronts and give as many alumni as possible an active role. Whether you realize it or not, you are an important public relations agent for High Point College, with attitudes and opinions which are vital to the future of this institution.

LATE NEWS FLASH! ! !

The Alumni Office announces the arrival on campus of two new recruits for the class of 1986:

Belynda Kay Brown, 8 lb. 9 oz. daughter of Dale and Betty Gray Brown '61, '60.

Kathryn Lee Paul, 7 lb. 13 oz. daughter of Duffy '54 and Kathryn Paul.

Arrival date for both girls was June 24.

Dr. Helen Bartlett To Retire With 25 Years Service

*"Forget thee?" Bid the forest-birds forget their sweetest tune;
"Forget thee?" Bid the sea forget to swell beneath the moon;
Bid the thirsty flowers forget to drink the eve's refreshing dew;
Thyself forget thine own "dear land," and its "mountains wild and blue."*

*Forget each old familiar face, each long-remember'd spot—
When these things are forgot by thee, then thou shalt be forgot!*

—JOHN MOULTRIE

Almost always the first question representatives of High Point College are asked when they are away from the campus is, "Is Dr. Bartlett still there?" Now the time has come when the answer must be "no," for Dr. Bartlett, who has graced the High Point College campus for some twenty-five years, will retire at the end of the second summer session.

How familiar the smile, the gesture, the thoughtful attitudes of those we love! The look of deep concern, the sudden overflowing laughter—these things we shall long recall.

This remarkably warm woman has always been ready to extend a helping hand to her students—and just as quick to lash out with a caustic comment—when they needed it, and "her children" have loved her for it. In fact, at this year's Alumni Banquet on Alumni Day, Dr. Bartlett was honored as "Alumni Queen" and was presented a corsage with a card reading, "From your children."

For hundreds of students Dr. Bartlett has had that rare knack of changing facts, figures, and dates into a vital, throbbing story of humanity. Not all professors of history have had Dr. Bartlett's power to delve into the past, seek out the minute details that make up a civilization, and transmit that knowledge in such a way as to make history live and breathe.

And her students have appreciated it. When the current crop of "her children" learned of her retirement plans, they honored her at the close of classes this past semester by surprising her with a huge cake and a shower of gifts of appreciation.

"I am going to miss them," said Dr. Bartlett, "a lot more, I expect, than they will miss me."

Her students will never agree with that statement, for no one knows better than they how keenly Dr. Bartlett's absence will be felt.

You can be sure that High Point College will not let Dr. Bartlett go easily. The many students who have sought her advice on problems ranging from history tests to choosing a mate will continue to do so via the postal service. As the dedication of the 1961 Zenith says, "... her concern, her desire for knowledge, her willing hands, her wise counsel, and her open heart will long be remembered . . ."

But High Point College's loss will be Centreville, Maryland's, gain. Dr. Bartlett spent her early childhood in Centreville, and it is here that she has chosen to retire. Not a person to sit idly by, Dr. Bartlett has planned an active life for herself in Centreville, revolving around a home which she has bought there. Now she will have time for the hobbies which she has had to push into the background while she engaged in her first love, teaching. One has only to know Dr. Bartlett to be sure that she will have the finest rose garden in Centreville, and that her coin and stamp collections will be among the most complete in the nation.

Dr. Bartlett, High Point College salutes you!!!

Ten Students From Greece View U. S. Campus Life During Summer Visit To HPC

Ten students from Greece, all women, were the guests of High Point College for two weeks this summer through the nation-wide Experiment in International Living Program.

Arriving on the campus July 14th, the visitors spent two weeks living in the dormitories, eating in the cafeteria, attending classes along with regularly enrolled students, and in general getting a taste of campus life in America.

During their visit, the Greek students were entertained by numerous student organizations, including getting a taste of Americana at a High Point College record hop and taking part in a campus watermelon feast. Local civic and religious organizations joined in making the visitors feel at home in High Point, and local Greek organizations furnished them with entertainment and visits to American homes.

The total objective was for the visitors to share in the academic and extracurricular life of American students and to contribute an image of their own culture and values to our students.

Between 85 and 100 such groups visited college campuses over the United States this summer. Countries taking part in the experiment were India, Japan, Morocco, Iran, Greece, Israel, Turkey, and Mexico. Most of the "experimenters" were in their early twenties, and while High Point College's group was all women, the groups are made up of both men and women.

Coordinating activities and arranging the program for the group visiting High Point College were Dr. L. B. Pope, Director of Guidance and Counseling at the College; and Mrs. Dorothy Griffiths, Assistant to the Director of Student Personnel.

Eight New Faculty Appointed For Summer, Fall Sessions

Several appointments have been made for the High Point College faculty, most of whom will assume their duties with the fall semester.

Assuming the duties of Director of Guidance and Counseling at the beginning of the summer session was Dr. L. B. Pope. Also present for the summer session was Mrs. Lucille S. Godwin, Department of English. Both will continue in their positions this fall.

Arriving for the fall term will be Joseph Godwin, Department of Education and Psychology; Manyon Idol, Department of Mathematics; Earl P. Crow, Department of Religion and Philosophy; Charles Lynam, Department of Fine Arts; Dr. Evan Morgan, Department of Chemistry; and William F. Cope, Department of Sociology.

Federation Makes Second Grant Of $2,500 To High Point College

The Federation of Societies for Paint Technology has made a second grant of $2,500 to High Point College.

The funds are to be used as scholarships by students interested in studying paint technology. The gift was presented by A. E. Schwartz of Spruance Southern Inc., of Winston-Salem, a member of the federation's board of directors.

