High Point Welcomes Class of 1997

High Point University officials had a problem to solve when the 1993 freshman class arrived on campus for orientation. A pleasant problem, that is.

They had to figure out how to accommodate the second largest freshman class in the history of the institution. Last year, the university enrolled 335 freshmen and planned for a seven percent increase this fall. Instead, freshman enrollment jumped 15 percent to 385 when the 1993 fall term began.

"Every single spot there is a bed is being utilized," said Gart Evans, dean of students. To be exact, that means 856 beds have been filled.

To accommodate the additional freshmen, the university added eight to ten orientation counselors, three new staff members, two additional faculty members, and eight new course sections. And more adjustments could be forthcoming because of the increased attention High Point University is receiving, according to Jim Schlimmer, dean of admissions.

"We have had a 40 percent increase in student inquiries from last year," he said. "That's almost an unmanageable number. It appears that the reputation of High Point University is being well received."

The academic profile of the university also continued to rise with an increase of Presidential Scholars/Fellows from 58 a year ago to 74 this fall. "Obviously, we are excited about that number and the talents these people will bring to our freshman class," said Schlimmer.

Schlimmer credited the increases to a number of factors, including nearly $2 million available for scholarships and financial aid, a 30 percent increase from a year ago.

and behavioral sciences professor Pat Haun, on the weekend of August 21-22. After checking into their rooms and going through academic testing procedures on Saturday, the freshmen attended an orientation overview and a reception hosted by President Jacob C. Martinson in the Millis Center. Later in the evening, students, parents, faculty, and staff were treated to a campus picnic on the front lawn of Roberts Hall.

Following a campus worship service and lunch on Sunday, the freshmen participated in the "Land Olympics," a series of team sports events such as the tug-of-war, at the Crowder Intramural Field.

Freshmen also received individual academic advising from the university faculty before starting classes on August 25.

Carroll Elected to Council

Dr. Dennis Carroll, director of teacher education and chairman of the education department at High Point University, has been elected to the Southern Regional Council as a representative of the College Board Southern Regional Assembly Academic Division.

One of the most important functions of the Board is to provide a forum for the consideration of issues and concerns affecting students' access to higher education.

Carroll, an alumnus of High Point University, joined the faculty in 1988. Last October, the teacher education program was accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. Carroll is active in all phases of education, serving on the State Committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, committees of the state and local schools, and many other educational committees.

Carroll also received the 1993 Meredith Clark Slane Distinguished Teaching-Service Award at High Point University, which recognizes outstanding classroom performance, interest in students as expressed through academic advising and sponsorship of student organizations, participation in campus and community activities, and professional growth.

Archives - Ready and Waiting

The High Point University Archives is a department of Smith Library which provides students, faculty, and alumni with access to institutional records, publications, and Methodist historical information. The Archives is open during normal library hours and one can gain access by simply asking at the library information desk or Reference Office. The Library Reference Office is also here to serve alumni who need research help in the archives or in the regular library collection. Appointments, if necessary, can be made by calling 841-9101 and asking for David Bryden.

You can help the University Archives by donating papers, school publications, or memorabilia to be kept and displayed in the library. The archive is currently working on a project to complete our collection of Hi-Po's, the University student newspaper. Within the next several months, we will be "microfilming" these newspapers to ensure preservation. Any old copies which you can provide would be a great help. We need your old copies either as a gift or loan. We especially need copies from the 1950's and the early 1980's, but we need whatever you might have. For further information, call David Bryden at the Library (841-9101).

Garrett Receives Scholarship

Byron V. Garrett of Easley, a senior human relations major at High Point University, has been awarded a United Methodist Publishing House Merit Scholarship for the 1993-94 academic year.

While at High Point University, Garrett has served as president of the Student Union, vice president of the Student Government Association, chairman of the Student Honor Code Committee, and as a resident assistant in student housing.

Garrett is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Franklin Garrett of Easley, SC.

Evening Degree Program

The Evening Degree Program began the 1993-94 academic year with an enrollment of approximately 1,000 students. The evening school's New Student Orientation was held on August 18 in the Campus Center in High Point. Approximately 250 attended, including guests. Tom Ingram, a 1993 Madison Park graduate, and Michelle Westberg from the High Point Campus spoke of their experiences in returning to the classroom as adults, offered tips, and answered questions from the prospective students. Dr. Charles Warde, Associate Professor of Chemistry and a frequent teacher in the evening program, shared some thoughts and gave words of encouragement.

A new wing for the Madison Park campus in Winston-Salem was completed in July. The expansion includes seven classrooms and a break room. Of special note is an amphitheater, seating 48, and an art education room with specialized lighting.

Beginning this fall, Dr. Bonnie Truax of the University's Career Development Center will be available to assist Evening Degree Program students and graduate students on Monday and Thursday nights, devoting one evening to each campus.

