Porter's Art On Exhibit

On exhibit at Merin Gallery in Greensboro is a collection of painting and sculpturing by Mr. Raiford M. Porter of the High Point College Fine Arts Department. The exhibit is open to the public and will continue until Jan. 24. Mr. Porter's art has been exhibited in New York, India, Charlotte, Salisbury, Raleigh and Greensboro.

The above pictures are illustrations of some of Mr. Porter's work which is now being exhibited. One represents a combination of painting and sculpture with emphasis upon a three-dimensional linear effect (on right).

The other picture is of a ceramic sculpture with a glazed coating. This figure is quite familiar to those associated with the music building because it has been displayed on his desk now for two years. It is interesting to note, however, that immediately before this picture was taken, it was accidentally dropped and in the picture the pieces are just placed on top of each other (on left).

The mediums of his work in the exhibit range from oils and caceins to sculpture in clay and aluminum.

Mr. Porter holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts and a Master of Fine Arts. He has also studied in India, and according to critics and reviewers, his paintings reflect an interest in the flowery symbols of India and in a wedding of East-West points of view.

Guide Tells of Summer Jobs

The new enlarged 1960 annual SUMMER PLACEMENT DIRECTORY, the largest and most comprehensive listing of actual summer jobs, projects, and awards is now available. Copies can be examined at most University Placement or Deans' offices, college and public libraries, and school superintendents' offices.

This unique DIRECTORY completely revised each year, is particularly prepared for teachers, professors, librarians, and college students. Jobs for which high school seniors may also apply are clearly indicated.

Some of the over 12,000 summer earning opportunities listed throughout the United States and many foreign countries include an opportunity to be a recreation director at Washington's Olympic National Park; joining a group of young people from many nations on an archeological excavation to expose an ancient temple in France; and acting with a Bardstown, Kentucky summer dramatic group in "The Stephen Foster Story".

The regular price is $3.00. However, students and teachers writing on their school stationery can obtain this year's employment guide for only $2.00 from THE ADVANCEMENT and PLACEMENT INSTITUTE, Box 99N, Station G, Brooklyn 22, N. Y.

Arsenal of Cupid Killers Offered To Leap Year Males

Nothing worries bachelors more than Leap Year.

"Many girls take it quite seriously," one complained. "Some get unbelievably aggressive. I wish I knew a sure way to fend them off."

Actually there are a number of methods by which a wily bachelor can remain carefree and single even in the face of the most determined girl's marital campaign in the months ahead. But it does take ingenuity.

Here are a few tested tips on how a resourceful single man can ward off the most persistent wooer:

1. If you have a girl friend Veronica, send her a box of candy on Valentine's Day and enclose a card saying, "To Mabel, forever yours!" Veronica will put you in an immediate freezer.

2. Always go out on double dates. If a girl can't get you alone, she can't very well ask you to marry her.

3. If she asks you over for a good old-fashioned home-cooked meal, show up carrying a stomach pump. What woman wants to spend the rest of her life with a fellow with that kind of a sense of humor?

4. Pick a fight with a cop and go to jail. There is no safer place during Leap Year than a good strong jail. (Be sure to pick on a small tired cop, however; the big ones hit back too hard.)

5. Tell her—as if it were a big joke—what an odd and fickle family you spring from. Tell her that both your father and grandfather deserted their wives when they (the wives) were 50—and ran off with a younger woman.

One final suggestion: If you have a date with a girl who is all set to pop the question and you have no other defense left, bring along your mother, after telling her, "Mama, she's after me. She's a lovely girl, but she says you look dowdy and, mama, I don't think you look at all dowdy. I like the way you look, mama, and please don't change."

Mama then will handle the situation. It may be cowardly, of course, for a grown bachelor to hide behind his mother's skirts, but all is fair in love, war—and Leap Year.—Associated Press.

SCC Proposes Rel Ed Center

The Student Christian Council has undertaken the project of building a Religious Education Center on the High Point College campus. As there is no place on the campus suitable for religious activities such as services of worship, group meetings, and recreation, the Council feels, keenly, the need for more adequate facilities. The proposed Center would include a Chapel, recreation hall with stage and kitchenette, seminar rooms, a lounge, and several offices.

A committee of students has been set up by the Council to initiate plans for the Center. This committee is to be enlarged, upon appointment by Dr. Patton, by trustees, faculty members, alumni, and persons in the community.

It is hoped that the students will give this matter thought and offer suggestions to the committee. The members of the committee serving at present are: Sylvia Nicks, chairman of the Student Christian Council, Pat Peterson, Ben Rouse, David Hancock, Larry Maxwell and Dale Brown.

Patton Makes Plans for HPC Next Year

An improved guidance program, a better library, and increased teacher salaries are among improvements planned for next year at HPC.

Dr. Patton has announced that the school will concentrate on improvements in both curriculum and facilities during the coming year.

Funds for the purchase of additional books for the college library, physical improvements in dormitories, increased pay for teachers, and the establishment of a comprehensive guidance program will be derived from an increase in student fees, to take effect in September of 1960.

Fees for dormitory students will receive an $84 increase per year at the school, but will still remain well below other church related colleges and universities in the area.

"Operating costs continue to go up," Dr. Patton said, "And we are forced to raise our student fees."

Funds made available to the school from sources other than tuition fees have been used to help defray the costs of educating students, and the tuition increase was effected for the improvement of long-neglected areas of need.

"In order to provide the best possible education for our students, we must go up in cost," the new president said.

The increase announced at HPC is typical of a current nation-wide trend. Higher costs of living and increases in equipment and operating have forced tuition increases in practically all schools of high learning, both private and state-supported.

A spokesman from one private college, which plans a $200 tuition increase next year, said: "Tuition has never met the cost of providing an education, but the increase will at least narrow the gap a little."

The higher fees at HPC will allow the 1,044 students to receive more attention for the money they spend.

The increase will provide some $73,000 of a total budget at the college of $1,092,020. Plans announced by Dr. Patton for disbursement of the additional funds include:

1—An improved guidance program.

"One of the advantages of a small college is the individual attention that can be given the students," Dr. Patton said. "This guidance program has not been as effective as it should have been in the past. But next year it will improve under the direction of the dean of students."

"And we hope to employ one full-time guidance director in order that we can better help students learn to study, adapt to college life, and choose a suitable vocation."

President Sets Up Advisory Council

Dr. Wendell M. Patton has announced the formation of a President's Advisory Council. This group, which will be comprised of the heads of the major organizations on campus, is being formed primarily for the purpose of increasing and improving the flow of communications between the administration and the student body.

"We constantly want to be on the alert as to students' needs and desires," said Dr. Patton in explaining the reason behind this action. "At the same time," he added, "we would like the student body to understand the reasons behind faculty and administrative actions."

The Council will have no specific function, authority, or in any way overlap the function of any of the other organizations. The plan at present is to hold meetings monthly, perhaps at dinner, and discuss any problems which may exist on campus at the time.

Man On Campus

Once again, in this issue, the HI-PO sent a man out to cover the campus and ask a question which we thought would stimulate some interest. The question which was chosen, did indeed, stimulate the desired interest.

Read below the answers to the question: What do you think of the Student Government Association on this campus?

Bobby Little—I think there is a tremendous amount of work yet to be done in the SGA. I also think that there is a considerable lack of interest, support, and leadership within the SGA and that includes the whole student body. I think the student body as a whole will hear from the SGA, as a governing body in the near future. Which shows evidence that we are on the right road.

Drew Harrill—Until the SGA needs the immediate support of the student body, for example, our cooperation in signing the petition for having the away games broadcasted, we never hear about their activities. What I know about the SGA is what I have read in the catalogue and the handbook we received at the beginning of the year. They are doing a fine job, but the officers should be seen and heard from more often.

Ron Money—I think there is a lot of apathy toward the SGA. It is not that the student government is so bad it is just that no one has an interest in it.

Bones Mann—After having been here at HPC for three years, I can say this is the year of results. We have the material, now we need to develop it. I believe we can.

Judie Rollins—The SGA has helped the college by putting the out-of-town ball games on radio and many other activities. One bad fault is the leadership of the officers. We should see more of them as campus leaders.

Fleta Trotter—Since this is my first year at HPC, I can not say too much about the SGA, but I have not seen too many results of their work. I do believe the petition to have the out-of-town ball games broadcasted was commendable on their part. If I had not read at the first of the year who the officers were, I would not know.

Dan Lawing—I think they are doing a good job this year. Especially on getting the away games on radio, this will be a good thing for our school.

Ron Michaux—Any outstanding college or university has to have a strong student government association, as well as a good faculty. Yet the SGA and the faculty must cooperate with one another in order to strive for perfection. Here at HPC the SGA and faculty are working toward that end with fruitful results thus far.

Harold Wright—This year the student government association has made many strides toward producing better leadership for the student body and has made several constructive advances such as the announcing of all college games and better financial controls of student government funds. I still think our student government could improve by way of public relations and in making the body a more respected organization and ever a more powerful one. We the students as individuals should act in unity through active participation in this body.

Inauguration, Homecoming Combined

The High Point College Annual Homecoming and the inauguration of the new president, Dr. Wendell M. Patton, coincide this year. The date is February 6, 1960, and the place is the college campus.

At the inaugural ceremonies, Secretary of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Porter A. Hauser, President of the Alumni Association, will bring greetings on behalf of members of the Association.

Bishops Paul N. Barber and Noland B. Harmon, of the Methodist Church, will speak at luncheon. There will be a reception in the Student Center, when President and Mrs. Patton will welcome the Alumni, from 4:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

During the Alumni Dinner at 6:00 p.m., the newly formed chapters of the High Point College Alumni Association will be announced to the gathering. At 8:00 p.m. Alumni will attend the High Point-Catawba basketball game in the Alumni Gymnasium. During the half-time, Mr. Hauser will crown the Homecoming Queen.

It is expected that several hundred representatives from colleges and universities throughout the United States will be on campus for the event. Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, chairman of the inaugural committee, said that the response to the 2,000 invitations mailed to schools across the nation "has been very good." Dr. Cooke added that all North Carolina colleges and universities will have official delegates attending.

Because of the combination of Homecoming and inauguration, there will be no Homecoming displays by the organizations on campus this year. Students are asked to participate in making this inauguration the outstanding event in the history of High Point College.

Students will be called upon to serve on various committees and it is hoped that they will cooperate. Successfully accommodating approximately 500 visitors for the day will require the work and cooperation of every one.

Faculty Review Of Cut System

On the ninth of December, 1959, the faculty of HPC met to review the cut system. Below are listed the 12 points that were passed by the faculty, and which will go into effect at once. Special attention should be given to paragraphs 4, 6 and 11. Both 4 and 11 are newly enacted statutes, and number 6 will be observed more closely in the future.

Assembly attendance regulations will remain unchanged. That is, one unexcused absence per semester shall incur no penalty, two absences will result in probation, three absences will result in ten days' suspension, four absences will result in indefinite suspension.

1. The basic and necessary unit of academic work is the meeting of the class. Therefore, as a matter of policy, a student should not be absent from class except in case of illness or emergency. If a student feels he is too ill to attend classes, he must either see the college nurse or notify his Resident Counselor; otherwise the over cut (see paragraph 3) will not be excused. Upon returning to classes, after being ill, the student must bring to the Dean of Students a written excuse from either the college nurse or his Resident Counselor, whichever was notified of the illness. Day students should bring a written excuse from home after an illness. Minor illness, headaches, common colds, oversleeping, etc., will not be accepted as excuses.

2. Since the Dean of Students administers the attendance regulations, only he may excuse students' absences. In the event a student feels that the Dean of Students has unjustly denied a request for an excuse, he may appeal the Dean of Students' (Continued on Page 3)

WHAT'S WRONG WITH OUR SGA?

It takes many years to develop an effective system of student government in any institution. This is an easily recognizable fact. However, the Student Government Association of High Point College has been in existence many, many years and still seems to be floundering around, unsure of itself.

There are many areas of our student government which need special attention, but almost all of the difficulty could be cleared up if two ingredients were injected. The majority of our problems would be solved if the students were willing to assume full responsibility, and if the entire system were organized in order to clearly define the duties and procedure of each body involved.

It is confusing as to why HPC students are unwilling to accept the responsibilities involved in an effective SGA. Perhaps it is merely a matter of habit. Those before us did no better and we don't want to be different. Perhaps our society's mania of conforming prevents those of us with the interest and ability to straighten out this mess from taking action.

It cannot be said that we do not have students capable of this job, for an examination of our student body will reveal many who, in high school, did accept this responsibility. There are many among us who served as presidents of their student bodies, and many more who served in the student government in various capacities. Surely, to these students, our student government is a grave disappointment.

If there are qualified students, why has no lasting, effective action been taken before? This problem is rooted in the structure of our campus society. Freshmen and sophomores are generally the eager-beavers, ready to change the world, but afraid to say a word because, after all, who are they to come on campus and begin criticizing?

By the time these students are juniors and seniors, when they are more sure of themselves and feel they have the right to speak, their interests have turned elsewhere. The SGA has presented no challenge to them and they are content to sit back and let things continue as they have in the past. A feeling of hopelessness has set in and the attitude is, "Well, I'll be leaving soon. No point in my getting involved now."

The conforming to this set up is ruining any possible progression in the SGA. It will be necessary for all students with any helpful criticism to speak up and participate if our student government is ever going to catch up with the times.

Secondly, there is a great need for better organization within the SGA. Last year there was a radical change in our constitution providing for two houses of legislature. This was a step in the right direction. Now it is necessary for these houses to adopt, and enforce those already adopted, rules of procedure.

For instance, a simple ruling saying that all bills must be given out at least a week before they are to be debated on would allow the members of the legislature adequate time to study the content and prepare their debate. One hour devoted to explaining parliamentary procedure would save many hours of confusion in later sessions.

Those upperclassmen who have participated in Student Congress know that strict adherence to Roberts' Rules of Order is necessary if any progress is to be made. They also know that the rules are relatively simple if explained clearly. However, it apparently has never crossed the minds of the SGA to have such a session and then enforce the rules, thus adding to the caliber of our legislature.

Student Congress is an excellent way to stimulate student interest and participation in government. However, this annual event is held so late in the year that the interest is of little value. It is also too late for the bills passed to be duly processed by the legislature, and consequently they are usually filed away and never acted upon.

Last year the two party system was introduced on campus. It was hoped that creating political parties would create competition and result in a vital, living student government. With the exception of the interest created during elections last spring, the two party system has been a failure. It failed because of apathy. It is not too late to redeem the system. But the redemption probably won't come, because a few cannot do all the work, and the general student body isn't willing to put forth any effort.

As students we have a great many gripes about our administration. We're never satisfied and we're willing and eager to put the blame for our dissatisfaction on the dean, the president, or the faculty. It's time we faced up to the facts. We have shirked our responsibilities. Given the opportunity to govern ourselves and enforce our rulings, we have run from the job, choosing to leave the work for a few. This way it is easy to point a finger and complain bitterly.

When are we, as a student body, going to grow up, face the responsibilities offered us and bring about a mature campus society? When are we going to prove our adulthood to the administration, instead of loudly and falsely proclaiming it?—P.O.

Frats and Cheating

Dear Editor:

When "Twenty-One" was removed from television, television did not cease to survive. If fraternities were removed from colleges, colleges too would not cease to survive. One investigation stated recently that fraternities are losing their popularity and could eventually become non-existent. Colleges are wising up! But, of course, colleges would have a decrease in enrollment because of the loss of fraternities.

On many campuses fraternity maintenance of files of past examinations, themes, and lab notes is a popular chapter project. Many a fraternity man has planned his four years of "study" around their contents. At one school cheating is a standard practice.

Many students lay the blame squarely on the faculty (if a doctor finds a disease he removes it). One student said that "there is not enough faculty supervision—too many classes are just mass production educational assembly lines."

I am not in opposition with the

Will Religion Be the Issue?

On the afternoon of January 2, 1960, a youthful and talented man from Massachusetts addressed a news conference and declared his steadfast candidacy for the presidency of the United States. Senator John F. Kennedy, the "boy with the golden spoon" had finally climaxed, but certainly not concluded a pursuit which has kept him barnstorming and globetrotting for the past four years, ever since his breathtaking defeat at the hands of Senator Estes Kefauver for the Democratic Vice-Presidential nomination in 1952.

Victory in the vice-presidential quest could have offered little more to Kennedy in the way of public attention and praise than his fortunate defeat in an already ill-fated year. Kennedy's most glowing attribute came later on in that campaign when Adlai Stevenson referred to him as a man "whose leadership America craves for desperately."

And certainly, in the eyes of many, such is the case. A natural born liberal, Kennedy could well appease the new resurgence on the American political scene. The questions concerning Kennedy's qualifications are indeed answerable. His ability, accomplishments, and his force as a political figure are all a matter of public record.

Indeed Kennedy's most formidable opponent is not necessarily Nixon, nor the Senator's religion, but a combination of both. Somewhere, within the heart of the American voter, there has always been a fear concerning the Catholic politician who slants his eyes toward the White House. Old grandfathers dig up eyebrow-raising yarns and warn against that "big" Roman priest who would step in the White House, three steps after the Catholic president.

America would be governed from abroad and American Catholics would firmly entrench themselves as the controlling power in our nation. Less drastic non-Catholics would disregard the control and power theory but might well reason that an inter-continental channel could and might exert a certain amount of influence on the American scene.

This argument affords more substance to the intelligent voter who might oppose a Catholic, but still it is thoroughly ridiculous. Theology is a deep and extensive field, and at best various religious sects find themselves spiritually opposed to one another. Yet, it is more the native sense and pride of one's own religion which sets Catholic, Protestant, and Jew upon one another, rather than spiritual differences.

This once again takes us back to politics, religion, and Kennedy. The issues of the 1960 campaign are far more important than the individual religions of the men seeking the post. If we had any faith at all in the Constitution and the characters of the men in question, we would believe this. The right to dissent is the cornerstone of a free society and the privilege of the voter but the voter who supports a candidate because he is of his own faith, and solely on that basis, is guilty of trying to destroy a very valuable part of the Constitution of the United States, the very first Amendment.

(All letters to the editor must be signed; names will be withheld on request. Letters do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the editors.)

fraternities—it's their program that baffles me. Fraternity houses and fraternity "bothers" could use their "Greek" names for merely a social organization and withdraw the other parallel.

Professors are not surprised that this cheating business is a part of the fraternity program, but neither are they too concerned, for it they were, professors throughout the country would be battling the situation with a gigantic force.

If we cheat, whom do we cheat?

—Name withheld.

Support For SCA

Dear Editor:

In the last issue of the HI-PO you published a very thought-provoking editorial expressing your opinions on our college or perhaps on colleges in general. May I say that you are not alone with your opinions. There are some few interested students (and faculty members, at well) who have become aware of a creeping inertia among what has been here-to-fore a dominant institution in our educational system, the Christian college. Evidence points to a sudden revival of interest in this area, Trueblood's The Idea of a College and the larger denominations' drives for funds for Christian Higher Education are only two examples. Our own church, The Methodist Church, has made it its quadrennial emphasis and has done a wonderful job in "emphasizing" the program.

In June of 1958 the Second Quadrennial Convocation of Christian Colleges met at Drake University and discussed problems relevant to Christian colleges; I do not believe that our institution was represented at this convocation, if it had been the advantages and benefits would have been put to use by now. At this convocation, Dr. Jerald C. Brauer, Dean of the Federated Theological Faculty of the University of Chicago, made the following remarks in a speech:

"The temptation of the Christian college today is to rest its case primarily on three factors. It argues that it is contributing something distinctive in that its education participates in a Christian atmosphere. Seldom is this demonstrated beyond the usual statements that chapel is an integral part of the campus life, that courses in religion (seldom called Christianity) are offered, and that the professors are upright moral men and women. Also these Christian colleges point with pride to their smallness as a proof of a distinctive contribution to American education. Meanwhile most of them move heaven and earth, and frequently their campus, in an attempt to grow larger. Finally, the clinching argument is advanced that the growth in population with its accompanying pressures for higher education make imperative the continuance and expansion of the Christian college. If this is the best the Christian college can do, it does not deserve the support of the church or the public because it is no longer true to itself. Either the Christian college should play the creative and distinctive role in American higher education it once played or it should not implied that such institutions go out of existence, only that they become transformed into institutions that do not pretend to be what they are not."

This statement is somewhat of a repetition of the implications of your editorial but is more to the point.

The project that the SCA has adopted it is a great step in boosting our college into the classification of a Christian college; it points our "action on a need", a need that has existed since 1924; we hope that this will be a college community project involving all who are concerned with the college. This project, within itself, will be a test to establish whether or not our school will advance or remain static in its further development as a Christian college. This is vital!

We want and need an adequate "laboratory" for religious education and worship but let us not forget that even with these facilities our college is still faced with the danger of becoming a secularized institution.

What of an evaluation of this question, "To be or not to be, (A Christian college)?" What of serious questioning and debate of our college purpose? Which, incidentally, has been disproved during the past year. Is our college one of those which is "pretending to be what it is not"? What of the churches' relationship to the college? Are the two conferences just paying $50,000 a year for advertisement? Is this enough? What happened to the more than 30 teachers that have left during the past four years? What of these questions? Will we hear the answers?

May God grant the wise use of your position and our paper in answering some of these questions so that High Point College might move up into a position of respect if not awe among Christian colleges.

Yours in His fellowship,
Ben Rouse

Frosh Are Concerned

It has been a major concern to us as to why High Point College uses the slogan which follows: "A Christian College for Discriminating Students." The slogan is indeed a fine one, but is it true?

We were very specific in choosing the college which we wanted to attend. Our choice was to attend "A Christian College for Discriminating Students." After making the decision to attend such a school with high standards of Christian character we choose High Point College.

After three months of life here we have been many sights which we do not feel are becoming to a Christian College.

We believe that a large percentage of these disrupting acts could be curbed if the facilities for carrying out an extensive Christian program were available. We are anxious for something to be done about this situation at our school!

Is anyone else interested?

—Two Freshmen.

HPC Exam Vocabulary

by JOHN PYCIOR

1. A Crip: A course in which you do nothing for the first four months, then in the last week you write up two term papers and take a final that your professor flunked when he was a Freshman.

2. Cramming: This is a form of mass hysteria, which usually runs into the early hours of the morning, follows you through the dining hall, and reaches its peak at the doorway to the exam room.

3. Notes: An individual's account of the semester's persecutions written down in a personal version of Sanskrit and Egyptian hieroglyphical figures.

