BASKETBALL NEWS

W. LANE KERR, Director, NEWS BUREAU

Coach Bob Vaughn's Purple Panthers, one of the nation's top basketball forces last year, are currently in a battle to win a spot in the Carolinas Conference tournament which will be held the last weekend in February.

The Panthers are playing only .500 ball with a 7-7 over-all record as of January 13, but they have won only one conference tilt as against three losses.

Currently, they are only one game from the cellar in the conference.

For some reason, the Panthers just haven't been able to win when they hit the road; every loss has been on foreign floors while at home they appear to have the Indian sign on their rivals.

One bright spot thus far is the fact that the Panthers took championship honors in the annual High Point Classic for the second year in a row. In the tournament they defeated Belmont Abbey and Western Carolina University. Another bright factor is that of the 14 games left on the schedule, eight are on the home court.

The Panthers have sorely missed their All-American, Gene Littles, and their "big" man, Jim Picka. Littles, by the way, is now one of the top players in the American Basketball Association where he is playing with the Carolina Cougars who are based in Greensboro.

Vaughn is optimistic about the future in that he feels the team is beginning to jell. Only co-captains Danny Witt and Joe Colbert are seniors and freshmen and transfers are having to learn to play together.

By Carolinas Conference tournament time, the Panthers should be ready.

GOLDEN DECADE PROGRESSES

Phase Two of High Point College's Golden Decade Development Program, an effort to raise one million dollars, or its equivalent in income, from 1965 to 1974 "is in sight," according to Holt McPherson, co-chairman of the drive. Approximately one and one-half million dollars was raised during the first phase.

McPherson, also Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Wendell M. Patton, H.P.C.

President, foresee the building of a student center, a chapel-religious center, and a new addition to the library in the near future.

Since 1965, endowment has increased from $1,714,645 to $3,163,269. Two new dormitories housing 234 students, a science building, and an infirmary have been built. Other needs include additional gymnasium space complete with a swimming pool and more dormitory space.

Another major need which hopefully will be realized from Phase Two of the Golden Decade Program will be funds for student aid, especially for endowed scholarships and loan funds. At least $150,000 is needed annually to meet the needs in this area. These funds, and other needs of the college, may be met through the establishment of memorial gifts.

ALUMNAE HONORED

Among women from throughout the country to be selected as Outstanding Young Women of America for 1969 are the following alumnae of High Point College:

Carolyn Fincher, '64, Dobson
Jane Saferight, '62, High Point
Sylvia Deaton Sims, '60, Charlotte
Donna Lawrence Staley, '63, Winston-Salem
Lynn Younts Tuggle, '68, High Point

The Decade Of The 70's — Dreams And Plans

High Point College has already dreamed and planned for the seventies. The dreams are just a little more up-to-date now than in 1963, for some of the dreams have become a reality.

This is the decade in which High Point College becomes FIFTY years old. In the year 1974 the College will celebrate its 50th year of operations. The Golden Anniversary, of the beginning in 1924, should be the proper time to plan wisely for many of the years looking toward the century celebration in 2024.

What should happen in the first half of the decade of the seventies? First and without doubt, the most important thing that we can do is to assure the continuance of Christian ideals and standards of conduct. These ideals and standards will not just happen. They will come about through commitment to and confrontation with the living God. This is to admit that the road will be very rough and that the journey will be threatening and often dangerous. This we must do in the seventies!

Second, some way must be devised to provide a Student Center which will be adequate for our students. This center will offer possible solutions to the recreation problems now on the campus. It should provide at least a partial answer to the week-end problem of no facilities for recreation-dances, etc. If we are wise, this building will have priority over all the other buildings projected in the Golden Decade. An investment here may mean the difference between an excellent college and a mediocre one.

Third, the faculty and administration must find a means of growth and development beyond the present. This is not to say that we do not have a good faculty. But it is to admit that there are factions as well as individuals who do not understand the absolute necessity to give all of one's self possible to the task of teaching. It is well known that faculty members are underpaid, but it is also true that all the salary available cannot make poor teachers or poor administrators into good ones. Commitment and dedication alone do not buy groceries. The College must pay higher salaries. Those who are recipients of higher salaries must be worthy of the name "teacher" or "administrator."

Fourth, students must accept the responsibilities and demands attached to freedom. Much has been said by known and anonymous individuals about needed changes in outdated regulations, social and otherwise. Basic and fundamental principles never change, only the social mores and customs. Granted, there are a great many things wrong with society, but the remaking or redemptive process is a slow and an individual process. Only as individuals become better men and women will our society reflect that change. Our College — all areas — must attempt in the seventies to become what we claim in our purposes, aims, and philosophy. The seventies will be the results of the seed sown in the sixties and the cultivation of the seventies. There is every reason to predict that what we now experience will be the means through which the decade will become the most meaningful if not the most revolutionary decade in the 20th Century.

The look into the seventies need not be one of pessimism but of an awareness that many of the problems, which High Point College faces, are the result of our lack of noble thoughts, careful plans, and responsible actions. It is not too late to make a better College if we're willing to really love God and one another — even the most obnoxious human. For, we do know that no matter how low we fall, how unkempt we become, or how far to the left or right we may be, God still loves us. These days provide our opportunity!

High Point College — Where Does It Stand?

WENDELL M. PATTON

Almost overnight we have to face the fact that colleges and universities have deluded the public into thinking that they were teaching the young to be mature and responsible citizens of a great democracy. Important concepts such as academic freedom have been twisted and warped. Freedom for students and teachers to seek, to learn, and to teach the truth has been prostituted into a weapon to promote selfish interests, proselyte strange causes, and destroy many of the values that we all hold dear. Suddenly colleges are expected to yield to every demand, especially when backed by physical force, no matter how absurd, or how irrational the demand. Indeed we are reaping the rewards of the permissive child raising of Dr. Spock and others of the late 1940's and early 50's. Even though nationally prominent and prestigious institutions have yielded without regard to their responsibility, High Point College will not! Instead, we at High Point College renew our pledge and acceptance of our responsibility to our Church, parents, faculty, and students. At the same time we intend to operate with a new sense of awareness in listening intently and with honest concern and interest toward what students are trying to say.

The time has come that any college worthy of its name must state its position and its beliefs to the public. High Point College is now trying to do this, knowing in advance that we cannot be everything to everybody. We have wrestled with basic assumptions, some still undefined, still knowing that there will be strong disagreement in each of these, but believing in the necessity of presenting our position to the public — even as it evolves.

Here Is Our Platform — Our Beliefs

1. We believe that freedom is the most priceless possession that we have today. We also believe that there is evidence that this freedom is slowly but surely being lost. This freedom we cherish, which was won by suffering, bloodshed, and death must be, in a sense, re-earned again — which demands nothing more or less than self-discipline. This is indeed hard for vigorous youngsters to accept — to them a high price to pay and there is little evidence to indicate their willingness to accept it. However, this we believe!

2. Education by definition is a disciplined process — so is civilization. Neither can exist without the other. When campuses become uncivilized they become undisciplined and chaotic. We do not intend for this to happen on our campus and our desire is to become more disciplined and not less.

3. There must always be some authority in control. The larger the group — the greater the population, the more control is necessary. When this authority falters, then raw power moves in. Some believe that erosion of traditional authority means the beginning of higher freedom for the individual. History does not confirm this. The human mind cannot support moral chaos long — dictatorial power will invade the vacuum that is left by receding authority.

4. Every individual has a basic need and a right for some degree of structuring of his world. This is necessary for security and emotional stability. Limits must be set so that he can measure behavior, so that personal adjustments can be made, so that he can relate to the world. These limits are established for me by the Board of Trustees — they are established for the students by the faculty and myself. They are established for smaller children by parents — and they are necessary for sound emotional development in every area and all levels.

5. In spite of the national trend and recent rulings of courts, we do not yet accept the death of the concept of "in loco parentis." We are very much concerned with the rights of students, but we also believe that the parents of our students expect us to assume some responsibility as their sons and daughters achieve maturity through the educational experiences offered on our campus.

6. While across our nation we hear so much concerning the rights of students, we believe that the rights of parents have been neglected to a far greater extent. Many of our parents are struggling and sacrificing to meet increased costs of an education. These parents are vitally concerned in the welfare of their children and we believe that we have a responsibility to improve communications with these parents and to work closer with them in the development of an educational program.

7. High Point is a college and not a university. There is, and should be, a vast difference between the two. Each has something special and unique to offer its students. It is our intent to be fair, firm, consistent, and considerate, but we do not intend to provide as permissive an atmosphere as found on the campuses of many of the liberal universities of America. Instead we firmly believe we can offer far greater advantages and opportunities in being a small church-related college in the finest sense of the word.

8. High Point College is operated for our students and in the interest of our students — but not by our students! This does not for one instant mean that we are disinterested in the opinions of our students. Nor does it suggest a lack of respect for the younger generation. It is a recognition of the importance of what we are doing and the necessity of duly constituted groups, such as our Board of Trustees, administration, and faculty to carry the responsibility and to have commensurate authority. We have involved, and we intend to continue to involve, responsible students in the planning and decision-making process, but the final decisions, the final accountability must rest with the President and the Board of Trustees.

9. We believe in the necessity of establishing standards by which the institution will be run. This means standards of behavior, as well as standards of academic competence. We expect students and faculty alike to accept these standards, even though they may not be in complete agreement with them. Some may interpret this as being an infringement of personal freedom. It is possible that students who come here may give up some of the freedoms they may find on other campuses, but we feel that this is a small price to pay for the trust that we have to live up to — our stated goals and objectives.

10. We believe that students should carry more responsibility, but we also believe absolutely that responsibility and authority are inseparable. We intend to give students increased responsibility, increased authority, and a stronger voice in all areas in which they can and are willing to assume responsibility for their decisions.

What Does This Mean?

The thoughts that I have just shared with you are some of the assumptions and ideas that we are considering as a basis for our planning, our growth, and our future. The meaning we derive from our philosophy can be stated simply in terms of how we translate these assumptions into action. What will they actually mean on our campus?

1. It means that we will try to anticipate, encourage, give an answer, be concerned, seek advice, open lines of communication, operate for the students, operate in the best interests of students, understanding that they may not know in every instance what is best for them.

2. It means that we must give increased responsibility, greater freedom, and more authority — or a “piece of the action” to responsible students when it is deserved and they are willing and able to assume this responsibility.

3. It means that those who cannot live with freedom and responsibility, and those who would attempt to deprive others of this freedom and responsibility, would be punished. Limits will be set, students will be expected to operate within these limits. We intend to give more freedom — at the same time we must quit sheltering students from their mistakes. The two have to go hand in hand. If they have more freedom, then they must face the consequences of their actions. Educationally this is of greatest importance!

Specifics

In setting limits of conduct we will also establish basics and procedures — publicize, notify, and communicate these to faculty and students. Specifically our ideas are:

1. When in the judgment of the President a situation on the campus beyond his control develops, he may declare a state of emergency. He then assumes temporary dictatorial powers, assuming the full authority of the Board of Trustees and the faculty to bring immediate order to the campus.

2. There will be no disruptions of the academic process — schedules, classes, laboratories, meetings, etc. — no interference or disruptive activities will be allowed on the campus.

3. There will be no deprivation of any service or facility of the College to any individual entitled to those services or facilities.

4. No building or facility on the campus may be used without specific approval. It may not be occupied, seized, or held, or in any way used without permission from authorized authority.

5. There will be no amnesty for those who disregard our rules of conduct. We believe that amnesty is a vicious and dangerous thing. Violators will face the responsibility for their acts through established judiciary processes.

6. There will be no discussion or negotiation of issues during any threat, coercive or disruptive action, or power play.

7. Our students are selected and admitted to High Point College for one year at a time. They will not be re-admitted for a second year if their behavior indicates that this is the wrong environment to meet their needs, or if they fail to live up to their agreement with, and support the College.

A Closing Statement

This is indeed a most interesting and challenging time to be working with young people. We truly want to provide the best possible educational environment so that our students have the best opportunity to grow up into mature, responsible Christian leaders. And with the help of the Lord Jesus Christ, we will make every effort to live up to this responsibility.

The Dean Of Students Views The 1970's

As educators see their institutions moving into the 1970's from one of the most tumultuous decades in the history of higher education, there appears to be mixed emotions about the future. Faculty, administrators — all those concerned — will have to re-define the goals, objectives, and purposes of their respective institutions. These changes will require much thought from all concerned; including students. High Point College will be no exception in these changing times, but neither will it be standing alone.

Although High Point College will be a part of the changing times, its needs and aspirations will be different from some other institutions. The increasing and improvement of facilities, better structured programs of student activities, curriculum changes, faculty-student committees, more community involvement, etc., are some of the changes High Point College will be facing during the 1970's. Being aware of the changing times, High Point College is in the process of meeting this challenge.

Although progress has not been as rapid as it could possibly have been, some positive steps have been taken to meet these goals. One of the primary problems, from my viewpoint, being faced by the College is the lack of a Student Center and lack of a structured program in student activities. Student Centers are becoming more important in every student's life on every college campus. No longer does a student look to an institution for academic learning alone, but also as a form of social life. The program of an adequate Student Center on the campus has been increased by the growing number of resident students on campus. Many of the tensions placed on a student with studies, personal problems, and social problems must be relieved in a constructive way, if possible. With facilities and a well-structured program, the release of tension can be done in a constructive rather than a destructive way. Although this isn't to say that a Student Center is the answer to all our problems, but is only one step in bettering relations with

"institution" and students.

Another realization that High Point College and other colleges must come to is that the type of student enrolled in college today is much better prepared academically than the student of ten to fifteen years ago. More of the courses in high school are advanced courses. Which possibly means the colleges take a better look at their own curriculums in regards to repetition.

High Point College will be faced with revising its curriculum to better meet the needs of the student. It must be willing to offer the courses to the students that have meaning to them and relate to their lives. The question is being asked today by many students, "What's it all about?" The curriculum, I feel, at High Point College should meet these needs.

Student-faculty participation on committees will become of greater importance during the 1970's. The exchange of ideas between students and faculty is the best means of communications in closing the "generation gap."