Last year the Evening Degree Program began a chapter of Alpha Sigma Lambda, a national honor society for adult students. ASL is a non-profit organization devoted to the advancement of scholarship and to the recognition of superior academic achievement and leadership of students in continuing higher education programs. The High Point University charter chapter, Theta Theta, is now one of 184 chapters nationwide. Forty-six students were inducted in Theta Theta's first year.

Elementary education was added as a major in the evening in 1989. The first students to complete the major were graduated during the May 1993 commencement exercises and all have received teaching appointments.

A new scholarship for evening students was recently established by the Triad Women's Forum. A Guilford County organization, the Forum seeks to support women professionals by sharing career information, experiences, and ideas, and to help educate and encourage women to achieve their career goals. The Forum will donate annually to the scholarship which will be awarded each year to the chosen recipients.

Graduate Studies Program

Programs leading to the Master of Science in Management and the Master of Science in International Management were implemented with the start of the 1993-94 academic year. These programs are offered through the Earl N. Phillips School of Business.

Twenty-five students are enrolled in the University's first class of graduate students. This group has an average age of 31 years and is balanced almost equally between females and males.

There are eight persons who are members of the graduate teaching faculty. In the area of business, graduate instruction is provided by Dr. James M. Adams, Dr. W. Troy Anders, Dr. George Coggins, Jr., Dr. Gerald Fox, Dr. Michael J. McCully, and Dr. Marlon L. Winters. Courses in intercultural perspectives and ethics are taught by Dr. Carole A. Head and Dr. Harold L. Warlick, Jr., respectively. No faculty member has exclusive teaching responsibilities in the Graduate Program.

A Substantive Change Committee of the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is scheduled to visit High Point University on November 15-17, 1993. The task of this committee will be to evaluate the extent of the University's compliance with the Criteria for Accreditation for offering master's degree programs.

Dear Alumni:

How would you like to spend two glorious weeks in England in "the lusty month of May"?

The High Point University Alumni Office is sponsoring such a trip this year. We will be leaving Wednesday, May 11, 1994, and returning on Wednesday, May 25. While in the United Kingdom, we will visit both of our University campuses - Westminster College in Oxford and Leeds University.

of this fabulous city as well as having several days for exploring, shopping, etc.

The cost of this trip is $1700 which includes airfare, breakfast each day, tours, and double occupancy hotel accommodations. The airfare is based on departure from Greensboro. Our international flight will leave from Dulles Airport in Virginia, so if you live in the Dulles area, you can even get a better deal! ## High Point University

Dear Friends of the University:

As you read the following pages, many of you will nearly burst with pride in the accomplishments of this institution over the past several years. You have a right to be proud.

Enrollment has swelled to over 2300 students; a campus with two buildings has been developed in Winston-Salem, and more expansion is projected in the near future; junior year abroad programs at Westminster College in Oxford, England and the University of Leeds in Leeds, England offer opportunities for international studies; several buildings have been constructed; others have been renovated; and the endowment has grown to its highest level in the history of the school. University status has been attained, and graduate studies will begin this fall of 1993. Academically gifted students and faculty form the nucleus of this institution's mission. We are proud of them and their accomplishments, as well we should be.

There is a time for celebration, and perhaps that time is now. Already needs are before us which must be addressed immediately. With the rerouting of Montlieu Avenue which is presently underway, there will be additional challenges for completion of the front campus. Cooke Hall is tired and worn and needs expansion and renovation. The Adult Programs in High Point and Winston-Salem have outgrown their accommodations, and space must soon be provided to meet the demands of our enrollment. The campus beckons a Fine Arts Building which will become a cultural and educational hub of the academic day. The list goes on.

These are crucial days for High Point University. Obviously the institution is poised to become greater even than our forebears could have imagined. With the dreams of the institution there must also be an unwavering commitment to excel by all of us who can make High Point University a better place. That is our challenge. In future weeks you will be reading more about how High Point University can become and will become a premier small university in America.

For bringing us to this point in our institutional lifetime, we express our deepest thanks. Dream with us, plan with us, work with us, and share with us as the bright, bright future unfolds for High Point University.

Sincerely yours,

John Lefler
Vice President for Institutional Advancement

THE MILLIS CENTER:

A STUDENT'S PERSPECTIVE by Lisa R. Farmer '93

Pride. To be proud of yourself you must feel good. To feel good about yourself you must look good. Last year, High Point students seemed to lack a sense of pride and athletic spirit. Our Alumni Gymnasium, which first opened its doors in 1957, had seen better days, much better days.

It is now 1993, and pride has taken on an entirely new meaning at High Point University. The administration is excited, the faculty is excited, but more importantly the students are excited. What has caused this positive turnabout? The construction of the James H. & Jesse E. Millis Athletic/Convocation Center, or the Millis Center for short, is the reason behind the university's new-found sense of pride.

After months of campaigning and fund raising, construction on the Millis Center began in the fall of 1991. A year's time passed as the High Point campus and community watched skilled hands and new equipment transform the Alumni Gym.