4. Library: Where the elite meet to prepare for defeat.

5. Palmer's History of the Modern World: A Freshman's prayer book and guide.

6. Blue Books: Cheap paper which absorbs ink, sweat, and blood.

7. Coffee Hour: A 10:20 assembly of gripes, complaints, and lectures on Wednesday.

8. Steele's Diner: A popular local cease to exist. By 'cease to exist', it is escape mechanism on week nights.

9. Cigarettes: Things that everyone carries around to furnish to everyone else in the book store.

10. Group Study: An educational bull session.

11. No-Doze Pills: A type of cramming in the form of tablets.

12. Essay Questions: Commonly recognized as "Shooting the Breeze About Nothing."

13. Objective Test: A formal system of playing tit-tat-toe.

14. Post Mortem: The re-hash that follows an exam to which several cases of hysteria are normally accredited.

15. Final Exam: The last chance to bring up that D that you were promised at mid-term.

High Point Suffers First Loss - 77-75

In a stunning and upsetting 77-75 loss to Catawba on Jan. 9, the HPC Panthers made it quite evident that the road to victory is not always an easy one. The Yowmen, usually a fast-running team, slowed down considerably and as they did so their shooting percentage dropped.

Catawba coach, Earl Ruth, surprising the High Point team by running with High Point, was able to pull his team from behind several times to finally gain victory in the Panthers' first overtime game of the season. In fact, Catawba several times outran High Point in a fast break, which is an unusual feat.

At the outset of the game it looked to be another runaway game for High Point, as they broke into the scoring lights first and maintained a considerable margin for several minutes. However, Catawba was able to take their half-time break trailing only by four.

Again, in the second half the Panthers began to break into the open only to have the regulation game end in a 68-68 tie. In the overtime period the pace was slowed considerably, and with the score tied at 75-all, Catawba chose to try for the one shot with over two minutes left.

Several times Catawba broke for the basket, but not being able to shake off High Point defenders, brought the ball out of the danger zone for another try. Finally, with only seconds to go, a shot was taken and missed, but Catawba's Roger Snow grabbed the long rebound and just as the final buzzer sounded dropped in his shot for the victory.

This overtime period was played without the services of starters Horace Medford and Bob Flynn, who had fouled out in the regulation game. Joe Guzinski had also fouled out for High Point.

Outrebounded by the taller Panthers 67-33, the main strength of the Catawba squad was hustle and plenty of it. Even when they were behind they chose to play High Point shot for shot and it eventually paid off in the final score.

High Point, after the long holiday break seemed to be walking instead of running at times during the game. After the dust had settled, the Panthers still remained in a first place conference tie with Lenoir Rhyne, both teams boasting a 4-1 record in conference play.

In the scoring department Danny Sewell topped the field with 31 points. Following him for the High Point team were Wolfy Unger and Dave Coombs, each with 18. Catawba's high man was Don Chalk with 25 followed by Frank Forbis with 20 and Horace Medford who managed to tally 13 points before fouling out.

Shooting percentages from the floor were quite meager for both teams - High Point 32.9, Catawba 34.6. The total difference however was on the foul line where Catawba tallied 23-31 for a percentage of 74.2, while High Point struggled with 13-22, or a 59.1 percentage.

decision to the Attendance Committee of the faculty.

3. The first three absences from a three-hour course (four from a four-hour course) will not incur penalty. All classes that grant three hours credit or less shall come under the rule for three-hour courses.

4. A student who is absent from class more than 25 per cent of the total number of class meetings, whether such absences are excused or unexcused cannot receive credit for the course without the permission of the Executive Committee of the Faculty.

5. Unexcused overcuts will be penalized as follows: For the first unexcused overcut from class, one quality point shall be deducted from the student's record. One quality point shall be deducted for the second overcut, two for the third, and three for the fourth unexcused overcut. Four unexcused overcuts shall cause the student to be dropped from a course with a grade of "F" and a loss of seven quality points.

6. Only under the most unusual circumstances will the Dean of Students accept excuses presented later than 24 hours after the student returns to class.

7. Absences incurred due to late registration will count as unexcused absences.

8. The student will be charged two absences for each absence from class the day before and the day after holidays.

9. It is the responsibility of the student to confer with the professors concerning the possibility of making up work missed.

10. When a student misses an examination or test which was announced in advance, he may take it only on presentation of an excuse signed by the Dean of Students, if the professor requests it. When a student misses a mid-term examination in any course, he may take a make-up only on payment of a fee of $2.00 and presentation of an excuse signed by the Dean of Students.

11. Students are responsible for maintaining a record of their absences. Students may not check absences in the Dean of Students' office.

12. Three unexcused tardies shall count as one unexcused absence. The excusing of the tardies shall be the responsibility of the professor.

amount of work grants will be increased, to provide help for students unable to afford the cost of an education. Scholarships and work assistantships are hoped to be increased by some 20% over present standings. It is one of the primary aims of HPC to help deserving students, in every way possible, to obtain a college education. Through this proposed increase in scholarships and working assistantships this will be possible.

7 - Faculty development. Funds will be set aside for underwriting research, graduate papers, summer school costs and travel expenses for faculty members, in order that the teachers can keep abreast of progress in their particular fields.

8-Improved industrial and community relations. HPC hopes to offer workshops for plant managers and supervisors, to make itself a vital part of the community and to stimulate community interest in the college program.

dent said that a resurvey of department needs would be conducted, and that more books would be added to the library. An addition to the building, providing a capacity of 100,000 volumes, was just completed last summer.

The HPC Library, ranks second in circulation among the North State Colleges. Added volumes should raise the circulation standing even higher.

3-Improved dormitory facilities. Refurnishing and redecorating projects are slated next year for the men's dormitories and the home economics dormitory.

4 - Increased teacher salaries. Teacher pay will be periodically increased to meet the rising costs of living.

5-Cafeteria. Dr. Patton said that the college cafeteria was among the school-owned concessions which lost money last year. Operation costs and higher food costs require more funds for cafeteria use.

6-Increased scholarships and work assistantships. The number and Lineup Shifted

by BILL DAMON

High Point College once again got back on the winning road with a impressive 79-62 victory over last year's conference champions, Western Carolina, on Jan. 12. It seemed that the Panthers could do no wrong as they bested the Catamounts from Cullowhee in almost every scoring department.

The game was marked with a great team spirit and hustle after the upsetting loss to Catawba just three days previously. This win put High Point in first place in conference play with 5-1 record. The overall record was boosted to a healthy 7-1 mark.

This was the first game this season that Coach Yow had changed his starting line up. When the teams took the floor, Wolfy Unger was jumping center in place of Wayne Cheek.

High Point gained control of the ball at the first jump and immediately scored with a jump shot by Jackie Short from outside the foul circle. Western soon tied the score with a short jump shot by Gaston Seal. During a close and well played first half the score was tied five times with High Point coming out for the rest with a meager one point lead, 40-39. The largest lead enjoyed by Western Carolina in the contest was 8-5 with less than five minutes of the game gone.

The second half saw a revitalized High Point club take the floor and immediately widen their shaky lead. WCC coach, Jim Gudger changed his tactics quite decisively during this half, reverting to a widespread zone, which has worked against scoring sprees so well this year. Coach Yow played this wily game also and had his men keeping the ball well outside the outstretched arms of the defense, waiting to work the ball in for a good shot. With just a few minutes left of the game Western again changed to a hustling man-to-man which gave High Point a chance to run the ball a while, eventually widening the lead to 17 points at the final buzzer.

The defenses of the High Point team looked exceptionally well during the game, especially in holding Western's scoring ace, Dave Jones to 11 points when he fouled out late in the second period. Jones had just the night before led the Western victory over Guilford with 31 points. Sparked by the hustling of Jackie Short, the Panther team managed to intercept passes or steal the ball 16 times during the game. Short led the way with eight steals, three of which led directly to break-away layups for easy scores. In the rebounding department both teams played equally well off the backboards with 35 each. Western gained in this field during their use of the zone defense, by dropping three of the defenders under the boards as soon as a shot was attempted.

High Point's field goal average was slightly improved over some previous games but still was a shaky 41 percent. Western Carolina beat the Panthers in this field by the slim margin of only two percentage points. A noticeable improvement was noted in High Point's free throw average which was a very healthy 76 percent. WCC's average was a mediocre 53 percent.

Leading in the scoring was High Point's Danny Sewell with a total of 28 points. Three other Panthers also hit in double figures to add to the victory; Wolfy Unger had 16; Joe Guzinski, 14; and Jack Short, 13. The big disappointment of the night was Dave Coombs who was troubled with slightly poor aim. Western's leader in scoring was Gaston Seal with 21, followed by teammates Dave Elmore with 15 and Dave Jones with 11. Defensively Sewell and Jones were the leaders with 18 and 11 rebounds, respectively. Only eight men saw action for High Point in the tussle while nine men pounded the hardwood for the Catamounts.

After such an impressive victory over a top contender, Yow and his team may be able to relax a little, but such over-confidence has not won games in the past.

SIDELINE HIGHLIGHTS

Harold Dickinson finally got dressed up for a game in his spanking new Panther suit and gave considerable aid to the cheerleaders in their task.

The press was well represented in the full gymnasium, with men from the Greensboro Daily News, Winston-Salem Journal, not to mention Bob Hoffman of the Enterprise and yours truly.

Not to be outdone in their efforts two television stations put in a photographic appearance. They were WFMY-TV of Greensboro and WSJS-TV of Winston-Salem. Film clips appeared the same night on the sports broadcasts. The Panthers look good even on film.

Assembly Seats To Be Signed For

Starting with the new semester, all students carrying 11 or more hours will be required to sign up for a seat during registration. Only those having special permission from Dean Nelson will be excused. Those who fail to sign for a seat will be counted absent.

It will be the student's responsibility to obtain a number, not the Dean's to give. Absences will be checked from the first assembly on.

Seniors will sit down in front center of the auditorium. It will be the responsibility of every senior to make known his status at registration so that he will receive the right seat. Special seats will also be reserved for the choir. The remainder of the student body will be issued seats on the basis of first come, first served.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Four Alpha Gammas are listed in the Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. They are: Peggy Davis, Sylvia Parker, Liz Peterson and Kathy Traywick.

Eleanor Davis was elected Recording Clerk of the Senate and Penny Parker is Secretary-Treasurer of Epsilon Sigma Omicron. Penny was seen in the recent production of Guys and Dolls.

Yvonne Vaughn and Julie Young are representatives of Sigma Phi Epsilon and Delta Sigma Phi as fraternity sponsors in the 1960 Zenith.

Alpha Gamma Delta's in the 1960 May Court will be Peggy Davis from the Senior class; Yvonne Vaughn and Julie Young from the Sophomore class; and Ann Surrat from the Freshman class.

Homecoming queen contestants are: Yvonne Vaughn, sponsored by Joe Guzinski; Julie Young, sponsored by Jack Short; and Ann Surratt, sponsored by Wolfy Unger.

Alpha Gamma Delta's two sponsors in Junior Panhellenic are Alice Hobson and DeLinda Hutchins. DeLinda is Vice-President of Junior Panhellenic.

KAPPA DELTA

Anne Starr was elected by the student body as May Queen for 1960. Anne, a senior from North Wilkesboro, is also a contestant for the Miss Zenith Contest. The contestants are selected from senior girls.

The Kappa Delta girls who are competing for Homecoming Queen are: Anne Starr, Jerri Martin and Donna Blue.

On November 20, pledge service was held for Donna Blue. Donna is a freshman from Georgia. Betty Gray Dorman was selected by a faculty committee for Who's Who.

The fraternity sponsors for the 1960 Zenith are: Donna Blue, representing Alpha Phi Omega; Jerri Martin, representing Theta Chi; and Edna Rose Duncan, representing Pi Kappa Alpha.

The Kappa Delta pledge class is selling coffee, hot chocolate, donuts, and buns in the basement of Womans Hall from 8:45 to 9:15 every Sunday morning. The pledges are also selling Kleenex as one of their projects.

On Nov. 17, 16 Kappa Delta pledges were sold to over 500 students in the Student Center. The Slave Auction was another pledge project. The pledges gave a "Beatnik" Party in honor of the sisters at the Emerywood Country Club, Nov. 21.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Delta Gamma's pledge class has increased to 13 with the addition of two new pledges: Pat Peele of Kannapolis and Carolyn Ketchie of Winston-Salem. November saw a candlelight service for Ann Ringley, who is going steady with Gilbert Hartis.

The High Point Zeta Alumnae recently pledged four women. They were Mrs. Kathryn Ring, a Home Economics teacher at High Point College; Mrs. Lew Lewis, Mrs. C. C. Herbert, Jr. and Mrs. F. M. James.

During the Thanksgiving vacation, Frances Dalton made a trip to Florida where she visited the University of Florida campus at Gainesville. While on the campus, Frances made a tour through the beautiful Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority house.

Recent Zeta service projects include a food package sent to Germany and a Christmas basket given to the Montlieu Home for the Aged.

Two Zetas, Helen Clay and Patt Olmsted, were honored by being selected for Who's Who. Patt is also one of the Top Ten Seniors.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

On January 9, the brothers and pledges and their dates enjoyed the annual Carnation Ball, held this year at the Carolina Inn in Chapel Hill and hosted by the Rho chapter at N. C. State. Other chapters in attendance were from Duke and Atlantic Christian. Miss Carolyn Mitchell, escorted by pledge Doug Cox, was crowned North Carolina Delta Sig Dream Girl.

Five men have recently pledged Delta Sigma Phi. These men are John Whitener, Charlie Adams, Jim Cherrault, Gurney Reddick and Tex Flip-pin.

Brother Don Drapeau was recently pinned by Libby Graham. She was serenaded on December 4. Brother Charles Riddle has become engaged to Carolyn Gibbs, and Dick Vert has become engaged to Peggy Tally.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Friday, December 18, 1959, Delta Kappa Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon had a Christmas Dance. The dance took place at the new American Legion building on High St. At the dance the pledges were honored and brothers and their dates had some choice entertainment by the winning team of the Phi Mu Pledge Skit.

The winners of the Phi Mu Pledge Skit were the TKE pledges. Participating in the skit were Harold Dickenson, Wayne Hazelwood, Roger Johnson, Ken Foddrell, Frank Lewis and Sam Taylor. Bill McDaniel was the manager of the group. We welcome new pledge Pete Dubose.

The volleyball team had a record of three wins and two defeats.

THETA CHI

"Those wedding bells are breaking up that old gang of mine!" Alumni Brother Delbert Kirkman will be married soon; while Brother Ross Smith pinned Miss Grace Jensen on the 12th of Dec. and Brother Jack Jarrett pinned Miss Loraine Shumate of Greensboro on the 17th of Dec.

Brother Bill Morris and his wife have a new addition to the family, a little rebel!

Miss Jerri Marten the OX contestant in the Miss HPC Contest captivated the audience and judges and very fittingly was chosen Miss HPC for the coming year.

Four Red OX's were elected to the campus football All Star Team: Brothers Harold Long, and Len Lewin, and pledges Don Schmitt, and Squat Edmunson. The Red OX teams took Second Place in the Intramural Football competition and First Place in the Volleyball competition.

A stag is planned with the OX's of Wake Forest, followed by the Theta Chi Sweetheart Dance on the 13th of Feb. On Jan. 10, the OX's welcomed into their Brotherhood Chuck Schaffer, and Ralph Helsenbeck.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Delta Omega Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity welcomed two new brothers into the bonds recently. John Tharpe and Gilbert Buck, the new brothers, were initiated Wednesday, December 16, 1959.

On Friday night, December 18, 1959, the Pikas had an informal barn-loft party. The cold, rainy weather did nothing to dampen the spirits of those who attended.

The brothers, pledges, and friends of Delta Omega Chapter wish to congratulate Brothers Ed Venable, Bill Kester and Rodney Mills. Brother Venable gave Laura Jean Malpass (KD) an engagement ring during the Christmas holidays. Brother Kester pinned Cynthia Slate, a High Point girl attending Stratford College in Danville, Virginia, at 12:30 A.M., January 3, 1960. Brother Mills pinned Miss Teddy Powers of Asheboro, N. C., on Christmas Eve.

Brother Doug Barr and a brother from Wake Forest visited Brothers Jack Mahan, "Mack" Mackintosh, Kemp Weitzel and Greg Mills in Washington, D. C., for a week after Christmas.

Twenty-three Pikas, including a brother from Wake Forest, and their dates had a blast at the sophomore class-sponsored Holiday Ball. The Pikas congratulate the sophomores for a successful party.

On the 1959 Intramural All-Star Football Team was Brother Gary Thornburg.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

On the evening of November 2, 1959, N. C. Eta Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon held its annual stag rush party at the Lexington American Legion. Entertainment was provided by the Victorians of Thomasville. Brother Bedford Black, Grand Historian from Kannapolis, was present, delivering an address on fraternity life.

The drag rush party was on November 7, at the High Point WOW hut. The Victorians were again on hand to provide music.

On the evening of November 11, 18 men were formally inducted into the pledge class of Sigma Phi Epsilon. When open rush began, Eta Chapter pledged five more men.

Brother Mickey Dean is captain of the High Point College undefeated cross-country team. Other Sig Eps on the team are pledges Ken Sullivan, Mike Sabino, and Lewis Farlowe.

At the Oakview Grange on December 16, Sig Eps held a stag party for brothers and pledges.

Social events are planned for Saturday, January 16—a date party; and for February 5, when alumni will be honored at a Homecoming Dance.

Congratulations, Dr. Patton!

"Must Not Be Afraid" Declares Dr. Patton

Today is the day for which much planning has been taking place. The cause for all of this activity is a man with a friendly dynamic disposition and definite ideas as to what it takes to make a good college. Seeking to find out just how this man feels at this momentous occasion in his life, an interview was arranged in hopes of obtaining some pre-inaugural comments from him.

Dr. Wendell L. Patton, who is being officially installed as president of High Point College today took quite seriously the reporter's request. In fact he was so much in earnest that the reporter sought to bring out the human element to a greater degree by asking him if he honestly wasn't just a little bit "scared." He would not admit any such thing.

"Tell them," he said, "that I am humble in face of the great challenge before me; that I know my own wisdom or experience is not enough to insure success; that I shall need and will solicit help of all kinds in every legitimate quarter. But we must not be afraid—for ourselves or for the future of High Point College."

"That is not the way of progress or the path of success," he continued. "I shall start out with certain convictions and with a definite but always evolving program in mind. If the goals continue to seem proper and the methods of reaching toward them good, we shall move forward with confidence and optimism in such direction."

OUTLINES PLAN OF ACTION

To reach a goal, states Dr. Patton, even a temporary one, a plan of action is essential; but long-range planning, involving participation of the entire college family—planning over a ten-year period, say, and including all areas of operation—this is the approach that seems logical as one looks towards the future.

In offering a list of objectives for High Point College in what he referred to as a "development program," Dr. Patton emphasized that one step is not necessarily dependent upon another—that the effective approach towards working out a total problem will be in tackling several of these steps simultaneously. A suggested plan of action is set forth, in part, in the general statements that follows:

1. To develop a clear, vigorous, and inspiring statement of the character and goals of High Point College.
2. To enlist the aid of every member of the college family — trustees, administration, faculty, students, and alumni.
3. To study carefully the needs which must be met to attain our goals, and to set down in writing, for repeated observation, a description of these needs.
4. To identify and analyze the means required and those potentially available to accomplish our mission.
5. To seek zealously a continuous upgrading of all our standards — especially as applicable to faculty, students, and curriculum.
6. To increase attention to personal counseling and academic guidance — to cover the students' entire stay at the college from the time they apply for admission until the time they are graduated and are assisted in locating positions.

Patton Fourth In Line Of HPC Presidents

High Point College was founded in 1924. The Rev. R. M. Andrews, D.D., serving as the first president of this institution. Dr. Andrews had served as field agent in the original campaign for funds to begin the college, and was a former president of the North Carolina Methodist Annual Conference. Dr. Andrews resigned from the presidency in 1930.

The Board of Trustees selected the Rev. Gideon I. Humphreys, A.M., D.D., LL.D., to fill the vacancy. Dr. Humphreys was the former president of the Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Church. He was close to the field of education because of his association with the General Board of Christian Education.

From 1924 to 1930, Dr. Humphreys served as president of this board, resigning in 1930 to assume the presidency of High Point College. Dr. Humphreys retired from this position in June of 1949, after serving for 19 years.

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke was inaugurated as the third president of the college in 1950. He holds the A.B. and M.Ed. degrees from Duke University and the Ph.D. degree from George Peabody College.

He was for a number of years Professor of School Administration at George Peabody College for Teachers, and then President of East Carolina College. For the two years before coming to High Point, Dr. Cooke was Head of the Department of Education and Director of the Summer School in the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Cooke resigned after ten years of loyal service to the college. He is now serving as head of the college's department of teacher education.

To be inaugurated as the fourth in this line of presidents, Dr. Patton received his education at the University of Georgia and at Purdue University. He has served as assistant registrar and admissions officer, as business manager and head of the education and psychology department, and as an instructor in various educational institutions.

Dr. Patton also served as a psychologist and was assistant to the president in the world of industry. It was this latter position, at Shuford Mills in Hickory, N. C., which Dr. Patton gave up in order to accept the presidency of High Point College.

Fleming Story Of Success

Arthur Sherwood Fleming, Secretary of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and principal speaker for the inauguration of High Point College's fourth president, has had a varied and fruitful career both in government and in education.

Born in Kingston, N. Y., Fleming attended high school and then spent a year as a reporter on Kingston's newspaper. Following that year, he entered Ohio Wesleyan University, of which he later became president.

Graduating with a B.A. degree in 1927, Fleming moved to American University and received a M.A. degree in political science in 1928. Staying at American University, he taught government and was debate coach for three years.

Returning to his previous profession, the years 1930-34 were devoted to work as a member of the editorial staff of United States Daily (now U. S. News and World Report). Also during this time the responsibilities as editor of Uncle Sam's Dairy, a weekly current events publication for use in the high schools, were assumed by Fleming.

In 1933 he received the LL.B. degree from George Washington University and the following year was named director of American University's School of Public Affairs. In 1938 Fleming was appointed executive officer of this university.

Next followed nine years of service on the U. S. Civil Service Commission. During the years of World War II, Fleming served in many diverse areas. He was chief labor supply in the Labor Division, a member of the War Manpower Commission, and a member of the Navy Department Manpower Survey Board. For this last work, Fleming received the Navy's Distinguished Civilian Service Award, which is the highest Navy honor available to civilians.

Answering the call of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Fleming became, in

President's Family Has Varied Interests

The firm handshake of two young sons, the happy enthusiasm of a baby daughter, and a sincere greeting from the parents who reside at 821 College Drive, give a caller at the home insight into the pleasant family life of Dr. and Mrs. Wendell M. Patton and their children.