ALUMNI SCHEDULE ACTIVITIES FOR SENIORS

Wednesday, May 6, has been selected by the Alumni Association as the date for the Alumni-Senior Dinner. Also, on the same day, an outstanding alumnus of High Point College will speak to the seniors at their investiture in Memorial Auditorium at 10:00 a.m.

Bob Rankin, President of the Association, announced that Dr. Max P. Rogers, Class of 1938, in private practice of surgery in High Point from 1947 to 1966 and now the Chief Surgeon of Southern Railway in Washington, D. C., will speak at the senior investiture assembly.

Bob also advises that James T. Beatty, representative to the North Carolina General Assembly from Charlotte, has accepted our invitation to speak at the Alumni-Senior Dinner at 6:30 p.m. in Harrison Hall. Mr. Beatty is a former Olympic track star for the U.S.A.

The Alumni Association sponsors the Alumni-Senior Dinner to honor the seniors for their contributions to the growth and development of High Point College and to welcome them into membership in the Association.

Students And Administration Have Meeting To Resolve Problems

Dr. Patton, Mr. Dalbey and others talk to students about problems.

A confrontation between High Point College students and the administration was held Wednesday, February 25, and Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Jr., president, again spelled out certain rules under which the college operates.

The meeting, attended by approximately 600 students, came about as a result of what Patton called a group of "cowardly night riders" . . . "many of whom were drinking" . . . visiting his home after midnight Saturday, February 21, calling for him to come out. He did not.

"Their purpose certainly was not constructive — they were not requesting a meeting in good faith — they were not there to help improve the college in any way. But they were there to deliberately create greater problems — not to resolve them. This action goes beyond simple irresponsibility. My wife was out of town and I was there nursing two sick children. The president's residence is my home and I will not allow my family to be harrassed in this way.

He began his brief address by welcoming the students and noted that he was actually not speaking to them all, instead to the small group who seek to disrupt and destroy — or who seek personal publicity — or perhaps are so unfortunate as not to know there is a right and wrong way to act and effect change.

At one point Dr. Patton pointed out to students that they had signed a pledge when they applied for admission stipulating that, among other things, they would "respect and accept the authority vested in the administration of the college."

Telling the students that the administration expects them to live up to that pledge, Dr. Patton said: "This is responsibility! If you cannot do this, we expect you to leave.

He said the college will be run for students, not by students, and that it will not be run by an "irresponsible mob — regardless of what they call themselves and regardless of how they abuse the word 'responsible' in their identification."

Students asked questions of an administrative panel on the subjects of their tuition cost, curriculum, the power structure of the college and other areas in which they expressed interest.

Several students took exception to Dr. Patton's reference to what he called "some revolutionary radicals on the campus." He declined to name them but said they would most probably reveal themselves "within several months."

Dr. Patton told the students he would be glad to meet with any or all of them each Wednesday morning to keep open "channels of communication."

Board Of Trustees Meet To Consider Student Requests

At an adjourned meeting, the High Point College Board of Trustees Wednesday, April 8, went on record "at this time as being opposed to any student dormitory room visitation" and adopted another resolution they hope will speed up machinery to fill "student recreational and social needs."

Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Jr., college president and secretary of the board, said trustees adopted the following resolution:

"The board recognizes the great need to find suitable space on campus to fill student recreational and social needs. The chairman will appoint immediately a task force consisting of three students, three trustees and three faculty to find a solution to these immediate needs for fall semester and long range. This task force will have power for immediate action and will be required to present recommendations at the May meeting."

At issue was the question of pressing needs on the part of the students for recreational and social facilities. Most students want to have room visitation where the young men and women could study, talk, play records in each others rooms.

With only one more month of school left, trustees felt that some of these needs may be met before the term expires but indicated they plan to meet the needs by September if not earlier. The task force will begin work toward implementing the needs immediately. Chairman of the Board, Holt McPherson of High Point, named the task force, consisting of Earle G. Dalbey, Vice President — James Nelson, Department of Business Administration — Raiford Porter, Chairman Faculty Committee — William F. Womble, Attorney, Winston-Salem, North Carolina — M. E. Harbin, Salisbury, North Carolina — Harriss Covington, Secretary-Treasurer Harriss & Covington Hosiery Mills, High Point. Students: John Young, Bob Williams and Corkey McCorkle.

During the spring holidays, a questionnaire had been sent to parents seeking their reaction to room visitation. As of Monday, April 6, 304 replies from the 664 inquiries mailed had been received and they are still coming in at the rate of 25-50 a day, Dr. Patton said.

Trustees spent more than an hour before their regular meeting talking to students in the Student Center. They heard a number of complaints such as "lack of communication" on the campus, "academic frustration," "nothing to do on weekends" and others.

Scholastic Honor Society Elects Members

Sixteen High Point College students have been elected to membership in the Scholastic Honor Society and will be honored at an initiation dinner to be held at the YWCA on May 4.

Purpose of the Society is to honor, recognize, and encourage scholarship. Members from the junior and senior classes are elected primarily on the basis of intellectual interests and scholarly attainments.

Those to be installed at the May banquet are:

Sharon Shackelford Stewart, Anita Vaye Hill, Janet Auman Tompkins, Richard L. Braun and Ellen E. Hartman, all of High Point; Linda Carol Crutchfield of Greensboro; Judy Musgrave of Lexington; Edna Robbins Palmer of Winston-Salem; Betty Jane Logan of Hickory; Warren Grimes of Smithfield; Robert P. Williams of Asheboro; Richard Quinn of Kernersville; and Carol D. Davis of Carthage.

Out-of-state students elected were Rebecca Proehl of Lynchburg, Virginia; Ellen P. Lohse of Fairfax, Virginia; and William A. Hatchl of Arlington, Virginia.

The Evening School Will Close At End Of Semester

The Board of Trustees acting upon the recommendation of Dr. Patton voted to close the evening school in September, 1970. Enrollment has been declining steadily since the school opened in 1965 with 459 evening students supplemented by 68 regular day students taking work in the evening. At present there are 90 evening students and 68 others who are registered in the regular program taking a course in the evening.

David Holt, registrar and director of the evening school, indicated that the state and community colleges in the area were attracting many of the students who formerly would attend the evening school. For one thing, he told trustees, the tuition is cheaper. Another reason is that changes in selective service laws have cut down on enrollment because a student must now be enrolled in a full-time program.

High Point College's Academic Program In The Seventies

In the Spring of 1969 it was my privilege to comment at a meeting of the High Point College Faculty on the state of academics at our College — present and future. Within one short year the future is with us. The faculty, the academic administration, and (does this sound strange to the alumni?) students face the necessity of massive revision of both curriculum and pedagogy.

This Spring, 1970, the college-wide evaluation of curriculum has begun. The several departments have been asked to hold a series of meetings with both faculty members and majors within the department to determine, course by course, the validity of present departmental offerings. It is believed that this give and take method of determination will result in certain revisions. At the same time the Educational Policies Committee which includes faculty and student members will study the general education and core requirements now in effect with the view of possible revision.

The curriculum study described above is, quite obviously, a nuts and bolts operation which might become tedious and detailed but is nonetheless necessary before the on-going program of the 70's can be finalized.

In the thinking of quite a few persons on the campus a 4-1-4 program might well emerge from our basic study. Indeed, many of us are quite excited about the possibilities of this trend that has developed so rapidly in higher education. In conjunction with the College Coordinating Council of the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church, the four member colleges (Brevard, Greensboro, High Point and Pfeiffer) are working toward a common calendar to begin September, 1971. Basic to the cooperative approach will be a January interim semester whereby students will enroll in one course during that short semester, a course that might be one offered during the regular semesters or one that would be decided upon by individual departments as a study of unusual worth to students. For example, a study of the New York Exchange conducted by resource persons in New York has been most worthwhile for Business Administration majors during the voluntary interim semester which has been in effect the past two years. By cooperative effort of the four United Methodist Colleges, one course could be offered on the High Point campus which would appeal to students of the other three colleges. We envisage an exchange of students and/or professors during the interim semester which would add to the academic enlightenment of our students.

The very nature of instruction needs review and we anticipate changes in methodology. Students in political science, sociology, physical education, psychology, and other areas will find themselves involved in practical as well as theoretical study. Students whose major emphasis is in natural science will become involved in environmental studies and projects. Students in the teacher education program will have unlimited opportunity to discover their potential long before official certification.

Our academic program of the seventies will be limited only by limits of imagination or fear of innovation. Certain of the "old ways" will necessarily disappear. Instructors must cease being dispensers of fact. The responsibility for learning must be shifted to the student. The student must accept the responsibility for obtaining facts and the professor must find himself in the role of conveying meaning, creating issues of challenge, and responding positively to maturing minds. The faculty must go so far as to admit that a freshman is capable of enrolling in a course theretofore restricted to the junior-senior plateau of learning.

The lock-step method of education, however facile and convenient, must be replaced by one which is realistic to the needs of the individual student. If we are able to accomplish this in the Seventies, we will be an exciting, viable body in the Eighties. If — but the negative I refuse to consider.

As alumni, as parents, and as friends, your thoughts are solicited in our studies and determinations. Many of you are educators who have definite ideas as to how our program can be improved. Let us know what you think; come to the campus with creative criticism. We need much more than material support from you.

One final word. Above all, our academic mission at High Point College will continue to be with the Christian ethic at its core. We must assure the fact that students of High Point College understand that learning can be taught but that wisdom comes only through experience and application of learning. Whatever wisdom is generated as a result of the educational experience at High Point will have Jesus Christ as the source of that wisdom.

Student Government Association Officers Elected

Students have elected new officers for the Student Government Association. Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Jr., college president, installed the group on Wednesday, April 1.

Outgoing Student Government Association President, Mike Carle of Wilmington, Delaware called upon the students to "strongly support" the new officers in their work with students, faculty, administration and trustees.

John Young, son of The Reverend and Mrs. D. L. Young, of Kinston, North Carolina whose family has just moved from Reidsville where he graduated from high school, is the new president of the Student Government Association.

The new vice-president is Alan Prather, a junior, the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Prather of High Point. He graduated from High Point Central High School.

Don LaMar of High Point, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. LaMar, was elected as treasurer of Student Government Association. LaMar graduated from High Point Central High School.

Carol Clause of Greensburg, Ohio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Clause, Greensburg was elected to serve as secretary to the Student Government Association.

A FOND FAREWELL

For the past three and one-half years, it has been my pleasure to serve you and High Point College as alumni director. As I leave the College at the end of May, I take this opportunity to thank you for the friendship you have given me and for the support you continue to give to our Alma Mater.

It has been a wonderful experience working with our many faithful and loyal alumni. I leave my official position with the intent to continue my service in a volunteer capacity, so I look forward to seeing you over the years to come.

If you have suggestions for someone to take over as Director of Alumni Affairs, please contact Lawson Allen, Vice President for Public Affairs.

BOOKOUT
YEAR"

Arthur R. Bookout, Jr., of Wilmington, Delaware, on the right in the above picture, was named "Alumnus of the Year" by the Association during the annual Alumni-Senior Dinner on Wednesday, May 6.

In naming Bookout for the honor, Dr. Edwin L. Auman, 1968-69 recipient of the award, cited him for his loyalty to the College over the years since his graduation in 1939.

Bookout, presently project manager in the engineering department of Hercules, Inc., has the responsibility for chemical plants for certain departments of Hercules. Among his duties are defining projects, preparing requests to the board of directors for approval, complete design, all procurement of equipment and materials, supervision of construction scheduling and planning, cost control, and start-up of completed plant. In his work, Bookout has helped build facilities in 10 states and in nine foreign countries on three continents. Original cost of all projects to date is in excess of 100 million dollars.

Bookout has been with Hercules since 1943 when he was associated with explosives research in rockets. During his early years with the company, he developed several chemical processes using high pressure reaction technology and other new processes which he brought into commercial operation.

A member of a number of professional engineering and chemical societies, Bookout has been active in the Lutheran Church and is a member of several synodical and national boards and commissions of the Lutheran Church in America.

Despite the extensive travel his job demands, Arthur finds time to be active in civic activities in Wilmington, where he lives with his wife, the former Mary Pelham Whitley, a UNC-G alumna. The Bookouts have four children.

TWO TO RECEIVE HONORARY DEGREES

High Point College will bestow Doctor of Divinity degrees upon two distinguished North Carolina Methodist ministers during commencement exercises on May 24 when the Class of 1970 graduates.

Nicholas W. Grant of Raleigh, Director of the Program Council of the North Carolina Conference of The United Methodist Church, received his academic degrees from Duke. He has served churches in Rocky Mount, Warrenton, Rich Square, Washington, Raleigh, and Goldsboro. He and Mrs. Grant, the former Ruth Henderson, have one daughter.

Harley M. Williams, an H.P.C. alumnus of the Class of 1942, is minister at West Market Street United Methodist Church in Greensboro. Also a graduate of the Duke Divinity School, he has served pastorates in Oak Ridge, Davidson, Belmont, Winston-Salem, Monroe, and Thomasville. He and Mrs. Williams, the former Ethel Campbell, have two children.

Report Of "Task Force" Authorized By Trustees

The Trustees of High Point College recognize that students have just cause for grievance relative to the need for more space for small group semi-private social and recreational purposes. The need for a student union where such adequate space would be provided is acknowledged and holds top priority as the next building to be placed on the campus. Meanwhile, it is further acknowledged that such intermediate steps as can be taken to meet this need should be taken without delay. The request for open student dormitory visitation is one that the Trustees feel they cannot grant. At its meeting on Wednesday, April 8, 1970, the Board voted not to approve this request. However, it was voted to set up a Task Force to look into all possible means of alleviating the need for more space where couples could be together under semi-private conditions to talk, study, listen to music, etc.

The Task Force was appointed by Board Chairman, Dr. Holt McPherson, as follows:

From the student body:

John Young, President of the SGA
Bob Williams, Speaker, Student Legislature
Corkie McMorkle, President of the Senior Class

From the Faculty and Administration:

Earle G. Dalbey, Jim Nelson, Raiford Porter

From the Trustees:

William F. Womble, Harriss Covington, Mel Harbin
(Chairman)

Ex Officio members:

Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Dr. Holt McPherson

The Task Force was charged with finding all possible solutions to the problem with immediate steps that could be taken (with power to act at this point), and to report to the May meeting of the Board such steps to be taken by the Fall 1970, and long range.