The architectural beauty of the Millis Center can be easily seen from the outside, but people often wonder what is housed within those brick walls and white columns. The improved or newly added features include:

- A refurbished arena with retractable seats on all four sides. The Millis Center can seat 1,750 people for athletic events and 2,800 people for concerts and lectures
- State of the art sports medicine equipment and facilities which are among the finest in the country
- A weight room
- An eight-lane swimming pool with diving boards
- Three racquetball/handball courts
- New locker rooms which are more accommodating for the home and visiting sports teams
- A visiting dignitaries box which offers a full view of the arena
- The Ed Pleasants Room which is used for meetings of the Panther Club

The convocation and athletic center is truly breathtaking.

It is a facility of which the university can be and is proud.

The first person who had the opportunity to appear in the new complex was conservative political columnist William F. Buckley. He christened the building on October 7 when he spoke to a supportive audience. Following Buckley's visit was nationally known recording artist Louise Mandrell, who performed in concert on October 28 for the High Point campus and community. Since that time, the arena floor has been used as the "battleground" for the volleyball and basketball teams of High Point. Attendance at these games is up, enthusiasm is greater, and pride has returned to High Point University.

Speaking as a student, I can reassure each person that it is a joy to swim laps in a pool at the end of the day to unwind from an afternoon spent sitting in cramped desks listening to lectures. It is also a joy to work out in the weight room or to run around a racquetball court hitting a small blue ball in order to release built up frustrations. As students, we have always had the opportunity to swim, lift-weights, or play racquetball, but we have always had to travel off-campus in order to do so. Now, these challenging sports are available to us each day, and all that we have to do is take a slow walk over to the Millis Center to join in on the activities. Everyone appreciates this opportunity.

No one, however, appreciates it more than the students who have to roll out of bed in the morning to attend an 8:00 am Physical Education class. Instead of setting their alarm clocks for 7:30 allowing for "drive time" to the local YMCA or Nautilus Center, the students can now enjoy life and sleep in until 7:58 am, leaving just enough time to throw on a pair of sweat pants and a tee-shirt and walk to the gym. This is a pleasure. This is a real pleasure.

Leading The Way

The Graduate Program

Fulfilling one of its goals as an emerging university, High Point University will launch its graduate studies program in August.

Two degree programs will be initially offered: the Master of Science in Management and the Master of Science in International Management. All courses will be taught at the High Point campus in the evening.

Dr. Alberta Haynes Herron

University officials began accepting applications for admission to the graduate program in January after receiving permission to offer the program from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. High Point University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award bachelor's degrees and is a candidate for accreditation to award the master's degree.

"By offering an evening program, it makes it possible for the working professional to matriculate," said Dr. Alberta Haynes Herron, Director of the Graduate Studies program at High Point University. "The evening nature of the program and the management aspect of it are of great interest to area business and industry. The knowledge and skills acquired through this program will be very attractive to them."

"There are many MBA programs offered in our area," added Herron. "But the prospective students we talked to did not want an MBA degree. We sensed there was a need out there for another graduate degree other than the MBA."

The Master of Science programs in Management and in International Management are designed to teach students to:

- think abstractly and with imagination about corporate organizations and their goals and objectives;
- understand and interpret corporate environments;
- act based on information and analysis;
- recognize and take into account the ethical implications of business decisions.

For further information about the program, please contact the Office of Graduate Studies at 919-841-9198.

Homecoming 1992

There were enough warm smiles and good times to go around for everyone. Homecoming 1992 had many different events to satisfy a variety of tastes. The weeklong celebration started with an Interfraternity Ultimate Frisbee Tournament and a Panhellenic Powder Puff Football Game. A Jazz Band entertained in the dining hall, and the parade raised everyone's spirits. Many students as well as alumni enjoyed the musical production of "The 1940's Radio Hour" which played for the entire week of Homecoming.

The weekend festivities began on Friday with the Annual Alumni Open Golf Tournament. The temperature was in the 40's with a good wind for company. But a record number 64 participants were ready to go after a cup or two of coffee. Despite the cold, everyone had a great time and enjoyed the barbecue lunch provided at the clubhouse. For the first time, a separate Senior's Division was formed with three teams competing. Receiving the winners' trophies for that group were Jerry Paschal, Kent Moseley, Jack Powell and Vernon Kembrow. As for the rest of the golfers, the competition was fierce. In the end, the team of John Carty, Bryan Fary, Craig Gallbrieth and Vaughan Vasse came out on top. The annual Alumni Open was definitely a success with good food, good friends and great golf!