Accepting the grant was Dr. Edmund E. Cummings, director of HPC's Chemical Coatings Center. The gift is a continuation of the one made by the federation last year.

Seven HPC Faculty Members Awarded Promotions In Rank

Seven members of the High Point College faculty have been awarded promotions in rank to begin with the fall semester.

Promoted to full professor is Dr. Charles Eugene Mounts, Department of English, who came to the College in 1962 from the University of Idaho.

Promoted to associate professor are Dr. Jean Halladay, Department of English; and Miss Ruth Worthington, Department of Education. Dr. Halladay came to High Point College from the University of Kentucky in 1963, and Miss Worthington joined the faculty at the College in 1955.

Receiving promotions to assistant professor are Charles F. Hartman, Department of Physical Education; Miss Berta Hirtzler, Department of Modern Languages; Mrs. Kathryn Ring, Department of Home Economics; and Mrs. Emily B. Sullivan, Department of English.

Mr. Hartman came to the College in 1958 from the University of North Carolina, and Miss Hirtzler joined the faculty in 1961. Mrs. Ring came to High Point College in 1957 from the High Point City Schools, and Mrs. Sullivan joined the staff in 1961.

Gratiot, Nelson Appointed Acting Department Heads

The appointment of Dr. A. Paul Gratiot and James L. Nelson to the position of Acting Department Heads, effective in September, has been announced. Dr. Gratiot will head the Department of History and Mr. Nelson will head the Department of Business Administration.

Dr. Gratiot came to High Point College from Limestone College, S. C., in 1962, and Nelson, a graduate of HPC and the University of North Carolina, joined the faculty in 1958.

Life Insurance Offers Opportunity To Help College

An ideal — and often overlooked — method of making a gift to High Point College is through life insurance. Americans are insurance buyers—as young people, when they marry, when the children arrive. Often the small policies purchased in early life are outgrown as responsibilities grow, yet they are not abandoned.

These policies are ideal instruments that a person can use to make a sizeable gift to the College. High Point College has received several insurance policies under just such an arrangement. It is not unusual for a college to be named as the beneficiary of an insurance policy. In such a case, the College receives the benefits of the policy upon the death of the donor.

However, the best method of using an insurance policy to make a gift to High Point College is to assign a policy completely and irrevocably to the College. The donor becomes entitled to a charitable deduction equal to the present cash value of the policy, and as the donor continues to make payments on the policy the whole premiums is a charitable deduction. Others make the College the irrevocable beneficiary from the beginning and therefore have charitable deduction for its premiums.

High Point College Deans Get New Assignments

Dr. David W. Cole, acting dean of HPC, has been appointed dean of the college for next year; and Dr. Harold E. Conrad, who this year directed and coordinated a curriculum study for an improved academic program, has been appointed dean of academic planning. The appointments are part of modifications in the administrative organization of the College.

Donors May Give Property But Retain Lifetime Use

An individual may have tangible property which he wants to give to High Point College but desires to use the property for his lifetime. You may have considered donating your residence, farm, apartment house, to the college through your will. You can arrange to donate the property now and reserve for yourself and your wife the use of such property for as long as you both live. Upon death of the survivor the College obtains full ownership of the property. Your contribution deduction is the value of the property less the time the College has to wait to get full ownership as determined by Treasury tables. If the contribution deduction exceeds the limit allowed for the year in which given, you can carry it forward for five succeeding years.

Advantages to an individual are:

1. He has a contribution deduction on income tax return for the year he enters into arrangement with the College.
2. The College will be interested in the management and maintenance of property.
3. Capital gains tax is avoided on sale or disposition of the property during the lifetime of donor.
4. The value of the property going to the College is not includable in his taxable estate.

Students of the College Adjustment Program enjoy the outings that Dr. L. B. Pope, Director of the Program plans for them each year.

NASA Spacemobile conducted a demonstration as part of the Aerospace Education Workshop.

Farmer Joins HPC Staff As Student Personnel Director

Charles J. Farmer, formerly with West Virginia Wesleyan College, became Director of Student Personnel at HPC on July 15.

Farmer received his B.A. degree in philosophy and religion at Davis and Elkins College; his B.D. degree in theology and Bible at Western Theological Seminary; and his M.Ed. degree at the University of Pittsburgh.

A chaplain in the U. S. Naval Reserve, Farmer has been director of alumni affairs at Davis and Elkins College; pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Oakdale, Pa.; and minister of education at First Presbyterian Church, Wheeling, W. Va. He has served as advisor to the Synod's youth program, in charge of enlistment and vocational guidance at the presbytery level, and a member of the Committee on Christian Education. He has been acting dean of students at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

New Business Manager Assumes Duties In August

Commander Earle G. Dalbey, formerly supervisor of ships, U. S. Navy, Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation, Pascagoula, Mississippi, has joined the staff at High Point College as Business Manager after retiring from the Navy this summer.

W. Lawson Allen, who has been Acting Business Manager, has returned full time to his duties as Director of College Relations.

Commander Dalbey, a veteran of 22 years Naval service, received his B.S. degree from Drexel Institute of Technology and his M.B.A. from Ohio State University. In addition, he has had training through the Navy at the Navy Supply Corps School, Harvard University; the Industrial Relations Seminar; the Personnel Management Seminar; and the Petroleum Management Seminar.

WISE WORDS OF A SAGE

Never spend your money before you have it.

Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap. It will be dear to you.

Pride costs us more than hunger, thirst and cold.

We never repent of having eaten too little.

Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly.

How much pain the evils which never happened have cost us.

Take things always by the smooth handle.

The reward for work well done is more work to do.