Recommendations Presented

The Task Force with full attendance met in the private dining room of the College on Monday, April 13, from 7:00 to 9:15 P.M. This session was a general brainstorming session out of which came an agreement to open the lounge areas in the co-ed dorm immediately under regulations set by Student Personnel Committee.

The members of the Task Force met again on Tuesday, April 14 and made a survey of all existing facilities on the campus. The following recommendations to be put into effect by the opening of the fall semester 1970 include:

1. Library:

We recommend sectioning off ten small areas in the basement floor for group discussion and study.

2. Woman's Hall:

We recommend that the old home economics area be renovated and furnished as a social area for co-ed use.

3. Wesley Hall:

We recommend that the entire first floor of nine (9) dormitory rooms be made into individual lounges for co-ed use.

4. Infirmary:

We recommend that the basement be finished into four (4) small lounge areas and one larger area with kitchen and bath facilities.

5. McCulloch Hall:

We recommend that first floor of McCulloch Hall be renovated so as to have six (6) new lounge areas for co-ed use.

6. Picnic Shelter:

We recommend that a picnic shelter with tables and grills be built near the athletic field in the woods off East College Drive.

7. President's House:

We recommend that when the President's house becomes available that it be furnished as lounge areas for small group co-ed use.

It is to be understood that areas will be used under rules set by the Student Personnel Committee.

For long range it is understood a new Student Union Building will be built on the campus as soon as possible — hopefully within two years.

An Innovation In Curriculum — The Contract Program

We believe this to provide a new approach to education that would allow selected students to assist in planning their individual educational program, tailored to their special needs, rather than following established catalogue degree requirements.

Purpose

1. To encourage those capable students who are willing to accept responsibility and who have developed clearly defined goals and purposes to become involved in designing an educational and development program best designed to meet their needs.

2. To provide the College with greater flexibility and freedom in up-dating its approach by combining relevancy in the world today, the individual needs of a student, and high academic standards within the framework of the philosophy and objectives of the college.

3. To provide educational experiences such as experimental courses, work at other campuses, institutes, internships, foreign study, travel, research, seminars, work assignments, and such that cannot be adequately provided for in our current standard curriculum.

Admission To The Contract Program

Participation would be limited to students:

1. Who have clearly defined goals and objectives for the future that cannot be met to the best advantage by the prescribed standard curriculum.

2. Who possess a maturity and stability sufficient to meet this responsibility.

3. Who will submit a formal application and written proposal describing in detail their educational objectives and plans for meeting them.

Suitability for admission would be determined on the basis of:

1. Total demonstrated desire to participate in and effectively utilize the Contract Program.

2. Recommendation of professor(s) who have taught the applicant.

3. An open hearing before the Contract Program Council.

Students currently enrolled at High Point College should enter the Contract Program no earlier than their third semester and no later than their fifth semester of enrolled studies. These students must have demonstrated their suitability for participation in this type of individualized study.

Transfer students could be admitted to the program (after the Contract Program has been in operation for a minimum of one year) under the same criteria established above for currently enrolled High Point College students.

Incoming Freshmen could be admitted to the program (after the Contract Program has been in operation for a minimum of one year) under the same criteria established above for currently enrolled High Point College students with this added criterion: The submission of Advanced Placement examinations in English and in the subject area of projected concentration in the Contract Program. These Advanced Placement examinations would be evaluated by a three-member group of High Point College faculty consisting of: one permanent member of the Contract Program Council and two members from the department of the Advanced Placement subject area.

Dissolution Of The Contract

The Contract Program Council should have the authority to recommend that a student be released from the Contract Program or to release a student from the Program at his request. This release should come within the first year of the Contract tenure. That work accomplished within the Contract framework would be evaluated by the Contract Program Council and the Registrar so that the student could return to the regular curriculum without undue penalty.

Supervision And Control

The entire program would be under the supervision and control of the Contract Program Council to be composed of four faculty members — three permanent Council members and one adjunct member from the department of the participant's area of concentration. This fourth member is chosen by mutual agreement of the student and the permanent members of the Council. The Council has full jurisdiction over all aspects of the fulfillment of the Contract and serves in a continuing advisory capacity to Contract Program participants.

To be recommended for graduation, a Contract Program participant must demonstrate to the Contract Program Council that he has achieved the following objectives:

1. A skillful use of the English language which permits him to speak and write with clarity, precision, and effectiveness.

2. A reasonable proficiency in a foreign language, i.e., a reading knowledge of the language.

3. An awareness of contemporary problems.

4. A basic understanding of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences and an awareness of the inter-relationships of these areas.

5. A knowledge and understanding of information resources, i.e., the retrieval of information in a given area of study.

6. The ability to successfully undertake and complete independent study projects.

7. A background in the history and economics of American society.

8. A reasonable competence in a concentration area and in cluster, i.e., related areas.

9. A basic understanding of the Christian heritage of our nation and its value systems.

The Contract must be so structured that these objectives can be fulfilled.

As the Contract Program is individualized learning, the Contract is not written with a specific tenure. However, it is expected that the Contract will be fulfilled within ten years from its being undertaken.

When the contract has been developed jointly by the Contract Program Council and the student, it will be signed by the Council and the student, and presented to the Dean of the College for

Vice President Dalbey Speaks Of Rising College Costs

Earle G. Dalbey, Vice President for Business and Financial Affairs

Parents who are faced with meeting four or more years of college costs for their children can be rightfully concerned about the heavy financial burden this will place on them. The cost of a college education has doubled in the past ten years and from all appearances we shall be more than fortunate if it does no more than this in the next ten years.

Other than the creeping inflation that permeates college costs, as well as the general cost of living, there are other major factors which push the cost of a college education upwards.

The first of these is the new concept that going to college means going away from home. In order to accommodate this ever growing campus family, the college must provide a larger infirmary, a larger student activities center, a larger student entertainment budget, a large food service facility, more dormitories, and many incidental minor services, in support of these physical facilities. Whether the college wants to be or not, it falls into competition with other colleges in that the quality of these facilities becomes so often the major deciding factor in parents' choice of colleges. Such other conveniences as air conditioned dorms and classrooms and adequate parking are too often matters for consideration. Just maintaining and operating these facilities boost the cost of a college education at least 40%.

A second major factor is the character of our space age student. He or she reaches us with far more knowledge than we had when we entered college and presents us with a real challenge. In order to add to this wealth of knowledge, to stay abreast of current developments in our complex highly technical society, and to teach him or her how to use this knowledge, we are forced to change curriculum — the old readin', ritin', and

High Point College Installs Data Process Machines

David H. Holt, Registrar

For more than a year the Registrar with the assistance of the Business Manager, has been planning a new program for records keeping. Beginning this month, High Point College will begin using for the first time on campus IBM data process equipment. The hardware includes an 029 keypunch, a 514 reproducing punch, an 085 collator, an 082 sorter, and a 407 accounting machine. This equipment is being installed on the first floor of Roberts Hall in completely renovated facilities. These facilities include new offices for the Registrar and Dean of the College.

The first phase of the program will concentrate on registration procedures, on grade reporting and will be used by the Business Administration Department in teaching data process course. It is hoped by the Registrar that registration procedures can be greatly simplified and long lines eliminated. Instead of two or three weeks necessary for grade reporting, it is expected that grades will be mailed within 48 hours after the grading period officially ends.

A few services that will be available immediately will include: a religious preference list, post-office box number list, advisor-advise list, student body list, dormitory list, academic standing list, Deans list, parent address list, course rolls, and sticker tab labels for mailing various materials.

It is predicted that within a year the Center will provide services for the Alumni Office, by keeping all alumni records on Key-punch cards. This will include printing addresses by zip code on sticker labels for all mailing needs. Within this same period plans will be made to provide the business office with such services as printing and mailing student bills — accounts receivable, and printing of payroll checks for faculty, staff and students. It is further hoped that with quick information available the different departments of the College will use the equipment on certain types of research. After one year I predict that every division of the College will benefit from this equipment.

The Public Affairs Division of the College may benefit greatly from data process. Prospective donors for cash gifts, deferred gifts, property including real estate, stocks, etc. may be listed in minutes and addressed labels produced at the same time. Records of all gifts, anniversary dates, and other pertinent information can be recorded and used at will. The use of data processing in Development is now used by many colleges and will within the next few years be utilized at High Point.

As the rental costs of computers decrease, it is obvious that within two to three years High Point College will consider a completely computerized program. But until we are fortunate enough to enjoy the service of a computer, we will make good use of the new equipment that has just arrived.

his approval. Upon approval by the Dean of the College the Contract Program is in effect.

When the student feels that he has fulfilled the Contract, he makes an application to the Contract Program Council for evaluation for certification. Certification may be based on whatever means the Council feels appropriate to determine whether or not the terms of the particular contract have been met. Any and all methods of evaluation may be utilized by the Council. When the Council is satisfied that the terms of the Contract have been fulfilled, they will forward the Contract to the Dean of the College with a recommendation that the student be accepted for graduation.

Rising College Costs

'rithmetic are no longer enough. Teaching tools are no longer the pointer, chalk, and chalkboard. The tools of learning today are the far more sophisticated and costly by-products of our space program. They include video tape recorders, closed circuit TV, computers, language learning laboratories, and many other complex devices. To operate and maintain these equipments we must have well trained technicians and teachers.

While we mention the teacher last, he is by no means of least importance. He is subjected to a far more sophisticated and costly academic program to attain his proficiency and to maintain it. The search for well qualified teachers who can challenge the students is constant and the market highly competitive and costly. This is not an area in which economy produced anything more than the college is willing to pay. It represents one of the largest educational costs and we must be willing to meet this cost if we are to be fair to the student.

Finally, the small independent college generally receives no subsidy from State or Federal Government and most increased costs must be passed to parents.

Your college administration is much more apprehensive than parents realize over rising college costs and makes every attempt to keep expenses minimal. We know our very existence is threatened if we are forced to price ourselves out of the college market.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BULLETIN

ALUMNI ISSUE — JULY, 1970

The Annual Report Of The Alumni Is More Than A Report

The Annual Report of the accomplishments of the Alumni of High Point College are displayed in this issue of the Bulletin. Notice that in the opening sentence, the emphasis is on the "report" of the "alumni", not the Alumni Association, the Executive Committee, or the Director. Such an emphasis does not mean to indicate that all these are unimportant or that they had no bearing on the results. It merely means that there is much more to the report than what "we" have done — it is a report of what you as Alumni have done.

Found in the pages of this report is a statement of the Alumni Fund, a History of the Alumni Fund, the Centurion Club and a listing name by name of those of you who have made the report possible. Probably the most encouraging part of the report is the large number of names listed who are "encore" donors to the College. The loyalty and devotion of our alumni are beyond words to express. The chairman of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Holt McPherson commented recently that he was amazed at the depth of the love for the College as evidenced by the material support of alumni and other friends.

Other comments must be made. The planning, hard work, and accomplishments of the Executive Committee and the various Directors of the Association, beginning with Ron Wachs, followed by Duffy Paul, Dale Brown, and lately by Beverly Deal McCabe, these have each had a part in bringing this report. Honor is due to all who had a part in this report of your activities.

This year the approach will be somewhat different in that emphasis will be placed primarily in two areas: work with students on the campus and work with chapters with service to each as the aim for the year. You are a loyal group. Will you remain loyal and devoted? We believe you will help the College to maintain its present stature and make progress toward the goal of relevancy in the time in which we live. The College needs your support financially, yes, but it needs support in other ways that may be even more important. To mention only one other is to help the College find the student who ought to come to High Point College and then find ways to help the prospective student to become a student. We ask you and expect you to support the College in this way.

And again, speaking to each, person to person, we thank you for your interest, your concern, your prayers, and your support of your College.

Changes in Alumni Office Effectuated

With the resignation of Mrs. Beverly Deal McCabe as Director of Alumni Affairs, the decision was to make adjustments in the office until a successor to Mrs. McCabe could be found. Miss Louise Adams was asked to become Acting Director. Mrs. Raymond Herndon (Tommie Lou Young '54) remains as the secretary in the office and an able helper to Miss Adams.

An appeal was made to the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association and the request printed in the May issue of the Bulletin for any suggestions for the office. To date we have received no suggestions from any source. We have had applications from two alumni inquiring as to the possibility of employment. No decision has been made as to when the position will be filled. At this time the work is being ably carried on by the present staff.

Another appeal to any person who may have a suggestion for the office is hereby given. Please contact Miss Adams or Mr. Allen in the Public Affairs Office.

Lyles Kearns, 1969-70 Chairman of Loyalty Fund

The results of our efforts in the 1969-1970 Alumni Fund Campaign is found in this Bulletin. We did not meet the goal hoped for but in general the campaign was successful. The interest and energy displayed by so many loyal alumni is gratifying and appreciated by so many.

To you who contributed to the Alumni Fund this past year, we offer our "thanks" and hope you will continue your support to High Point College. May I take this opportunity to ask you to encourage fellow alumni who may not have contributed last year, to seriously consider making a response during the 1970-71 year. As you are aware even a token gift means so much to the College for the statistical response of the alumni is so important in the area of foundation grants. May 1970-1971 be the year we stand up to be counted for High Point College.

Sincerely,

LYLES KEARNS

Alumni Fund

Rising costs in private higher education have compelled colleges to face the reality that student fees alone will never meet operational expenses. It is this difference between fees and costs that must be provided by you and our other friends.

Alumni giving at High Point College has come a long way since its beginning, but there is still a long way to go. Sustained and increased commitments on the part of each alumnus are needed to help the College achieve her goal of quality Christian higher education. Each alumnus has a personal stake in the future of his College since any added prestige which the College enjoys increases the value of the Education the alumnus received here.

Following are lists of the members of the Centurion Club and of contributors by Class for the 1969-70 fiscal year which ended May 31, 1970. Alumni who have given to the College for at least two consecutive years are members of the Encore Club and are designated with an (E) after their names. The asterisk (*) after a name denotes two or more gifts between June 1, 1969, and May 31, 1970.