Saturday brought with it more cold weather but lots of sunshine. Campus tours topped the list for many because it was the first chance to look in the new Millis Center. The Golden Panthers reception for graduates of 50 years or more was enjoyed by all and has become an annual reunion for many. This year they welcomed the class of 1942 into their circle. This was their 50th reunion and there were

41 people in attendance including spouses. There was a wonderful lunch and time to catch up with classmates. A letter was sent to all class members who were not in attendance which began, "Having a great time, wish you were here." That postcard quote could have been used all week for all the alumni who were not able to attend. The 25th and 10th reunions were equally enjoyable and gave everyone an opportunity to recall old memories and become reacquainted. Through the day, many open houses were sponsored by different departments and by the fraternities and sororities. Later that evening, everyone came together for the annual Alumni Awards Banquet. The Alumnus of the Year is an honor given annually to an individual who has made significant contributions to the liberal arts ideals of High Point University through his or her service to the university, nation, state or community. This year's Alumnus of the Year was Gene Littles, who is now assistant coach of the Denver Nuggets. Distinguished Service Medals went to Dr. Jerry Paschal of Whiteville, Henrietta Harris of Greensboro and Harold Moose of High Point. The Alumni Association was also proud to welcome its two newest members. Dr. and Mrs. Martinson were named honorary alumni for their dedication to High Point University. It was a wonderful highlight of a wonderful day.

For those not exhausted by the day's activities, the Homecoming Dance was held at Market Square. Jacina Hayes was named Homecoming Queen for the second year in a row, and her escort Byron Garrett was named Best Man on Campus. Over 1000 students, parents and alumni danced the night away and brought to a close a fun and successful 1992 Homecoming.

Classes of 1943, 1968, and 1983

November 6, 1993 is your reunion date. Make plans now to join in the fun with your classmates. More information to come.

Alumni Scholarship Program

Often the quality education offered at High Point University is available only because of the existence of a strong scholarship program. During the 1992-93 academic year approximately 140 scholarships were awarded to deserving students. Alumni play a key role in this program by supporting the alumni scholarships. Representatives from the Alumni Association review applications annually and make awards based on the established criteria. There are currently seven alumni scholarships.

- Alumni Memorial Scholarship, established in 1969 from receipt of memorial gifts. Awarded annually to students who demonstrate good Christian character, promise of high future potential, good scholastic standing and a need for financial assistance.
- Clifford Hinshaw Scholarship, established in 1979 in honor of Dr. Hinshaw, a professor of education at High Point for many years. He also served in a number of other positions at the University, including Dean of Instruction and Director of the Summer School. He organized the evening school in 1960 and served as its director until his death in 1967. This scholarship is awarded to deserving students in good academic standing.
- E. Vera Idol Scholarship, established in 1977 in honor of Dr. Idol, an English professor at High Point from its founding in 1924 until her retirement in 1958. It is awarded to students with first preference to be given to a student with a chosen major in English. The recipients are upperclassmen having a minimum GPA of 2.0.

- P.E. Lindley Scholarship, established in 1967 to remember Dr. Lindley who was a beloved teacher and Dean of the University at its founding. The P.E. Lindley Scholarship is awarded to students of Christian character, good scholastic standing, showing promise of high future potential and in need of financial assistance.
- Louise Adams Scholarship, established in 1963 by the graduating class to honor Miss Adams, a longtime member of the University community. She is a 1929 graduate and was a member of the faculty for many years and then a part of the administrative staff until her retirement. She continues to take an active role in the life of the University. It is awarded to a student who shows potential for outstanding scholarship.
- High Point Day Scholarship, established in 1976 for the purpose of assisting a commuting student attending High Point University. It is awarded to academically able students who demonstrate good character, high future potential and a need for financial assistance.

Graduation 1993

High Point University

Dear Friends of the University:

The end of an academic year is always a time to reflect upon the accomplishments of the past twelve months, but it also provides the opportunity to focus upon the year ahead. High Point University continues to excel, and many individuals within the University community have been recognized for their outstanding contributions to academic and community life. To mention a few persons is dangerous because other people with equal or greater accomplishments are often overlooked, and to all those we express our apologies.

Many developments in programs and facilities have been taking place. The campus is still getting adjusted to the presence of the beautifully renovated and expanded Millis Athletic/Convocation Center. The $7 million facility officially opened in October and has been the site of numerous noteworthy events including a lecture by William F. Buckley, a benefit concert by Louise Mandrell, the Spring Choral Festival featuring 500 voices, and myriad other events and activities, including basketball and volleyball games. Under Dr. Alberta Herron, director of graduate studies, master of science programs in management and international management are scheduled to begin this fall. Other degree programs are being planned for future years. The Board of Trustees has authorized the expansion of the facilities at the Winston-Salem campus to accommodate the growth taking place in the Evening Degree Program. Presently, two classroom buildings on a ten-acre tract serve the average enrollment of 600 students each eight weeks.

A number of people have been recognized for their leadership. Recently, during the beautiful graduation ceremony conducted on the front lawn of the Wrenn Building, 525 elated students -- now alumni -- received their degrees. Nido Qubein '70, who is not only an alumnus but a dear friend of High Point University, delivered the commencement address. Parent and friend, Charles Shelton of Charlotte, was awarded the honorary Doctor of Laws degree. Dr. Dennis Carroll '75, chair of the Education Department, was presented the Meredith Clark Slane Distinguished Teaching-Service Award in recognition of his devoted service to High Point University and the students. Five individuals graduated with University Honors.