Dr. and Mrs. Patton's sons are Wendell Melton III, 13, and Leland Matthews, 10. Their daughter, Melissa Lee, is 18 months.

Though a close knit group, the Pattons have varied interests. Each person in the family group admires and respects the others, but pursues his own interest independently.

Design and construction of early American furniture is a relaxing hobby for Dr. Patton. Photography, with emphasis on movies of his wife and children, is another of the college president's particular interests.

1948, the first alumnus and layman to be named head of Ohio Wesleyan University. While filling this position, he also taught a course on the administration of the federal government.

Fleming continued to advise in the personnel field. In this line of work he served on the Atomic Energy Commission's Personnel Committee, as chairman of the United Nations Commission on Experts and Salaries, Allowances and Leave Systems, and on various other such committees. In 1951 Fleming took a leave of absence from Ohio Wesleyan and became assistant to the Director of Defense Mobilization.

Arthur Fleming is a Methodist and has served in many related positions. He was vice-president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ, is a lay leader of the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church, president of the World Federation of Churches for two terms, and superintendent of Foundry Methodist Church's Sunday School in Washington, D. C.

The former Bernice Virginia Moler, who was registrar and instructor of political science at American University, is the wife of Fleming. They have five children, two girls and three boys.

"I play golf, but must admit that my wife is a better golfer," Dr. Patton modestly commented. "I have little time at the present for hobbies, but am looking forward to playing golf later," Dr. Patton said.

Chess is a game the couple enjoys. "I guess I'll have to admit that Mrs. Patton can beat me at that game, too," the doctor laughingly remarked.

Presently Mrs. Patton has little time for hobbies as Melissa, the darling of the family, requires a generous amount of her time. She loves growing things, and has a "green thumb" with plants both indoors and out. She sews and reads, and generally is reading two or three books at the same time according to Dr. Patton. Her primary interest is music.

A seventh grade student at Northeast Junior High School, Wendell has several absorbing interests. He recently constructed a short wave radio receiver which he operates; he collects coins, plays the clarinet in the school band, is a Star Boy Scout and belongs to the Panther Cubs at High Point College. While living in Hickory, he played Little League baseball.

Raising tropical fish fascinates Leland, a fifth grade student at Montlieu Avenue School. He plays the violin and is also a member of the Panther Cubs.

President Seeks Courage From High Point College Students

TO THE STUDENTS OF HIGH POINT COLLEGE:

For the first time in the history of our college, we have available all the ingredients for making our college a truly great one. It is only for us to put them together. If there is any questionable element, it is the strength of our own motivation. It's easy to say that we want our degrees to mean more — our diplomas to carry more prestige — but we must remember it will not come without sacrifice and the pain of our assuming responsibility. We can have it if we want it—do we?

First, and this is an essential, we must have strong student government. But we cannot have this without the keen interest and support and even insistence of the entire student body. Each of you must want it and demand it. If you want it done, those acts that discredit and humiliate us can be eliminated almost overnight as though by magic. The administration can do nothing more than take a first stand and show its position on these disgraceful and uncomplimentary acts. We will do that and do it

Welcome Back, Alumni!

Homecoming Queen Contestants

Seated around the fountain are the contestants for homecoming queen. Each is sponsored by a member of the basketball team. Left to right, they are: Jane Honeycutt, sponsored by Gene Buchanan; Wini Stuart, by Tommy Skidmore; Shelby Williams, by Danny Sewell; Von Vaughn, by Joe Guzinski; Peggy Shoaf, by Tex Flippin; Bookie Kearns, by Larry Noland; and Julie Young, by Jackie Short.

Homecoming Is Largest In History Of Campus

The largest homecoming event in the history of High Point College is taking place today since it coincides with the inauguration of Dr. Wendell M. Patton.

Many alumni are expected to return to the campus because of the outstanding program planned this year. Registration of the alumni will begin at 9:00 a.m. in Roberts Hall.

The Executive Committee of the Alumni Association will attend the inaugural luncheon as guest of the college and will represent the association at this function.

During the afternoon the fraternities and sororities will hold open house for the alumni. The fraternities will receive in their dormitory sections, and the sororities will receive and entertain in the new Panhellenic House at 905 Montleu Avenue, just off the campus.

Dr. and Mrs. Patton have invited alumni and delegates to a reception which will be held in the new Student Center during the afternoon.

Alumni chapters and past presidents of the association will be recognized at the Alumni Dinner in Harrison Hall at 6:00 p.m. Alumni President, Mr. Porter Hauser, announces there will be no formal speaker, but that the emphasis at the dinner will be on the High Point College Alumni Chapters.

The members of the High Point College Basketball team nominated candidates for Homecoming Queen and the student body has voted their selection. The 1960 Homecoming Queen will be crowned by Mr. Porter Hauser at half-time in the Catawba-High Point College basketball game.

without fail. But all of us know that punishment alone is not the answer. The answer lies with you, the students. Are you going to condone this type of behavior? Are you going to stop it? It will never be effectively stopped unless you truly want it stopped and we will never be a truly great institution until it is stopped.

Students will also need the courage to press for continuing quality and higher standards. And believe me, this does take courage, because usually this is a very unpopular request. We don't mean the superficial type quality measured by more failures or larger lesson assignments. That is no index of quality. But, instead, we mean more intensity and depth to our work and the development of our ability to enjoy vigorous intellectual experiences. We need you to constantly insist that we do a better job of preparing you for the complex society in which you are going to have to live. This is the only real and lasting way to accomplish these things. The student body must want them and demand them.

Truly, all of our ingredients are here and the time is now. There has never been a college with such a perfect opportunity as we have before us. Let me beg you to consider carefully the grand challenge before us, as well as the price we must pay in unrelenting firmness. And if you agree with me that we can do it, and you will join me in this undertaking, I don't believe that anything can stop us.

Sincerely yours,
WENDELL M. PATTON
President

Winter And Homecoming

The fantasy of mid-winter brings little to our campus in the way of frosty spectacles or ice-patterned images. At best winter has little more for us than a throbbing chill or cold feet at a final exam.

Yet, the very tinge of froidness seems to have the knack of propelling the individual to a more accelerated pace in both movement and spirit. We find ourselves trekking on snowless ground to the most out-of-the-question places to cheer on our fabulous five and our victorious return or the clanging of the victory bell supplements for the more frolicsome winter which we geographically missed.

The crescendo for our winter scheme is definitely our Homecoming. At what other time does our menu consist of choice cut steak and white mashed potatoes that never quite reach the hardening stage?

Homecoming unconsciously has such a penetrating effect on all of us. To our alumni it is an academic crusade; an escape from a murky office or a short transgression from a simple and beloved parsonage. At any rate it is the recapturing of a cherished "once."

The buildings and walks are common items of knowledge to the student but to the alumnus these very buildings and walks are at last realities. Each track of ground or brick of building is so vastly new but so unquestionably familiar.

The student associates the Homecoming with goals scored, starched white collars on a Saturday, and drum-beat suspense as to whose the victor, in the way of game, queen, and display.

Homecoming "60" will indeed be variable, traditional, and enriching for all present and past associates of our unique and intimate campus. We will be fortunate enough to witness an inaugural pageant which will see a bright and progressive young man named Patton assume the presidency of our college, an occasion which certainly will serve as an earmark in regard to our history and to our future. Among other things it will be the last homecoming game that Danny Sewell will register a score in and indeed it will be the last time our seniors will be regarded as undergraduate students.

The passing of each homecoming serves as a carved notch in a tree which we hope shall be ever-enduring. Let us hope that when our new president's chestnut locks turn a silky gray the blooming flower of High Point will still be a reality and that we are somehow able to be back here to witness it as proud alumni.

its funnel; or that car that looked big enough to hold the whole student body; or that merry-go-round; or the jet plane—I could go on and on, they were all great.

There are not many of us who will soon forget last year, and I'm sure that those who came from all over the state and the country to attend homecoming will not soon forget either.

We always like to look back at the previous years, but what about this year? This year promises to be the greatest of all homecomings, and not without numerous reasons. We have more things to look forward to this year.

We are inaugurating a new president, Dr. Wendell M. Patton; we are going to have many honored speakers such as Dr. Arthur S. Flemming; representatives from many colleges and universities throughout the United States will be here; and of course our alumni will be swarming over the campus.

This year we are also hoping to have a victorious homecoming game. All in all this year will be only as great as we, the students, make it. Every student should put forth his best efforts to make this year the best ever at HPC, for someday in the bright future, you who are now students will be the alumni visitor that expects an outstanding homecoming.

With Malice Toward None

by DALE BROWN

"GIANT KILLERS" IN TOWN

Alumni will have the chance to see, perhaps, the strongest fifth place club in any NAIA conference, Saturday night when the Catawba Indians make their appearance on the High Point hardwood court for the Panthers' annual homecoming contest. Catawba handed Coach Yow's squad its initial defeat some four weeks ago in Salisbury in an overtime classic, 77-75. Besides this stunning upset, Coach Earl Ruth's "spoilers" have racked up impressive victories over Appalachian, Elon, and two at the hands of defending champion, Western Carolina.

High Point's Purple Panthers will be out to stop Doug Chalk and Horace Medford, and the Indians' two top scorers, thus far, and gain revenge, for the earlier defeat. High Point had to bounce back from a 74-66 beating at the hands of Lenoir Rhyne last Saturday night to meet Elon College earlier this week after this paper went to press. Elon swore they would whip the High Pointers at Elon and it might just be that the outcome of that game will determine just how well High Point looks on homecoming night.

LENOIR RHYNE TOUGH AS ALWAYS

With an 11-2 overall record at the start of this week, Coach Yow has much to be proud of. Danny Sewell is again the North State leader in scoring, Wayne Cheek has come into his own now that he is playing regularly, Joe Guzinski is one of the better sophomores in the conference, and Jack Short has assumed the duties of backcourt general with skill and ability. With the exception of the Lenoir Rhyne contest Yow has shown a bench capable of speed and scoring punch.

As good as this club has looked, however, they are still on the outside looking in. Ken Norman and company moved and played with the same power last Saturday night that has led them to two championships over the past three seasons. A deliberate offense and phenomenal foul shooting (30-33) turned the trick in what was to be the most important ball game for both teams thus far. High Point vs. Lenoir Rhyne again on February 20 as the regular season wraps up at Lenoir! Got your tickets yet?

GOOD BALANCE IN NORTH STATE

Frank McGuire, famed coach of the Carolina Tar Heels, stated two Sundays ago while interviewing Coach Yow on his regular Sunday night show that there was very little difference overall between the ACC and the North State Conference. Well, although this was mostly flattery, the fact remains that the NSC possesses more balance this year than over the past few seasons when two or three clubs had the race all to themselves.

Catawba, of course, has raised havoc with the front-runners but the team that impresses me at the moment is Coach Earl Smith's young East Carolina outfit. They belted Western Carolina by 28 points last week and have moved from seventh to fourth place in three playing weeks. Western Carolina has gotten its bumps this season and they rest in sixth spot at the moment but everyone knows them to be tough on any given night.

At present High Point, Lenoir Rhyne, and Appalachian are all fighting for ownership of the No. 1 spot. The Bears have a slight nod with only six games left to play, while Coach Lights' squad and the Panthers list seven remaining conference tilts. I'm not making any bets yet, however, on the final outcome. It's the clubs who are out of the running for first place this year that are going to decide the final outcome.

'Glass Menagerie' Subject of Christian Symposium

A Christian Symposium on a contemporary drama, the Glass Menagerie will be held by the Student Christian Council on March 29 and 30. The Symposium and its approach is new and different on the High Point Campus. The play is a drama of life as people live it today. The author seeks to portray man caught in the midst of life and struggling to find freedom.

The play is not religious, but it has a message for Christian people. Christians must accept the truths which the play presents, recognizing the people in the play as real people and their needs to be the needs which the church today must be concerned about and must undertake to meet. The Symposium will be an attempt to discover how the Christian message bears relationship to the present isolation and confusion of contemporary life. Mr. Stuart Currie, religion professor at Queen's College, will lead the Symposium.

The opening session will be on Tuesday night with the presentation of the Tower Players' production of Tennessee Williams' Glass Menagerie under the direction of Miss Jane DeSpain. Students and other people who attend on Tuesday and who wish to see the play again on Thursday or Friday night following the discussions may do so without additional cost.

Following the play on Tuesday night a reception will be held in the foyer of the Fine Arts Building to give the students an opportunity to meet Mr. Currie and the discussion leaders who will be taking part on Wednesday.

Mr. Currie will address the student body in Assembly Wednesday morning basing his remarks on issues raised by the play. This talk is to be the first chapter of a book Mr. Currie is now in the process of writing. On Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center the students, with leaders from High Point and surrounding areas, will discuss the play and its relationship to contemporary Christian living.

Among the discussion leaders will be Mrs. Robert Amos, Mrs. C. C. Herbert, and Mr. Richard Bickerton of High Point; Mrs. F. J. Haruyama of Durham; and Rev. Robert Streetman, director of Wesley Foundation at Woman's College.

Committees at work in preparing for the symposium are: Tickets: Al Thompson, chairman; Bobby Little, Joan Bartlett, Alice Hobson, Wini Stuart, Libby Graham, Arlene Lanzieri, Pat Peele, David Baxter, Ben Wyndham, Ken Oxenford, Pat Peterson, Liz Peterson.

Publicity: Brooks Garnett, chairman; Alyce Ratliff, Phillip Wong, Harry Lilly, Jane Crowson, Donald Hugger, Dee Ford, Kay Phillips, Donna Blue, Dodo Davis, Shelby Purser, John Wood, Pat Peterson, Charlie Price, Georgiana Hardin.

Hospitality: Bill Gladstone, chairman; Patti Collier, Nancy Bost, Pat Clarke. Reception: Ann Runyon, chairman; Peggy McDaniels, Dot Barrick, Nina Lawson, Louise Feng. Program: Marilyn Tulloch, chairman; Bill Baker, Ed Stafford, Louise Stokes.

Chapel Program: John Carpenter and Judy Fisher, co-chairmen; Jackie Creech. Discussion Group: Bob Clarke, chairman; Joe Thomas, Nancy Moffett, Louise Whitley, Sam Weigle, Winifred Lindley. Wednesday Night Worship: Julia Hobson and Jack Jarrett, co-chairmen; Larry Maxwell, Kay Thompson.

Greek Sing to Be Held by Pan-Hell

The Panhellenic Council of HPC is sponsoring a "Greek Sing" on Monday night, April 4, 1960, in the High Point College Auditorium. The council is inviting all Greek organizations to participate in this event.

Each group entering will be asked to present two songs. One of these must be of a serious nature and the other being a comic song. The songs can be a fraternity or sorority song, popular tunes, religious numbers or original numbers written by a member of the group. Lighting and costuming will be left to the discretion of the group and will be considered in the judging.

The fraternities and sororities will be judged on a competitive basis on originality, presentation, and quality by a panel of judges selected by the

Williams' Best Work Will be Given March 29, 31, and April 1

Emma Lou Noell will play the blowsy, impoverished mother living on the memories of a over-scented Southern past in the Tower Players'—SCC's presentation of "The Glass Menagerie" at Memorial Auditorium starting March 29. This is the poignant drama which first won acclaim for its author Tennessee Williams, who has been described by the N.Y. Herald Tribune as "the Eugene O'Neill of the present period on the stage."

As Amanda Wingfield, a woman both amusing and pathetic, with love for no one but herself, Miss Noell will be portraying the role which is generally conceded to have been the greatest ever acted by the late Laurette Taylor who created it in New York.

Bobbie Shuford will be seen as Amanda's daughter, Laura, the lame and retiring girl who cannot bear to mix with people, but whose heart cries out for affection and understanding, like the kind she lavishes on her collection of glass animals.

As Tom, the restless son who Amanda fears will, like his father, throw up his bread-winning warehouse job and "fall in love with long distance," Ed Stafford will be seen. This is the role created on Broadway by Eddie Dowling, who, as co-producer of the play deserves considerable credit for encouraging the great new talent in the American theatre that is William's!

Completing the quartet of the drama's characters, Lloyd Ginn will portray the part of the Gentleman Caller, the man who comes to dinner and tries to get Laura over her inferiority complex, but disappoints Amanda by already being engaged to be married.

"The Glass Menagerie" ran in New York for 563 performances and won the New York Critics' Circle Award. Its author received the award again in 1948, as well as the Pulitzer Prize, for his "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Snow Delays Summer School

Dr. Harold Conrad, Dean of High Point College and Director of Summer School, announced this week a delay in the beginning of summer school. This delay is due to the time lost in the city school systems of High Point and surrounding communities by the snow in the past several weeks.

The first session of summer school at High Point College was scheduled to begin on June 6 but has been re-scheduled for June 10 and 11. Registration for the first term will take place on Friday and Saturday, June 10 and 11.

The second term will begin on July 16 with commencement taking place on August 20. The days lost from the original schedule will be made up through having Saturday classes.

Barbara Lynn . . . vocalist with Tommy Dorsey Orchestra.

Tommy Dorsey Orchestra to Appear at HPC

On April 5 the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, under the direction of Warren Covington, will perform at the Annual Spring concert and dance. The concert will be held in Alumni Gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. The dance will be held in Harrison Hall at 9 p.m.

Bobby Little, chairman for the affair, has announced that the concert will last an hour. The May Court will be presented during the concert. Ann Starr, May Queen for 1960, will be crowned by Warren Covington. Ann's court consists of Wini Stuart and Peggy Davis, Seniors; Dee Stone and Ann Gandy, Juniors; Von Vaughn and Julie Young, Sophomores; Jo Nell Kerley and Ann Surratt, Freshmen.

All students who have been enrolled at High Point College for both semesters of the 1959-1960 school year receive admission to the concert free. Tickets to outsiders will be sold for $1.25.

Following the concert the Orchestra will move to Harrison Hall for a dance. The dance will be semi-formal. Admission to the dance will be $3.00 per couple and $2.00 for stag.

Committees planning the spring concert and dance are: decorations, Anne McArthur and Daryl Smith; refreshments, Jimmy Edwards and Jeanette Small; publicity, Dick Holt; tickets, Fred Sigmon and Becky Jarvis; stage, Al Thompson; May Court, Betty Gray Dorman.

The Tommy Dorsey Music

The TOMMY DORSEY ORCHESTRA starring WARREN COVINGTON will recreate the never-to-be-forgotten music of "The Sentimental Gentleman." The TD treasury on wax includes some of the greatest platters ever cut.

Two of Tommy's most fabulous recordings for Victor were "Marie" and the "Song of India." These two records were historic because they started back on the road to big-time business and set two distinctive trends in popular arrangements that last to this day.

In "Marie" Tommy took an old Irving Berlin tune and revived it into a bigger hit than it had been on its first appearance. This record also introduced, for the first time, the choral background, chanting a series of song titles in response to the vocalist who did the lyrics to the number. The amazing success of this record—still widely requested and one of the most popular of all time—was followed by others in the same vein, including another "oldie" brought up-to-date, Jerome Kern's "Who?"

"Song of India" was another never-to-be-forgotten Dorsey special — A sweet-swing arrangement of a classic featuring Tommy's mellow trombone. The great demand for more of this elegant music brought forth "Bar-

Elections April 5 and 6

Nominations for SGA Offices Announced

Eight candidates have been nominated for the four SGA offices to be filled by election. The elections will be held in the Student Center on April 5 and 6. Any run-off ballots will be cast on April 7 and 8. The nominations were filed with SGA secretary, Betty Gray Dorman, by midnight on March 18.

Elections for the HI-PO editor will be held at the same time as the SGA elections. Brooks Garnett and Tony Lasala are running as co-editors for the HI-PO. There have been no other nominations received.

Jackie Creech is running on the Student's Party slate for secretary. Running independently are Vance Davis and Don Drapeau for president, Jimmy Edwards for vice-president, and Judy Fisher and Denise Brown for secretary.

Masengale to Play for Jr-Sr

The Junior Class has announced that final plans have been made for the Junior-Senior Prom. The date has been set for March 26, from 8:00 p.m. 'til 12:00. The Prom, which is an annual affair, is to be held in the Ball Room of Pilot Life Insurance Company's Club. The club house is located at the company's main office on the Greensboro Road.

The music will be furnished by the orchestra of Burt Masengale. This orchestra has received wide acclaim in this area for its dancing music and has recently returned from a successful engagement at the Madi-Gra in New Orleans.

This year should prove to be one of the biggest and best Junior-Senior in the history of High Point College. The Junior Class would like to emphasize that much time and effort has gone into the planning of this affair in honor of the Senior Class. The Junior Class also stresses that the Seniors should plan to reserve this date as a highlight in the Spring semester.

April First To Be Sadie Hawkins Day

Dick Holt, president of the Sophomore Class, and a committee from that class have made elaborate plans for a Sadie Hawkins Day and Dance, which is to be an all-day affair on April 1. This is the first time that any activity of this nature has ever occurred on this campus in recent years.

Highlighting the day's activities will be a dance in the college cafeteria in the evening from 7:00 to 11:00 p.m. The music for the dance will be provided by the CASUALS. Admission price for the dance will be $1.00 per couple.

Freshmen girls have been given 11:15 permission for the evening to attend the dance. The dress to the dance will be in Dogpatch Style for the girls while the boys are permitted to wear any type of clothes. Refreshments will be served at the dance by the Sophomore Class.

Certain rules have been set down by the Committee that are to be followed for the entire day. These are the rules:

1. The girls are to dress in Dogpatch fashion during the day and to the dance. Boys will dress as they wish.
2. Girls must invite the boys to the dance and take care of all the expenses.
3. During the day the girls must show courtesy to the boys by opening doors, lighting cigarettes, carrying trays, carrying books, etc.

Vance Davis has served as treasurer of the Sophomore Class, speaker pro-tem of the House of Representatives, and as a Junior Marshal. He was elected to the Order of the Lighted Lamp, has been on the Dean's List four semesters, and has served as a member of Student Congress. Vance is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

Don Drapeau, presently vice-president of the SGA, has served as Speaker of the House, vice-president of the Sophomore Class, and has been vice-president of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity. Don was HPC's chief delegate to the North State SGA meetings at ECC.

Jimmy Edwards has served as the Freshman representative to the Judiciary Council, as Social Chairman in Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, as treasurer of MSF and a representative to SCA.

Denise Brown was secretary of the Freshman Class, and is now secretary of the Day Students. She is a member of the House of Representatives and a member of the concert choir. Denise is vice-president of the Phi Mu Sorority.