How truly is a kind heart a fountain of gladness, making everything in its vicinity to freshen into smiles!

What Is The Life Blood Of A College?

Just forty years ago in September, High Point College opened its doors to 132 students. Since that time remarkable changes have been made on this campus, not only in the physical plant itself, but also in growth of the student body, enlargement of the curriculum, introduction of new services, and presentation of specialized programs.

Mr. Allen

Perhaps it may be well on the threshold of this fortieth anniversary to examine some of the factors making this advancement possible.

Regardless of expansion and growth, High Point College has never lost that special element of devotion and loyalty that permeates those vitally concerned with the College.

First, the High Point College faculty averages 7½ years of service—and this includes faculty with brief tenures who have been added in recent years to enlarge the staff. Of the 48 faculty members this past year, six have served at the College for more than 20 years, through storm and strife, prosperity and depression. The record speaks for itself. Teachers come to High Point College; they like it; and they stay.

Second, students love their college. This is indicated by their support and interest in campus activities. After graduation, their interest in supporting their alma mater has been manifest in their contributions of time, effort, and money. Over 25% of High Point College alumni are substantially backing their college, and through the efforts of alumni organizations, this figure promises to be even higher in the years to come.

Third, the community of High Point is vitally interested in its college. Without their support High Point College could never have come into existence. Since their initial contribution of land and money, they have continued to share in the College's growth. Interested business and industrial leaders work closely with College officials in solving the College's problems and in assisting the College in any way they can. Through the Development Council and the Board of Fellows High Point College strives to meet the demands of a modern, dynamic educational world. Without this support and valuable advice High Point College could not continue its operation as a thriving, expanding, quality College.

Fourth, the Church was the mother of High Point College. Beginning with the Methodist Protestant Church and since the union of Methodist groups, the largest percentage of outside support has come from the Church. High Point College is mindful of this heritage and promotes the Christian concept of education.

A devoted faculty, an interested alumni, a loyal student body, an enthusiastic community, and a supporting Church body—these have been the life blood of High Point College.

Announcement Of Alumni Goals Highlights Executive Meeting On High Point College Campus

Discussion of Annual Giving goals for 1964-65 and the ways in which they are to be achieved highlighted the fall dinner-meeting of the High Point College Alumni Association Executive Committee on September 10.

Following lengthy discussion, presided over by Association President Bill Henderson, it was decided to establish goals of $16,500 and 1600 alumni donors for the coming campaign. Henderson expressed the opinion that the goals "were both realistic and attainable." Provision has been made for a matching gift if one can be secured in the next month whereby the contribution of an alumnus not contributing last year will be matched, and any increase in a donor's gift over his last year's gift will be matched.

A major change affirmed by the Executive Committee involves the method of solicitation. Whereas in previous years the Annual Giving campaign has run from September to June, it will be conducted for only 90 days this year — January 1, 1965 - March 31, 1965 — with emphasis on personal contacts.

An alumni club is to be established this year for contributions in excess of $100. In addition to free admittance to all home basketball games the members will receive a special certificate and have a Spring dinner given in their honor by college officials.

Details concerning these and other developments will be forthcoming in later publications.

High Point College began its 40th Year of operations on a note of academic excellence September 11 with its first Service of Convocation. Dr. Alvin Robert Keppel, Executive Director of the Piedmont University Center and former president of Catawba College was featured speaker before an overflowing assembly of faculty and students.

Members of the academic processional included President Wendell Patton, Dean David Cole, Dr. Earl Crow, Dr. Keppel, and Dr. Harold Conrad, who officiated. The convocation service will now become a traditional part of the College's opening program in the Fall.

President Wendell Patton confers degree and extends the right hand of fellowship to graduating senior Walt Carriker, Jr.

Summer School Graduates Hear Greensboro College President

Dr. J. Ralph Jolly, president of Greensboro College, was commencement speaker at summer graduating exercises on Saturday, August 22, as 58 candidates were conferred Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degrees.

Speaking on the subject "Heirs, Explorers, Dreamers", Dr. Jolly challenged his listeners to be more than mechanics or technicians by using their imagination to develop broad perspectives and to use well one of the most precious privileges of man—the right to make choices. He also admonished the students to develop an increasing love for their college and to never forget that they are heirs of a great tradition.

Prior to commencement on Friday evening President and Mrs. Wendell M. Patton hosted a dinner for the graduating seniors, faculty and staff in the college cafeteria. Dr. Patton acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the special guests including Holt McPherson, chairman of the Board of Trustees; Dr. Harold Conrad, director of the Summer School, and Dean David Cole.

Now in private practice in High Point, Dr. Auman serves as a Clinical Instructor of Medicine at Bowman Gray. In addition he is Secretary of the Guilford County Medical Society, a member of the Associate Board of Stewards at Wesley Church in High Point, and a member of the High Point Lions Club.

Dr. Mounts Has Paper Published

Dr. Charles Mounts, Professor of English, has recently had his article "Colin Clout: Priest of Cupid and Venus", prepared for High Point College Studies, listed in the Studies in Philosophy: Literature of the Renaissance in 1963. The philosophy studies are published annually and list all the biographical materials available.

The article deals with Dr. Mounts belief that, in his poetry on Colin Clout, Spenser had attempted to convert Cupid and Venus into Christian prototypes of love and marriage. Heretofore, most critics of this segment of Spenser's poetry had overlooked this possible aspect in his poetry.

Late Summer Functions Held By Washington, Richmond Chapters

Perfect weather conditions greeted just over 100 alumni and other friends of High Point College at the home of Jake and Boots Steele '51 on Saturday, August 15, as the Washington Area Chapter held its annual summer picnic.