Away from campus, our president, Dr. Martinson, was honored by his alma mater, Huntingdon College, in presenting him the honorary Doctor of Laws degree. Kitty Steele's career as a teacher and coach was acclaimed when she was named to the NAIA Hall of Fame. Bill Beil, our director of computer services, received the highest award given by the High Point YWCA in recognition of his service to that organization. Kyle Thompson '93 was named the Outstanding Senior among students in the traditional daytime program; William Snow '93 and Sharon Flippin '93 were named the Outstanding Seniors in the High Point and Winston-Salem Evening Degree Programs, respectively.

Whether one is an alum, a donor, a student, a parent, a board member, or an employee of High Point University, there is universal agreement that this institution is living in the best of its years. With a sound blueprint, acute judgment, strong support, and commitment to high standards, even better years are yet to come.

Sincerely yours,

John Lefler

Graduation 1993

High Point's Nido R. Qubein, a North Carolina business leader and internationally known author, told members of the largest class ever to graduate from High Point University that they should live by three principles: know what you're doing, love what you're doing, and believe in what you're doing.

Qubein, who is chief executive officer of High Point's Creative Services, Inc., an international consulting firm, and a partner in Northpointe Investment

Group and McNeil Lehman, gave his commencement address Saturday morning, May 8, to 525 graduates and over 2,500 family members and friends gathered on the sun-splashed front lawn of Roberts Hall.

Qubein also urged the graduates to live a life of service. "Service is the rent we pay for the space we occupy on this earth," he said. "Things people do for us, die with us. But the things we do for others live for all eternity.

"Believe in sharing yourself. Believe in being ethical. Reputation is what people think you are. Character is what God knows you are. Believe in yourself. You don't have to be better than anyone else to be good. You don't have to be superior to be superb. And, in all things, believe in God. Someone once said that E-G-O stands for Edging God Out."

Charles M. Shelton of Charlotte, co-owner of the The Shelton Companies, a construction and finance firm, was awarded an honorary degree by High Point University. He received the Doctor of Laws degree. Shelton's son, Chip, is a member of the 1993 graduating class.

During the ceremony, the Meredith Clark Slane Distinguished Teaching-Service Award was presented to Dr. Dennis Carroll, director of teacher education and chairman of the education department at High Point University. The award was accompanied by a $1,000 stipend.

One hundred and seventeen students graduated with academic honors.

Dr. Allen K. Jackson, right, president of Huntingdon College in Montgomery, Alabama, presents an honorary Doctor of Laws degree to Dr. Jacob C. Martinson, Jr., president of High Point University, during a special ceremony at Huntingdon's annual alumni association meeting. Dr. Martinson is a member of Huntingdon's class of 1954. ## YWCA Gives Top Award to Bill Beil

Bill Beil, director of computer services at High Point University, received the Friend of the YWCA Award, the organization's top award, given annually to a person who has made outstanding contributions to the YWCA.

Since January 1990, Beil has helped the YWCA install and maintain an efficient computer system. His work has included installing four computers and transferring software and data; installing software as it was purchased; instructing staff and providing technical assistance as needed; installing a database of registered women voters and creating a program to help staff members access and sort these records; working with the post office to get carrier route numbers onto the YWCA's database records; giving a large savings in bulkmailing postage expense; responding to emergency questions and repair calls; and helping to print labels for bulk mailings.

High Point U. Hosts Golf Tourney

High Point University recently delved into uncharted fundraising territory.

The school combined with Otterbein College in Westerville, Ohio to host a two-day golf tournament in May for both schools' alumni, trustees, and friends.

More important than the birdies or pars, officials say, is the impact the two days of relaxation and fellowship may have on future fund-raising.

"Oh, we're out here to win," says John Lefler, Vice President for Institutional Advancement at High Point University. "But it's also a fine way to cultivate and to keep some of the alumni closer to each school."

Sixty-eight golfers from the two schools played in the tournament at Oak Hollow and Jamestown golf courses. High Point University won the inaugural event.

Officials say that this is the only event of its kind in the nation.

Next year, High Point golfers will travel to Otterbein and play the tournament there.

McBrayer Earns Certification

Phil McBrayer, Assistant Professor of Management and Accounting, achieved the Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) designation based on results from the November, 1992, CIA Exam. In so doing, he earned a Certificate of Excellence awarded to the top six candidates passing all four parts of the exam in one sitting.

Phil first became a part of High Point University as an adjunct instructor in 1980, later joining as a full-time faculty member in 1988. Phil also hold professional designations as a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) and a Certified Management Accountant (CMA).

Warde Named Fiction Finalist

Seniors Arlene King, Heather Moore and Charlotte Totulis garnered many honors for the Panthers. King was named to the All-Conference and All-NAIA District 26 team for the third consecutive year while Moore was named to the NAIA Academic All-American team. Totulis was voted the Most Valuable Player by team members.