Jackie Creech has been a representative to the House for two years, and has served as president of Canterbury Club. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority, the Order of the Lighted Lamp, and Alpha Delta Theta. Jackie has also served as a member of Student Congress.

Judy Fisher has worked on the business and feature staff of the Zenith, and has done the stenographic work for the Senate this year. Judy helped plan the programs for the Religious Emphasis Day, and is a business major.

HPC to Host Home Ec. Association

High Point College Department of Home Economics will be the host to the meeting of the College Division of the North Carolina Home Economics Association on Friday and Saturday, April 1 and 2. The theme for this year's meeting will be "April in Furniture City" and was selected especially since High Point is the "Furniture City of the South." The entire program of the associational meeting will be based around housing interiors, furniture selections and design.

The main purpose of the College Division of the North Carolina Home Economics Association is to create a better understanding among college students of Home Economics as a profession. To present an opportunity for the exchange of ideas and to unify college Home Economics in the state of North Carolina.

Representatives from 14 colleges in the state will be present for the meeting and will include: High Point College, Queens, Western Carolina, WCUNC, Appalachian, Mars Hill, Greensboro, Salem, East Carolina, Elon, Flora MacDonald, Pembroke State College, Meredith and Catawba.

Across The Desk

Have I Failed Completely?

I have recently been criticized by some students for not writing critical editorials directed at the administration. At a recent conference for college editors from all over the country, I received the impression that the criterion of success for college editors was being suspended from college because of criticizing the administration. These revelations, combined with the impending end of my editorship, caused me to do some thinking concerning the success I have had as editor of the HI-PO.

I have come to the conclusion that I have been a failure. I have not been a failure because I was not thrown out of school for being too vocal in my criticism of the administration. I do not feel that this is a valid criterion of success. I would say that an editor has been successful if the editorials have resulted in some action.

What then, one may ask, do I feel to be High Point College's biggest problem? Again I can answer very simply. I believe that we, the members of the student body, are its weakest point. Apathy is our problem and this is where I have failed to create any action.

In discussing this problem with various students the usual suggestion is to increase entrance requirements and thus have more responsible students. This is to say that those with average intelligence are generally apathetic—that we must have the intellectuals to have an active student government. But the majority of the citizens of the United States are of average intelligence, and in a democracy this majority rules.

This leaves us to choose the alternative of educating the majority to be responsible citizens or of doing away with our democracy. We cannot rely upon the intellectual to guide our country under a democratic government, for the majority will not elect him, as evidenced in the defeat of Adlai Stevenson.

Election time has come at HPC. Will our apathetic majority continue in its irresponsible attitude concerning the welfare of our college? Have I failed completely?—P.O.

Campus Parties Must Revamp

The more dissident critic of the High Point scene finally must admit that there is a definite interest and integrity on our campus, which can grasp the entire student body. In our last general election the voter was able to make his way into the student center, with a fairly concise conviction as to who was what and why. The result was a diligent and hard working corps of officers who have for the most part rewarded the electorate.

Nevertheless, it is high time we realized that major league politics and political techniques cannot function on a small campus. Essentially, we are a fairly close-knit and familiar body and consequently the shady aces of authentic political drama could do much to rupture the general health of our campus. The political party should not be the categorical assemblage of rival organizations, but more so the democratic representation of platforms which include a cross-section of ideas into a central organization that will appeal to the independent voter.

The perspective candidate should do his most extensive campaigning within the party itself and not rely merely on the imagination of a few sure-shot primary votes which will give him a majority. More emphatically, the primary or convention voters should rely on their own personal ideas in the form of the secret ballot rather than their obligation to a particular bandwagon. Our party system has been entirely devoid of proper construction or proper administration, and it has lacked the ambition electing platforms as well as personalities. A true political party functions 365 days a year or at least on a school-year basis. A party that closes shop after the vote has been counted is just not a party.

Furthermore, an uninformed electorate is as dangerous as no electorate at all. If revamped, political parties can serve in the capacity of informing the electorate, thus definitely serving our campus. A modified version of the authentic political system with the dismissal of the machine system is the most recommendable system for achieving a sincerely representative democracy in our student government.—T.L.

Kid From Kokomo

Ironically enough the name of the Purple Panthers has never dented an Associated Press Poll, nor has it been at the tip of the tongue of our nation's more renowned sports-writers.

Yet true justice of recognition falls upon this spirited and talented five by the unconsumed and zealous support of its hundreds of fans and its ambassadors of good will who carry its fame by word of mouth over a Christmas or Spring holiday to unfamiliar ears.

What the Panthers lack in perfect greatness they add to balance in overall desire and sincere lust for the game of basketball.

Several years ago there fell into this atmosphere a virtually untried and certainly unknown young man who held promise simply because of his fair height and weightless body. Visibly he was not a casting producer's dream of a leading man and to see him at close range with his shoulders slightly slumped and his hands in his pockets he definitely had that "Back Home In Indiana" look all about him.

Yet when one was first confronted by his face covering smile and easy personality they were able to distinguish this somewhat rangy lad as the man that he was, and still is for that matter.

In the beginning, the pressure of daily practice and books were as consuming to this Freshman as they are to any other college athlete, but gradually his native ability on the basketball court began to mature and his conscientious wrestling with his studies eventually enabled him to hop out from behind the eight-ball.

The legend of number 32 perhaps began here because the next year saw him not only winning a starting berth on the varsity but being named to the North Carolina All State Squad, which claimed the likes of many who were able to grab more syndicated newspaper than did the lithe Hoosier.

His twenty point plus average and his meticulous knack of sending the ball through the hoop from all diversified angles suddenly awakened the North State Conference to his true and ever-increasing potential. This realization was passed on and finally at the close of the 1958-1959 season the tall and talented man from Indiana was named to the All-American roster.

Indeed this was a fitting tribute for a man who under the strain of a threatening leg injury and almost minute by minute physical abuse from the opposition, was able to maintain and expound the marks which he had achieved. Here sincerely was a deserving recipient for this most heralded award.

Perhaps what will be considered his greatest game was not won in the last second of play, its outcome didn't decide any championship, nor was he the individual star. Yet, it was evident in the game's closing seconds when he returned to the bench for the last time on his home court, and when he was carried to the dressing room on the shoulders of his teammates, that he was truly the greatest Purple Panther that has emerged.

But fate turned a bitter hand and his well-earned period of glory was stolen from him several minutes later when he learned his father had died. A less religious man may have been completely broken by this loss, especially if one were able to realize the more than ordinary father and son relationship that had existed.

Yet a scant week and a half later the fabulous '32' helped provide his team victory in the semi-finals at the North State Tourney. Unfortunately the hopes and the valiant effort of the Panthers were to go unrewarded the next night.

The end of a career had come for the kid from Kokomo. One could see this in the final stages of his final game when he lowered his swollen and blackened face into the palms of his hands. Yet certainly there will never be a Purple Panther who will not, at least once, hear the name of All-American Danny Sewell.

Veep's Rebuttal

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the editor for her editorial concerning the SGA. It included many good points, especially the phrases relating the apathy on the part of the student body. It is very evident that this apathetic, or "I don't care," feeling, is the first problem to be conquered before the Student Government can progress.

This problem has been realized by the leaders of the SGA, but an answer has not yet been found. I do not think that the fault for this feeling lies with the administration, faculty or the executive council. The blame lies on the shoulders of us all, for we all are members of the Student Government.

The sooner we realize this fact and do something about it, the sooner our SGA will improve. It seems to me as though those who do the least, complain the loudest. Instead of wasting their time complaining about a certain situation, these people should be working on a solution. I do not think that this is too much to ask. Please, speak up and voice your opinions.

I have noticed that when an organization on campus holds its elections, the last officers to be elected are those of the Senators and Representatives. These organizations must feel that these positions are unimportant ones, which anyone can fill.

This is a mistake. These offices are some of the most important positions on campus when the possible power of these representatives is considered. The Student Legislature could be much more powerful and active if more of the "better" people were elected to the House and Senate.

I would also like to urge the representatives to report regularly to their individual organizations and be willing to answer questions concerning matters under consideration in their respective houses. This would create better co-ordination between the SGA and the various organizations on campus as well as being a mode of communication of proceedings.

I would like to thank the editor for her suggestion concerning the explanation of Robert's Rules of Order to the Legislature at the beginning of the year. It is a good idea but it has not been thought of, or at least suggested, before.

I would like to suggest that the editor use her "power of the press" to help an organization as well as criticize it. There was an article on the front page of the January 21 issue of this paper, entitled, "Man on Campus." Why could not this "little man" have asked the question, "How can the SGA be improved?" instead of, "What do you think of the SGA?"

This article pointed out needs that are already realized but did not offer any suggestions for the remedy of these needs. Five out of the nine students interviewed by our "Little Man on Campus" mentioned the radio broadcast. I think that this project was very good and is a great improvement, but it is not, in my opinion the most outstanding achievement that the Student Government has made this year.

It is only one of the many that have been made. The control of the Student Center, the addition of the SGA advisors, the Committee on City and College Relationship, and the formulation of a questionnaire concerning the college and the Student Government are only a few improvements that I feel rank at least as important as the radio broadcast.

In this article it was also mentioned that the SGA never asked for the support of the student body until the petition for the radio broadcast was brought before them. This is a gross fallacy. The Student Government has been, and is continually, asking for the support of the student body, but almost entirely without avail.

A good example of this is the attendance, or lack of it, at class meetings. Recently all the classes called meetings, which, theoretically, would mean a full auditorium. But this was not the case at all — the Freshman class had forty-three attending; the Sophomore class, thirty-one; the Junior class, thirty-eight; and, the Senior class, forty-four.

This "I don't care" attitude can be abolished only when every student of HPC realizes that he is the Student Government. I wonder if every student if for no other reason than just for the fun of it, could try to get concerned about the SGA and really feel a part of it, just to see what happens.

The Vice-President of the SGA.

P.S. I would be interested to know how many students are asking around to find out who the Vice-President of the SGA is.

Sanford's Voters' Program on Campus

There is a heated gubernatorial race shaping up in North Carolina, and the younger citizens of our state are being given the chance to get into the middle of the battle. A Young Voters' Program for Terry Sanford, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Carolina, has been developed as part of Mr. Sanford's campaign.

Each major college is being invited to establish the program on its campus for those eligible voting college students, and several students on the High Point College Campus are organizing a campaign for Terry Sanford on this campus.

The purpose of the Terry Sanford Young Voters' Program is to obtain the ideas, enthusiasm and hard work of young people in the political process. It is a great stepping stone in educating college students politically and in demonstrating the leadership ability of the students.

Mr. Sanford, who has been dubbed as the young and liberal candidate, has stated that the major issue of his platform is improvement in public education. He adds improvements in agricultural and industrial economy. He has made several speeches in behalf of improvements of the judicial system.

If anyone is interested in supporting Mr. Terry Sanford for Governor of North Carolina, and in voting for his victory in the May 28 primary, contact Al Thompson, chairman of Terry Sanford's Young Voters' Program on this campus.

Course In Management Begun Here

A novel course in industrial management began here March 9.

It is taught at High Point College, but no college students attend the classes. Enrollment is limited to 25 men who have had practical industrial management experience.

The course bears a standard college course number, 101 Management Review. It is taught in 14 weekly sessions—one every Wednesday night through June 8.

Its instructors are recognized leaders in the business and academic worlds. Most are from the central Piedmont area, but one will come from Washington, D. C., and another from Atlanta, Ga.

A prime purpose of the course, according to Dr. Wendell M. Patton, president of the college, is to strengthen the school's position in High Point's community life.

The role High Point College plays in the life and growth of the community is an important one, "Dr. Patton explained. "In addition to preparing students for their future, the college should also look for ways to benefit the city by going beyond the students' college life to the position they will hold in business."

The course consists of instruction in basic principles, skills and tools of management, Dr. Patton said. It is planned for men who face broad responsibilities in their field or who are ready to move up to greater areas of supervision and responsibility.

Actual management cases and experiences will be used as topics for discussion. Members of the class will use their own experiences as a guide toward solving supervisory problems.

Each class session will be two hours long. The first hour will consist of a lecture by a visiting instructor drawn from the field of management. The second hour will be occupied by a discussion led by one of the program's three coordinators.

Dr. Patton will head the team of coordinators. Assisting him will be Ralph Rochelle, personnel director of Tomlinson of High Point, and Bill C. Tadlock, a business administration instructor on the High Point College faculty.

This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first war-galleys of ancient Egypt...and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must chart its course. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps you will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards...as a Navigator in the U. S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be an American citizen between 19 and 26½—single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant...and your Navigator wings.

If you think you have what it takes to measure up to the Aviation Cadet Program for Navigator training, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Or clip and mail this coupon.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Many activities have taken place in Alpha Gamma Delta since the last HI-PO came out. The Alpha Gams recently pledged Jackie Creech and Judy Longwith. The sisters gave a Pirate Party and a spaghetti dinner to honor the pledges. The pledges in turn gave a Miss Alpha Gamma Delta contest party for the sisters.

Alpha Gamma Delta held its initiation for seven girls. They are: Alice Hobson, Penny Parker, DoDo Davis, Annette Young, Jennie Currie, Gloria Teague, and Ann Surratt. The Feast of Roses Banquet followed the initiation.

Three Alpha Gams were recently tapped for the Order of the Lighted Lamp. They are: Jackie Creech, Jean Peedin, and Eunice Young.

Dorothy A. Ehrhart from Wheaton, Illinois, Alpha Gamma Delta's National Second Grand Vice-President, will arrive at High Point College to spend the week of March 9th. A luncheon will be held in her honor by Executive Council at the Panhellenic House.

Alpha Gamma Delta was again awarded the honor of being the sorority with the highest scholastic average this semester. Yvonne Vaughn was selected the Holiday Ball Queen and Homecoming Queen for 1959-1960. Yvonne Vaughn and Eunice Young were sponsors for the High Point Y.M.C.A.'s membership campaign.

Three candlelight services were held by the Alpha Gams. Diamonds were presented to Sylvia Parker by Arnold Lawson, Theta Chi; LaRae Moseley by Bill Thompson, Lambda Chi Alpha; and Jennie Currie by Bill Covington, Kappa Sigma.

PHI MU

On March 6, six new sisters were initiated into Phi Mu. They are Joan Bartlett, Nancy Boone, Evelyn Hallman, Pat Peterson, Louise Stokes, and Kay Thompson.

On March 4, the Phi Mu pledge class entertained the sisters at an Irish Twin Twirl party. The sisters, pledges, and their dates came dressed alike. An Irish theme was carried out in the decorations.

Brenda Dellinger and Marilyn Zoeller have recently pledged Phi Mu. Recently the sisters and pledges of Phi Mu helped the ladies of Friends Church in their project of mending and packing clothes for Algerian refugees.

Bobbi Shuford will play the leading role in the play "The Glass Menagerie" which is being put on jointly by the Tower Players and the Student Christian Association.

Denise Brown, Sylvia Deaton, Evelyn Hallman and Brenda Dellinger were on the Dean's List this semester.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Helen Clay, who served as chapter president for two years, graduated in January. Delta Gamma's new president is Lorna Dickson. In intramurals the Zetas won the volleyball championship.

On January 14 Grace Jensen, who is pinned to Ross Smith, was serenaded by the Theta Chi's.

Second semester has witnessed several Zeta candlelight services. On February 6, Thelma Mitchell was pinned by Sig Ep, Jerry Hill; and Pat Wykoff received a diamond from Bill Baker. Marie Powell was pinned by Theta Chi, Lee Hinshaw on Valentine's Day.

Other candlelight services include those held for: Nancy Moffett who is going steady with Raymond Mabe; Ann Ringley who is engaged to Gilbert Hartis; and Nancy Campbell who is engaged to Don Williams.

Barbara Perry and Smiley Lloyd were in the Sweetheart Court at the Theta Chi Valentine dance. Grace Jensen, who is pinned to President Ross Smith, was Maid of Honor for the Sweetheart Court.

Zeta Week began on February 17. The week was filled with parties and meetings. The high spot of the week was initiation which took place on February 20. Welcomed into the sisterhood of Zeta Tau Alpha on this day were: Becky Royer, Barbara Perry, Nancy Moffett, Ann Ringley, Ellen Johnston, Dot Barrick, Marty Greene, and Dell McGinn.

Zetas making the Dean's List for the first semester were: Patt Olmsted, Glenda Radcliffe, and Marie Powell.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The Lambda Chi's have ended another month of the school year. Congratulations are in order to Brothers Jackie Short, Dale Brown, and Bobby Yates for being inducted into the Order of the Lighted Lamp.

Praise is also due to pledges Wayne Cheek, Gene Buchanan, and Brother Jackie Short for their contributions to the Panthers.

New Officers were elected on February 29. They are president, Bobby Yates; vice-president and secretary, Bill VanAiken; treasurer, C. T. Fulk; ritualist, Dale Brown; pledge trainer, Charlie Davis, and rush chairman, Bill Adams.

Six men were initiated as pledges on February 22. They are Johnny Long, Jimmy Grant, Dale Hodge, Henry Groome, Benny Kiger, and Don Cashion.

New Pledge Officers are, Pres. Johnny Long, V. Pres. Fred Quinn, Sec. Don Cashion, and Treas. Marvin Ferebee.

The new month was begun with a party at Marietta. Initiation will be on March 19th.

As beach weather and frolic time nears, we all look forward to the "Initiation Ball" and formal "White Rose" at Myrtle Beach.

THETA CHI

The Epilison Alpha Chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity held its annual Stag with the OX's from Wake Forest on the 5th of February.

On the 13th of February the Red OX's held their Sweetheart Dance, which was highlighted by the crowning of Miss Jerri Martin, KD, as the "Sweetheart of Theta Chi." Miss Martin was escorted by Brother Charles Carroll; Miss Vivian Lloyd, ZTA, was chosen as the Maid of Honor, escorted by Brother Jerry Kivett. Miss Martin's Court consisted of Miss Betty Gray Dorman, KD, escorted by Tom Dean, Miss Barbara Perry, ZTA, escorted by Brother Len Lewin, Annela Owens, escorted by Brother Bobby Owens, and Miss Gloria Teague, Alpha Gam, escorted by Gene Gresham.

The Social Committee, headed by Chairman, Edmunson, is formulating a Bermuda Party for the Middle of March, which will be followed shortly by the Mason-Dixon Jubilee at the University of North Carolina. The Jubilee is the annual blast thrown by the District 5 of Theta Chi Fraternity; this will be held on April 1 and 2.

On April 9th the annual Founder's Day Ball will take place, commemorating the founding of Theta Chi Fraternity on April 10, 1856, at Norwich University, Norwich, Vermont. May the 7th will find the Red OX's at the Robert E. Lee Hotel, Winston-Salem, for their annual Dream Girl Ball, a banquet and dance that is the highpoint of the social season.

On Monday, March 7th, Theta Chi Fraternity will formally initiate six pledges into the Brotherhood: Tom Dean, Bill McKinley, John Jenkins, Don Schmidt, Jim Woodley, and Gene Gresham.

Brother Lee Hinshaw pinned the charming Miss Marie Powell, ZTA, on the 13th of February, while Brother Jack Jarrett is carrying a good thing too far by getting married on March 12. Brother Arnold Lawson, a brand new shiny Marine Lt., recently became engaged to Miss Sylvia Parker, Alpha Gam. Arnold and Sylvia plan on being married April 13th.

The Brotherhood of Theta Chi recently elected representatives to attend the Student Congress which will meet in the middle of March. Brother Len Lewin will be the representative to the Senate, while Tom Dean and Don Schmidt will be House Representatives.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The pledge class of North Carolina Eta Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon has recently completed its required trips to the eight other chapters in District Five (North and South Carolina). Teams of pledges visited the respective chapters, obtained information on chapter functions and policies, and enjoyed fellowship with the brothers and pledges. Initiation date for the Eta Chapter pledge class was Sunday, March 6.

Brother Danny Sewell, 6'5" star of the High Point Panthers, has just concluded the final year of an outstanding college basketball career. This year Danny added to his athletic honors the title of outstanding player for District 26 of the NAIA for the third consecutive year. He was also chosen for the All-Conference team.

N. C. Eta welcomes back Brother Walt Moore, a Sig Ep of another day, who has returned from the Army as a student at HPC.

On February 5, Sig Eps held an alumni dance in keeping with the Homecoming Weekend. The dance took place at the WOW Hut, and music was provided by the Mello-tones of Greensboro. Among the alumni present were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sykes, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hackney, and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Broadway. Other alumni visiting during Homecoming were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tyson, Ronald Lucas, and Terry Hart.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

During the intramural basketball season the Delta Sig team paced the Fraternity league with a record of six wins and only one loss. Daryl McGuire placed third in individual scoring with an average of 15.2 points per game.

On March 4, several of the brothers and pledges and their dates enjoyed an evening at the Plantation Supper Club. On March 19, the Fraternity has plans for an informal date party with the theme of the "Roaring Twenties" as the center attraction.

The beginning of the second semester saw the ranks of Delta Sigma Phi bolstered by the return of Brother Don Phillips. On March 7, eight men were formally initiated into the Bond of the Sphinx. These men were: Gerald Correll, Doug Brackett, John Whitener, Charlie Adams, Jimmy Boyles, Jim Pascoe, Clayton Snyder, and David Kenerly.

Preliminary plans are being made for the annual Sailors' Ball to be held in May at Ocean Drive Beach in South Carolina.

Students Advised To Submit SSCQT Applications Now

Applications for the April 28, 1960 administration of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAMINING SECTION Educational Testing Service, P.O. Box 586, Princeton, New Jersey. Applications for the April 28 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 7, 1960.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. The results will be reported to the students' Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

Nine Tapped For Order Of Lighted Lamp

The Order of the Lighted Lamp, High Point College honor society, held its annual tapping of new members ceremonies at the Wednesday assembly, February 15. This local honor society is the oldest of its kind at the college having been organized in 1935 under the guidance of Dr. C. R. Hinshaw.

Students selected for this honor must have been at High Point College at least five semesters with a 1.75 quality point average. Any student to be eligible must possess outstanding scholarship, leadership and exemplary character.

New members inducted into the Order of the Lighted Lamp this week include Dale W. Brown, Manchester, Conn.; Lillian Jacqueline Creech, Holly Springs, N. C.; Edwin Vance Davis, Hot Springs, N. C.; Betty Gray Dorman, Pembroke, N. C.; M. Jean Peedin, Rockingham, N. C.; Jackie Dean Short, Williams, Indiana; Jean Arthur Thomas, Jackson Springs, N. C.; Bobby Ray Yates, Thomasville, N. C.; and Eunice Marie Young, Mebane, N. C.