Several undergraduates were on hand to greet and answer questions for high school graduates who have been accepted at High Point College for the coming year and were the guests of the chapter.

The children in particular were treated to a wonderful afternoon of fun since the Steele residence includes a swimming pool and riding ponies, but alumni seemed to enjoy the spacious facilities equally as much.

Arrangements were handled by Bob Fleming '49 and The Reverend Bob Richardson '49.

Saturday, September 26, marks the date for the annual Fall picnic of the Richmond Area Alumni Chapter. Coming on the heels of a very successful April banquet the group plans to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tesh '55.

Christ Church Hears Dr. Locke

Dr. William R. Locke, Chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy, was guest speaker at Christ Church Methodist in New York City on Sunday, September 13. Christ Church invited representatives from some 100 Methodist colleges and universities throughout the country as part of their World's Fair emphasis on higher education.

Dr. Locke represented President Patton and High Point College when he spoke on "Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make You Free," taken from the scripture background, John 9:1-11. He pointed out that complete knowledge (truth) ultimately leads a person to God.

The presentation of a silver tray was made by Judge Horace Haworth, Chairman of the Personnel Committee of the Board of Trustees, to Dr. Helen Bartlett at the Senior banquet. Professor Bartlett retired this summer after 25 years of service in the History Department.

Civil War History Caravan Traces Southern Campaign

Reflecting upon history, the group pauses beside a rusted cannon atop Kennesaw Mountain in Georgia where General Joseph Johnston failed in an attempt to hold back General Sherman.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The story which follows was excerpted from the report prepared by Dr. Stuart C. Deskins of High Point College.

In 1963 President Wendell M. Patton and Dean David W. Cole introduced a new method of studying American Civil War history. The plan consisted of three weeks of intensive classroom study, with lectures, maps and original source material, followed by a two-week tour of battlefields and other historic sites, with a few days back on campus to sum up the learning experiences. The 1963 Caravan began at Fort Monroe and followed the battles on to Gettysburg, camping along the way.

This year the Caravan, with Dean Cole as director; Jesse L. Taylor as business manager and Dr. Stuart C. Deskins as instructor and educational director on the tour, followed the Sherman—Johnston battles from Chattanooga to Atlanta, and part of the way on the March to the Sea.

The Caravan slipped out of High Point on Sunday morning, June 28. Winding its way through the mountain country, it arrived at Chickamauga. Here the Caravan members spent many hours over the beautiful park, saw the Brotherhood House, where Longstreet's veterans smashed through Rosecrans' line, putting the Federals in rout toward Chattanooga, visited Snodgrass Hill, where Thomas earned the title, "Rock of Chickamauga", and recalled the history made on Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge.

Moving towards Atlanta, the Caravan made several stops including Ringgold and Dalton where some battle scars were seen. Resaca had a Confederate cemetery, woefully unkempt and dismal, in striking contrast to the beautiful and well-kept National cemeteries.

Another point of interest was Kennesaw Mountain (Marietta)—or rather Big Shanty then—where on April 12, 1862, occurred one of the most spectacular events of the Civil War. Andrews and his raiders seized the locomotive, "The General," and roared toward Chattanooga for 87 miles, intent on destroying the railroad and burning bridges. But in hot pursuit came Captain Fuller and his crew on the "Texas." Andrews and seven of the raiders were captured and hanged—now resting in Chattanooga Cemetery with a model of the "General" on a tombstone.

With Wilbur Kurtz, artist, historian, the "Mr. Atlanta" of Civil War history serving as guide, the Caravan visited three battlefields in Atlanta: Peach Tree Creek, where General J. B. Hood (General Johnston had been removed by Jeff Davis) took a licking; the Battle of Atlanta, and Ezra Church—, now a Negro park, where benches from the church were carried out for breastworks, perhaps thereby saving more souls than they had saved in some of the Methodist revivals.

From Atlanta the Caravan traveled 120 miles south to Andersonville where Supt. Carl W. Schaller took the group on a tour of the prison site and the beautiful cemetery. The prison grounds — now beautiful and well kept — contained several items of interest: the 29 wells dug by hand as the prisoners sought water, or as ways to tunnel in the hope of escape; the many fine monuments by Northern states in remembrance of boys who died in the cesspool that was Andersonville prison; but especially the strong cold spring known as "Providence Spring." Legend has it that on Aug. 12, 1864, when prisoners were dying of thirst and starvation at the rate of nearly 1,000 a month, a thunderstorm that night swept the prison, a streak of lightning hit the ground and a strong spring burst forth.

The next stop was Mercer University, at Macon, where Dr. Spencer King conducted an interesting tour. That evening Dr. King gave a fascinating lecture on Sherman's March to the Sea, told of some of Sherman's soldiers getting toys, dolls and other Christmas presents for the children of Savannah, thereby giving Dr. King an opportunity to write an article entitled, "Santa Clause was a Yankee!"

Nearby Macon was the next tour at Milledgeville, with Dr. J. C. Bonner giving an interesting lecture, and serving as guide in the tour of an old center of Confederate and Georgia historical scenes. Especially interesting to the group were the old Capitol Building of Georgia; the Governor's Mansion in which Governor Joe Brown was arrested by Sherman's soldiers; remains of Oglethorpe College where Sidney Lanier had been a student and where Woodrow Wilson's grandfather had served as a teacher.

The last day, July 9, of the tour was a race against time, for the group wanted to arrive at High Point College before the day was spent. For that reason the stop at Crawfordsville was far too brief. At Crawfordsville stands the monument of Alexander H. Stevens, his old home on the hill above his monument and a small museum with some of his possessions on display.