The Panthers lost to Barton in the opening round of the Carolinas Conference tournament but advanced to the NAIA District 26 playoffs for the second consecutive year. High Point lost in the first round of the districts to Lenoir-Rhyne, a team which eventually lost in the national quarter-finals.

Michael Skinner, a junior forward, was named to the All-Carolinas Conference and All-NAIA District 26 teams as well as being voted the team's Most Valuable Player.

BASEBALL

High Point posted a 20-23 mark on the season, finishing fifth in the Carolinas Conference regular season with a 7-11 record. Senior Kirk Gurley was voted to the All-Carolinas Conference team.

TRACK

Senior Brian Payne and junior Tracey Henry led the Panthers to their best finish ever at the NAIA National Outdoor Track Meet. High Point finished 11th overall with those two participants.

Payne completed his brilliant intercollegiate career with two national championships and a near miss in a third. In March Payne had won the 55-meter high hurdles at the National Indoor Meet for his first championship. He then collected first place in the 110-meter high hurdles at the National Outdoor Meet and finished a close second in the 400-meter Intermediate Hurdles. These championships, along with his 1990 national title in the 110-meter hurdles, make him one of the most decorated athletes in University history.

Henry made the All-American team for the second year in a row, finishing fifth in the 400-meter Intermediate Hurdles and sixth in the long jump.

Kitty Steele, long-time women's tennis coach at High Point University, was inducted on May 23, 1993 into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Hall of Fame. The induction took place at the Hall of Fame dinner in conjunction with the NAIA National Tennis Championships in Overland Park, Kansas. Kitty's tennis teams have compiled an overall record of 251 wins and 54 losses in fifteen years, winning nine Carolinas Conference championships, two NAIA District 26 titles, three North Carolinas AIAW titles and advancing to the NAIA national Tournament nine times during the 1980's. Her 1982 and 1983 teams both finished fourth in the nation. Mrs. Steele was named Carolinas Conference Coach of the Year nine times, NAIA District 26 Coach of the Year three times and coached a total of nine NAIA All-American players. In addition to her tennis duties, Mrs. Steele coached the women's field hockey team for fourteen years, winning three North Carolina state championships. She is an Associate Professor in the Physical Education department and was named High Point University's 1992 "Teacher of the Year". Mrs. Steele becomes the fifth person with High Point University connections to be inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame. The others are: Gene Littles, Roger Watson, Jerry Steele, and Chuck Hartman.

The Evening Degree Program

The Evening Degree Program was begun on the High Point University campus in 1978. A year later the program also began serving on-site the employees of R.J. Reynolds in Winston-Salem. At the request of other companies in this area, the program in 1980 expanded again, leading High Point University and these companies to form PAEDA (Piedmont Area Evening Degree Association). Classes were held for association members at the Thomas H. Davis Training Center of Piedmont Airlines until 1986. Beginning in January 1987, both Winston-Salem divisions moved to a new building erected by High Point University in the Madison Park office development. Since that time, another building has been added to Madison Park and currently a new expansion is underway.

The Evening Degree Program began in 1978.

Madison Park Campus opened in 1987.

Today, the High Point and Winston-Salem campuses enroll over 1000 students in the Evening Degree Program. Six majors are offered at night: Accounting, Business Administration and Economics, Computer Information Systems, Elementary Education, Industrial and Organizational Psychology, and Psychology. The courses are taught not only by regular High Point University faculty but also by adjunct faculty who are expert practitioners in their fields.

Evening students find support in classmates.

The Evening Degree Program appeals to a large number of people for several reasons: it offers adults the opportunity to earn a degree in four years while working full-time; courses are offered three nights a week in eight-week sessions; students obtain the same number of credits as they would if they were full-time traditional day students; professional staff members keep evening hours at both campuses; and classes are offered year-round.

Additional facts of interest about the Evening Degree Program:

- The average age of a student is 32
- The ages of students range from 21 to over 60
- Over 90% of the students are employed full-time
- About 85% of students transfer some credit hours
- The program enrolls about 1000 students in both fall and spring sessions
- Over 1500 EDP students have graduated from High Point University since 1981

THE EDP ALUMNI GROUP

There is currently an alumni group for graduates of the evening program. They are involved in such projects as serving refreshments at registration, Phonathon for EDP scholarships, and hosting the first annual Alumni-EDP Senior Dinner for graduating seniors and their families. Thanks to their dedication, the first awards will be made from the new scholarships to deserving EDP students this fall. Plans are now being made for an ice-cream social to be held in July for all evening graduates. If you are interested in being involved with this group, please call the Alumni Office at 919-841-9134.

University Builds Mind, Character

Being born and reared here in High Point, I know there are many things that we, as citizens of High Point, can be proud of. There is one institution in particular in which I'm referring, and that is High Point University. Many times over the years I've passed by its campus, never really giving much thought to what it stood for or what went on within its confines.