History of the Alumni Fund

The Alumni Fund was activated at High Point College in 1961-62. Following is a year-by-year history of the Fund:

YEAR	PERCENTAGE	DONORS	LOYALTY	TOTALS
1960-61	2.0%	110	$ 469.78	$ 570.00

1962-63	25.5%	1381	$ 8,515.89	$13,990.00
1963-64	25.0%	1508	$ 9,323.60	$15,358.00
1964-65	31.2%	1873	$13,028.16	$19,940.19
1965-66	15.3%	950	$ 7,327.60	$29,197.88
1966-67	35.8%	2232	$12,081.08	$58,498.87
1967-68	40.0%	2564	$17,597.00	$57,837.52
1968-69	37.5%	2471	$22,307.75	$49,424.48
1969-70	34.8%	2392	$22,497.72	$40,585.31

Centurion Club

The Centurion Club was established by the Alumni Association in 1964 to recognize alumni who contribute a minimum of one hundred dollars to High Point College during any one fiscal year. Non-alumni may become members by giving one hundred dollars, or more, to the Alumni Loyalty Fund.

The following 81 couples, or individuals, who compose the 1969-70 Centurion Club were responsible for $400.00 in matching gifts in addition to their personal donations of $18,114.94 to the College between June 1, 1969, and May 31, 1970.

Memorial Service By High Point Students

By Lane Kerr

Wednesday, May 6, was a warm, smell of onion grass type spring night, on the High Point College campus.

The day had been a long one. Some students were "up-tight." While many agreed with a speech made earlier in the day during which the "unconventional" student was chastised, others felt the speaker's remarks were an affront to their individual philosophy.

And final examinations begin next week; term papers were due. There was work to be done.

At the morning assembly, a simple announcement was read:

"There will be a memorial service in front of the fountain on front campus tonight honoring the four students killed at Kent State University. Those interested in attending are welcome."

By late afternoon, what had been announced as a "memorial service" had become a "demonstration" and news media were questioning those on campus as to just what exactly was going on.

And they were told. "A memorial service."

The flag by the Administration Building was at half-mast just before sundown.

The students came. Singly and together. Not marching. They wore their "Jesus" sandals, their hair long, their ponchos and wide brimmed, floppy hats, their beads. And they wore their Nettletons, their Brooks Brothers double breasted with the latest in wide ties. The professors and their wives were there. Staff members were there. The president was there.

And the press, of course.

The simplicity of some things is indescribable. So it is with High Point College's "demonstration" which never got off the ground.

What happened then?

Well, as one newsman said when questioned as to what happened at the Wednesday night "demonstration", "I wasn't at a demonstration."

"Where were you, then?"

"At one of the most beautiful religious services I've ever witnessed."

And a hard-nosed news photographer, who has been down all the roads — murders, tragedies of every sort, experiences with men like Billy Graham, coverage of racial riots, one in which he was wounded — said Thursday morning to a friend.

"That was one of the most moving experiences that has ever happened to me. It was beautiful."

What happened then?

Nothing, really.

Unless you still believe that prayer is something special.

The Reverend Roland Mullinix, chaplain of this Methodist-related college of 1,200 students, was more or less in charge. He spoke briefly at the fountain and led the prayers for the four slain students, for their families, and for the men who must bear responsibility for the tragedy.

Then, as the night began to fall, the crowd of approximately 200 walked slowly across campus to a vale nestled by the side of a busy road.

Here, students read from "The Prophet." A young boy stroked a soft guitar singing the plaintive religious-folk lyrics of "Oh, Mary." A young lad offered his original composition written after the slayings.

And then, with candles glowing in the twilight, the word came: "Go with love in your hearts. Go in peace."

And they did.

So — was there a story to tell?

High Point College... Where Does It Stand?

Wendell M. Patton
President of the College

Almost overnight we have to face the fact that colleges and universities have deluded the public into thinking that they were teaching the young to be mature and responsible citizens of a great democracy. Important concepts such as academic freedom have been twisted and warped. Freedom for students and teachers to seek, to learn, and to teach the truth has been prostituted into a weapon to promote selfish interests, proselyte strange causes, and destroy many of the values that we all hold dear. Suddenly colleges are expected to yield to every demand, especially when backed by physical force, no matter how absurd, or how irrational the demand. Indeed we are reaping the rewards of the permissive child raising of Dr. Spock and others of the late 1940's and early 50's. Even though nationally prominent and prestigious institutions have yielded without regard to their responsibility, High Point College will not. Instead, we at High Point College renew our pledge and acceptance of our responsibility to our Church, parents, faculty, and students. At the same time we intend to operate with a new sense of awareness in listening intently and with honest concern and interest toward what students are trying to say.

The time has come that any college worthy of its name must state its position and its beliefs to the public. High Point College is now trying to do this, knowing in advance that we cannot be everything to everybody. We have wrestled with basic assumptions, some still undefined, still knowing that there will be strong disagreement in each of these, but believing in the necessity of presenting our position to the public — even as it evolves.

Here is our platform . . . our beliefs

1. We believe that freedom is the most priceless possession that we have today. We also believe that there is evidence that this freedom is slowly but surely being lost. This freedom we cherish, which was won by suffering, bloodshed, and death must be, in a sense, re-earned again — which demands nothing more or less than self-discipline. This is indeed hard for vigorous youngsters to accept — to them a high price to pay and there is little evidence to indicate their willingness to accept it. However, this we believe.

2. Education by definition is a disciplined process — so is civilization. Neither can exist without the other. When campuses become uncivilized they become undisciplined and chaotic. We do not intend for this to happen on our campus and our desire is to become more disciplined and not less.

3. There must always be some authority in control. The larger the group — the greater the population, the more control is necessary. When this authority falters, then raw power moves in. Some believe that erosion of traditional authority means the beginning of higher freedom for the individual. History does not confirm this. The human mind cannot support moral chaos long — dictatorial power will invade the vacuum that is left by receding authority.

4. Every individual has a basic need and a right for some degree of structuring of his world. This is necessary for security and emotional stability. Limits must be set so that he can measure behavior, so that personal adjustments can be made, so that he can relate to the world. These limits are established for me by the Board of Trustees — they are established for the students by the faculty and myself. They are established for smaller children by parents — and they are necessary for sound emotional development in every area and all levels.

5. In spite of the national trend and recent rulings of courts, we do not yet accept the death of the concept of "in loco parentis." We are very much concerned with the rights of students, but we also believe that the parents of our students expect us to assume some responsibility as their sons and daughters achieve maturity through the educational experiences offered on our campus.

6. While across our nation we hear so much concerning the rights of students, we believe that the rights of parents have been neglected to a far greater extent. Many of our parents are struggling and sacrificing to meet increased costs of an education. These parents are vitally concerned in the welfare of their children and we believe that we have a responsibility to improve communications with these parents and to work closer with them in the development of an educational program.

7. High Point is a college and not a university. There is, and should be, a vast difference between the two. Each has something special and unique to offer its students. It is our intent to be fair, firm, consistent, and considerate, but we do not intend to provide as permissive an atmosphere as found on the campuses of many of the liberal universities of America. Instead we firmly believe we can offer far greater advantages and opportunities in being a small church-related college in the finest sense of the word.

8. High Point College is operated for our students and in the interest of our students — but not by our students. This does not for one instant mean that we are disinterested in the opinions of our students. Nor does it suggest a lack of respect for the younger generation. It is a recognition of the importance of what we are doing and the necessity of duly constituted groups, such as our Board of Trustees, administration, and faculty to carry the responsibility and to have commensurate authority. We have involved, and we intend to continue to involve, responsible students in the planning and decision-making process, but the final decisions, the final accountability must rest with the President and the Board of Trustees.

9. We believe in the necessity of establishing standards by which the institution will be run. This means standards of behavior, as well as standards of academic competence. We expect students and faculty alike to accept these standards, even though they may not be in complete agreement with them. Some may interpret this as being an infringement of personal freedom. It is possible that students who come here may give up some of the freedoms they may find on other campuses, but we feel that this is a small price to pay for the trust that we have to live up to — our stated goals and objectives.

10. We believe that students should carry more responsibility, but we also believe absolutely that responsibility and authority are inseparable. We intend to give students increased responsibility, increased authority, and a stronger voice in all areas in which they can and are willing to assume responsibility for their decisions.

What does this mean?

The thoughts that I have just shared with you are some of the assumptions and ideas that we are considering as a basis for our planning, our growth, and our future. The meaning we derive from our philosophy can be stated simply in terms of how we translate these assumptions into action. What will they actually mean on our campus?

1. It means that we will try to anticipate, encourage, give an answer, be concerned, seek advice, open lines of communication, operate for the students, operate in the best interests of students, understanding that they may not know in every instance what is best for them.

2. It means that we must give increased responsibility, greater freedom, and more authority — or a "piece of the action" to responsible students when it is deserved and they are willing and able to assume this responsibility.

3. It means that those who cannot live with freedom and responsibility, and those who would attempt to deprive others of this freedom and responsibility, would be punished. Limits will be set, students will be expected to operate within these limits. We intend to give more freedom — at the same time we must quit sheltering students from their mistakes. The two have to go hand in hand. If they have more freedom, then they must face the consequences of their actions. Educationally this is of greatest importance.

Specifics

In setting limits of conduct we will also establish basics and procedures — publicize, notify, and communicate these to faculty and students. Specifically our ideas are:

1. When in the judgment of the President a situation on the campus beyond his control develops, he may declare a state of emergency. He then assumes temporary dictatorial powers, assuming the full authority of the Board of Trustees and the faculty to bring immediate order to the campus.

2. There will be no disruptions of the academic process — schedules, classes, laboratories, meetings, etc. — no interference or disruptive activities will be allowed on the campus.

3. There will be no deprivation of any service or facility of the College to any individual entitled to those services or facilities.

4. No building or facility on the campus may be used without specific approval. It may not be occupied, seized, or held, or in any way used without permission from authorized authority.

5. There will be no amnesty for those who disregard our rules of conduct. We believe that amnesty is a vicious and dangerous thing. Violators will face the responsibility for their acts through established judiciary processes.

6. There will be no discussion or negotiation of issues during any threat, coercive or disruptive action, or power play.

7. Our students are selected and admitted to High Point College for one year at a time. They will not be re-admitted for a second year if their behavior indicates that this is the wrong environment to meet their needs, or if they fail to live up to their agreement with, and support the College.

A closing statement

This is indeed a most interesting and challenging time to be working with young people. We truly want to provide the best possible educational environment so that our students have the best opportunity to grow up into mature, responsible Christian leaders. And with the help of the Lord Jesus Christ, we will make every effort to live up to this responsibility.

President Wendell M. Patton discusses the new "Contract Program" with Dr. E. Roy Epperson, assistant Dean of the College.

An Innovation
in Curriculum

The Contract
Program

a dialogue

An innovation in curriculum is to be implemented at High Point College beginning September 1, 1970. This concept is called the Contract Program — a new approach to education that will allow selected students to assist in planning their own education program, tailored to their special needs, rather than a rigid following of established catalogue degree requirements. The following is an interview in which Dr. Wendell M. Patton, President and Dr. E. Roy Epperson, assistant Dean of the College, discussed the Contract Program.

QUESTION: Dr. Epperson — "What are the purposes of the Contract Program which would fit into those of the small liberal arts college such as ours?"

ANSWER: Dr. Patton — "The purposes are three-fold: to encourage those capable students who are willing to accept responsibility and who have developed clearly defined goals and purposes, to become involved in designing an educational and development program best designed to meet their needs.

Second, to provide the College with greater flexibility and freedom in updating its approach by combining relevance for the world today, the individual needs of a student, and high academic standards within the framework of the philosophy and objectives of the College.

Third, to provide education experiences such as experimental courses, work at other campuses, institutes, internships, foreign study, travel, research, seminars, work assignments, and such that cannot be adequately provided for in our current standard curriculum."

QUESTION: Dr. Patton — "Would our students find this Program invigorating and interesting?"

ANSWER: Dr. Epperson — "Participation would be open to students who have clearly defined goals and objectives for the future that cannot be met to the fullest extent by the prescribed standard curriculum; students who have maturity with a stability sufficient to meet the responsibility imposed by his contractual program; finally, students who submit an application and written proposal describing in detail their educational objectives and general plans for reaching them."

QUESTION: Dr. Patton — "What are some of the bases for admission to the Contract Program and how can a student enter it?"

ANSWER: Dr. Epperson — "The student who demonstrates a desire to participate in and effectively utilize the Program would be the type admitted. The Professor's recommendation will be necessary for each student allowed to enter into the Contract Program. Then, after an open hearing before the Contract Program Council the applicant's suitability would be established. When the Contract has been developed jointly by the student and the Council and signed by each, it will be presented to the Dean of the College for approval. Upon approval by the Dean of the College, the Program is in effect. The student may enter at any time before the beginning of his senior year."

QUESTION: Dr. Epperson — "You are the chief administrative officer of the College. What is your plan to administer this Program?"

ANSWER: Dr. Patton — "The Contract Program Council consists of a chairman and two other permanent members to which will be added a professor in the area of the student's concentration under the Contract Program. This fourth member will be chosen by mutual agreement between the student and the permanent members of the Council. The Council has full supervision and control over all aspects of the fulfillment of the Contract and serves in a continuing advisory capacity to all Contract Program participants."

QUESTION: Dr. Patton — "Since you have worked on many of the details of the Contract Program, what criteria or objectives have been created to assure efficiency and integrity of the Program for the student and the College? Will a student have a good education along with a diploma?"

ANSWER: Dr. Epperson — "You certainly ask difficult questions! But to answer them, allow me to be a conventional teacher at this point. The student must fulfill his Contract and prove to the Council that he has achieved the objectives which evolve from the individual's Contract structure.

1. A skillful use of the English Language which permits him to speak and write with clarity, precision, and effectiveness.
2. A reasonable proficiency in a foreign language, i.e., a reading knowledge of the language.
3. An awareness of contemporary problems.
4. A basic understanding of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences and an awareness of the inter-relationships of these areas.
5. A knowledge and understanding of information resources, i.e., the retrieval of information in a given area of study.