This marked the close of the 1964 American History Caravan but President Patton and Dean Cole will soon be making plans for 1965. The group may follow Grant's Western campaigns—Fort Henry, Fort Donaldson, Shiloh and Vicksburg or, if distance and scarcity of college accommodations prove an obstacle, the tour next year may swing back to the Eastern campaign covering the battles in Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Insurance Policies Favoring High Point College Increase Charitable Gifts

During the last three months insurance policies naming High Point College as irrevocable beneficiary have been delivered to the college in the amount of $80,000. These policies are to date from alumni and add more than $1,000 in gifts to the Loyalty Fund. The premium paid by the insured is tax deductible as a charitable gift due to the fact that the college owns the policy.

The insurance method of giving is an ideal way of contributing to the College. It can be done without making inroads on capital and may bring greater benefits than a lump-sum gift. Information on this type of charitable giving may be received by contacting the Development office.

Progress Demands Razing The Old And Building The New

As indicated at the left, the building which formerly was used as a Children's Home is being razed to accommodate a shopping center. Requests for space are now being received through the Business Office. These requests will be forwarded to the agent who is developing the property, and who will arrange leases.

The addition of space for 96 women was made possible by the construction of Yadkin Hall. Ground was broken on April 15th, and the building was ready for occupancy on August 15th. Architect Leon Schute prepared the plans and the construction was done by R. K. Stewart Construction Company. The cost of the building including furnishings did not exceed $210,000.

An Opportunity It's Fellow Time Again!

Last year at the closing date for the Fellows Program there were 35 individuals and corporations who had become Fellows. This number gave more than $35,000 to High Point College to aid the college in its purpose to become the leading Liberal Arts College in this area. In addition to the material gifts derived from the Fellows Program the College receives greatly needed advice and support in every area of College operation.

The list of Fellows given below indicates the expanse of ability and experience possessed by these men and women.

Annual Report Released By President Patton

The enclosed summary of college operations speaks for itself. The destiny of High Point College is clear. While holding firmly to its spiritual heritage and accentuating the philosophy and values of a Christian liberal arts education, we are aggressively moving into the main stream of life. Holding our program of arts and sciences as the most practical education available in this world of rapid change, we will become an institution devoted to the challenge of translating eternal truths and values into a way of life.

Consistent progress is being made in all phases of our college operation, but the most exciting development defies quantitative measure. The feeling of academic and scholarly excitement in an atmosphere of Christian concern is evident among both faculty and students. A significant achievement in this respect was the culmination of two years' study and the approval of a new and dramatic educational program. Going into effect this year it is called "The Three-Three Curriculum" in recognition of the three distinct phases of the educational program and three separate routes toward a degree. The development of this program involved both the restudy and improved articulation of our basic purposes and the creation of a new professional degree.

Your loyal support of the past is deeply appreciated and we look forward to an even closer relationship in the future as we continue to not only move forward, but achieve the unprecedented.

Sincerely yours,

Wendell M. Patton

Enrollment Increase Noted In Summer And Regular Sessions And Evening School

The student enrollment has broken all previous records at the College with a total of 1106 regular college students and 452 evening school students, making a grand total of 1558.

There are 304 regular day students from twenty-four (24) states and twelve (12) from foreign countries, including Bolivia, Cuba, Greece, India, and Sarawak.

There are 902 North Carolina day students plus an additional thirteen (13) enrolled in the evening school.

The evening school has students coming from as far east as Greensboro, west as Salisbury, south from Biscoe, and north from Martinsville, Virginia. High Point and Winston-Salem areas provide the greater number of these students.

High Point College was able to increase its boarding student enrollment this year by 96 with the completion of Yadkin Hall for women. The structure was completed by September 1 and was ready to receive the feminine guests when school opened September 7. There are 284 male and 354 female dormitory students.

New Degree Offered In New 3/3 Curriculum

Check On It Many Companies Offer Matching Gifts

More than 250 Companies in America have dollar for dollar matching of gifts by Alumni to their Alma Mater. Your gifts as an Alumnus of High Point College may be matched by the Company for which you work as a part of its support of education.

You are the reason for such a matching gift program. Your Company is making possible double support to your Alma Mater in recognition of the contribution you are making to the company — a contribution made possible because you are an educated person and a product of High Point College.

Is your employer one who has recognized this important role? If so, it is now time for Alumni-employees to make it possible for increased support to High Point College from this source. Will you?

"A Diller A Dollar A . . . Scholar"

The Scholar Program has been in effect at High Point College for three years. In order to become a member an individual, corporation, or group contributes at least $100 to the College to be used to build up scholarship and work grants for worthy, needy students. Every year High Point College gives more than $35,000 in scholarships and concessions and an equal amount for the student work program on campus.

During the three years of the Scholars Program the College has received in excess of $3000 per year to be invested in student aid. It is a fact that numbers of students are in need of some help and are willing to work and sacrifice for an education. Every dollar which is given makes it possible for the College to maintain a balanced budget and increase the funds so badly needed to increase instructional salaries and provide the best equipment for instruction.

The Scholar Program closes with the fiscal year — May 31 — but students now in College may have to withdraw after the present semester for lack of funds. Several parents have two or more children in college and with increase in fees find it increasingly difficult to provide a college education for their children. This program deals with a matter loaded with concern and often pathos.

Below are listed the scholars for last year:

The Philosophy Of Philanthropy

A person recently exclaimed, "Me, a philanthropist!" We think with the majority that philanthropy is for the rich and certainly not for the poor or middle-class citizen. The dictionary states that philanthropy is "a desire to help mankind as indicated by acts of charity; love of mankind; something that helps mankind — services, gifts, acts, deeds." This definition opens up vast new fields.