It was only after I began night classes at High Point in the fall of 1990 that I became aware of the work at the University. High Point was, in effect, in the construction business - building edifices not of bricks and mortar, but of mind and character. They were, and still are, in the business of producing rational, reasoning and thinking human beings who, upon leaving its hallways, are better equipped to handle life's problems and, more importantly, its solutions.

Being a night student at High Point University was not as easy as one might imagine. Just ask any of those who have graduated from, or are currently enrolled in, the program. The pressures of juggling a family, work and school could, at times, seem overwhelming; however, the staff of the Continuing Education Program were always there to lend a helping hand and a word of encouragement when it was needed most. They were, and still are, the best support group for which one could wish.

The instructors at High Point University are all top-notch. Demanding in their expectations of the night student, they are also understanding of the rigors associated with being a night student. That is not to say they are easier on the night students; in fact, when one successfully completes one of their classes it is so according to the John Houseman principle, "you earn it".

If this sounds like an advertisement for High Point University, it could be construed as such; moreover, it is a heartfelt compliment to the fine staff of advisors and faculty at the University. I would encourage anyone wishing to obtain a college degree, whether you're 18 or 80, whether for job advancement or personal achievement, to look at High Point University as a means of attaining that goal.

High Point University fulfilled that dream for me. As a 1993 graduate, I leave High Point with both joy and sadness. Sadness because of the friends and acquaintances who leave with me and those left behind, whom I may never see again. Joyful, because I leave High Point University a better person, empowered with knowledge acquired as a student there. I wish nothing but the best for the University in its growth phase, and I will continue to support High Point University in the years to come as an alumnus.

TERRY WEAVER '93

...as alumni

Although student life is an active, vital part of the University, alumni involvement is crucial to its success.