At the ceremonies, Dr. Hinshaw presented the new candidates to Dr. Wendell M. Patton, President of High Point College, who in turn administered the oath.

The principal speaker for the occasion was Dr. W. Kenneth Goodson.

Pastor of the First Methodist Church of Charlotte, N. C.

Poetry Anthology Being Composed

The American College Poetry Society has announced that its third semester anthology of outstanding college poetry is now being compiled for publication this summer.

Contributions must be the original work of the student (who shall retain literary rights to the material), submitted to Alan C. Fox, care of the Society, with the entrant's name, address, and school on each page. Poems, which may deal with any subject, may not exceed 48 lines, nor may any individual submit more than five poems.

Entries which are not accepted for publication will be returned if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, but they cannot be otherwise acknowledged, nor can the Society compensate students for poetry which is published. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, March 30, 1960, to be considered, and the decisions of the Society judges are final.

HOW ABOUT A TENNIS COACH FOR HIGH POINT COLLEGE?

Unless some action has been taken during the past week, High Point College moves into the spring of the year with a tennis slate including at least fourteen matches, some of the best material available for school this size considering no scholarships are available, but minus a coach.

Two new freshmen, Kenny Fodrell and Ron Michaux offer the Panthers a good opportunity of capturing a fair amount of glory on the tennis circuit if the squad can become organized. Veterans returning include Tony Adams, Harold Wright, Preston Williams and Gene Clements, giving the Purple and White excellent depth and balance.

It is my opinion that we have a good chance of capturing one of the top spots in conference play this spring if adequate coaching is provided for the team. These boys want to play tennis and since they are here on no scholarship basis it is only fair that they be given the chance to prove themselves under the watchful eye of a trained coach.

NORTH STATE ALL-OPPONENT TEAM

There will probably be a great amount of disagreement on the following but in my opinion these are the ten boys that hurt High Point the most over their recently completed campaign. This includes performances in tournament play as well as regular season competition.

First Team

Billy Reece—Lenoir Rhyne
Don King—Appalachian
Ken Norman—Lenoir Rhyne
Dave Jones—Western Carolina
Rick Howe—Appalachian

Second Team

Dave Elmore—Western Carolina
Dick Knox—Atlantic Christian
Joe Ladd—Lenoir Rhyne
Roger Snow—Catawba
Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton—East Carolina

Best Coaching Against High Point: Bill Wells, Lenoir Rhyne; Bob Light—Appalachian.

BEST LOOKING FRESHMEN

The best looking freshmen in the North State loop this year include Gaston Seal of Western Carolina, a 6'4" starter from Middletown, Indiana; "Cotton" Clayton of East Carolina, a 6'3" starter from Henderson, and High Point's own Larry Nolan from Washington, D. C.

Other first year men bound to make names for themselves include Wayne Proffitt of Appalachian, Pat Padgett of Western Carolina, and Lacy West of East Carolina.

WAKE FOREST TOPS IN ACC

The Baptists from Winston-Salem may have been beaten in the Atlantic Coast Conference Tourney three weeks ago but for my money they were still the best balanced club in the loop. Following up on comments already stated towards "Bones" McKinney and his squad it should be stated that the sports writers of this country have done the Atlantic Coast Conference's co-champion a grave injustice in overlooking them week after week in the AP and UPI polls.

What galls me even more is the fact that both Villanova and North Carolina (twice) have bowed to the Deacons and yet finished higher in the top twenty against foes no more difficult than those of Wake Forest. Hats off to Dave Budd, Thig Wiggins, Alley Hart, Billy Packer, Len Chappell, George Richie, and Jerry Steele.

TIE FOR THIRD

Yowmen End Year With 14-6 Record

Since the last issue of this paper the High Point College Purple Panthers have completed their regular season basketball schedule and have gone to the semi-finals of the conference tournament. When the dust had settled over the final standings for regular season conference play the Panthers wound up in a three-way tie for third place with the Catawba Indians and the Pirates from East Carolina.

In the drawings for tournament seedings High Point was picked for third, so for all practical purposes the Panthers had placed third. This was quite a let-down for the Yowmen who had enjoyed a first-place position earlier in the season.

Here is a brief recap of the last of the season since the Western Carolina victory on our own court. Two nights later the squad traveled to Misenheimer to see victory at the expense of Pfeiffer by a 78-57 score. On the road again to Boone the Panthers outlasted the Mountaineers of Appalachian, gaining a close two-point victory, 74-72.

Meeting the Atlantic Christian eagles on our home court, the Panthers again showed their superior roundball ability by pasting them by 71-56. Facing their old nemesis in the person of the Bears of Lenoir Rhyne the Panthers suffered their second season loss by a score of 74-66.

The return to victory land came in a game played at Elon College, where the High Point squad enjoyed a 79-65 win. Winning their next two games from Catawba, at Homecoming, by 87-69, and Newberry College in a non-conference tilt, by 69-65, the Panthers again saw defeat at the hands of the Catamounts of Western Carolina by 76-61 in a game played at Cullowhee. Returning home to face the Appalachian team, the Panthers were barely edged out in a triple overtime contest by 90-88, on a last second shot by Don King. Defeat again came from Wilson, where Atlantic Christian dumped the Panthers 76-65.

Returning home for their last home game of the season, a re-inspired team once again became victors by beating East Carolina 84-68, in a game that saw no substitutions for the Panthers until the waning minutes of play. On the last night of season play the Panthers once again failed to shake a four-year jinx and lost to Lenoir Rhyne, in Hickory, by a score of 71-60.

In the final standings the High Point Panthers had won 10 and lost six conference games, while in overall play had a 14-6 won-lost record.

Comeback Victory over Western in Opener Panthers Lose In Semi-Finals

By BILL DAMON

Last week the crowds in the Lexington YMCA saw High Point College stage an amazing comeback victory over Western Carolina in the first round of the North State Conference Tournament, only to return two nights later to witness championship hopes erased by the Lenoir Rhyne Bears.

Winding up regular season play in a three-way tie for third place with Catawba and East Carolina, the Panthers drew the third place seeding for the opening round of the tournament, paired against the Western Carolina Catamounts, and won by a 78-73 tally.

High Point controlled the scoring lead for the greater part of the first half, running up a five-point lead early in the game. Never did High Point see a larger lead during the rest of the game, which saw the score tied six times in the first half and again four more times late in the game.

With eight minutes of the first half gone, Western tied the score at 13-13, and went ahead on a foul shot by Dave Jones. Within the next two minutes Wayne Cheek again pulled the Panthers from behind on a field goal. A bonus try by Cheek again put High Point in control until late in the half. When the half-time gun sounded Western had piled up a three-point lead at 36-33.

This lead was held by the Catamounts for nearly the entire second period and at one time had stretched it to a seven-point spread at 54-47 with about nine minutes gone. When Yow called a time-out with eight minutes to go, the determinism of the players, and especially Joe Guzinski, fired them to a surprising come-back to win in an excited contest. Guzinski tied the score for High Point with 5:55 showing on the clock with a pair of free tosses, and shortly after Wayne Cheek put the Panthers ahead with a field goal. Although the score was tied three times before the end of the game the Panthers never gave up the lead for which they had worked so hard. The clinching of the game came with less than a minute to go when Jack Short pumped in a field goal. Wolfy Unger added the final point on a free throw to end the game with a 78-73 victory for the High Point Panthers.

This marked the first time this year that the Yowmen had come from behind so late in a game to wind up on top in the scoring column. When Yow called the time out with eight minutes to go the Panthers suddenly became fired up and decided that they were going to win the game. From this point on Western Carolina never gained control of a single rebound off their own boards and this was probably the deciding factor in the final outcome.

Joe Guzinski led both teams in the scoring department with 21 points, collecting 17 of them in the second half. He was followed by Wayne Cheek with 19, Jack Short with 14, and Danny Sewell with 11. Gaston Seal and Dave Jones led the Catamount attack with 18 and 17 points respectively, aided by Melvin Gibson with 13.

After only one day's rest the Panthers returned to Lexington to face their old nemesis, Lenoir Rhyne, in the second round of the tournament. Lenoir Rhyne had easily beaten Elon College in opening round play.

Fighting to wipe out a four-year jinx, the Panthers again failed to shake the persistent attack of the Bears for the 11th straight time, losing by a 78-68 score.

This game was witnessed by a record tournament crowd of some 3,900 fans, who saw Catawba nearly run Appalachian off the floor, and then saw a tight battle in the Lenoir Rhyne-High Point nightcap.

Joe Guzinski broke High Point into the scoring lights first with a field goal and from this point the Panther five led for the first four minutes. This lead changed hands three different times in the first half until Eddie Goodnight pushed through a field goal with 12:35 remaining, to make the score 18-17. The Bears held this lead for the rest of the first half, stretching it at one time to six points, at 31-25. The Panthers whittled his down to a three-point spread at half-time, taking their mid-game break on the low side of a 37-34 score.

Coming back on the floor for the second half it took the Panthers a little over two minutes to tie the score at 42-42. During the next eight minutes of play the score was tied seven more times, with the Panthers jumping into the lead on three of these occasions. With 9:35 showing on the scoreboard clock Lenoir Rhyne went in front to stay on a field goal by the Bear captain, Billy Reece. From this point on the Panthers never came closer than three points, and the Bears went on to win by a 10-point margin, 78-68.

This was the scene on the High Point bench during the last time-out in the opening round game of the conference tournament. The Panthers receive instructions from Coach Yow and Chuck Hartman. From this rest the Panthers went on to wipe out Western Carolina's lead to go on and win the game.

During the late minutes of the game the Panthers were forced to play with caution by virtue of the fact that several of the players were plagued with excessive fouls. Joe Guzinski committed his fifth personal with 5:34 remaining and three other starters ended the game with four fouls each.

Billy Reece led the Bear's scoring with 20 points, while Joe Ladd and Eddie Goodnight tallied for 18 each. Ken Norman contributed 16 to the cause and Harlan Bowman added six to complete the Lenoir Rhyne scoring total. For High Point Danny Sewell and Wayne Cheek led with 15 points each, followed by Larry Nolan with 14 and Wolfy Unger with 10.

On the following night in the final game of the tournament Catawba went on to beat Lenoir Rhyne in an overtime game by two points for the North State Conference Championship.

Students Boost Dr. Poole Fund

The Student Government Association led a drive to aid Dr. Richard D. Poole and his family. Dr. Poole recently underwent surgery for a brain tumor.

Dr. Poole and his family moved to High Point this fall when he assumed his duties as head of the athletic department at High Point College. Since the recent operation has seriously incapacitated Dr. Poole, the Student Government began a drive to raise funds to help the Pooles. The treasurer of the SGA has released the following list of contributors, expressing the thanks of the SGA and of the Pooles.

Jaybird's Take Crown In Men's Basketball

During the past four weeks the campus fraternities and various other independent groups have been participating in a vigorous schedule of intramural basketball. Last week the final games were played and on the night of March 1, the champions of both the fraternity and independent leagues met for the All-Campus Championship. Delta Sigma Phi represented the fraternity men, and The Jay Birds were tops in the independent league. This game was won by the Jay Birds by a score of 39-38.

All during the intramural season the intramural class has been keeping the team and individual records and at final compilation these were the standings for both leagues.

FRATERNITY LEAGUE

Team	W	L	Pct.
Delta Sigma Phi	6	1	.857
Pi Kappa Alpha	5	2	.714
Black Hawks	5	2	.714

carolle," "Humoresque," "Going Home" (Dvorak's New World Symphony) and many others in equally fine arrangements.

No story of the TOMMY DORSEY music would be complete without a mention of the musicians and vocalists who got their start on the road to fame with TD. These musicians include Bunny Berigan, Glenn Miller, Ray McKinley, Bob Crosby, Buddy Rich, Gene Krupa and many others. Among the vocalists who served their apprenticeships with Tommy are such greats as Frank Sinatra, Dick Haymes, Jo Stafford and the Pied Pipers.

Women's Intramural Program Underway

The Women's Basketball Intramurals are now in full swing, and at the present both the Independents and the Kappa Delta's have won three games each. The Phi Mu's have won one game. There are four remaining games to be played. These are: Phi Mu vs. Independents and Zeta Tau Alpha vs. Alpha Gamma Delta on March 9, and Alpha Gamma Delta vs. Phi Mu on March 16.

The winner of the tournament will be figured on the percentage of games won and lost. In case of a tie, play-offs will be held on March 16, at 8:45, unless Alpha Gamma Delta or Phi Mu are one of the teams tied, in which case, the play-off will be on March 23, at 7:30.

If there are any girls interested in having a miniature golf tournament, they are asked to contact Miss Hood, director of Women's intramurals as soon as possible. She is also interested in organizing a golf tournament if there are enough women interested.

The following schedule is announced for the Badminton and Softball tournaments to be held in the near future:

Badminton Tournament — Singles: Begin Monday, March 21, 1960, 7:30-9:30. (Doubles to be announced later if time permits.)

Practice dates: Monday, March 7, 1960—7:15-9:30; Monday, March 14, 1960—3:15-5:00; or any time gym and equipment are available.

Deadline and drawing: Deadline date will be Wednesday, March 16, at 4:00. Drawing to be on the same day at 4:15. All rules for deadline and drawing for badminton are same as those for ping pong. (Including being present or have representative at the drawing.)

Tournament: Single elimination tournament. Same rules apply as in ping pong. "Match play" shall consist of one eleven-point game. Forfeited games will not be re-scheduled; to change time of match, 48-hour notice must be given. (See intramural bulletin board for further information.)

Softball Tournament: Begins on March 30 or shortly thereafter.

Practice dates: Monday afternoon: March 21—3:00-5:30; Wednesday afternoon: March 23—3:00-5:30; Monday afternoon: March 28—3:00-5:30.

Each team must sign up for practice.

Clifford Benshaw

Broadway Calls Benshaw Away

In a dramatic announcement today, Dr. Clifford Benshaw stated that he definitely will take over complete management of a hot dog and soft drink concession stand in New York City this September 1.

The stand is located on Broadway at the corner of East Forty Second Street. As Dr. Benshaw puts it, "It will be fulfilling a long-awaited desire to return to Manhattan." Dr. Benshaw did graduate work at Columbia and since that time has been obsessed with the desire of returning, "To where my heart lies."

"I guess I have never truly familiarized myself with North Carolina and its geography and this fact has seriously hindered my many years here," was the reply given by the graying and distinguished looking professor to a baffled reporter. Wife will aid him in this business venture. Mrs. Benshaw recently was issued a gold medal by Good House-keeping for her prize-winning pizza pie recipe. The concession stand will feature "Mama Benshaw's Pizza Pies" which Benshaw himself states should propell overall sales by at least 37%.

The professor also will be employed as a part time jazz pianist at the "Randolph Club"—a semi-swank supper club in the East-Sixties. Benshaw will be the exclusive accompanist for Miss Joyce Davis, a recent graduate of High Point College. Benshaw asserts that recording arrangements are near completion.

"I'm just raring to go," commented Benshaw at the end of the interview.

Dr. Patton accepted Benshaw's resignation with deep regret and announced that Mr. L. G. Wright will head Benshaw's old department along with his present position. The students wish Dr. Benshaw the most splendid success and promise their support of his Broadway venture.

Unsmellables Nab Culprit

The night was cold and dark and dreary. Our force was on its toes. Stone and Lennie were sitting or sleeping in a prowler car parked near the Student Center—checking violators of our 15 MPH speed limit by a radar device—a bookstore coffee cup placed in the middle of the road. Levey was up in headquarters sipping root beer, reading Spanish Ballads and watching Jack Parr. A.B. was busy in the office, tabulating the day's receipts and devising new schemes for raising tuitions. Steele's had closed and Shrimp had double parked behind Harrison Hall.

Our hero, Elliot Nelson, had retired for a long winter's nap when suddenly his phone rang. It was Stone. "Somebody had beat the coke machine for a dime."

"Round up the boys!!"

Elliot Nelson and his team of Unsmellables was in action. Seconds later Nelson's creme white Buick was speeding down Montlieu toward the scene of the crime. Levey having been notified, awoke Borroughs and Guy and instructed them to start checking the washrooms for fire-crackers in case a "Sadist" tried to capitalize on the commotion. Bones and Skidmore were ordered to throw canvass over the Dempsey Dumpster in case of arson.

Mrs. Perry was ordered to post lookouts on the third floor and Nurse Anderson was to check the medicine supply to see that no high-potency drugs (aspirins) were stolen. Furthermore she was told to send no one else to the doctor until further notice. A.B. singularly stressed this.

Through the intense efforts of this entire crew the offender was found making a return trip, this time to the candy machine.

Commented Nelson after the apprehension, "You can usually narrow these things down by checking the records—this man is overcut in his Religion class."

So another case was closed by Elliot Nelson and his smooth working team of Unsmellables.

The offenders name has been withheld because he is a Methodist.

Strange Things Happening In Girls' Dorms

The girls in the dormitories are really living the Life of Riley these days. The latest release is that Paul Newman has just been made counselor of the girls. Regulations hardly exist. Just take a look at this: Girls have permission to stay out all night on the weekends!

On week nights they must be in by 2:30 am. Boys can be seen strolling up and down the corridors at all hours of the day. This situation, however, is expected to reverse itself as soon as Nelson Hall is completed.

In the line of convenience, all the floors have been furnished with ankle deep carpets. And of course each room has a private bath. Telephones are now installed in every room.

Out on the front lawn girls are decked out in short shorts as they come and go to classes. Mrs. Perry, who has just switched from the position of counselor to that of life guard, can be seen with her golden tan by the side of the new pool in the court.

The bushes around the dorm look much healthier now. This is a direct result of the installation of kissing booths. This marvelous solution to a difficult problem was suggested by Miss Shirley. Everyone has expressed their appreciation to her for the appearance of the landscape is 100% improved.

All these changes must be the answer to why none of the students will take more than 12 semester hours of classes—they will get to stay around longer!

The student body staged a sit-down strike yesterday afternoon. The reason for the strikes were disclosed by a member of the SGA. "The students are fighting for their rights to (continued on page 8, col. 13.)"

Flunk Now, Avoid Rush

The time is once again approaching when students everywhere must face those long awaited things popularly known as EXAMS. To many this is nothing new, but for others there is a rare experience awaiting them. Feeling it unfair for these poor unfortunates to meet this mental labyrinth without forewarning, a sample test is being printed as a helpful guide for what to expect from the college professors of today.

Class of '60 To Donate New Men's Dorm to HPC

John Davis, president of the senior class, has announced that a new Men's Dormitory will be the Class of 60's gift to High Point College. Davis said that the class decided upon this project in light of the crowded conditions that have only recently prevailed in McCulloch Hall.

The senior class voted to devote all of their $50,000 they have accumulated over the four years to this project. The lot has already been purchased and the plans are near completion. It is expected that ground will be broken within the next month. The building will be ready for occupancy by the fall semester of 1960.

Davis also disclosed that the class voted to name the new dorm Nelson Hall, because of the deep affection the men have for our Dean of Student Affairs.

Nelson Hall will be located at Five Points. This lot was selected in order to be of convenience to those men who patronize Steeles. It is felt that this location will facilitate safety, as the men won't be drinking and driving. Transportation to and from classes will be provided by the college. A. B. Williams will drive the college station wagon to and from Nelson Hall every hour between classes.

The four-story brick structure will provide private rooms for 250 men. Each room will be equipped with one man to live comfortably—bed, portable bar, TV, and telephone. A modern tile bath will connect every two rooms.

The ground floor of Nelson Hall will be devoted to the leisure time of the occupants. It will contain a Billard Room, a bar and dance floor, bowling alleys, and several small parlors for the use of individuals when dating.

what is the result?

- a. No.
- b. A hum dinger.
- c. Don't.

If you even bother to answer these questions, fail now and avoid the rush. You're hopeless!

For those who are in need of advice take heed.

1. Don't keep up with your lessons all semester. It's too confusing.
  2. Put off all studying until the night before. That way there won't be anything to complain about.
  3. Cram! Don't take notes or think about the basic principles. Just memorize all the little details.
- Good luck!

The Billard Room will be equipped with ten billard tables and ten ping pong tables. This room will be restricted to the men only, as it is possible that some will want some place to go where there are no women. There will also be facilities for poker playing in this room.

The bar and dance floor, to be named Levey's Lounge, will only be open from 4 pm until 3 am. Coats and ties will be required of patrons. Also, no unescorted women will be allowed within the bar. The Casuals will play every night from 8 pm until closing time.

The bowling alleys will be open 24 hours a day to the entire student body. The twenty alleys will be equipped with automatic pen setters. Facilities will be available for card games to entertain those who have to wait for an alley.

The several small parlors will be equipped with love seats, TVs, and appropriate lighting. Due to the limited number of these rooms, men expecting to use such will have to sign up with the Dorm President in advance to obtain the key from him.

All of the rooms in Nelson Hall will be connected to an intercom system. Continuous music will be played over the Stereo set at the headquarters of the intercom system. Thus, at the turn of a switch, any room can be filled with the melodious strains of such greats as Montavani, Dorsey, Goodman, etc.

Davis stressed the fact that the Senior Class realizes that Nelson Hall will be inadequate in many areas. It is his hope that the Class of 61 will be able to follow through and provide some more of the necessities of an adequate Men's Dorm.

What, Me Worry?

On a Warm Day in Spring

It seems to us here in the offices of the High Pole that the recent move by the administration in giving half the campus facilities to NC State College was a bit unwise. Understand, we are not taking issue with the administration; we are merely cross-fingeredly expressing a portion of our views.

We realize that State needs some new buildings, at least some buildings that are in better shape than the ones they have, but moving our auditorium over there in order to make space for an outside ping-pong playground seems a bit on the ridiculous side. Understand, we are not trying to say that we did not need more recreational facilities before plans were made for the new student union building, but we still contend that we need the building almost as much as State does. Then too, there is a terrible hole left where the Music Department was, and just the other night a co-ed, on her way hurriedly to a night class, stepped off in the little canyon and no one has seen her since.

Also, selling the north end of the ad building wasn't such a smart thing. It gets windy, even after the vernal equinox has done come, and what with those 17 degree breezes, it makes classes a little difficult. If we can't buy the end of the building back from State, we should at least get a curtain to hang over the opening.

Understand, we aren't criticizing—just a few well placed (we hope) suggestions.

What really makes us mad is the fact that we flipped double or nothing for the buildings, and we lost. That's really the source of the whole trouble.

We'll Never Tell!

Did You Hear What I Heard?