If philanthropy be defined in terms of material gifts, then there are two classes — the unable and the able. True it is that many cannot provide more than a bare livelihood. Often those of us who in a whole lifetime have not had an income in five figures can dream of what we would do if we had a million or so dollars. It is all too simple to tell one who has material things to give, how to give. We are very liberal with the money of others, yet fail to realize that philanthropy is well within our own abilities.

The story is told of the conversation between two men. One said "Jim, you are my friend, aren't you?"

"Yes", Jim replied.

"Well, Jim, if you had 100 sheep would you give me 50 sheep?"

"Yes" Jim affirmed.

"If you owned fifty sheep would you give me twenty-five of them?"

"Yes"

"If you owned ten would you give me five?"

"Yes"

Finally, "Jim, if you had two sheep, would you give me one?"

To which Jim snorted, "You knew I had two sheep!"

Then there are those who by inheritance, by dint of hard work and frugality have amassed wealth. Many of these by the very nature of the acquisition have never known the joys of sharing. It is not natural for them to give. Others are generous. Without meaning to preach, this group contains the great hope for the advancement of Christian Higher Education.

A philanthropist! Yes, each can love his fellow man. Each can give as he is able. Each can share in service, in acts, gifts, deeds. From him that hath shall much be required according to his abilities in love, concern, service, and often in material possessions.

You, too, can be a philanthropist!

“Merchant of Venice” Featured As Fine Arts Department Plans Special Week On Campus

A new experience for alumni, faculty and students will be presented on the High Point College campus during the week of November 15-21 with the introduction of a Fine Arts Festival, this year commemorating the 400th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare.

Highlighting the activities will be the first performance of a new opera based on the Shakespearian play The Merchant of Venice. Composed by Dr. Lew Lewis, Professor of Music and Chairman of the Fine Arts Department, the opera will be performed on Friday and Saturday evenings, November 20 and 21 at 8:30 P.M. An outstanding cast and orchestra have been assembled from the Piedmont North Carolina area for this occasion.

Another feature will be a lecture by Dr. John H. Long, Professor of English at Greensboro College, Greensboro, N. C., who will speak on the subject “Renaissance Literature and Music”. Dr. Long did both his under-graduate and graduate work at the University of Florida. During the summer of 1951 he was a Reading Fellow at the Folger Shakespeare Library and later in 1957-58 was a Guggenheim Fellow. He has written two books and several periodical articles on the Renaissance period.

The Chapel Program on Wednesday, November 18, will feature “The Carradines” a professional husband and wife team who will do excerpts from Romeo and Juliet, Hamlet, and Maxwell Anderson’s Elizabeth the Queen. This assembly will be the only phase of the week’s activities unavailable to alumni because of limited seating facilities during the chapel period. Dr. Lewis has stressed, however, that graduates are welcome to take part in as many of the other festival attractions as possible.

The opera composed by Dr. Lew Lewis and based on “The Merchant of Venice” will use a set similar to this model painted by Raiford Porter.

Featured as a part of the Fine Arts Festival will be The Carradines doing excerpts from Romeo and Juliet, Hamlet, and Elizabeth the Queen.

Traditionally the sophomore class challenges the freshmen to a tug-of-war to determine when the latter might remove their beanies. This year no actual winner could be determined because the rope broke during the first pull, but the freshmen declared themselves champs anyway. We'll let you guess what happened to this young co-ed.

Well Known Methodist Leader Delivers 1964 Finch Lecture Series

On October 27 and 28 High Point College welcomed Dr. John Owen Smith, Bishop of the Atlanta area of the Methodist Church, on campus to deliver the 1964 Finch Lectures. Recognized as one of the great religious leaders in the county, Bishop Smith was presented by the Department of Religion and Student Christian Council through a grant of the Charles F. Finch Foundation.

Taking as his theme the church and present day culture, Bishop Smith presented four lectures during the two day period discussing the merits and shortcomings of our society, the failure of morality to keep up with our materialistic advantages, and the role of the Church in facing its task.

A native of South Carolina, Bishop Smith received his AB degree from Wofford College and the Bachelor of Divinity Degree from Yale University. After graduation in 1925 he served Methodist Churches in South Carolina until 1954 when he was appointed district superintendent of the Spartanburg District. In 1960 he was elected Bishop of the Atlanta Area which includes North and South Georgia.

The Charles F. Finch Foundation of Thomasville has made a grant available since 1960 in order to bring outstanding religious leaders to High Point College to challenge our student body.

President's Report

A Spark Has Been Struck

By Dr. Wendell M. Patton

Something new is to be found on the High Point College campus. You won't see it described in any previous alumni publication, nor will you find it physically present while visiting during Homecoming or some other time. But a spark has been struck. A flame of vibrant expectancy is beginning to flicker among our students and faculty alike.

What I am trying to convey concerns the approaching emergence of a real and exciting climate of learning on this campus, but to describe it in words is similar to describing a heartbeat—it is far easier to feel than narrate.

No one seems to know how this magical essence is supplied or created on a campus but all colleges want it. Dr. Boyer points out in an article written for the Quarterly Journal for Improving College and University Teaching that in essence three things are required:

- (1) A spirit of freedom.
- (2) The spirit of detachment and involvement at the same time.
- (3) A spirit of humility.

A spirit of freedom involves clear thinking which is unyielding to prejudice and propaganda. Ideas must be encouraged rather than suppressed while at the same time maintaining balance through a sense of responsibility. There cannot be a separation between freedom and responsibility although, unfortunately, man has been slow to learn this lesson. At High Point College we want to create and maintain a climate where mature and responsible students meet teachers and investigate, study, analyze, discuss, and dissent freely.