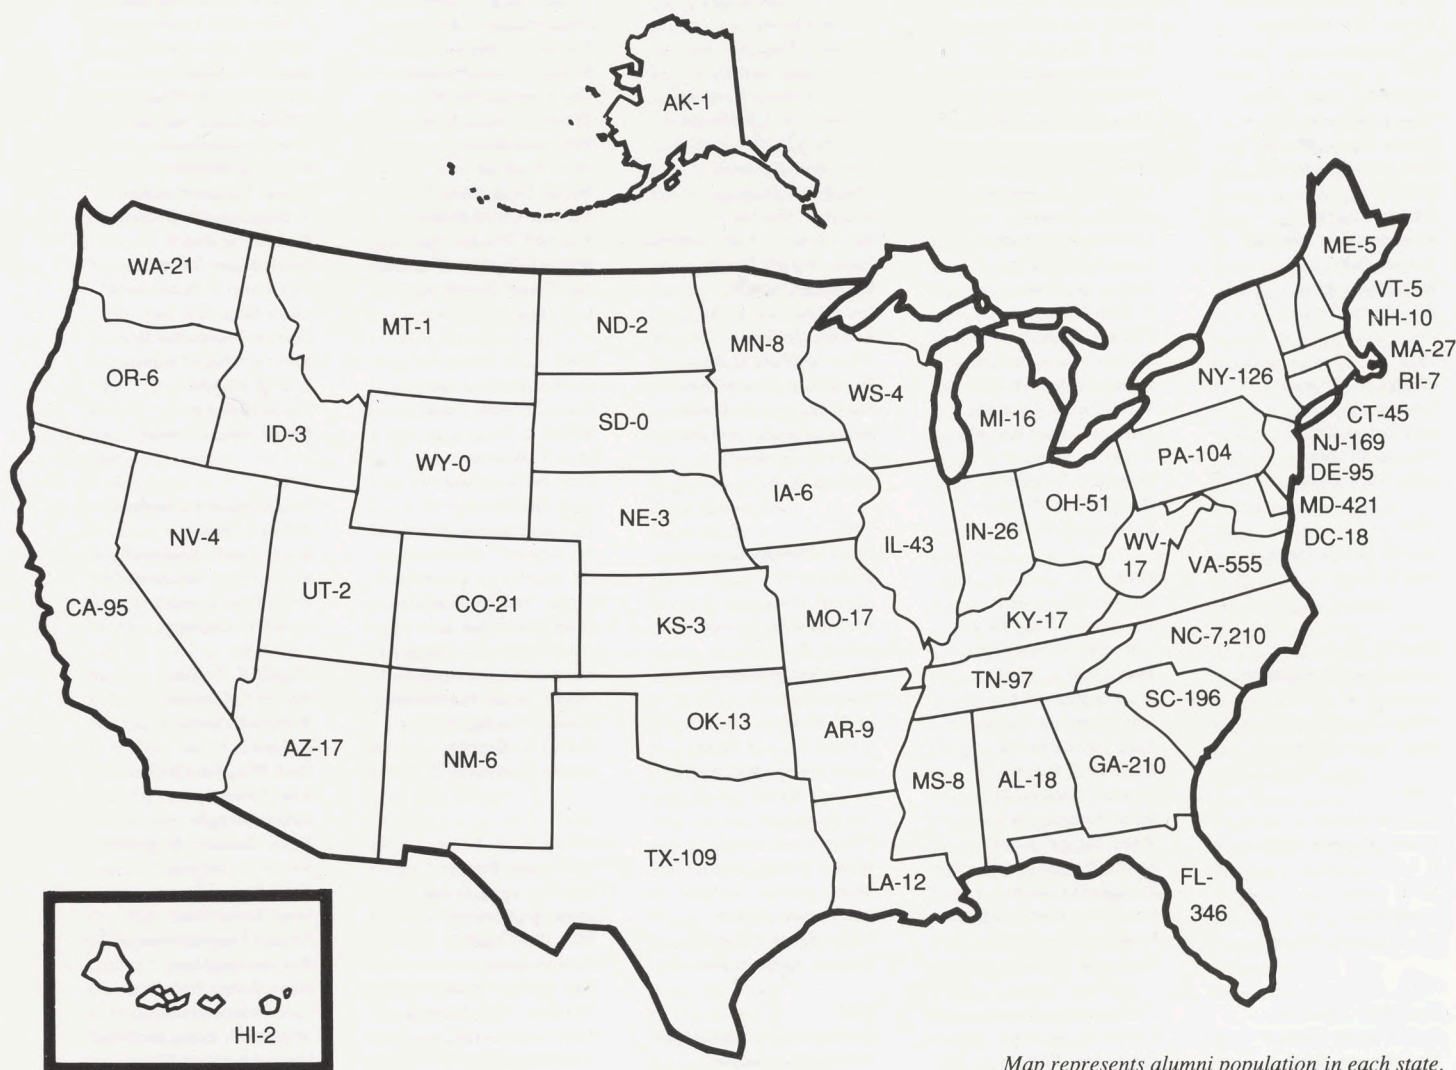

There are many activities offered regularly in the High Point area. Homecoming provides a wide variety of events including a golf tournament, reunions and banquets. Alumni are always encouraged to add to the cheering section at basketball, baseball and soccer games, as well as other sports events on campus. Career-Alumni Evening gives many local alumni a chance to come back on campus and help students get a clearer picture of "the work world". Special groups like the Lunch Bunch, for ladies over 60 years of age, are a great way to keep up with classmates. Lambda Chi alumni meet monthly for lunch and every spring for golf at the beach. These are just a few of the opportunities available to local or visiting alumni.

As you can see on the map below, many alumni live outside the High Point area. Although it is wonderful to have alumni visit the campus and come back for special events, we realize it is sometimes difficult. So if you can't make it back to campus, we'll bring the campus to you! The Alumni Association has sponsored events in various North Carolina cities, including Charlotte, Raleigh, Winston-Salem, Fayetteville and Asheville. There have also been special events in Texas, Florida, Maryland, Virginia and Georgia. These programs give alumni an opportunity to meet other graduates in the area, get an update on the University, and in many cases renew old friendships. If you would like to work with the Alumni Office in organizing an event for your area, please contact the Alumni Office.

Plans are now being made to visit the Washington, D.C., area in June, Atlanta, Georgia, in August; and several cities in Florida during September. Watch for announcement mailings and come out and "GET ACTIVE" with your Alumni Association!

WHAT WE DON'T KNOW CAN HURT US!

The University is working hard to update current mailing records. Due to inaccurate or incomplete addresses, we have not been able to stay in touch with the following alumni. Please take a moment to review the list and contact the Alumni Office with any information. Your help is sincerely appreciated.

IN MEMORIAM ... DR. JOHN E. WARD, 1941 - 1993

Excerpted from the service address given by
Dr. Hal Warlick, Minister to the University

Ralph Waldo Emerson maintained in his essay on "Self-Reliance" that an institution is but "the lengthened shadow of one (person)." Perhaps it is fair generalization to say that a University is in the end but the lengthened shadows of many men and women. Certainly one of the longest shadows making up High Point University will be that of Dr. John Ward. A University is not encompassed or defined by its numbers, its surveys, or its responses to questionnaires. Its identity lies in its people. The High Point University community mourns the loss of Dr. John E. Ward Jr., chairman of the Department of Biology, who died May 29 following a brief illness. John Ward, in many ways, served as the tap root for those values which animated the entity we call High Point University. His value as a teacher was unsurpassed. John Ward cared for each of his students as if he had but one student to care for. His sense of duty picked up where our nature often let down. Though others may stand in his spot, none will be able to take his place. John contributed to our University not only by his superb teaching but also by his friendship. His story and his memory will urge us to be better teachers, more caring colleagues, and less frightened pilgrims on our own terminal journeys. Amid the awareness of the randomness of disease and the uncertainties of life, the only fitting academic response from the University seems to be a simple, Thank you, John! We will see you again in due time. But thank you, John, for what you meant to us.

Becky Smothers, Mayor of High Point, made the announcement by saying "Winfred is a good leader and a very compassionate person. He has always dedicated himself to doing for others.