On the way to class this morning we passed by one of the faculty offices and overheard a conversation which seemed to be somewhat irregular. We eavesdropped and, sure enough, we had never heard anything like this before! It seems that Dr. Mountcastle and Dr. Hudgins were once again involved in one of their classical discussions. Dr. Hudgins had come bounding in, apparently overjoyed with life, and we heard him say:

Dr. Hudgins: Good morning Dr. Mountcastle. Isn't this a beautiful spring day.

Dr. Mountcastle: Um huh. . . .

Dr. Hudgins: This weather really makes you feel happy that you're alive, doesn't it?

Dr. Mountcastle: Well, yes but . . .

Dr. Hudgins: (Looking out the window) Wouldn't this be a nice day for flying—zooming around the sky 'free as a bird.' Just look at that clear sky! Breathe that air!

Dr. Mountcastle: What do you mean 'free as a bird.' Are you sure you are as free as the birds appear to be? Free . . . hah!

Dr. Hudgins: Of course! Sure! Just look around—you can do anything you want. (The phone rang.) When the phone rings I can either answer it or let it ring, can't I?

Dr. Mountcastle: Perhaps you can but how do you know your decision to answer or not to answer wasn't already determined? Therefore, you had no alternative but to do according to your action.

Dr. Hudgins: Well, even so, I was at least free to think about it. You can't deny that.

Dr. Mountcastle: Let me ask you this. Did you have any choice about being born?

Dr. Hudgins: No-oo-o. But the idea is, even though I had no choice about being born, God instilled within me an element of free-will, a consciousness that I can choose and decide.

Dr. Mountcastle: How do you know this, isn't it just something you've made up yourself. You feel free because you want to feel free. It's completely subjective.

Dr. Hudgins: NO. NO. NO. it's in the grain of the universe. Freedom is something we discover 'out there.' Creation is free! Life is free!

Dr. Mountcastle: The only thing we discover 'out there' is chaos, irrationality, absurdity, and degradation—man's inhumanity to man.

Dr. Hudgins: Oh no. You've got the wrong idea. Just look at nature, how friendly, cooperative . . . how everything seems to work together. The whole universe is coherent.

Dr. Mountcastle: The only coherent thing I see in the universe is man's irrationality, the absurdity of life.

Dr. Hudgins: But can't you see that that is only an expression of the "non-rational Given" as postulated by Dr. Edgar Brightman of Boston University.

Dr. Mountcastle: . . . "non-rational Given"? . . . Brightman? . . . What is all this mess. Let's stick to philosophers and theologians such as Rinehold Niebuhr and Paul Tillich.

Dr. Hudgins: But we can't afford to leave anyone out—we must look at all aspects, all areas; we must consider the whole. Anyway, how do you account for morality, the feeling of oughtness, and ultimate truth if there is no freedom, as you say?

Dr. Mountcastle: This is all kind of 'mamby-pamby'. The only way we can ever know or find anything is by "taking the leap".

Dr. Hudgins: But still we must take into account people and their personality. Personality—that is really the important thing, the dignity of human life. And for personality to develop we need to have freedom. Also we must be consistent or better yet, we must be comprehensively coherent. We need to discover the Moral Laws and then we can really express our freedom in the context of them.

Dr. Mountcastle: What you say is all relative to the individual or group. And the really important thing is now, to live or exist and hope for an encounter with experience . . . hope that you're not overcome by the absurdity of life—the chaos, irrationality.

Well, the bell rang and we went to class shaking our head, not being able to understand why they were

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"PROF SNARF IS UP TO HIS OLD TRICKS—MAKING AN ASSIGNMENT AN PUTTING ONLY ONE REFERENCE BOOK ON 'RESERVE'."

With Malice Toward Some

Now that football is returning to High Point College some new rules have been uncovered in the National Intercollegiate Football Manual. Each player is allowed one wide open "slug" at an opponent in each quarter without penalty. It seems that this rule was enacted to prevent a player from "gouging" an opponents eyes out under a pileup. In our opinion this is a most generous ruling for now a player will not have that "sneaky" look on his face after a game.

Another rule that we uncovered that will help High Point College get on its feet is that in the event a player with the ball cannot advance with the ball he may turn around and run a touchdown to the other goal, provided he does not get slugged in the process. We think that this style of play will eventually lead to more and better prize fighters. This style of play may seem a little harsh to some but just think of how tough your fist will be after a few games and also it is very becoming to a boy these days to have dark circle around his blue eyes. Any way you look at it every one will benefit from these new rules.

NEW PLAYERS FOR BASKETBALL

Some new players have been added to the basketball team which will add to our prestige. Such notable stars as Johnny Ballbelly, who starred at Pumpkin Creek High; Bill Bowlegs, from Saddlehouse, N. C.; David Crooked, from Sankeecrawl, Va.; Charley Pumphandle, from Leaksville; and Joe Jones from Nowhere. I am sure that these players will put HPC on top next season.

PUT AWAY THE MILK, COACH

From the breweries at Milwaukee word comes that beer is not harmful to athletes, in fact they contend that it aids a player to sweat in case he is not hustling. This will make the coach think that he is playing his heart out and all the while he may only be loafing. So athletes, don't listen to that old fashion "sob" story that the coach hands you, when you feel like it just go out before each game and get a few "cool ones" if you feel like not hustling in a game. (Flash—Coach Yow just made a raid at Steeles.)

OUR OWN BEGONIA

Begonia Swizzlehip, the woman's basketball star has just been elected as Miss Potato Sack of 1960. Begonia beat out 43 other contestants for this coveted award. She won on the basis of her basketball skill and of course, her beauty. She appeared at the contest draped in a full flowing burlap bag sprinkled with silver colored potato eyes. Her two front teeth were missing and her face was as bumpy and dirty as usual. Our congratulations to Begonia Swizzlehip, who in our estimation is a credit to High Point College for her outstanding basketball play and her beauty.

Intramural Program Broadened

One of the newly adopted intramural sports at High Point College is the game of Jacks. Coach "Bounce and Catch Em" Hartman has said he is sure the results of the games will prove interesting.

The Independents have an exceptional girls team because of the highly talented players. One member is Jellen Ulian who shows great promise with her "sixies."

The team will operate under the rules as set forth in the Bounce and Grab Manual. Under these rules, the player is disqualified if the ball goes higher than four feet and lower than three feet. Also, the player must work up to "tensies" and then back to "onesies."

The games will be played in the gym on a specially constructed dust proof, damp, dirt plot. According to the Bounce and Grab Manual, this is the best type of "jacks mat" constructed.

For the convenience of the spectators, special magnifying glasses will be available at each game.

Frosh To Buy Escalator For Girls' Dorms

Last week the Freshman Class met and voted to have as their project for the rest of this year the raising of money for an escalator in the girls' dormitory. The girls living on third floor unanimously passed this motion because they are tired of walking up three flights of stairs everyday. It was passed by the boys because they are tired of having to climb to the third club room each night to date.

To raise money for the project the Freshmen are going to sell pizza pies, chocolate covered ants, and fried grasshoppers. It is hoped that everyone will help support this project.

Firemen Risk Lives To Save Men's Dorm

Early yesterday morning the High Point Fire Department was called upon to rush to the HPC men's dorm. It is this reporter's honor and duty to comment on the remarkable job done by the firemen of the High Point Department.

The fire engines and equipment arrived on the campus at 4:13 A.M. minus the men who came in at 5:15 A.M. Without the least regard for life or limb they immediately proceeded to the first task of every devoted firefighter—they hooked up the water hose.

This first task presented a problem from the very first, because the first hydrant had been damaged by the first trucks. This posed a problem that men of less persistence would have succumbed too, but these were not ordinary men. They accepted the challenge and after thirty or forty minutes of argument, they proceeded to hook the hose up to another fire hydrant.

From the men's dorm came smoke, fire, fumes, and a few strains of rock and roll music. Men students, thank goodness, were jumping from the first floor windows into the cold night. Some had to be aided by the HPC secret police emergency squad who had discovered the fire while on 24 hour duty.

Things were well in hand until the firemen tried to enter the dorm. Inside the building things were quite different. It was like a blast furnace, and the firemen had to overcome many hardships. Paint was peeling off the walls, bathroom fixtures were wrecked, plaster was cracked, and many other unusual sights greeted the firefighters; but they carried on in their true tradition, and with swinging axes they fought on until at last they were able to open a window to draft the fire and to prevent it from spreading to the cafeteria.

After four hours of hard fighting, the building was reduced to nothing more than a mere brick and steel skeleton, but according to the Dean of the 6th year undergraduates, the men will be moving back in within the week.

One high spot that must be noted as an aftermath was that the men's Dempsey Dumpster was completely destroyed. In containing its blaze three firemen were injured by flying debris. The blaze was believed to be the work of an arsonist, and the secret police are now conducting an investigation.

Hit's All Greek

KAPPA DELTA

The KDs are getting ready to move into their new sorority house over on College Drive. It is a fifty room brick structure equipped with hardwood floors, tiled baths, private telephones, a huge kitchen, TV, and a ball room.

They are taking landscaping as a project and are doing the lawn which slopes down to a lake where gaily painted yacht waits for any KD who might like to take a cruise.

PHI MU

A look at Phi Mu reveals that plans for their spring banquet and dance are almost complete. The biggest phase of the evening will be dancing under the stars to the music of the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra from 8 pm to 3 am.

The banquet will consist of Pizza Pies made by Antonia Rocca, who will fly in from Rome just for the occasion. Rocca will also bring with him appropriate wine to go with the Italian pizza.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

The Alpha Gams have purchased a seventy-five acre tract of land adjoining their house. They plan to build a lake and cabins as well as tennis courts and an outdoor bar-b-que pit and patio.

The highlight of the new addition to the Alpha Gam house is the formal rose garden. Red, and yellow roses have been transplanted to spell out Alpha Gamma Delta.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

The members of Zeta Tau Alpha have completed plans for a trip to the planet Mars for the week following the Easter holidays. They are to represent High Point College at the Universal Sorority Convention there.

Captain Midnight of the Space Patrol will personally fly the girls to their destination and will help them get acquainted with the city.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

The Pikas flew over in an airplane and dropped out bids and pledged two hundred and twenty-eight this semester. Plans to build an annex on the fraternity house are being made according to reports.

The Pikas are near the top in the Chess tournament and are expecting to win.

The National Officers are contemplating moving the national headquarters to High Point. This was intimated by the newly elected National President, Freud Handy.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity initiated seventy-five new brothers last Thursday night. Sixty-two of the pledges were unable to be initiated because of grades. The Delta Sigs are leading in the ice hockey intramurals.

Plans are being made for the annual Scream Squirrel Ball with Jazbo Collins and the Frigid Five.

DID YOU HEAR

talking this way. They were taking opposite positions than they take in class. Boy, if the day started out like this there was no telling how it might end up. But then we discovered that it was April 1. We were sort of grateful it was April's fool day after hearing that conversation! We could relax now and sleep through another class.

THETA CHI

The Theta Chis have just moved into their new house at 30000 Mont-lieu Avenue. The house will accommodate one hundred and ninety-eight men and is equipped with a gym, ballroom, swimming pool, and bathroom. They will hold open house soon.

The Theta Chis pledged ninety six this semester and dropped ninety seven.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Forty-two Lambda Chis just returned from a weekend trip to the Bahamas for a party. An activity bus has been purchased by the fraternity to tour the United States with their Clown Basketball Team. They will be at Madison Square Garden on May 14. They also plan to use this bus to "gang date" in.

Manpower: Alumni 2030; Active 89; Pledges 93.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The Sig Ep pledges have just finished painting the Sig Ep house on the inside. It took four months to complete the job with about twenty of the pledges working each day.

The chapter has already sent bids to all prospective students to join the fraternity. It is their hope that they can get the jump on the rest of the fraternities.

Long Lost Student Found

Officials of the campus police disclosed today that a student was found living in the Tower of Roberts Hall. Irvin Chainstove, heir to a large fortune, was found living as a hermit in the upper area of the tower. Irwin, class of 1950, has been living in the Tower for the past ten years.

When asked why he had remained isolated for such a long time Irwin answered, "I have been residing in the Tower because of my drastic failure in 1950. It was in that year that I was to graduate from HPC, my beloved Alma Mater. I was ready to face the outside world, I even rented my graduation gown. It was then that I discovered that I had overcut my square dancing class and quality points had been taken away from me. I was left with 128 hours, but only 127 Q.P.'s. I was frantic and sought an escape from this traumatic affair. It was then that I decided to leave this world of material things, and hide myself in the Tower."

"The first year was the hardest of them all. I had to get used to those d-n bells, but after the first year the bells no longer bothered me. On occasions I would stop them from ringing and would enjoy myself watching the students running to and fro like lost chickens.

"For food I would have to sneak down at night, being careful to avoid the police, and then raid the cafeteria for left-overs."

Mr. Chainstove weighted 340 pounds when he was finally discovered. His discovery was credited to Harold Burnbottom, the worker who removed the Tower lamp.

Irwin plans to return to HPC for one semester this year so that he may graduate. He then plans to carry on his father's business. The HPC administration is hoping that Mr. Chainstove will remember his former home with an appropriate gift in the near future.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

The Tekes have awarded five scholarships to basketball players to play for the fraternity next year. They pledged the largest number of all the fraternities this semester with two hundred and forty-one. They sent out two hundred and forty bids and one person came and asked if he could join.

The Tekes are planning to have a national Teke Ball in which all Tekes everywhere will be invited. They plan to hold this dance in the HPC new modern Ballroom.

Happy Groundhog's Day

HPC Lamp Goes To Jonesonium

HPC students were both surprised and pleased to learn that the HPC tower lamp, that has for years adorned Robert's Hall, has now been sold to the Jonesonium Institute in Washington, D. C. Arthur P. Hobsticker, one of the members of the Jonesonium Institute, gave the reasons for the purchase of the lamp; "the HPC lamp is one of the finest works of Victorian art found in this section of the country. Here is a work of art that has been within the view of thousands of people, yet none knew of its true value. Its purchase by the Institute will be a monument to man's will in preserving the great works of world art."

Mr. Hobsticker is the director of the Jonesonium Institute Warehouse, and he plans to keep the lamp in his custody until a demand is made for it by the public. If and when the lamp is placed on view for the public, this paper will report it to our readers.

New Center To Open In Fall of '60

Funds have been appropriated for the construction of another social center on campus. The new center will be a three story building which will include such modern conveniences as air-conditioning and escalators. The basement will accommodate a heated swimming pool and the locker rooms will furnish towels and hair dryers.

A bowling alley will be constructed on the ground floor. There will be a modern theatre room on the second floor. Up-to-date movies will be shown each afternoon and on date nights. The third floor will be known as a "sky room." It will be a ballroom with terraces and balconies open to the sky. This building will begin construction immediately and it will open at the beginning of the fall semester.

the session will end at 3 am. All students who are interested in attending this unique program must apply at least a week in advance for tickets.

When applying, students are reminded that they must have proof that they are of 21 years of age or over. The meetings will be carefully screened to prevent those not ready for such discussions from participating.

There will be severe consequences for any student who is not honest in giving his age, and for all those under age who try to sneak in or listen at windows. It has been stressed that this program is only for adults. Those who as yet do not qualify will have to wait til they attain the age limit.

John F. Kennedy

Sen. Hubert Humphrey

Principles in W.Va. Primary

Crucial Test Looms

The upcoming West Virginia primary this May 10 promises to hold a little more in the way of importance than did its two predecessors, the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries. Offhand, the political observer may not realize this, but upon investigating the facts, he will most certainly concede the truth of this assumption.

First of all, West Virginia is the big apple which Democratic front-runner Kennedy must snatch. Catholic Kennedy finds himself in the delicate position of seeking an electorate which is only 5% Catholic, in a campaign in which religion has become a crucial issue.

If Kennedy were to win under such circumstances, he would appear as David after the stoning of Goliath, and the Massachusetts Senator would pick up the backing of many optimists who wield quite a bit of power politically, but who thus far have remained uncommitted because of the religious issue.

Winning under a 95% Protestant majority could be the all-important boost Kennedy needs. Losing, on the other hand, may prove his futility as a candidate.

In the case of presidential-aspirant

Humphrey, the stakes are just as high. The Senator from Minnesota finds himself in a do or die position. Defeat, for all practical purposes, would mean expulsion for Humphrey, who already is labeled as a doomed candidate. Yet Humphrey finds himself in almost a commanding position as far as West Virginia is concerned.

Humphrey, "the poor man's candidate," could make capital of this state, which has never fully recovered from the depression and which might favor an economic "Messiah" who would relieve it of its hapless economic situation.

The fate of West Virginia has seen no green gardens during the Eisenhower Administration, and this alone could rocket Humphrey, who appears to be the squarest-dealer in terms of the common man as this campaign progresses.

When the final vote is tabulated, the results of the West Virginia primary may not reveal the next president, but chances are these results will be the last stop for at least one contender. As of now, the race appears pretty even, but watch for a shocking photo-finish.

Race Problem Stirs Students

by PAT PETERSON

One Saturday in February, 78 Negro students from Fisk University in an attempt to point out racial injustices in Nashville, Tennessee, began non-violent or passive resistance at a downtown lunch counter.

On the following Monday, those arrested were tried, and Rev. James M. Lawson was described as the "Leading Organizer" of the sit-down demonstrations. On March 2, James M. Lawson, white graduate student, was expelled from Vanderbilt University because he "dared exercise freedom of speech."

Because of Rev. Lawson's extensive work in the Christian church, because of the respect and admiration he constrained from both his faculty and fellow students, and because the demonstrators had been the victims and not the instigators of violence, a movement was started to have Lawson reinstated as a student at the University.

Active in this drive is the North Carolina Council of the Methodist Student Movement. Through letters to the Methodist organizations on the campuses of colleges and universities, the council urged students to express their opinions concerning the sit-down demonstrations and especially the expulsion of James Lawson. The Methodist students of High Point ceased being apathetic.

On the campus of High Point College, action was taken in the form of a letter to the Dean of Vanderbilt University petitioning Lawson's readmittance. A return letter was received from Dean Robert Nelson which told of the movement's progress so far.

The MSF has taken a stand.

Graduates To Present Portrait

George D. Huffman has been commissioned by the Senior Class to paint the portrait of Dr. Wendell M. Patton. This is to be the Senior Class gift to the college, announced John Davis, president of the class.

The portrait will be hung in the library along with the other portraits of all the presidents of High Point College. It is the hope of the class that this will become a tradition for the senior class graduating at the end of the first year of a new president's term. In the past the portraits have been done in various ways and there is no definite plan for continuing this tradition, Davis emphasized the desire that future classes carry out this tradition.

Huffman will begin work on the portrait early in May. Plans are being made to have the finished portrait unveiled at graduation.

George D. Huffman is a nationally known portrait artist from New York. Among his subjects has been the head of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Thomas Elected Dorm President

Jean Thomas, of Jackson Springs, N. C., was elected president of the Woman's Dormitory Council by the residents of the three women's dormitories. She will succeed Kathy Traywick.

Other newly elected officers include the following: vice-president, Debbie Calloway; secretary, Gloria Teague; treasurer, Jackie Creech; head proctors, Nina Lawson and Ellen Julian; Judiciary Council representatives, Micki Hunsucker and Ann McArthur; Freshman Class representatives, Kay Thompson and Patti Collier.

The new council assumed official duties April 25.

New SGA President Cites 60-61 Proposals

The purpose of the Student Government Association of High Point College is stated in the SGA Constitution. It is "to develop student honor and self-control, to encourage right ideals and promote personal responsibility, and to foster the principles of self-government."

At the head of the SGA is the Executive Council composed of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, the presidents of the two dormitories, and the president of the Day Students.

It is the duty of this council to uphold the constitution, to advise and co-ordinate the Student Government, of which every student is a member, and to act in its behalf. This is an important and difficult task and it is made more difficult if there isn't complete co-operation between the Executive Council and the student body.

On April 6 and 7 the student body exercised its power by electing its leaders. Often there is the idea that this is the only responsibility of the student. What a mistaken idea! Just as the Executive Council has a responsibility to the student body to see that its interests are considered, the student body has a responsibility to see that these interests are brought to the attention of the council. Only in this way can the Executive Council accurately represent the students.

This year many improvements were made in the operation of the Student Government. Evidence of this was seen in a recent North State SGA meeting held at East Carolina College. At this meeting the High Point Student Government was named the most outstanding student government in the North State Conference. Congratulations to all those responsible for this excellent achievement. High Point College should certainly be proud of this award.

The newly elected SGA officers, however, cannot serve in the glory of the out-going officers, but must also prove themselves worthy of their positions. They must take it upon themselves to carry on the work that has been begun and to seek for new channels of improvement. It is evident that there are many problems yet remaining for the SGA some of which will require an immense amount of time and effort before they can be solved.

Among those issues which will no doubt arise during the coming year are these:

1. A thorough study of the SGA Constitution. In many ways the present constitution is inadequate for a growing student government.
2. Means of informing the student body of the organization and proceedings of the Student Government.
3. Ways of providing for weekend activities and recreation for those students desiring to remain on campus.
4. The possibility of having more variation in Assembly programs.
5. More co-operation between the Student Government and the Student Christian Council.

Of primary importance is the establishment of a well-informed student body on SGA matters, and, as has been stated, complete co-operation between the student body and the Executive Council. If this alone is accomplished, then a milestone will have been reached in the High Point Student Government.

—VANCE DAVIS.

Across The Desk

As editors of the Hi-Po for the academic year 1960-61, it shall be our combined aim to present a worthy publication, unbiased in nature and stimulating in form.

We hope to give thorough and complete coverage to campus news, and also to enlarge and broaden the scope of our readers to intellectual and social questions of the day.

We in no way seek to make this "our" newspaper, and if our editions show that we tend to infiltrate our own ideas and philosophies specifically, we stand to be criticized.

We hope to make the Hi-Po an instrument at the disposal of the student body. If we can achieve this undertaking, we and our staff will consider our work as having at least the foundation of a success.

Remember the Hi-Po belongs to you. Read it, contribute to it, and give it the rank it should have: a first rate college newspaper.

CHRISTIAN IN THIS CENTURY

He thrills to the wonder of zooming rockets and interplanetary travel; he winces at the starvation death of thousands in India and China; he watches with growing fear and unrest the cancerous growth of international Communism and yet simultaneously he turns to the comic strip or the amusement page and his thoughts become arrested in the antics of Mickey Mouse or Peanuts.

At a five o'clock whistle he leaves and departs onto the avenues of bustling individualists, and he suddenly finds himself one of them. He may sneak a seat on the crowded subway and let a pregnant woman stand. When he arrives home, he may grumble about a poor meal and slap his innocent child.