6. The ability to successfully undertake and complete independent study projects.
7. A background in the history and economics of American society.
8. A reasonable competence in a concentration area and in cluster, i.e., related areas.
9. A basic understanding of the Christian heritage of our nation and its value systems.

When the student feels that he has fulfilled the Contract, he makes an application to the Contract Program Council for evaluation for certification. Certification may be based on whatever means the Council feels appropriate to determine whether or not the terms of the particular contract have been met. Any and all methods of evaluation may be utilized by the Council. When the Council is satisfied that the terms of the Contract have been fulfilled, they will forward the Contract to the Dean of the College with a recommendation that the student be accepted for graduation."

QUESTION: Dr. Patton — "Suppose a student enters this Program for one semester and finds that it is not what he wants, can a student be released from the Program?"

ANSWER: Dr. Epperson — "The Contract Program Council has the authority to recommend that a student be released from the Contract Program or to release a student at any time at his request. Work accomplished within the Contract framework will be evaluated by the Contract Program Council and the Registrar so that the student could return to the regular curriculum without undue penalty."

QUESTION: Dr. Patton — "To close this interview about the Contract Program give me the advantages that you can see emanating from it."

ANSWER: Dr. Epperson — "I can't give all the advantages because we have not tried it, but I can foresee these and I'm hopeful that others will be produced as the Program progresses.

1. Operating currently with the Contract Program and as an integral part of it will be a series of seminars on contemporary issues. Current issues of the day will be the subject of indepth scrutiny broad enough to draw from several areas or disciplines.

2. It responds to the desires of students of today to be involved in their own planning.
3. It supplements motivation for greater achievement.
4. It forces student responsibility and initiative.
5. Will provide inter-departmental and inter-disciplinary work which is less feasible now.
6. Removes deadlines and pressures and allows a student to move at his own pace under a tailor-made program.
7. Gives more guidance from the faculty.
8. Greater flexibility and planning for both freshmen and transfer students.
9. Provides the College an opportunity to broaden its educational perspective beyond the confines of a catalogue course or classroom so as to include a variety of educational experiences which may be of greater value."

High Point College does not attempt to make the student fit a mould, although the traditional curriculum tends toward this concept. The quest for new goals and the emergence of new functions more relevant to the world of the 70's must awaken an eagerness, of the part of both faculty and students, to create new styles of learning better fitted to embody our purposes and incorporate those functions. The Contract Programs will help provide an experience through which every student may achieve a world view of man and help him discover value systems which will enable him to improve all Mankind.

The Contract Program is innovative but practical. It will require dedication, devotion, and discipline, but it will be thrilling!

The College's Academic Program

Comments by Dr. David W. Cole,
Academic Dean, Spring 1969

During the past few months it has been my privilege to attend, sometime with boredom but more often with an afterglow of exhilaration, regional, state, and local educational meetings all of which have dealt with the current problems of education. Some meetings have discussed with fervor and great length problems dealing with student power, student protest, and the legal positions in which colleges and universities find themselves today. These problems must be solved and will be solved. Yet these problems concern only a few students; we face a greater problem of much more far reaching significance than the possibility of the SDS gaining control of our campus. (That particular problem has perhaps been resolved by a Supreme Court decision of this week by which college and university administrations are allowed retention of authority over the process of educational endeavors.)

The immediate problem facing us today is our educational offerings, within the scope of the small, church related, liberal arts college. We are facing the problem of survival. The question is often asked, why should we survive. Indeed that question was raised day before yesterday by, of all groups, the ministers of the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church who were on our campus to look over our curriculum, goals, buildings, and Philosophy. If these people question the reason for the existence of the small Methodist Church Colleges what must the laymen think? We can answer the question by asking a question: what is America going to do without these colleges? The alternative to the High Point Colleges is more state or even federal colleges. Anyone who has studied history knows that governments become tyrannical under pressure. Perhaps tyrannical is too strong a word in America but you know my meaning. State colleges can not buck continual pressure from the outside, conceivably they might be forced to adopt certain texts, hire so many of such and such variety of teachers, subscribe to the whims of unions, etc., etc. The small college is the only possible refuge for a reasoned, unhindered, and unhampered system of higher education.

But to get back to educational offerings. What must High Point College do to prove it worthy of survival? Some questions have been raised on our campus concerning the value of our educational system. We have tended to discount these questions because they have been raised by the "radicals" who we say are just trying to stir up something. But what might our answer be if some of our really good, apathetic students suddenly, openly, and sincerely question our offerings, our methods, and our preparations. What if they suddenly demanded library and extra curricular assignments and demanded that they be made aware of the tools of learning. We had better be prepared because these questions are going to be asked and not by the radicals.

Our ultimate mission as a church related liberal arts college is a value mission.

Allow me to tell you what I think we must do. First of all we are going to have to get off the Junior College kick and have our students quickly get into upper division courses where the emphasis of learning really is. Instructors must cease being fact dispensers and we must end the practice of going over materials in colleges that the student has been exposed to for many years in the public school system. I have often heard it said at High Point College and other colleges that the students don't know basic facts so we've got to teach them. Let me ask you how many facts the student really knows after you have re-taught him. By our adherence to the teaching of facts we have lost the meaning of knowledge and our students are not able to relate knowledge to the total meaning of man's adventure. Our instruction must be relevant to the culture of today or to man's adventure of today. It is our responsibility to study our culture, to study our students, and to face the issues.

Let me ask each of you individually and as members of a particular department to look again at our course offerings. Are particular courses really necessary? Are some courses really rehashes of high school subjects? Is it really necessary for us to offer a survey in American History or should we offer a course in the Great Issues of American History? Should freshman English not be a course in Advanced Composition and Grammar as a preliminary to a study of advanced literature? Let me state that our entering students are capable of performing as students and not as sponges. We don't have an open admissions policy. The young people are ready. I would much rather see them leave because the work is too hard — real work and not busy work — than because they want to learn and can't as many of our best entering students do.

The things that I have brought to your attention today are not expensive. We can't say that lack of money would impede this system of learning. We are not asking for research. We are asking you to relate your learning, through new teaching methods, to the possibility of several lines of thought. We ask that you find ways to give our young people the opportunity to become students. We ask you to honestly face issues, to confirm your beliefs where you can, to revitalize the issues within your discipline, and to be able to challenge and argue. The issues that young people face are vital only when they are tested. They should be tested on the college campus, in the classroom or faculty office.

Our ultimate mission as a church related liberal arts college is a value mission — this we can accomplish when a state supported, research oriented, little human-contact university can not.

This request is not the last word, it is only the beginning. We must, if we remain at High Point College, do our utmost to give value to our program. The student must become the center of our educational efforts. We as faculty must find ways to make this so. It is not necessary to completely revolutionize our curriculum but it is necessary to graft on to the existing structure to face the reality of education. The job of the faculty, the duty of the faculty, is to use our proved intellectual ability innovatively.

Julius A. Stratton, chairman of the board of trustees of the Ford Foundation, speaking at the inauguration of the president of the Rockefeller University has stated the problem most succinctly:

*We have come a long way from the idea of the university as simply the custodian of the accumulated wisdom of the past, transmitting to each successive generation the best that man has thought and done - -
- - As I see it, the real crisis for (higher education) in our time — indeed for all education — is how to maintain its intellectual integrity and hold fast to the essence of its ideals while striving to interpret and express them in the context of new sciences, of new economics, of new politics — in sum, of a totally new world . . . In the end it is a matter of balance — the reconciliation of two extremes — the eternal counterpoise between learning and action.*

Let's work at this.

The College's Academic Program

One Year After

Comments by Dr. David W. Cole,
Academic Dean, Spring 1970

In the Spring of 1969 it was my privilege to comment at a meeting of the High Point College Faculty on the state of academics at our College — present and future. Within one short year the future is with us. The faculty, the academic administration, and (does this sound strange to the alumni?) students face the necessity of massive revision of both curriculum and pedagogy?

This Spring, 1970, the college-wide evaluation of curriculum has begun. The several departments have been asked to hold a series of meetings with both faculty members and majors within the department to determine, course by course, the validity of present departmental offerings. It is believed that this give and take method of determination will result in certain revisions. At the same time the Educational Policies Committee which includes faculty and student members will study the general education and core requirements now in effect with the view of possible revision.

The curriculum study described above is, quite obviously, a nuts and bolts operation which might become tedious and detailed but is none-the-less necessary before the on-going program of the 70's can be finalized.

In the thinking of quite a few persons on the campus a 4-1-4 program might well emerge from our basic study. Indeed, many of us are quite excited about the possibilities of this trend that has developed so rapidly in higher education. In conjunction with the College Coordinating Council of the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church, the four member colleges (Brevard, Greensboro, High Point and Pfeiffer) are working toward a common calendar to begin September, 1971. Basic to the cooperative approach will be a January interim semester whereby students will enroll in one course during that short semester, a course that might be one offered during the regular semesters or one that would be decided upon by individual departments as a study of unusual worth to students. For example, a study of the New York Stock Exchange conducted by resource persons in New York has been most worthwhile for Business Administration majors during the voluntary interim semester which has been in effect the past two years. By cooperative effort of the four United Methodist Colleges, one course could be offered on the High Point campus which would appeal to students of the other three colleges. We envisage an exchange of students and/or professors during the interim semester which would add to the academic enlightenment of our students.

The very nature of instruction needs review and we anticipate changes in methodology. Students in political science, sociology, physical education, psychology, and other areas will find themselves involved in practical as well as theoretical study. Students whose major emphasis is in natural science will become involved in environmental studies and projects. Students in the teacher education program will have unlimited opportunity to discover their potential long before official certification.

Our academic program of the seventies will be limited only by limits of imagination or fear of innovation. Certain of the "old ways" will necessarily disappear. Instructors must cease being dispensers of fact. The responsibility for learning must be shifted to the student. The student must accept the responsibility for obtaining facts and the professor must find himself in the role of conveying meaning, creating issues of challenge, and responding positively to maturing minds. The faculty must go so far as to admit that a freshman is capable in enrolling in a course theretofore restricted to the junior-senior plateau of learning.

The lock-step method of education, however facile and convenient, must be replaced by one which is realistic to the needs of the individual student. If we are able to accomplish this in the Seventies, we will be an exciting, viable body in the Eighties. If — but the negative I refuse to consider.

As alumni, as parents, and as friends, your thoughts are solicited in our studies and determinations. Many of you are educators who have definite ideas as to how our program can be improved. Let us know what you think; come to the campus with creative criticism. We need much more than material support from you.

One final word. Above all, our academic mission at High Point College will continue to be one with the Christian ethic at its core. We can not and will not enjoy the luxury of sponsoring learning based upon humanistic, scientific, or ideological concepts only. We must assure the fact that students of High Point College understand that learning can be taught but that wisdom comes only through experience and application of learning. Whatever wisdom is generated as a result of the educational experience at High Point will have Jesus Christ as the source of that wisdom.

Dreams
and Plans for the '70's

The Golden Decade

By W. Lawson Allen
Vice President for Public Affairs

High Point College has already dreamed and planned for the seventies. The dreams are just a little more up-to-date now than in 1963, for some of the dreams have become a reality.

This is the decade in which High Point College becomes fifty years old. In the year 1974 the College will celebrate its 50th year of operations. The Golden Anniversary of the beginning in 1924, should be the proper time to plan wisely for many of the years looking toward the century celebration in 2024.

What should happen in the first half of the decade of the seventies? First and without doubt the most important thing that we can do, is to assure the continuance of Christian ideals and standards of conduct. These ideals and standards will not just happen. They will come about through commitment to and confrontation with the living God. This is to admit that the road will be very rough and the journey will be threatening and often dangerous. This we must do in the seventies!

Second, some way must be devised to provide a Student Center which will be adequate for our students. This center will offer possible solutions to the recreation problem now on the campus. It should provide at least a partial answer to the week-end problem of no facilities for recreation-dances, etc. If we are wise, this building will have priority over all the other buildings projected in the Golden Decade. An investment here, may mean the difference between an excellent college and a mediocre one.

Third, the faculty and administration must find a means of growth and development beyond the present. This is not to say that we do not have a good faculty. But it is to admit that there are factions as well as individuals who do not understand the absolute necessity to give all of one's self possible to the task of teaching. It is well known that faculty members are underpaid, but it is also true that all the salary available cannot make poor teachers or poor administrators into good ones. Commitment and dedication alone do not buy groceries. The College must pay higher salaries. Those who are recipients of higher salaries must be worthy of the name "teacher" or "administrator."

Fourth, students must accept the responsibilities and demands attached to freedom. Much has been said by known and anonymous individuals about needed changes in outdated regulations social and otherwise. Basic and fundamental principles never change, only the social mores and customs. Granted, there are a great many things wrong with society, but the re-making or redemptive process is a slow and an individual process. Only as individuals become better men and women will our society reflect that change. Our College — all areas — must attempt in the seventies to become what we claim in our purposes, aims, and philosophy. The seventies will be the results of the seed sown in the sixties and the cultivation of the seventies. There is every reason to predict that what we now experience will be the means through which the decade will become the most meaningful if not the most revolutionary decade in the 20th Century.

The look into the seventies need not be one of pessimism but of an awareness that many of the problems, which High Point College faces, are the result of our lack of noble thoughts, careful plans, and responsible actions. It is not too late to make a better College if we are willing to really love God and one another — even the most obnoxious human. For, we do know that no matter how low we fall, how unkempt we become, or how far to the left or right we may be, God still loves us. These days provide our opportunity!

The following plan for evaluating and charting the progress of the College was suggested by Mr. Richard C. Davis, father of High Point student, Sherry Davis.

All groups composing the College family—students, faculty, administration, staff, trustees, alumni, parents, and other invited friends would be involved in evaluating and planning for the progress of the College for the immediate and the long-range future.

Each group on the campus would meet, evaluate, discuss and make five (5) prime positive suggestions for progress which would be presented to the parent group such as: fraternities to interfraternity council, kitchen workers to the manager, etc. to be considered.

A week of evaluation and planning for progress culminating November 7, 1970.