It is important that we be involved with life and responsible to our society. At the same time we have a somewhat contradictory relationship in that we must also be detached to the degree that we can retain objectivity and intellectual honesty.

We also come together in a spirit of humility involving a unique mixture of caution and confidence—recognizing tremendous potentialities within our grasp while at the same time facing squarely the restrictions that we must voluntarily impose.

High Point College has passed through the awkward adolescent years and literally vibrates with excitement over what the future holds for us. Teachers, students, and alumni must continue to unite and push hard against the bonds of ignorance if new insights and answers are to be found. In short, academic and Christian excellence thrives when conditions are right. Conditions on your campus point out that Alma Mater is progressing in the right direction.

Additional Homecoming Attraction

Although Homecoming is still three months away, the Alumni Office has learned that the Student Government Association is hoping to sponsor a big name entertainment attraction on the same weekend. If plans go as scheduled there will be enough natural appeal to make this one of the finest Homecomings ever. Remember the date—Saturday, February 13.

Panthers Work To Duplicate Winning Ways Of Year Ago

With the collegiate football season drawing to a close and basketball just around the corner a familiar question heard on campus asks, "How good are the Panthers going to be this year?" Still fresh in the minds of many fans is the exciting 26-4 record posted by coach Tom Quinn's charges last season, including the NAIA District 26 championship and two wins at the national small college tourney in Kansas City.

Gone are four big reasons for High Point's success in the persons of co-captains Bill Fallin and Phil Garrison, Al Trombetta and Sam Byers. One does not replace the experience and know how of athletes such as these overnight but, the outlook is far from bleak. Returning are four seniors with plenty of game experience led by 6-9½, 240 pound Dave Neel, an alternate on the 1964 Olympic team. Veteran All-Conference guard Barry Smith and play making co-captain Joe Forte will lend much strength in the backcourt while hook shooting Kirk Stewart will add scoring punch up front.

Coach Quinn feels the success of this club depends upon how quickly the number five, six, seven and eight men develop. Among the newcomers counted upon to see a lot of action are Bill Green, a 6-9 junior college player from New York; Steve Tegenhorst, 6-5, 200 pound All-Stater from Ohio; Jay Reed, a 6-0 Chowan College product; and Larry Wall, 6-4 freshman from Pilot Mountain. Sophomores Larry Cheatham and Jerry Lambert will give the club added depth at guard. Other new faces include Dan Norbut (6-9, 190), North Babylon, N. Y.; Scot MacDougal (6-5), Silver Spring, Md.; Steve Spencer, Madison, N. C.; and Rodney Kemp, Jackson, Tenn.

Full Schedule Of Events Mark Second Annual Parents' Day

As this Bulletin went to press final plans had been laid to welcome over 400 parents of HPC freshmen and sophomores to our second annual Parents' Day program on Saturday, November 7. Not only were folks expected from all sections of the "Tar Heel" State but from almost every state along the Eastern seaboard as well.

For many this will have been the first opportunity to see the campus firsthand. In addition to guided tours by student government officers, the visitors will have had an opportunity to visit the instructors of their sons and daughters, visit classrooms and laboratory facilities, and dormitory rooms.

Parents and children will have been the guests of the college for a luncheon in Harrison Hall, heard a musical program sponsored by the Fine Arts Department, and been honored at an afternoon tea where once again they had the opportunity to chat with faculty members.

Centurion Club Established To Recognize Large Alumni Gifts

One of the highlights of the first Alumni Executive Committee meeting in September was the announcement that a special club was to be formed for alumni whose gifts to High Point College exceeded one hundred dollars.

Called the Centurion Club, it will consist of three plateaus and carry certain privileges for its members. An alumnus contributing $100-$249 will receive a certificate and silver pass granting admittance to all home basketball games; a gift of $250-$499 will warrant a certificate and gold pass admitting two to all home basketball games; a gift of $500 or more means the alumnus will receive a certificate and diamond pass good for all college sponsored events. In addition it is hoped that each spring a dinner can be planned for club members which will give them an opportunity to meet HPC administrators and trustees.

One of the highlights of the Panther's schedule is a two-night doubleheader at the Winston-Salem Coliseum on December 18 and 19. Their opponents will be North Carolina College and Rockhurst College, 1964 National Small College Champs.

Governor of Louisiana Receives Honorary Degree

Alumnus of High Point College, John J. McKeithen, Governor of Louisiana, addressed the students and faculty of High Point College in a special convocation program Thursday, December 10th, at 10:20 A.M. in the Memorial Auditorium. An Honorary Doctorate (L.L.D.) was conferred on him by Dr. Wendell M. Patton, President.

Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina introduced Governor McKeithen to the assembly.

McKeithen, a native of Grayson, La., attended High Point College for two years during 1936-38. He returned to Louisiana and graduated from LSU with the A.B. and L.L.B. degrees.

In 1942, he married the former Marjorie Funderburk. He served four years in the Army, mostly in the Pacific Theater. He returned after the war and began his legal career. McKeithen served the Parish of Caldwell as representative for several years and in 1952 he was an unsuccessful candidate for Lieutenant Governor, but political observers were much impressed with his ability as a stump speaker.

He later was elected to the Public Service

Facing the strongest Republican opposition in modern Louisiana history, he went on to win the Governorship.

Governor and Mrs. McKeithen have six children, ranging from age 6 to 20.

Governor and Mrs. Sanford were the hosts to Governor and Mrs. McKeithen in Raleigh on Wednesday night, December 9th, and brought them to the campus Thursday morning.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Why High Point College?