Yet in a deeper reality, this is not the Christian man; this is the age in which he lives. These are the hardships and hazzards which he must endure; if he becomes godless as a result, he is a failure, for he has sought a gift rather than the earned privilege of calling himself a Christian. He has lost the fiber of his spirit, and, in so doing, the fiber of his manhood.

Ours is an age of progress, and the trail of ordeal lags none too lazily before us. Christianity is not our crutch, it is our staff, and he who questions its authenticity questions his own being. Our Atomic Age has left the pseudo-Christian gasping for breath.

He cannot understand and certainly he cannot seek; he can only endure the gamble that he has made of his life. The true Christian, however, can rebuff the strings of reality and can capture the glory of the Atomic Age through his own faith. And though he may be called a fundamentalist, he is in sincerity a realist, for he has learned his most important lesson—the love of God.

PLAIN DEMORALIZING

(ACP)—The OLD GOLD AND BLACK of Wake Forest (N. C.) College reports that one campus professor uses this method of giving quizzes:

After questions are written on the board and any clarification rendered, he says, "I leave you with your thoughts; which is to say, I leave you alone. . . . When you finish you may pass out quietly."

NATURE'S TRANQUILIZERS

Green . . . tiny buds of leaves exploding into new clusters . . . white spirorya extending long arms . . . birds' constant chatter and chirping . . . a canopy of blue overhead . . . High Point College campus has "redressed."

Spring hit HPC like a bomb! Suddenly the lawns covered in thick layers of snow not long ago became a brilliant piece of emerald velvet. Couples now parade in profusion. The tennis courts are in constant activity.

Everyone seems happier. Everyone is outside. Everyone is soaking in the sun and springtime.

Why?

A Belated Yule Story

About fifteen freshman girls on third floor of Woman's Hall huddled around a portable TV. Some of them were silent and stern, while others sniffed back tears. They were watching Dr. Tom Dooley from Laos being interviewed on "This Is Your Life."

As he related the severe situations in which he had to work as a medical doctor, the girls listened intently.

The television program concluded with a plea for monetary aid for his international medical program. With the heart-wrenching stories of disease-infested lands, Communist murders, and impoverished people still blazing in their minds, an idea burst forth.

These girls had drawn names and had planned to exchange Christmas gifts. But they met together and decided to revamp their plans. Christmas spirit bubbled inside them.

Instead of exchanging material gifts, these freshmen did "secret favors," such as making beds or emptying trash. The money that would have been spent on gifts was collected and sent to Dr. Dooley. The total amount was over $40.

A letter of appreciation arrived not long ago saying "It is indeed gratifying to know that we have the interest and support of fine young citizens such as yourselves."

Now who was this ribbing about "A Christian College for . . .?"

LETTERS

Dear Editors:

One thing about High Point College that really grates me is the attitude of some of the students who study religion and philosophy.

They seem to think that because they are so well-versed on what history's great minds have thought about life and its wonders, that they forget to consider that there are some people who just do not know about pragmatism, existentialism, naturalism, and all the other "isms." These people may have developed a very sound philosophy of their own from their daily experiences without the aid of a philosophy book.

Of course, it is very good to widen your scope and familiarize yourself with many different types of philosophy. Yet, it is never, never wise to take a "holier-than-thou" attitude and inwardly degrade your friends who have not been exposed to philosophy's treasures.

Why not, once in a while, listen to what someone else has to say about philosophical matters? Perhaps your friend who has not studied courses of this type understands a little of what living is about himself. Consider the words of Voltaire: "I do not agree with a word you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

AN UNFAIR PICTURE

Dear Editors:

A controversial novelist by the name of Erskine Caldwell has made thousands by writing about the so-called faded aristocracy and decadence of the South. A book by the name of Tobacco Row set off a new boom in the paper back industry of twenty-five cent novels and Mr. Caldwell was quick to capitalize on his early success by unleashing a string of subsequent novels, equally as cheap and poor, yet inbred equally as successful. Because of his lack of artistry, Erskine Caldwell has never joined the higher echelons of the literary world, and, indeed, he has never been ranked with the likes of Hemingway and Joyce. Yet his impression of the South has unfairly lived on in contemporary literature, so much so that a visitor is always looking for a broken down plantation, a town built around a rich landowner, and a barefooted grandfather who drinks "white lightning" and protects his blossoming granddaughter with a shotgun.

Ironically enough, the South which has produced the bulk of great American contemporary writers such as Faulkner, Wolfe, Warren, and Williams, cannot free itself of this yoke. The themes of Caldwell are ever apparent in the works of these great men and their polish has made an un-

Our First Lady

"It's more than just a job, you live it!" This is the way that Mrs. Wendell Patton, High Point College's "First Lady," describes her husband's job and the way it involves the entire Patton family.

The Pattons and their children, Wendell Melton III, 13, Leland Matthews, 10, and Melissa Lee, 20 months, live in the President's home at 821 College Drive. It was here that your reporter went to interview Mrs. Patton and ask her a few things about herself to provide for the students a picture of just how life goes at the President's home. And after talking with Mrs. Patton, I could see just how true her statement, quoted above, was.

Mrs. Patton, who was born in Atlanta and has lived in many cities in the Eastern part of our country, gave me a good idea of the great amount of cooperation needed to make her family the close-knit unit that it is.

"About every two weeks," she says, "Dr. Patton and I have to get together and compare notes on our calendars. We usually keep things pretty straight, but occasionally one of us will put something down and forget to tell the other. That's when things get confused!"

She says that she finds many things different in her role as the wife of a college President than they were while when Dr. Patton was an executive in the field of industry.

One thing that she sights as being very different is entertaining. "Before I came here," she remarked, "I was quite sure of myself when planning a dinner or gathering for, say, fifteen people. But when I had my first open house here and had to plan for one hundred, I was just lost for a while!"

"Another thing that I now realize," she went on, "is that when Dr. Patton and I go out, we have to remember that we not only represent ourselves but the College as well."

Mrs. Patton has become interested and active in many activities since coming to High Point and to the College, which "seemed very friendly, gracious, and larger than I had imagined" the first time she saw it. She is an advisor on the Executive Committee on the Student Government Association here on campus and is active in a book club, garden club, and church group in High Point.

"We have time which we spend with the children, too, who, by the way, have made a fine adjustment to a new environment. Dr. Patton's time with them is, of necessity, less than he would like. But before moving here, we consulted with the children and told them how things would be. But they wanted to come, and I am extremely pleased with the adjustment they have made."

She admitted that there were with her, just as with every family, the little things that just don't do right sometimes; however, they are usually soon forgotten.

"We hope that we can help High Point College in the next few years, but we know that we have to have the students' help. I think that everyone is trying to make High Point College a better school. The recent questionnaire seems like a good start. Let's just hope it continues."

Thus, an interview had finished. But as I came away, I felt, as I hope you now feel, that you know our "First Lady" just a little better.

-LOUISE WHITELEY.

Hopeful Budget

Amidst continuing attacks against its farm programs and defense policies, the Eisenhower administration can be credited at least somewhat for its balancing of the Federal Government budget.

The pictured result of the Eisenhower budget would bring the nation as a whole as close as it ever has been to payment, or at least partial payment, of the national debt. This result would also increase the value of the dollar and stamp out the final sparks of inflation.

In more concise tones, a successful result would enhance the position of the college graduate to the extent that though he does not become a $10,000-a-year man right off the bat, his average $5,000 to $7,000 yearly wage will be at its full value, and in this age of down payments and monthly installments, he might just as well be making $10,000.

SCHOOL SPIRIT ALL SEASON MUST

Almost any student at HPC will verify the fact that as our basketball team goes so goes the morale and spirit of this campus. For three solid months out of an academic year of nine, Coach Virgil Yow puts his talented charges through the paces of an approximately twenty-two game schedule.

When the dust has settled and the bleachers have been pushed flush against the walls of Alumni Gymnasium for the last time, High Point students place themselves in mothballs and wait for next December to roll around again. Let's face it, High Point is known as a one sport school. How well we look on the North State athletic battlefield is determined by how well the Sewells and Shorts perform on the hardwood court.

We are handicapped publicity wise by the lack of a football squad in the autumn months, and it's hard for a cross-country team to fill the gap no matter how successful their season may be.

That doesn't give the High Point student the right to forget the school months following the cage season, however. True, the athletic department has had difficulties in organizing tennis and track clubs this year, but we still have one of the hardest hitting baseball outfits in the conference.

Why should these boys knock themselves out to perform for the college before some 50 fans when behind the girls dorm, and the boys dorm too, twice this number are sunning themselves. Only a true love for the game and the thrill of competition make up the spirit found on our hardball diamond.

Only when the student realizes that supporting athletic and social functions is a very vital part of college life will the spirit of High Point College be a nine month proposition.

1960 PENNANT PICKS

It's time to make a fool out of myself again by picking the order in which both the American and National League contenders will finish. Here we go:

American League

1. New York
2. Chicago
3. Cleveland
4. Detroit
5. Baltimore
6. Kansas City
7. Boston
8. Washington

National League

1. San Francisco
2. Milwaukee
3. Los Angeles
4. Cincinnati
5. Pittsburgh
6. Chicago
7. St. Louis
8. Philadelphia

Taking first the American League pick, New York. The big questions here are Micky Mantle and Bob Turley. Both must return to top form if the Yanks are to regain the top rung. Turley got bombed out in the second frame at Fenway last week but should settle down. The big bats of Moose Skowron and Roger Maris will be a definite threat barring injuries.

Over in the National League, I pick the S. F. Giants to win. New players Billy O'Dell and Don Blasingame should provide the necessary sparks. With Johnny Antoneli, Sam Jones, Jack Sanford, Mike McCormick, and O'Dell doing the pitching chores, and Mays, Cepeda, and McCovey providing the power, this club should have enough balance to carry them into the World Series.

Problems?

by CHARLES WATSON

Editors' Note: This article was written before the team won its last three games.

The 1960 baseball season for the Panthers of High Point College began in surprisingly consistent fashion. It seems, however, as if the consistent fashion should be winning.

The Panthers suffered defeat in their first six games and their one victory, over Lenoir Rhyne, doesn't brighten the picture to any great extent. What are some of the causes of this early season slump?

Probably the most important factor contributing to the Panthers' poor showings has been the weather. The team practiced outside only two days before tangling Pfeiffer in a double-header. Pfeiffer already had four games under its belts, and they swept the twin-bill easily.

The weather played another trump with showers before the Panthers lost its second double-header of the season to visiting Western Maryland. Losing these first four games didn't help the spirit of the team and there seemed to be a slight lack of fire on the field.

About this time it became apparent that the pitching staff left a great deal to be desired. Yet, the pitchers began to feel to some degree that they could use a little more help from the fielding and hitting department. The conclusion could now be drawn that the main trouble has been the weather, the pitching, the fielding and the hitting.

Conference play opened with losses to Elon and Guilford. The Panthers did not arise to meet the need in either of these games, but the Guilford outing did bring forth new light. Even going down in defeat, the Panthers exploded 18 runs and 24 hits. Again, however, the throwing arms of the pitching staff were not in top form.

The Panthers finally tasted victory against Lenoir Rhyne College on Saturday, April 9, by downing the Bears 8 to 2. The twin combination of pitcher Roy Grant and catcher Ray Grant assisted in setting back Lenoir Rhyne. We finally got "Bear Meat."

One little "word to the wise" is that the team needs support from the students. They may not always win, but they are playing for you. Let's try to get out to some of the "Old Ball Games." Let everyone know that High Point College students are backing High Point College all the way.

Good luck, teams, and a special wish of good luck to Coach Chuck Hartman in hopes that he has scheduled some home games on dry days.

Slate Elected

The members of MSF have accepted the following slate of officers to carry on their work next year: John Carpenter, President; Karan Carpenter, Vice-President; Gayle Paxton, Secretary; John Ward and Larry Maxwell, Treasurers.

These new officers are planning a retreat with the old officers for next month at the home of Mr. Alfred. Here they will have a cookout and make plans for next year.

The last MSF meeting of the year is open to all. It will be a half-a-day affair at the City Lake, with soft ball, a weiner roast, a vesper service, and the installation of the new officers.

Our Man Friday

In the winter of 1957, the rank and file of tiny South Methodist Church in Manchester, Connecticut, made one of the wisest decisions in its history—they awarded Dale William Brown the annual New England Methodist Scholarship for undergraduate study at the college of his choice.

Young man Brown somehow looked over the Ivy-covered walls of colleges in his native New England and saw instead a star leading South. It was by this ironical twist of desire that High Point College today claims—sometimes orating, sometimes organizing, and always smiling,—Dale Brown as one of its most outstanding sons.

It was therefore not unusual that the "Nutmegger's" fellow Freshmen chose him to be their president for the 1957-58 academic year. Since then the golden touch of Brown's leadership has never lost its glow. Spring of '58 saw him stepping down from the class presidency and into the senate for the then rising Sophomore Class. It was here in the senate that Dale's intensive desire to rehabilitate student government into an authentic reality developed. And neither hell or an unnamed roar has succeeded in stopping Brown yet.

In a hard and closely contested campaign, Brown won his way into the Executive Chamber of the SGA, by which he most capably and conscientiously has served. As one observer put it—"Brown may not have made us any money, but he sure hasn't lost us any."

Perhaps Dale's most outstanding contribution has been the manner in which he has served his position, rather than the position itself. It has been this perseverance and diligence which carried the name of Brown and High Point College to the North State Conference Student Government honor role.

Unlike the classic politician who is always reaching the top apple, Brown rejected the idea of seeking the SGA presidency and instead chose to remain in his present capacity. Yet, it didn't take long for someone to place an added responsibility on capable shoulders. Dale Brown will also serve as President of the IFC for 1960-61.

So if perchance you see this lanky lad on campus, don't be surprised or offended if you can't get too much more than a "hi" from him, because if he is not doing something, he is planning something. And seeing how the Administration at present is running low on secretaries, the fellow that needs one the most has to go without—Dale William Brown.

Yank From New Jersey

For those of you who have spent a little more than a year's time on our campus, the face of Al Travarthen can certainly not be a strange one, even though it is somewhat overdone in this photo.

The "big" man pictured below is now Lt. Albert Russel Travarthen U.S.M.C., and it is with pride that the Student Body of High Point College acknowledges this. It is indeed a rare event when the Department of the Navy sees fit to bestow a congratulatory line to us. Incidentally, Al completed his 30-week course par-excellence, stepping over the toes of at least two dozen six-footers, in the process.

Al, a native of Vineland, New Jersey, entered High Point College in the fall of 1956 and is generally considered as being one of the "Yankee" pioneers. Amidst the calls of "Carpetbagger" and "Little Yank," Al succeeded in slowly working his way to the limelight of the High Point scene, being elected as a class officer in both his Sophomore and Junior years. Al's Senior year saw him assume the presidency of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, and considering that his Union allies were "few and far between," this was indeed a tall accomplishment.

And incidentally, if you happen to be thumbing through the Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities' edition of 1959, look up the name of Lt. Albert Russel Travarthen, who actually isn't half as mean as he looks.

More than his individual credits and awards, High Point College will always remember Al for his sincere personality and good-natured attitude. Therefore, it is no small wonder that we salute Al as our Alumni of the month.

PHI MU

New Department Heads Announced

DR. LEVEY

Former Georgian To Head English

As new head of the English department, Dr. Blackstock plans the following: 1. To strengthen the teaching of Modern American Literature, especially in the field of poetry. 2. To get more 20th Century Literature in the library. 3. An English Coffee Hour. The purpose of this coffee hour would be to acquaint the English majors with the English professors. 4. To have a stable English program and a unified department.

Dr. Blackstock was born in Atlanta, Georgia. He received his A.B. in English at the University of Georgia in 1942. While attending the University, he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He received his Master's English at Vanderbilt University in 1944. In 1952 he received his Ph.D. in American Literature at Yale University.

Creative writing in the field of poetry, public speaking, and readings of poetry make up his special interests. Dr. Blackstock has written several books of poetry. THE DEEPER BOND was published in 1942. Now he is working on MIRACLE OF FLESH. His other experience includes poetic readings over many radio stations.

In 1958 after previous experience as an instructor at Vanderbilt University, Assistant Professor at Florida State University, and Assistant Professor at Piedmont College, Dr. Blackstock assumed the position of Associate Professor here at High Point College until his recent appointment.

Language Dept. Headed By LeVey

Dr. Authur LeVey, was recently named head of the foreign language department.

Dr. LeVey was born in New York City. At the age of 13, his family moved to Denver, Colorado. He received his B.A. at the Colorado College of Education, his Master's at the University of Denver, and his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago.

The University of Denver, the University of Chicago, the College of Mining and Technology, Oklahoma College for Women, and Berlity School of Languages house Dr. LeVey's teaching experience in the U.S.

He served fifteen years in the U. S. Army. During this time, he served in Washington, Berlin, and Korea. He taught Elementary Spanish while in Korea at the University of California Far East Extension School.

Since 1958, Dr. LeVey has been teaching at High Point College in the fields of French and Spanish.

Next semester Dr. LeVey plans to keep the same curriculum as last year. He hope to offer majors in Spanish and French. Stress will be placed primarily on the cultural objectives of each language and on the improvement of the academic and technical preparations.

In the opinion of Dr. LeVey, English, French, and Spanish majors and minors should be offered a curricula of surveys of literature, specific periods of greatness. Also, courses in French and Spanish novels, dramas, and poetry should be emphasized.

Missouri Senator Gets Truman Nod

Former President Harry Truman has fully endorsed fellow Missourian Senator Stuart Symington to carry the Democratic banner in the 1960 presidential race.

The Truman endorsement, although expected, was viewed with optimism by many political in-the-knows. Truman's motive seems to be clouded with an air of mysticism.

First of all can the ex-president afford to support a loser as he did in fifty-two when he backed Harriman and still maintain his position of power?

Although Senator Symington is regarded as being somewhat of a serious contender his overall strength as of the moment leaves too much to the observer's imagination. Symington's refusal to enter the pre-convention primaries has thus far backfired and his Democratic cohort Senator John F. Kennedy is presently the man of the hour.

At the moment Symington looms only as a possible compromise candidate and at that a slow and stumbling third.

On the other hand the Truman move may have been prompted by the Democratic Party itself as a "feint" to preserve the authority of the July convention. One is more apt to accept the theory when he regards the tremendous pre-convention backing Kennedy has been able to amass.

Especially so when he realizes that Truman's endorsement was presented the day following Kennedy's whopping victory in West Virginia.

At any rate it seems feasible to assume that the Democratic Party would like to let the American public know that the issue of a candidate is by no means settled and won't be until July.

Also the fact remains that perhaps the most powerful voice of all, that of Adlai E. Stevenson, has yet to be heard from. Stevenson could well hold the balance of power within his grasp, despite the fact that he is a two time loser.

Whether or not he will openly seek the candidacy remains to be seen. Nevertheless he must still be labeled as a strong contender and it can be generally assumed that he and not Harry Truman has the more powerful grasp on the Democratic Party.

The Symington candidacy, though having received a substantial boost, can by no means be considered as being more vigorously stronger.

It Seems Only Yesterday

The hour is quiet, another college day is quickly drawing to a close. and in these silent moments memories of the past come to mind—Yes, it seems it was only yesterday, we came as freshmen—Freshmen and the "class of 1960". How different and exciting was this new college world!

The orientation parties, getting acquainted with new friends and roommates, the dreadful announcement to buy the "beanies", trying so hard to register for classes, and getting settled in general to so many new things, are the first memories that come to the mind of an H.P.C. senior of 1960.

Remember how perfectly ridiculous we looked in our beanies and how funny they were until November rolled around and then how nauseating they became as we habitually placed them on our pointed little heads muttering various and sundry phrases.

Finally beanies, classes, freshman themes, biology labs, and bookstore became quite natural and adjustment was made to this new life we all had begun.

The year flew by it seems . . . first semester, exams and the annual show, sorority and fraternity affiliations, second semester, ball games in our little "cracker box" of a gymnasium—and more and more we became a part and more and more High Point College became a part of us. Spring came and as quickly as it all had begun, our first year at college ended. The sophomore year began with much anticipation on the part of the class of 1960.

Those familiar courses we all struggled through as we really begin to feel the dignity of a sophomore—can you remember psychology, that world lit, and those silly little pantomimes we so faithfully practiced for required speech. This was our year of decisions, and suddenly we all became quite concerned with a major field.

All of a sudden it was so important and probably for the first time we began feeling as mature men and women as we decided on a blueprint for our lives. The sophomore year closed and here we came to the halfway mark with a joy only faintly dimmed by the idea that getting an education was becoming more and more difficult.

The fall of 1958 ushered in our junior year. This was filled with much activity for our classmates as we began to assume more responsibility in positions on our college campus. We can look back on the many committee meetings, our most elaborate homecoming, plans for the Junior-Senior prom, and so many of those poorly attended class meetings.

We began frantically comparing the number of our hours with the number of our quality points. Fraternity pins, engagement rings, and wedding presents came frequently and the ranks of our class began to thin out.

It seems it was only yesterday we returned to H.P.C. to begin our Senior year. We oriented the freshmen, feeling and knowing that we had finally attained the dignity and honor of a college senior. Here we see the value of all the hours of work and receive self-satisfaction in knowing time was not wasted these past four years.

Those block courses we so faithfully attended every day five days a week. Can we ever forget those first days of being a practice teacher? And now our last days of college are here and we realize in

Night School Begins Plans

Dr. C. R. Hinshaw was recently appointed Director of HPC Evening School. It will begin a fairly extensive program next September.

A bulletin containing detailed information concerning the schedule, hours credit, and other pertinent facts will be published this summer and distributed to any interested persons.

All courses approved so far for evening school will give college credit and will count toward graduation.

Additional courses will be offered if there is sufficient demand for them. The courses so far approved for evening school are as follows: Art, Business 103—Typing, Business 203 — Accounting, Business 207 — Economics, Business 301 — Business Law, Business 315—Accounting and Income Tax, Business —Methods and Standards, English 101 — Freshman Composition, English 201 — Masterpieces of Western World Literature, English 324—Modern Drama, History 355 — Russian History, Political Science 308—American Political Parties, Psychology 407 — Industrial Psychology.

these quiet moments that so suddenly the years have flown and we come to say good-bye, bound closest by the little things which have been so much a part of these our college days.

These wonderful memories are what have made H.P.C. so dear to us and as we look back on them it is with a sense of sadness but with humility and gratitude for these are the things which will be forever a part of us—the class of 1960. Days never to be relived but days never to be forgotten.

—Senior, 1960.