All groups making up the college family would be involved in evaluating and planning for progress. In the case of the College. (1) The administration, the faculty and all committees, the staff members—food services, book-store, dormitory counsellors, secretaries etc. would have meetings. (2) the students would meet by groups: each fraternity, each sorority, service club class, independents, dorm and day students councils, judiciary-council, legislative council to find positive suggestions for progress. (3) Likewise, the alumni would have meetings of Chapters, either before or on Saturday, and Executive Committee. (4) Trustees would meet for the day breaking into committees to bring five (5) suggestions for progress. (5) The Parents would meet in groups in the morning to make evaluation and prepare five suggestions.

The next step would be a meeting of representatives from each group which had met earlier. Each earlier group meetings would select a person to bring its report to the large committee, for instance: a person from each fraternity, each sorority, each class, each dorm council, each club, from the independents—day students, judiciary and legislative council. In the faculty a member from each committee and each department would be present. Thus all groups would have one person to bring the report to its parent group. After discussions, interactions and judgments the interest groups would prepare a list of five (5) suggestions for progress for each interest group such as SGA fraternities, sororities, dorm councils, clubs, faculty, administration, alumni, staff, trustees, parents, etc.

These would be brought to the entire assembly of all groups, students, faculty, administration, etc. to prepare a list of ten (10) things which ought to be done next-year.

This would necessitate meetings for trustees, alumni other than chapters or classes on the morning of November 7. These meetings would probably run as follows: small committees at 10:00 a.m., second and larger committees at 1:30 p.m., and the general meeting at 3:30 p.m. The students and faculty would meet during the week prior to Saturday, November 7.

Friends of the College such as Fellows, Corporate Partners, and members of the Development Council carefully screened and duly invited would meet at 10:00 a.m. separately, at 1:30 p.m. as a whole, and 3:30 p.m. with the entire assembly.

campus news

Go with love in your hearts. Go in Peace

Wednesday, May 6, was a warm, smell-of-onion-grass spring night, on the High Point College campus. The day had been a long one. Some students were "up-tight." While many agreed with a speech made earlier in the day during which the "unconventional" student was chastised, others felt the speaker's remarks were an affront to their individual philosophy.

And final examinations begin next week; term papers are due now. There's work to be done.

At the morning assembly, a simple announcement was read:

"There will be a memorial service in front of the fountain on front campus tonight honoring the four students killed at Kent State University. Those interested in attending are welcome."

By late afternoon, what had been announced as a "memorial service" had become a "demonstration" and news media were questioning those on campus as to just what exactly was going on.

And they were told. A memorial service.

The flag by the Administration Building was at half-mast just before sundown. The students came. Singly and together. Not marching. They wore their "Jesus" sandals, their hair long, their ponchos and wide brimmed, floppy hats, their beads. And they wore their Nettletons, their Brooks Brothers double breasteds with the latest in wide ties. The professors and their wives were there. Staff members were there. The president was there.

And the press, of course.

The simplicity of some things is indescribable. So it is with High Point Colleges' "demonstration" which never got off the ground.

What happened then?

Well, as one newsman said when questioned as to what happened at the Wednesday night "demonstration", "I wasn't at a demonstration."

"Where were you, then?"

"At one of the most beautiful religious services I've ever witnessed."

And a hard-nosed news photographer, who has been down all the roads — murders, tragedies of every sort, experiences with men like Billy Graham, coverage of racial riots, one in which he was wounded — said Thursday morning to a friend:

"That was one of the most moving experiences that's ever happened to me. It was beautiful."

What happened then? Nothing, really. Unless you still believe that prayer is something special.

The Reverend Roland Mullinix, chaplain of this Methodist-related college of 1,200 students, was more or less in charge. He spoke briefly at the fountain and led the prayers for the four slain students, for their families, and for the men who must bear responsibility for the tragedy.

Then, as the night began to fall, the crowd of approximately 200 walked slowly across campus to a vale nestled by the side of a busy road.

Here, students read from "The Prophet." A young boy softly stroked a guitar singing the plaintive religious folk lyrics of "Oh, Mary." A young man offered his original composition written after the slayings:

*Blood is bright red and warm
Then, dark and sticky
Finally dried.
Fire is bright red and hot
Then black and intense
Lastly cold
Blood stains.
Fire burns.
And no one wins
if life is lost.*

And then, with candles glowing in the twilight the word came: "Go with love in your hearts. Go in peace."

And they did.

Architect's Drawing of New Student Center

New Student Center to be Built

High Point College now has a small student center with 8,000 square feet of space. The student store, snack bar and post office occupy the ground floor. The first floor has a small kitchen, a recreation area, rest rooms and a small lounge. The second floor contains a small meeting room and three offices used by student personnel. With an enrollment of 1,150, congestion is the usual state with only limited space for student social and recreational activities.

Harrison Hall, a converted gymnasium, houses the food services and student government offices. It contains the kitchen and serving lines, seating space for 300 in the dining room, a small private dining room which seats a maximum of 24, and rest rooms all on one floor. The total space is less than 10,000 square feet. Dances sometimes are held in the cafeteria, or if the attendance is limited, in the recreation room of the student center.

The proposed student center will be joined by an entrance-breezeway to the present student center thereby utilizing the space of the present building. The total space in the proposed student center will be almost triple the available space in the present structures. It will provide: food service facilities (kitchen, serving area, and dining space), student store, snack bar, bookstore, post office, recreation areas, lounges, private dining rooms, day student lockers, student offices, meeting rooms, rest rooms, and ample storage for these services.

Student morale can be greatly improved and student unrest may be forestalled by the provision of social and recreational activities which are not now possible on the campus. The trustees, administrators, faculty, and students place the student center as the greatest physical need of the College. The second phase of the Golden Decade Development Program has as its first objective the Student Center. The Board of Trustees has placed this building at the top of the list.

Good news! A Federal loan has been obtained for its construction and plans are being readied for taking bids.

College Installs Data Process Machines

For more than a year the Registrar with the assistance of the Business Manager, has been planning a new program for records keeping. Beginning this month, High Point College will begin using for the first time on campus IBM data process equipment. The hardware includes an 029 key-punch, a 514 reproducing punch, an 085 collator, an 082 sorter, and a 407 accounting machine. This equipment is being installed on the first floor of Roberts Hall in completely renovated facilities. These facilities include new offices for the Registrar and Dean of the College.

The first phase of the program will concentrate on registration procedures, on grade reporting and will be used by the Business Administration Department in teaching data process course. It is hoped by the Registrar that registration procedures can be greatly simplified and long lines eliminated. Instead of two or three weeks necessary for grade reporting, it is expected that grades will be mailed within 48 hours after the grading period officially ends.

A few services that will be available immediately will include: a religious preference list, post-office box number list, advisor-advisee list, student body list, dormitory list, academic standing list, Deans list, parent address list, course rolls, and sticker tab labels for mailing various materials.

It is predicted that within a year the Center will provide services for the Alumni Office, by keeping all alumni records on Key-punch cards. This will include printing addresses by zip code on sticker labels for all mailing needs. Within this same period plans will be made to provide the business office with such services as printing and mailing student bills—accounts receivable, and printing of payroll checks for faculty, staff and students. It is further hoped that with quick information available the different departments of the College will use the equipment on certain types of research. After one year I predict that every division of the College will benefit from this equipment.

The Public Affairs Division of the College may benefit greatly from data process. Prospective donors for cash gifts, deferred gifts, property including real estate, stocks, etc. may be listed in minutes and addressed labels produced at the same time. Records of all gifts, anniversary dates, and other pertinent information can be recorded and used at will. The use of data processing in Development is now used by many colleges and will within the next few years be utilized at High Point.

As the rental costs of computers decrease, it is obvious that within two to three years High Point College will consider a completely computerized program. But until we are fortunate enough to enjoy this service of a computer, we will make good use of the new equipment that has just arrived.

Two Professors Travel Overseas

Dr. Pope

Dr. Gratiot

Dr. Louis B. Pope, director of guidance and associate professor of psychology at High Point College departed July 13 on a National Education Association tour of Europe.

Countries that Dr. Pope will be visiting are Holland, Belgium, Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, England, and Austria.

A native of Kernersville, Dr. Pope received his Bachelor of Arts degree from High Point College and his master's and doctorate of philosophy degrees from UNC-Chapel Hill.

In addition to teaching and counseling on the high school level, Dr. Pope has served as director of Presbyterian Guidance Center and Professor at Presbyterian College in Clinton, S. C., associate professor of psychology and education at St. Andrews Presbyterian College in Laurinburg, N. C., and director of the College Adjustment Program at High Point College during the summers of 1963-66.

Offices held in various organizations that Dr. Pope has served are president of Guidance Services of the Northwestern District of the NCEA, vice-president of both the High Point College Chapter of the Higher Education Division and the Forsyth County Unit of NCEA, secretary of the North Carolina Personnel and Guidance Association, and vice-president of the Higher Education Division of the North Central District.

He also is a member of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association, North Carolina Mental Health Association, and the Southern College Personnel Association, and has a life membership in the National Education Association.

Articles written by Dr. Pope have been published periodically in the North Carolina and South Carolina education magazines and he also has had one article published in the North Carolina Christian Advocate.

Dr. Pope is using his sabbatical grant for the National Education tour and returned August 13.

Dr. Paul Gratiot, head of the History Department at High Point College is taking his sabbatical leave for an American Express tour of Europe, which relates to his class teaching. He, along with 15-30 laymen tourists will join a Russian guide in Moscow and will be escorted through Berlin. He will also tour Leningrad in Russia.

Other countries and their capital's that Dr. Gratiot will visit in the Soviet Union are Warsaw, Poland; Bucharest, Rumania; Budapest, Hungary; Vienna, Austria; Prague, Czechoslovakia; and Berlin, Germany.

"This tour will not only give me the best picture of Russia, but also the satellites," said Dr. Gratiot. "Teaching Russian history, it will also enable me to instruct the class in a more effective way," he added.

Born in Brooklyn, New York and reared in Louisville, Kentucky, Dr. Gratiot received his bachelor of laws and bachelor of arts degrees from the University of Louisville, and his master of arts and doctorate of philosophy degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1942 he enlisted in the army and was Quartermaster O.C.S. at Fort Lee before leaving for duty in Europe in 1944. Following the war, he finished work on his doctorate and from 1951-1956 he taught history on the high school level. In 1962 Dr. Gratiot came to High Point College from Limestone College in Gaffney, S. C.

Dr. Gratiot is a member of the American Historical Association and the High Point Kiwanis Club. He returned August 1.

A Close Look at Rising College Costs

By Earle G. Dalbey, Vice President
for Business and Financial Affairs

Parents who are faced with meeting four or more years of college costs for their children can be rightfully concerned about the heavy financial burden this will place on them. The cost of a college education has doubled in the past ten years and from all appearances we shall be more than fortunate if it does no more than this in the next ten years.

Other than the creeping inflation that permeates college costs, as well as the general cost of living, there are other major factors which push the cost of a college education upwards.

The first of these is the new concept that going to college means going away from home. In order to accommodate this ever growing campus family, the college must provide a larger infirmary, a larger student activities center, a larger student entertainment budget, a larger food service facility, more dormitories, and many incidental minor services, in support of these physical facilities. Whether the college wants to be or not, it falls into competition with other colleges in that the quality of these facilities becomes so often the major deciding factor in parents' choice of colleges. Such other conveniences as air conditioned dorms and classrooms and adequate parking are too often matters for consideration. Just maintaining and operating these facilities boost the cost of a college education at least 40%.

A second major factor is the character of our space age student. He or she reaches us with far more knowledge than we had when we entered college and presents us with a real challenge. In order to add to this wealth of knowledge, to stay abreast of current developments in our complex highly technical society, and to teach him or her how to use this knowledge, we are forced to change curriculum — the old readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic are no longer enough. Teaching tools are no longer the pointer, chalk, and chalkboard. The tools of learning today are the far more sophisticated and costly by-products of our space program. They include video tape recorders, closed circuit TV, computers, language learning laboratories, and many other complex devices. To operate and maintain these equipments we must have well trained technicians and teachers.

While we mention the teacher last, he is by no means of least importance. He is subjected to a far more sophisticated and costly academic program to attain his proficiency and to maintain it. The search for well qualified teachers who can challenge the students is constant and the market highly competitive and costly. This is not an area in which economy produced anything more than the college is willing to pay. It represents one of the largest educational costs and we must be willing to meet this cost if we are to be fair to the student.

Finally, the small independent college generally receives no subsidy from State or Federal Government and most increased costs must be passed to parents.

Your college administration is much more apprehensive than parents realize over rising college costs and makes every attempt to keep expenses minimal. We know our very existence is threatened if we are forced to drive ourselves out of the college market.

Athletically High Point Rides High

By Charles Hartman,
Director of Athletics

Development of the body as well as the mind is one of the objectives of High Point College. The highly skilled person is given the opportunity to perform in six different sports which include basketball, baseball, track, cross country, tennis, and golf. Champions are developed as was evidenced in 1969-70 when three out of the six teams were crowned champions. The "Purple Panthers" compete in the Carolinas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, a league composed of nine teams.

High Point College Basketball is perennially strong and in 1970-71 they expect to bounce back and become contenders for the crown which they have worn often. After experiencing the first losing season (13-17) in fifteen years, the "Panthers" appear ready to contend again.

After starting three or four freshmen in the majority of games last year, it appears that the experience gained and a good recruiting year will put the basketball program back near the top.

Baseball appears to have reached the pinnacle of success capturing conference championships in 1965, 1967, 1969 and 1970. The 1971 outlook is again very rosy as only one member of last year's champions is missing. Last year's team received votes in the national polls and the 1971 edition has the prospect of being the best in the country and certainly will be ranked in next years polls. Last year's edition established the national N.A.I.A. record for home runs in a single season with 46. They posted a very fine 30-9 record.

Track has also been reaping its rewards as they were also the Carolinas Conference champions and not a single senior on the team. The 1971 season should be the best for the cinder-men. Coach Davidson also reports that several outstanding prospects have decided to attend High Point to bolster an already strong aggregation.

The Cross Country team captured its second straight championship and lost no one via graduation. It appears that another trip to the National's is already on Coach Davidson's calendar.