Any college — old or young, large or small — must have a living personality separate and distinct from all others. This makes it worthy of its name.

This personality, this individuality should be deeply rooted in its philosophy and objectives, and revealed through its actions.

Our fundamental purpose and the very reason for our existence is to assist our students in developing themselves to become the strong leaders in their communities — whatever their vocational choices.

High Point College attempts to provide a sound, progressive program with a living Christian philosophy of education which gives depth and intensity to this quality program.

Out of such a background and basic philosophy and with the dedication of all our abilities, the following objectives have been formulated to color all that we attempt, and to measure every single endeavor.

Objectives

1. To educate young men and women in the arts and sciences as a basis for useful lives and a worthy contribution to society.
2. To adhere to a policy of complete honesty in the search for truth, for no other policy is admissible in a Christian institution.
3. To stimulate the love of learning and the expression of creative ability through cultural experiences and exacting course work.
4. To help students develop Christian character through ethical conduct and recognition of the dignity of human personality.
5. To keep constantly in mind the goal of service to inspire to highest ideals in this realm.
6. To invite to its faculty and student body only those who can maintain its scholastic and ethical standards.

The Long Range Plan Presented To Board

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees was given the Proposed Long Range for High Point College on December 9.

The plan, as presented is a result of the combined recommendations of the Development Council, Long Range Planning Committee, and the Endowment and Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees.

In order to make income and cost projections for this plan, it was necessary to agree on certain assumptions. The following assumptions will provide the basis for the Long Range Plan.

1. We anticipate no major or significant changes in the overall purposes, objectives, and philosophy of High Point College during the next ten years.
2. The primary interest and major efforts over the next decade should be directed toward quality improvement of the educational program and its related functions.
3. During the next ten years any plans for increase in enrollment should be secondary to the attainment of quality education and its related functions.
4. The semester or similar system will be retained approximately as at present during the next ten years.
5. The ratio of in-state to out-of-state students is not anticipated to go appreciably beyond 70-30. It is further anticipated that an increase in fees for out-of-state students will be necessary at a figure not exceeding the per-student church support which is now around $100.

6. The College will strive to keep the student-faculty ratio at less than 20 to 1 during the next ten years.
7. It will be necessary during the next decade to prepare for a larger percentage of resident students due to the emergence of Community Colleges (probably 65% of total enrollment).
8. The College will be provided with substantial increase in sustaining funds from the Church during the period ending in 1974.
9. The College will strive to increase faculty salaries until an average salary of $10,000 will be realized by 1974.
10. Student fees will be increased to keep pace with the needs for current income. Careful consideration will be given to comparable fees of other colleges. Further that the Trustees will consider ways and means of increasing income by gifts both personal and corporate.
11. The Trustees will continue the policy of acquiring property adjoining the campus.

It Is That Season Again

The Christmas season and the year's end affords another opportunity to share. It is true that the season has become over-commercialized with too little thought given to its true meaning. In spite of this fact there is a spirit of giving, of selflessness, of sharing with others. Sometimes the spirit is marred by the selfish thought of, "How much will his gift cost?" "Will she give me a gift this year?" The children are often taught inadvertently to expect far more than common-sense or financial circumstances can provide.

However, the spirit of giving, even sacrifice is evident at this season. Year-end giving is a practice with many. It has been a policy of our Government to encourage voluntary giving for philanthropic purposes. The allowable deductibility of charitable giving makes the net cost suprisingly low. Personal gifts to High Point College are deductible to the extent of 30% of the donor's adjusted income.

The Government encourages giving three ways:

- (1) A Gift to High Point College is deductible on Federal income tax (30% personal, 5% corporate).
- (2) No tax is incurred by a donor for a gift made to High Point College during his lifetime.
- (3) No estate tax is payable by the estate of a donor on a gift made to High Point College which takes effect on his death.

Have you thought of giving appreciated property to High Point College? You may get a charitable deduction for the appreciation in the value of your securities. You actually have a deduction for the difference between your cost and the value at the time of the gift. No capital gains tax is due.

Have you thought about turning over property to High Point College retaining a life-time interest (income) for yourself and your wife?

Would you like to discuss a possible gift in which a tax advantage might accrue to you? Contact the College office.

I have come to love it with a deep love My work with President Patton and other members of the staff, the faculty, the students, the alumni and a host of friends has been most rewarding in friendship and fellowship. We have a great task as set forth in this issue of the Bulletin. Your continued support is appreciated. Therefore, I pledge to you my best efforts to work toward the goals we have set for High Point College and for the instruction of college youth.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE ANNUAL REPORT 1964

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The enclosed summary of college operations speaks for itself. The destiny of High Point College is clear. While holding firmly to its spiritual heritage and accentuating the philosophy and values of a Christian liberal arts education, we are aggressively moving into the main stream of life. Holding our program of arts and sciences as the most practical education available in this world of rapid change, we will become an institution devoted to the challenge of translating eternal truths and values into a way of life.

Consistent progress is being made in all phases of our college operation, but the most exciting development defies quantitative measure. The feeling of academic and scholarly excitement in an atmosphere of Christian concern is evident among both faculty and students. A significant achievement in this respect was the culmination of two years' study and the approval of a new and dramatic educational program. Going into effect this year it is called "The Three-Three Curriculum" in recognition of the three distinct phases of the educational program and three separate routes toward a degree. The development of this program involved both the restudy and improved articulation of our basic purposes and the creation of a new professional degree.

Your loyal support of the past is deeply appreciated and we look forward to an even closer relationship in the future as we continue to not only move forward, but achieve the unprecedented.

Sincerely yours,

President