Records are being broken regularly and High Point College is keeping pace as they recorded many such feats this past season. Next year should be great!

The tennis outlook is the brightest in the last 10 years as no one graduated from the 3rd best team in the loop. It might just be that our first championship in 13 years may be forthcoming. Two of our players qualified for the National Tournament and chances are that the team may be ready to make that nice trip to Kansas City next year.

The golf program is at its lowest ebb and some good recruiting is needed in order to become top-notch again.

Overall in 1969-70 High Point College had three champions and only four athletes will be missing from the entire athletic program. So, 1970-71 looks as if it will be a banner year with championships in three or four sports very likely. So the word out is "Beware of the Panthers."

Annual Report of the Division of Public Affairs

By W. Lawson Allen,
Vice President for Public Affairs

The Division of Public Affairs which is made up of Public Relations, Information Services, Alumni Affairs, Fund Raising, Development and Endowment, and the Records and Mailing Services has had a busy year. The results of some of the activities are herein statistically set forth, while many others such as conferences, committee meetings, and the various efforts to achieve the goals set for the department can not be recorded in a set of objective statistics.

Development and Endowment

The Golden Decade Development Program grew out of the 10-year long-range plan of the College which was developed in 1962, accepted by the Board of Trustees in 1963, and implemented in the first phase of the program in 1965. The long-range plans suggested that to meet the minimum needs of the College that physical facilities would require a minimum of $3,200,000 by the close of 1974. In addition, another $6,800,000 increase in endowment principal or income equal to what that amount would produce, would be necessary to keep student fees competitive.

The entire ten-year period from 1964-74 was planned with at least three steps or phases. The objectives of this Golden Decade were set forth in the brochure at the beginning of the first phase in 1965.

Science Building . . .	$968,652
Religious Center . . .	300,000
Student Center	600,000
Swimming Pool	60,000
Administration
Building	150,000
Infirmary	15,000
Women's
Dormitory	300,000
Men's Dormitory . . .	300,000
Classroom

Library Addition . . .	300,000
Renovation of
Old Buildings . . .	50,000
Additional
Property	85,000
Capital Requirements for Physical
Facilities	$3,278,652
Capital Requirements for Endowment	$6,800,000
or its equivalent in income.

First Phase

The following was accomplished in the first phase. 1. The Horace S. Harworth Hall of Science. 2. The Infirmary. 3. The New Dormitory. 4. Renovation of Cooke Hall for classrooms. 5. Bathrooms in McCulloch Hall rebuilt. 6. Additional property secured across Montlieu Avenue. 7. Funds set aside for Chapel. 8. Funds earmarked for Swimming Pool. 9. In addition to these physical facilities, other tangible results are: (1) A trust fund of $50,000 was set up. (2) Another trust was set up to endow a Chair of Economics. (3) The Sears Complex was built and funded. (4) Eastgate Shopping Center has been built and leased. (5) A gift annuity was received by the College. All these funds have been or will be used to increase the endowment of the College. When the loans on Sears and Eastgate are paid the income will be equivalent to a major portion of the $6,800,000 goal for endowment.

Pledges and gifts to Phase I of the Golden Decade Program are as follows:

Total Pledged	$972,093.69
Total Cash Received	$669,376.48
Other than Cash	$218,137.10

Amount still due, after cancellation of pledges and transfer of to Second Phase — $84,580.11 or 8.7%.

While the First Phase may not have accomplished all that was hoped, it was a good beginning. The by-product of long-range planning and hard work are indeed encouraging. What was begun in 1962 and 1965 will continue to produce results for years to come.

Second Phase

The Second Phase of Golden Decade began in September, 1968 and solicitation continued through December 31, 1969. With a few exceptions of individuals, corporations and foundations the Second Phase is active only in collection of pledges.

The results as of May 31, 1970 is as follows:

Total Pledged	$1,127,387.57
Total Cash Received	$299,173.95
Other than Cash	$473,954.25

It is hoped that the following can be added during the Second Phase:

1. The new Campus Center.
2. The Chapel and Religion Building.
3. Property on Montlieu Avenue
4. An addition to Wrenn Memorial Library.
5. A Swimming Pool.
6. Renovation of older buildings (McCulloch, Women's and Roberts Halls.)

If these facilities can become a reality by 1973, the next phase will be in the realm of the possible.

Third Phase

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees October 8, 1969, recommendations concerning the interim period between the first and second phase were presented along with others concerning the completion of the Golden Decade by September, 1974. Among these were the following:

1. Fix the date of the fall of 1973 as the beginning of the Third Phase effort and make announcements early in 1970 of this schedule.
2. Appoint a committee of Trustees, Faculty, Administration, Alumni, and other friends to work out plans and calendar for the Third Phase.
3. Specify the year 1974 as the Golden Anniversary celebration with appointment of committee(s) to plan for the event.
4. Assign members of the Board of Trustees to special committees to actively seek funds for the College.
5. Provide training for at least one staff member in all aspects of deferred giving.

The Third Phase of the Golden Decade will be concerned primarily with funds for another dormitory, the renovation of existing buildings, and an all-out effort to reach the $10 million goal for endowment.

The above steps must be taken, if we are to succeed in reaching goals set for the Golden Decade. They first were suggested in the 1969 report and then presented as recommendations to the Board of Trustees in October, 1969. I feel very definitely that all goals can be achieved, but it will take more concern and more efforts on the part of all our people.

Gifts for 1969-1970

The year 1969-1970 was a good year for High Point College. Many gave substantially for the first time. Those who have been faithful through the years continued to share with the College their material means as well as loyal concern for what the College is attempting to do.

Other Developments

1. A snack shop was opened in the Spring of 1970.
2. The gift of real estate by Mr. and Mrs. Pat Brown which will provide a home for the President and provide land for expansion of housing or whatever the Trustees decide is the best use of the property.
3. The ground floor of Roberts Hall was renovated and reconditioned providing offices and better classrooms for the Education and Psychology Departments.

4. The gift of real estate by Mr. and Mrs. Garland McPherson increased the value of the College by at least $50 thousand.

Parents

1. Parents' Day — was held on November 1, 1969 with more than 450 parents present for the day. Those present were pleased with the progress which their sons and daughters were making at the College. Constructive suggestions from many parents during the day and by letters will help improve future Parents' Days.
2. Parents Associates elected officers and other board members to serve for 1969-70.

Holmes Memorial Scholarship

Given by Mrs. Bessie Holmes Robins, Ralph W. Holmes, George W. Holmes, Jr., of Graham, North Carolina and Joseph W. Holmes of Burlington in memory of their father and mother.

The Reverend Mr. Holmes was a teacher, a minister in the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina with pastorates in Halifax, Edgecombe, Vance, Granville and Alamance Counties. He was President of the North Carolina Conference in 1915-1916, President of Yadkin College, and one of the founders of High Point College serving on the Board of Trustees.

The donors suggest that the income be used as a scholarship to be awarded to a ministerial or Christian education major from Alamance County. If no one qualifies, the award would be given at the discretion of the College.

A Report on Alumni Activities

By Mrs. Beverly Deal McCabe,
Director

The following is the report on Alumni Office activities covering the period from June 1, 1969, through May 31, 1970:

1. Campus Activities

- a. Homecoming: Homecoming 1970 was held on Saturday, February 7, 1970. Registration was held in the Student Center from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. where coffee and doughnuts were served. Lunch was served the alumni in Harrison Hall. The Executive Committee met at 12:30 p.m. in the private dining room of Harrison Hall. Faculty and alumni were entertained with a reception from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. by President and Mrs. Patton in their home at 821 West College Drive. The day was concluded with the Panthers defeating Appalachian. Approximately 600 were in attendance for the day's activities.
- b. Senior Investiture: Dr. Max P. Rogers, '38, chief surgeon of the Southern Railway, returned to campus May 6, 1970, to be guest speaker for the annual Senior Investiture Assembly.
- c. Alumni-Senior Dinner: Graduating seniors were honored at the annual Alumni-Senior Dinner held May 6, 1970. Mr. Jim Beatty, former Olympic star and representative to the North Carolina General Assembly, spoke following dinner concerning character growth through athletics. "Alumnus of the Year" award was presented to Mr. A. R. Bookout, Jr., '39, by last year's recipient, Dr. Edwin L. Auman. New officers for the Alumni Executive Committee were presented.

2. Off-Campus Activities

- a. Chapters: Nine of ten chapters held meetings during the year with one chapter holding two meetings. The Greensboro Chapter held a meeting in November with the program being a panel discussion among administrators, faculty, students, and alumni. A representative of the College spoke at each of the other meetings. The Alumni Director and members of the Executive Committee attended each of these meetings.

- b. Class Reunions: The Classes of 1930, 1935, 1940, 1945, 1950, 1955, 1960, 1965, and 1969 observed reunions at the 1970 Homecoming. All the reunions except the Class of 1969 were held in the homes of local alumni. The 1969 reunion was held in the lobby of the Coed Dorm. These reunions are a popular phase of Homecoming. Class reviews were mailed to members of Classes of '60, '65, and '69.

3. Bulletin: The Alumni Issue of the "Bulletin" has continued under the same masthead since October, 1962, being issued on alternate months with the "Honor Roll" replacing the July issue. The Executive Committee would like to see a magazine style publication issued in the not too distant future.

4. Permanent Placement Records: The Alumni Office distributed recommendation forms for each of the 1970 graduates to the professors. The Alumni Office maintains all permanent placement records on our graduates and responds to requests by employers for information on our alumni.

5. Executive Committee: The Executive Committee of the High Point College Alumni Association met four times during the 1969-70 fiscal year. An ad hoc committee was appointed at the February meeting by the President of the Alumni Association in order to examine the current grievances on the campus and to attempt to provide effective liaison between the students and college authorities. At the April meeting the ad hoc committee presented a well-studied report of recommendations resulting from many interviews of students and much time spent on campus in committee session.

6. Alumni Giving: The following indicates our progress in the sphere of alumni giving:

YEAR	PERCENT	TOTAL AMOUNT	LOYALTY (unrestricted)
1960-61	2.0%	$ 570.00	$ 469.78
1961-62	18.0%	5,770.00	5,175.35
1962-63	25.5%	13,990.00	8,515.89
1963-64	25.0%	15,358.00	9,323.60
1964-65	31.2%	19,940.19	13,028.16
1965-66	15.3%	29,197.88	7,327.60
1966-67	35.8%	58,498.87	12,081.08
1967-68	40.0%	57,837.52	17,597.00
1968-69	37.5%	49,424.48	22,307.75
1969-70	34.8%	40,585.31	22,497.72

In evaluating giving per class, the Class of 1927 had the highest percentage with 12 of 13 members or 92.3% making a gift to the College. The Class of 1969 had 100% participation due to the class gift made annually by the senior class. This is credited to their first year of alumni status. There were 6872 alumni on record the fiscal year 1969-70, of which 2392, or 34.8%, gave donations amounting to $40,585.31. The most effective type of solicitation was personal solicitation, incorporating telephone, personal visit, and class agent appeals. Matching gifts from twenty-one (21) corporations amounted to $1,160.36.

7. Comments: The decline in total giving possibly is due in part to the inflationary trend of the economy. Another factor which may have entered into the picture was the intensity of college demonstrations even though High Point College escaped trouble of the magnitude which prevailed on other campuses.

Every man seeks, in some way, to see that the material results of his life's accomplishments will not be lost. There is no better method to accomplish his desire . . . to memorialize such an interest in the future . . . than to make a worthy and worthwhile contribution to the cause of higher education.

You will have the present joy of knowing that what you share will be used — for untold generations — in some life ambition of yours. Perhaps, you are interested in some special areas of education. Or you may be in-

The Importance of Scholarships

It was in the depth of the depression of the 1930's. A man who once was a millionaire, had been wiped out in the burst of the boom and the banking crisis, stood on the campus of one of North Carolina's church-related colleges and looked at the buildings that his gifts had provided. He not only was penniless, but had lost his palatial home. As he looked at the scene, the faculty and students busily engaged in learning activities, he was heard to remark, "I wish I had given ten times as much when I had it, for all that I have left is what I have given away, what I have invested here."

Others like this man could have said, "I have no funds in the bank, no property which I can call mine, but I do have a solid investment in the lives of young people who have been helped by the scholarship program, I have sponsored." Not physical facilities which may be enjoyed by students and viewed by the donor, but an intangible and even more secure deposit is made in lives of men and women who have been given the opportunity. Otherwise, imagination and brain would have and will be unproductive.

The greatest single need now and for the future at High Point College is may be areas where you want to help most. Or you may prefer to endow a chair of learning as some have already done. You can make the future secure for someone who may yet be unborn.

The opportunities are manifold. So before you make up your mind, we want you to visit our campus. We invite you to talk with our faculty members, our administrators, and our students. We invite you to feel the excitement with them in opportunities, that if entered into, will continue to produce abundant and rich fruit for years to come.

not endowment, nor yet brick and mortar, but funds which can be used to help worthy youngsters to enroll or remain in school. If any person wishes to become immortal this is the method by which he can reach immortality. For as long as students' needs are met and the College exists, a donor's dollars will go on making permanent and lasting the gifts to scholarship and achievement in young lives.

Greatness is not all that which can be seen or experienced by another of the senses, but it is a matter of the mind, the soul, the spirit. These will last for they are immortal.

BULLETIN

October, 1970

High Point, North Carolina

Parents' Day Plus — November 7, 1970

The eighth annual Parents' Day will be held at the College on Saturday, November 7. The activities for the day will begin at 8:00 a.m. with registration in the foyer of the Haworth Hall of Science.

Parents' Day this year will be the culmination of a week of activities involving students, faculty, administration and staff. The week will be one of evaluation of the entire spectrum of college activities as studied from the vantage point of each group on the campus.

The plan is to have every identifiable group evaluate any facet of college life it wishes and then make recommendations as to the remedy for any deficiencies uncovered. The results of such an analysis should help in making plans for progress. The larger divisions include students, parents, faculty, administration staff, and alumni.

Faculty, students, and administration-staff groups will meet during the week of November

2-7 to make evaluations and suggest plans for progress. Then on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock each division will meet as an Ad Hoc Committee of the whole to consider the report to be presented at the meeting of all groups at 3:30 in the afternoon.

Parents and alumni, since they will not meet during the days prior to Saturday, will assemble in groups at 10:30 for an hour of study and evaluation. Then at 1:30, a business session will be held to elect officers of Parents Associates and to prepare five suggestions for consideration at the Mass Meeting at 3:30 in the auditorium.

Those who have planned this program are not in any way interested in having Parents' Day or promoting meetings prior to that day just to have a few people engage in "busy work." It is hoped that this week ending on Parents' Day will be the means of bringing the best thinking and planning of every person to the issues which need to be isolated and dealt with in order to become a better college.

Guy Becomes Dean Of Students

Dr. Wendell M. Patton, High Point College president has announced the appointment of Bill Guy as Dean of Students. Guy was recommended as one whose educational background and experience with youth qualified him for the position.

A native of Parkton, North Carolina, Guy is a graduate of Red Springs High School. He received his bachelor of science degree in physical education from High Point College where he participated in various student activities. He received his master of education in physical education from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. He has attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

For the past four years Guy has served as teacher and basketball coach at Allen Jay High School. Prior to this assignment, he was teacher and basketball coach at Ledford High School.

Alley Assumes Duties In News Bureau

Ray S. Alley of 2009 Maywood Street, Greensboro, has been appointed to the administrative staff of High Point College.

President Patton, announced that Alley would be assigned to the Office of Public Affairs as Director of Information Services and Sports Publicity Director.

A native of Spartanburg, South Carolina, Alley is a graduate of High Point College where he received his bachelor of arts degree in history and political science.

Alley has served as sports editor for the Thomasville Times and the Shelby Daily Star, and as sports writer for the Greensboro Daily News. He also has served as a free lance writer for a number of sports publications and other newspapers.

President Patton Speaks At Year's Beginning

Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Jr., president of High Point College offered a challenge and words of encouragement to the student body Wednesday in the first student body assembly of the 1970-1971 school year.

Underlining the changing times, Dr. Patton encouraged the students to consider and count the cost of everything we do, be aware of the price and strive to pay that price if the goal is worthwhile.

"This is a time for re-evaluation," said Patton. "A good time for taking a close and careful look at ourselves, our lives, our goals. Scrutinizing our value systems and standards, while they are in the process of change and while we are still pliant enough to change. Deciding what we ought to be, for that is what we are now becoming."

"We are told that the Kingdom of Heaven is found only by spiritual re-birth — perhaps it is equally true that our world can be re-born only by the rediscovery of the spirit of youth."

"The belief that the impossible is something that takes only a little longer, and that we indeed build a better college and a better world. This is, I hope, the spirit of High Point College and its students."

Dr. Patton stressed that colleges, or society itself, could never live long under mob rule. That easing of standards would not strengthen the system, educational or otherwise, but in fact create a bogus system, worth very little.

"The people will not put up with no education in jungle cities forever," continued, Patton, stressing the need for reason and order. "They will not tolerate mindless rebellion that wants to burn everything now with the hope that out of the rubble and chaos a superior society will evolve.

"Either we are going to cure our tremendous problems by democratic processes that have worked for us, or we will have to resort to undemocratic methods."

"The freedoms which are so precious to us, the freedoms which we enjoy are not free, actually. They are the most expensive that exist. Freedom essentially means self-control and self-discipline, respect for the rights of others, and the freedom to learn, the freedom to teach, the freedom of knowledge, the freedom of speech, the freedom of the Press, the freedom of worship, all means responsibility and hard work, and willingness to protect the rights of others."

"Freedom is not natural with us — it isn't our second nature. It is actually artificial. It has been carefully developed and slowly nurtured over the ages, but it can be lost in a moment, if we don't count the cost."

In closing Dr. Patton offered four challenges to the student body, encouraging them to assume the power that is available to them on the High Point College campus.

Dr. Patton challenged the students to become more involved in Student Government. To offer themselves for election, vote, and support their elected leaders.

He stressed a need for the students to assume responsible control of their monies, and have a strong voice in the discipline of students and the maintenance of rules and regulations through a strong judicial system.

Finally, Dr. Patton stressed a need for a strong, honest, courageous, and objective college newspaper, thus giving the student body an outlet for their feelings, desires, and interest.

"You don't need to fight for power," Dr. Patton closed, "you have more now than you dreamed of — more than you are using. The administration does not want to take it away. We want for you, but the big danger we are facing now is that you may throw it away. It is certainly in jeopardy.

"So again, may I say, count the cost and act accordingly."

A Memorial — What It Is And What It Does

A memorial is that which calls attention to something important, an event or commitment; to someone who has achieved greatness, goodness; who has made a contribution to others in some special way.

Much could be written about the memorials that look to the PAST. Any cemetery or mausoleum does that. Memorial stones, placques, flowers, statues, buildings, trusts, foundations also speak of the past. Mothers' Day is but one way to memorialize our mothers who have gone. Birthdays are but another means of remembering the past.

But a memorial looks to the PRESENT also. We live in the present. To remind you that we face perilous times is trite. Many of our national memorials which dot the landscape on myriads of battlefields unfortunately speak only of war. But in reality memorials are for the present, for there would be no need for them unless someone lives to see and feel, hear and remember. There is another facet to this present as memorials go — today must be used so that others in the unseen years of the future may come to know that we here today lived and wrought to make the world a better place. Today must be used wisely so that those who come after us may know of our faithfulness. In homes, schools, churches, in service, in stewardship, in living — the memorials of the past must remind us that our greatest responsibility is to leave a heritage of influence and goodness to bless all those future ones. The present is all we have to live, lives worthy of memorializing.

A memorial looks toward the FUTURE. Jesus said of one who demonstrated great love that "Wherever this gospel shall be preached . . . be told for a memorial for her." The great memorials of the world have been created to construct a better future for others. Dreams must be of greater accomplishments. Plans must be for greater undertakings, for without plans our dreams pass with the night.

The finest memorials are not the Taj Mahal, the Washington Monument, Lincoln's Tomb, or some other building that bears a name. The finest memorials are those built into the lives of people. Parents who have lived so that their children have achieved wholeness and integrity of life. Pastors whose sermons have coincided with their lives; countless individuals who have been the means of inspiring and thereby enabling others to do by faith the impossible; teachers who not only instruct but inspire to beauty, excellence and duty; friends whose nobility and fidelity have meant the difference between the jail bird and the integrated life of service for after all "a man's finest monument must be a man."

We look to the past, but if we lived there, we are merely has-beens untouched by the needs of those around us — self-centered in our living.

We live in the present, but if we live only for the present, we become materialistic, and rarely see the stars.

We hope for tomorrow but if we live only for tomorrow, we miss that which will make tomorrow worth living. Without our dreams, our plans, and our work, we will not meet the need of tomorrow.

What is a memorial? You are! And you may leave one so that untold generations will ask about you and what you have done.

An inscription in St. Paul's Cathedral in London concerning the architect Sir Christopher Wren, are these words, "If you want to see the man's monument, look around."

A memorial that lasts is for the past, for the present, and for the future, and all join to complete the circle of time, and eternity.

BULLETIN

December, 1970

High Point, North Carolina

The Star . . .

*Once again the Christmas season comes.
The real meaning is not expressed in parades,
Tinsel, and decorated trees, for these are soon gone.
Christmas is truly of the heart . . .
A strange and mysterious spell
Which touches the best and Reaches the depths of children, youth and age alike.
It gives hope to the lonely the Poor and the depressed.
A brief pause in the midst
Of the year's chores for a Moment of reverence and worship,
A little respite from the cares, the Burdens, the hate . . .
Brought each year,
Not by parades, tinsel, and trees but Because of a Star and
The Birth it announced.*

Prayer For Peace

*Lord, make me an instrument of Thy peace.
Where there is hatred, let me sow love;
Where there is injury, pardon;
Where there is doubt, faith;
Where there is despair, hope;
Where there is darkness, light,
Where there is sadness, joy.
O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled, as to console;
To be understood, as to understand;
To be loved, as to love;
For it is in giving that we receive;
It is in pardoning that we are pardoned;
And it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.*

— St. Francis of Assisi

Parents Associates Meet And Elect Officers

James Pizzadili of Felton, Delaware, was elected president of the Parents Associates of High Point College during Parents' Day activities Saturday, November 7. He will also serve on the Board of Directors to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. O. W. Wheeler, who has resigned.

Mrs. Anderson B. Brown of Asheboro was elected first vice president, while the Reverend George Thompson of Winston-Salem was elected second vice president. W. Lawson Allen, Vice President for Public Affairs at High Point College, will continue as secretary.

Elected for a two-year term on the Board of Directors were S. T. Coaplen of Columbia, South Carolina; Stanley C. Dietz of Morris Plains, New Jersey; Garl Garrett of High Point; R. James Landrum of Wilmington, Delaware; Paul H. Gerhardt of McLean, Virginia; Robert H. McElvany of Arlington, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. James Porter of Shelby; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells of Hickory.

Others who are serving on the Board are: Mr. and Mrs. Anderson B. Brown of Asheboro, North Carolina; The Reverend and Mrs. Paul Hamilton of Concord; Mr. John E. Hendren of Bryans Road, Maryland; Mrs. James Hutchison of Asheville; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Solomon of Rockville, Maryland; Mr. Ed Taylor of East Dorwich, New York; and the Reverend and Mrs. George Thompson of Winston-Salem.

Members of Board of Directors make plans for year.

What About Parents' Day, 1970?

Parents' Day on November 7, was different. Different it was in that there were other groups working on the campus to evaluate the total educational program and bring to Saturday, November 7, certain recommendations for progress.

To go with the students' ten recommendations, the administration, the parents and alumni presented five recommendations, and the faculty four. These 29 recommendations were considered by those in attendance in the mass meeting. After several had been selected as having priority, a motion was made that all 29 be referred to the Executive Council of the College for study and to report to all groups later as to what could be attempted this year.

Several of the proposals can be accomplished with cooperation and extra time by all who are willing to assume the responsibility. Others such as a new library and a new dorm are long-range in nature and will be accomplished only when funds are available, but hopefully by 1973.

Parents' Day was different in that there was more involvement in groups and meetings. The conferences between parents and professors were carried out as on former days. The only regret is that time was limited for the total discussion of all recommendations.

Parents of upperclass students consider problems.

Junior Marshals Elected By Faculty

Twenty of the top academic members of the Junior Class at High Point College have been selected to serve as Junior Marshals for the 1970-71 school year.

Douglas Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Drake of Winston-Salem, and Helen Browning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Browning of Charlotte, will serve as Co-Chief Marshals.

Other marshals include Jana Owen Harding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ray Owen, Jr., of High Point; Marlene Powell Levering of High Point; Patricia Gail McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe McDowell of High Point; William Edward Kearns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kearns; Lydia Penry Lyon, daughter of Reverend and Mrs. Herbert T. Penny, Jr., of Greensboro; Paula Marie Morgan, daughter of Dr. Paul Morgan of Greensboro; Mrs. Randi Duncan Daede of Lexington; and Carolyn Sink Stiller, daughter of Mr. Claude Sink of Thomasville.

Others include Alexis M. Hinkle, daughter of Mr. Alex Hinkle of Welcome; Mrs. Shirley Spry Morris of Winston-Salem; Candace Ann Walser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry L. Walser of Winston-Salem; Tom Trotter, son of H. T. Trotter, Sr., of Columbus, Georgia; Susan Phyllis Greenhaugh, daughter of Mr. Charles Greenhaugh of Harrington, Delaware; Susan Lynn McGeogh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. McGeogh of Silver Spring, Maryland; and Bonnie Schrader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf R. Schrader of Livingston, New Jersey.

Western Electric Fund Presents Scholarship

Wilhelmina Helmi Koedam, a sophomore Biology major from Wyckoff, New Jersey, has been awarded a Western Electric Scholarship. The grant, in the amount of $1,300, is part of the Western Electric Fund Scholarship Program.

Selection for the award was made by the college. Miss Koedam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelis Koedam of 454 Baxter Avenue, Wyckoff, New Jersey. She is a graduate of Ramapo High School in Franklin Lakes, New Jersey.

Presentation of the award was made by Mr. Eddie Sigmon of the Western Electric Personnel Department, who is a High Point College alumnus.

Sears Roebuck Foundation Makes Grant

High Point College was presented a grant of $1,500.00 this week from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. The grant was presented to President Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Jr. by B. M. Brooks of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

The grant is unrestricted and may be used as the college deems necessary.

High Point College was one of 41 privately supported colleges and universities in North Carolina to be presented a grant by the foundation. Total worth of the grants are assessed at more than $43,200.00.

The remaining marshals are Robert Wayne Gilliland, son of Mr. C. B. Gilliland of Arlington, Virginia; Linda Suson Stemple, daughter of Col. J. W. Stemple of Arlington, Virginia; and Barbara Jean Gheen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Gheen of Leesburg, Virginia.

The Gift Of Christmas

Are you willing to forget what you have done for others and to remember what others have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you and think what you owe the world; to stoop down and consider the needs and desires of little children; to remember the weakness of those no longer young; to stop asking how much your friends love you and ask yourself whether you love them enough — are you willing to do these things, even for a day? If so, then you can keep Christmas. And if you keep it for a day, why not always?

by Henry Van Dyke

Something To Live For

Leland Stanford lost his only child. Though he was United States senator from California, he said to himself, "I have nothing to live for. I have no children." He put a million dollars into a private home, but it was not a home to him.

One night he had a dream. In this dream his son appeared to him and said: "Father, never say again that you have nothing to live for — live for humanity, live for other people's children."

There soon arose at Palo Alto the Leland Stanford Junior University at a cost of $20,000,000. He and Mrs. Stanford became the devoted servants of the poor, the orphan, and the suffering, and left all their property to go on doing good to the rising generation.

Shakespeare Said It . . .

Some say that ever gainst that season comes

Wherein our Saviour's birth is celebrated,

The bird of dawning singeth all night long;

*And then, they say, no
spirit can walk abroad;*

*The nights are wholesome;
then no planets strike,*

*No fairy takes, nor witch
hath power to charm,*

So hallow'd and so gracious is the time.