Washington Slept Here

Two years ago this September, a bright young man named Mountcastle stopped on our campus for the first time. At first glance, the tall and blond stranger could have passed for almost anyone except the new assistant professor of Religion and Philosophy.

Physically he was indeed more suited to the role of a fighter pilot, a capacity which he had served during World War II.

And yet, for all the new freshmen and Religion majors who found their way into his classroom, one common agreement was reached; this was a man of his vocation. Even those who took a religion course solely because it was required suddenly found themselves thinking, questioning, and above all, learning. They found themselves fumbling with an academic channel which they never before realized existed.

Even though they found him to be a very technical marksman in terms of examination grading, for the most part they were satisfied. They were experiencing a very concrete phase in their overall education. If a student can say nothing else for Mountcastle, they most honestly can affirm his dynamic impact and ability to convey.

The force of Mountcastle cannot be paralleled to the soul-saving country evangelist nor to the urbanized society clergyman. More emphatically, his power as minister and educator rests with his intellectual ability to realistically and liberally interpret that which is known in terms of doctrine into that which is authentic in terms of true Christianity.

Unfortunately, Dr. William Mountcastle will take the road of many truly great professors (Brend, Muldrow, etc.) and leave High Point College. Each year sees us being sapped of several outstanding figures.

Anyone who has had the opportunity to study under Mountcastle and who has the slightest knowledge of his subject will come to a realization. If true justice is done, the name of Mountcastle might well find its way into the file of great 20th century Protestant spokesmen, such as Tillich and Dr. Wolfe.

Somewhere on his record the name of High Point College will be inscribed in the past tense.

Something's Wrong Somewhere!

Somewhere in the course of education's history, a barrier was built between the educator and the educated.

Psychology courses teach that the first step to learning is motivation. The comparison between the motivation of the teacher and the motivation of the student is extremely important, but it has also become misinterpreted.

Student's tag a professor as "good" if he is "easy," or "crib," or if he passes all of his students whether they work or not.

When questioned about their dulled initiative, students blame boring lectures, uninterested teachers, and lack of challenges for their lackadaisical studying. A student prefers to be "lured into learning."

On the other hand, professors face classrooms of disinterested student who never ask questions, never "hurt" themselves studying, never show any enthusiasm. After teaching the same subject for several years, it is hard for a professor to find an "original" way to spoon-feed education.

The classroom can be a utopia for learning or a hellscape for stagnation. Who is really at fault . . . the apathetic student or the unchallenged professor?

Our campus could use a blasting campaign next year to knock down this barrier between the faculty and the student body. A great deal of intellect experience, and talent is being lost because of the utter lack of communication between these two. It would be wonderful to sit down to eat in the cafeteria and listen to some exhilarating discussion about some important issue instead of just complaints about tests.

Somewhere in the course of education's history a barrier was built between the educator and the . . .

Letters To Editors

Learning Vs. Grades

Dear Editors:

During our elementary school days, I am certain that many of us heard this question asked: "Well, what did you learn in school today?" I, for one, would like to know what has happened to such reasoning.

Now the emphasis is not on learning, but rather on grades. The question now is, "What grade did you make?" I think that we as college students and supposed adults should realize which comes first—learning or grades?

Let us consider first the grade. What does it prove? It should indicate that we have learned enough to be rewarded our appropriate grade. However, it may signify nothing. Perhaps we make an A on a history test, which is supposed to measure what we have learned. We have either memorized the answers or remembered them from a former course in history.

In reality we have not learned as much as the fellow next to us who makes a C and can honestly say that the material was new and that he learned all he could. Right? Maybe he did not make the better grade, but he has achieved more.

Let us next consider learning. What does it prove? Learning cannot be proved. Another person cannot positively measure what we ourselves have learned. Therefore, we are the only ones who ever really know how much we have learned; that is why I think the emphasis should not be on what grades we make but what we know we have achieved. I would much rather make a C on a subject and truthfully say, "I learned a lot in that class" than to make an A and know that I learned very little.

I am not trying to say that a good grade is always a sign of not having learned something. I am merely trying to point out that our main interest should first be what we learned and second, what grade we made.

South Answers Back

There appeared in a previous edition of the HI-PO a letter to the editors concerning Southern writers. The opinion expressed in this letter was that contemporary literary figures of the South are continuously following the pattern set by writers like Erskine Caldwell, who portrays a backward South and one of fallen aristocracy.

Faulkner, Warren, and Williams may follow this pattern, but there should be brought to attention the fact that there do exist Southern authors who do not write in the same vein. Ellen Glasgow and James Branch Cabell are two rich and writers who were concerned with the middle-class rather than the aristocratic. Southerner. Also, from Asheville came Thomas Wolfe, another middle-class writer.

Ellen Glasgow was definitely a middle-class writer. In THE SHELTERED LIFE she looked upon the South satirically criticizing the vanity and ego of the Southern gentleman. Indeed, she was trying to reduce the aristocracy to the middle-class.

She wrote in terms of a middle-class view, even satirizing law, which was the typical occupation of the gentleman of the South. However, Ellen Glasgow sometimes displayed pity for her "fallen aristocrats" who are misplaced in the Modern South, chiefly because she could not bring herself to completely abase her own Southern background.

James Cabell, in his fiction, was able to do what Ellen Glasgow was unwilling to do. He satirized the aristocracy of the South without sentimentality. The irony in his writing was light and sophisticated. Cabell felt that the aristocratic tradition which the South insisted on keeping was nothing but vanity and deceit.

In LET ME LIE Cabell is pricking the bubble of Southern aristocracy. He is satirizing the deep and loving memory of the "Southern Ladies", who are in reality the Negro mammys.

Thomas Wolfe wrote about the middle-class society in the South. In his novel LOOK HOMEWARD ANGEL Wolfe gave us an account of his youth in Asheville. It is also the legend of the South in terms of a conflict between the Old South and the New South. The characters in LOOK HOMEWARD ANGEL as well as those in OF TIME AND THE RIVER are middle-class.

As for the modern writers like Faulkner, Warren, and Stark Young, there is a very good reason why they write in the tradition. This reason is that of the agrarian tradition of the Southern economy. From 1607 until World War II, the South had been mainly rural and feudal in outlook. As in all feudal societies, the South has been made up of two classes—the high and the low. The Southern writers have reflected this society.

Indeed, this heritage has been the basis of the misunderstanding in the South today. Individuals from other sections of the country cannot, or will not, understand how deep rooted is the Southern rural way of life. They cannot see that we need time to change this way of life which has been built up through generations. Many think, take for example the Negro question, that it is simply a matter of integration or segregation.

But it goes deeper than that. It is the changing of a way of life that many of us cannot be made to believe is entirely wrong, especially since it is to develop into the industrial, commercial economy of the North. The urbanized society has been, as it should be, reflected by the Northern writers like Norris, Crane, Dreiser, and ad infinitum. They have all written about the urbanized, industrialized, Northern city and the middle-class.

When the South becomes industrialized, it too, will produce its Dreisers and Cranes. Until then, however, the world will have to wait for a middle-class literature from the South, and we are willing to wait a long time, if not forever; it is through its agrarian background and principles that the South retains a flavor of individuality which differentiates it from other sections of the country.

We would be the first to admit that not everything about the Southern way of life is right and that there is room for improvement, but we would equally deny that everything about it is wrong, and that we should forthwith change everything about it. Like us, Southern writers do not ignore the booming industry or the cosmopolitan cities that are finding their way into the South.

Rather, they cannot bring themselves, as we cannot, to accept this as an improvement over the rural, agrarian way of life that is so much a part of them and of us.

Mountcastle's Adieu

Dear Editors:

The decision to leave High Point College was not an easy one to make, because there are student friends that I will miss. However, an especially challenging professional opportunity has appeared.

Thus it is with mixed feelings that I will journey westward to meet new opportunities for service. To my colleagues and students, some of whom will most certainly be leaders in the "new age", I extend my prayers and best wishes.

Think About College

Most of us have accepted college as a normal phase of our life, a period in which we are to grow mentally and socially. It is only too unfortunate that many of us have not regarded our mental growth closely enough.

College is not "normal" for many people. College is a privilege that is hard for many to get. After we leave college, we will be the generation of the day not of tomorrow. Our time is drawing near; soon it will be our world. We will run it, but how, socially?

Stop and think, the future is near—nearer than most of us want it to be. We have to accept it; it's ours.

STUDENT EXPRESSES DISAPPOINTMENT

Dear Co-Editors:

I would like to express my thanks to you for the interest that you have taken in the study habits of the students here at High Point College. I only hope that the efforts you are putting forth will be of some help. It gives me a good feeling to know that after being here for eight months, I have finally found someone that has taken an interest in the study habits of our students.

It is evident that the administration isn't interested, or at least they surely don't show their interest. Of course, I am speaking from my own personal opinion, but as far as I have seen, no action whatsoever has been taken by the administration to try to improve the study conditions at High Point College.

Sure, we have a good library, but it is turning into a building for social gatherings rather than a place for reading and studying. One would have almost as much desire to study in Grand Central Station as he has in our library with the constant chatter and walking around of students.

Then there's the boys' dormitory. It is just about as quiet as the Dodge City Saloon on Saturday night (including drunks and all). From seven until nine all is quiet. At nine it's everyone to the bookstore. At ten the trumpet starts to blow. Finally at one, things begin to settle down, and one can finally concentrate.

Oh yes, I must not forget about Roberts Hall. The administration has been kind enough to leave it open. But after the meetings are over and the singing is finished, one doesn't feel much like studying, because by that time it's getting pretty late. Of course, it is really fun to sit in a hard straight desk that speaks to you at every movement and study for several hours.

If we are "to stimulate the law of learning, to insist upon thorough academic work of high quality, and to maintain high standards," as our catalogue states, then why does the administration not raise the standards required for entrance so that our student body will be mature enough to conduct themselves in such a way as to "cultivate their ability and disposition for creative thinking in the American tradition"?

In closing I would like to ask the following question: With the present conditions for studying at High Point College, are we getting the sound, progressive education that the founders of the college had in mind?

Sincerely,
AN INTERESTED FRESHMAN

Bookstore Bridge?

Dear Editors:

What is this madness about "No More Card Playing in the Bookstore!" Is it not true that by the time a student reaches college age, he should be able to decide for himself when to play bridge and when to attend class?

This year for the first time the students of High Point College have been able to enjoy the facilities of the bookstore addition. Due to this, relationships between day students and dormitory students have strengthened. The bookstore was designed with the interests of the students in mind.

If the students' interest lie in bridge, let them play bridge. The professors who "say" students cut classes to indulge in the evils of bridge perhaps should take inventory of their own subject matter. Often a bridge game may be more challenging to a student than the monologue of a professor.

The HI-PO is attempting to be the voice of the students. We think this letter reflects the feeling of our classmates. If we do not speak now, the privilege of dancing in our bookstore will soon be regarded as another evil to keep us from classes.

Why do not college professors, cooperate with students; in turn students will co-operate with professors.

Judy, Emily, Macky, Becky

THE DEAN'S LADY

A warm smile, a pleasant voice, and a light, sparkling personality — these are only three of the many wonderful characteristics of Mrs. James Nelson, wife of the Dean of Students.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and daughter, Vicki, live at 807 Monticue Avenue. It was here that I interviewed Mrs. Nelson and came away with the details of what is, to me, a very interesting life story.

Mrs. Nelson, whose maiden name was Kei Imai (pronounced Kay I-may), was born in San Francisco, California.

I asked her where she went to school. "I was one of those preacher's daughters," she replied, "and that meant moving every four years. But most of my education was in California."

Both of her parents were from Japan. Her father came to the United States to study for the ministry, and her mother to study to be a missionary.

When World War II came along, the family was evacuated from their California home and sent to an evacuation camp in Arizona, as were thousands of others. They lived with families of Japanese descent who had been shipped to the camp. It was here that Kei received her high school diploma and after that, a Methodist scholarship.

Her advisor told her to go as far East to college as she could. So "I took her literally and chose Phieffer!"

Later, she transferred to HPC, and here met Dean Nelson, who had just returned from Infantry duty. They were married in 1946. After Dean Nelson finished school, they moved to Winston-Salem where Mrs. Nelson taught music. She also taught in Kernersville, where, aside from teaching music, she was organist for the Kernersville Moravian Church. She then switched to teaching second grade and has taught in this capacity for four years. Next fall, she will teach in the High Point City Schools.

The Nelson's daughter Vicki, 12 years old, attends Ray Street School. She sees the campus at least once a week, when she comes to have her piano lesson with Miss Fields.

Mrs. Nelson still enjoys playing the organ or piano for weddings and other community activities.

She also enjoys sewing and makes most of her own clothing as well as such things as draperies for their home.

As a family, the Nelsons enjoy trips far and wide, looking for furnishings and antiques for their home.

"Antique-ing is what we like to call it!" she exclaims.

In this day and age, when so often we have so many various activities for each member of the family, a housewife has to be more than that. She is secretary, often a career woman, family coordinator, interior decorator, cook—so many things all in one.

And, after this interview, I believe I have found one housewife who seems as though she is a natural at most all of them. That housewife? Mrs. James Nelson.

Grants Available For Graduate Study

Two hundred fellowships for graduate study in 13 foreign countries will be offered by foreign governments and universities through the Institute of International Education for the academic year 1961-62.

The Institute announced today that applications for the fellowships are now available and will be accepted until November 1, 1960.

The scholarships cover tuition and varying amounts of maintenance in universities in Austria, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Iran, Israel, Italy, Mexico, the Netherlands, Poland, Sweden and Switzerland.

General eligibility requirements are United States citizenship, a Bachelor's degree or its equivalent before departure, language ability sufficient to carry on the proposed study, and good health. A good academic record and demonstrated capacity for independent study are also necessary. Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not had extensive foreign experience. While married persons are eligible for most of the awards described above, the stipends are geared to the needs of single grantees.

For further information and application forms, prospective applicants should write to the Information and Counseling Division, Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York 21, New York; or to any of the Institute's regional offices.

Oh! These streamers never vary;

Oh! These streamers going high.

Carry must till in they die.

For the souls within are yearning,

Wooer of tranquility.

PRESIDENTIAL POLL

Q. What part do you think that religion will play in the presidential election?

A. Frank Lewis: I would vote for the man and his qualifications and not on the basis of religion.

A. Al Thompson: The West Virginia primary shows us that religion will probably not have too great an effect on the presidential race.

A. Charles Woodruff: The Catholics would probably vote for the Catholic candidate where the population is predominantly Catholic.

A. Dr. Bryden: I think that the American public will vote more on the candidate's qualifications than on the basis of religion.

A. Alice Jones: As a Catholic I hope that the Catholics will vote for the man and not just on the basis of religion.

NEW BOOK WRITTEN BY HPC PROFESSOR

Dr. Alexander V. Berkis, Associate Professor of History at High Point College, has presented his first book in the English language. It is a highly concentrated and extremely well-unified account of a prominent seventeenth century duke and his duchy.

Courland was a principality located in the southern and western section of present-day Latvia. Although its size reflects no vast proportions, it played a vital role in Eastern European politics of the seventeenth century.

It flourished under Duke James as being a commercial and cultural stronghold as well as being a "hotbed of political intrigue."

Dr. Berkis brings into focus the problems incurred on the cramped and small duchy. He manages to acquaint the reader with the almost positive political genius of Duke James who, under burdening strain and foreign pressure from virtually all sides, manages to protect the sovereignty of his people.

The fact becomes apparent that the force of James rests with his ability to play faction against faction, while, at the same time, he exploits his own foreign interests. The Duke was even able to maintain a fruitful string of colonies in Africa and the West Indies even though strong advocate of mercantilism.

The book explains in detail the historical pattern of Courland in an unusually interesting text, full of factual romanticism against the tense background of the ever-prevalent control and power factors of the age.

Although the reader may not be acquainted with James or of Courland, he will most certainly be interested in what might appear to be a fictional kingdom in which was a station of intercourse for East and West.

For Dr. Berkis, the book is a momentous first and should indeed serve as a beachhead for him in the American market.

EUNICE YOUNG

Senior Class President, Bob Yates, has announced that Eunice Young of Mebane, N. C., will be the Zenith editor for 1960-61.

Assisting Miss Young will be Jane Saferight from High Point as the Assistant Editor. The Business Manager for next year will be Charles Carroll, also of High Point.

The yearbook presented in assembly for this year had expenses surmounting $11,000. One thousand and fifty copies were published.

The Zenith Staff is looking for students to help in next year's edition.

STUDY HABITS -- POOR!

by SANDY HOOKS

At this time everyone is "cramming" for exams. This "cramming" brings on an inevitable self evaluation. This evaluation consists mainly of the success of one's study habits during the past semester. From the recent poll taken by the Hi-Po came the following evaluation of the average students and their ideas on studying.

1. How many hours do you average studying each day? The average student studies three hours each day; however, the answers ranged from eight hours to none.

2. How many books from the library do you read per week? Per month? Per semester? Two books per week is the well-read student's average; four per month for the average student; and the "not so well read" person averaged one per semester.

3. Are you stimulated to study? 40% answered this question no; 33% answered yes, and 27% answered sometimes. Students commented:

"No. I emphasize the NO!"

"Not really! The only reason I do is because of future aspiration for graduate school."

"Yes, slightly! I don't have the time!"

And of course the old stand by: "It depends mostly on the course and the teacher."

4. If more interest were created in the class rooms, would you be willing to study more? The majority of students answer this with a yes. One senior wrote the following:

"As a senior, I can say this and not feel that I am instigating a great plan for harder lessons. Many professors read their notes and the students write them down. On a test the students memorize these notes and write them verbatim on the exam.

No learning is the result. You as intelligent editors of the Hi-Po realize this too, I'm sure—as a voice of a student—I say, 'Is this real learning?' I love this school and cherish the memories, but the things I've learned were not aided much by the professors."

Another student adds, "few teachers are enthusiastic about their subjects, or so it seems."

5. What is the chief distraction which prevents your studying? Noise topped the list here. Extra-curricular activities and "shooting the breeze" followed as a close second and third.

6. Where can you study best? Most people seemed to be able to study in their rooms. The next choice was the library—when it is quiet. One student prefers "Robert's Hall except on fraternity nights."

7. Do you think you have good study habits? This question got an astounding no. Only a very few seem to believe their study habits to be as they should be.

8. Do you think fraternities and sororities are beneficial to studying? Why? This, by far, was the most controversial of the questions. The yes's and no's were very close. There were only four papers which put the yes's out in front.

One sorority member said "yes, because a certain average is required to become initiated, and this average has to be maintained to keep your vote, etc."

One radical says no! "Because of initiations and little-brother-work, big brother type of serfdom, and because of many parties which members are required to attend and because of the constant demand in social interest placed on these members, I say no. Fraternities and sororities encourage nothing but a good time."

An independent sticks with the fraternities "because their members must maintain a certain average."

Another independent disagrees. "They have more of a tendency to keep you from studying because of their many activities both planned and otherwise. The average required is not academically challenging."

Still further one says, "Yes, because one must have a C average to become a member and must uphold his C to remain active."

Another person says, "No, because of meetings during study hours, and because I often feel obligated to do things for my 'sisters' or for the sorority when I should be studying."

One answer was, "If one has the intelligence to get in a sorority they should have enough intelligence not to let it interfere with studying."

And so you have it. The average student of High Point College; his study habits are bad, he has little inspiration, but he is willing to work if given the stimulus. He studies in his room and is distracted by the noise. He believes fraternities and sororities beneficial by a slim margin.

If this average does not suit you, are you going to sit idly by and leave it as it is, or are you going to effect a change by changing yourself for the better. It is up to you!

For a final meeting of the year the BSU was entertained at the Y.M.C.A., May 10th. Speaker was Mr. Jim Greene, State Student Representative from Raleigh. He spoke on "What Does the Future Hold for You?" Following the banquet, the group joined Miss Clarice Bowman at the piano for music and singing. Plans are being made for summer publication and the fall orientation program.

HOME EC NEWS

On May 5, 1960, after having dinner at the K & W Cafeteria, Epsilon Sigma Omicron had their installation of officers for 1960-61 in Lindley Chapel. The officers are: President, Ann Doub; Vice-President, Brenda Dellinger; Secretary and Treasurer, Mary Sides; Historian, Louise Reng; and Reporter, Caroline Prestwood. Many of the Epsilon Sigma Omicron girls enjoyed the week-end of May 13 at Myrtle Beach.

KAPPA CHI

Recently the members of the Kappa Chi Fellowship met and elected the new officers to serve for the coming year. They are as follows: President, David Baxter; Vice-President, Bob Clark; Secretary, Francis Dail; and Treasurer, Don Jenkins.

Also Dr. W. W. Mountcastle, who is leaving High Point College, was made an honorary member of Kappa Chi for his outstanding work as an advisor of Kappa Chi.

FRESHMAN CLASS

The freshman class met and chose officers for the school year 1960-1961. The following were chosen: President, Ted Brazzell; Vice-President, John Ward; Secretary, Brenda Dellinger; Treasurer, Bob Clark; Judiciary Council Representative, Pat Peele.

PLAN PARTY

At the class meeting, the freshmen planned a picnic and dance. The picnic will be held at City Lake on Saturday, May 21, for freshmen and their dates. A dance will follow the picnic. The location of the dance will be announced later.

JUNIOR CLASS

Bobby Yates was elected President of the rising Senior Class at a recent meeting. Other officers are: Vice-President, Don Drapeau; Secretary, Judy Fisher; Treasurer, Bill Guy; and Judiciary Representative, Darl McGuire. Praise was given to Ray Startette, this year's president, for such a successful year and especially for an outstanding Junior-Senior which will long be remembered.

NATIONAL EDUCATION

The newly elected officers for Student NEA for next year include: Gaye Wall, President; Cynthia Fletcher, Vice-President; Mary Sides, Secretary; Louise Whiteley, Treasurer; Becky Jarvis, SGA representative.

A short business meeting Monday, May 9, closed the Student NEA meetings for the semester. Some very interesting programs are being planned for next year. It was decided to have a tea this fall to interest the new freshman class in Student NEA, and ideas for obtaining new members were presented.

FELLOWSHIP TEAMS

by BETTY GRAY DORMAN

The Fellowship Teams began this year with a retreat at Montlieu Avenue Methodist Church. There, teams were explained to the newcomers through a skit; we enjoyed recreation led by John Meyers of Raleigh and had a lovely worship service.

Then all the team members had to go through a training period. There were six training sessions on various phases of church activity that team members will participate in on their visits.

The session on worship was led by Dr. Walt Hudgins. Wilbur Jackson, a former chairman of the Fellowship Teams, led the session on fellowship singing, and Dr. William R. Locke was in charge of the session on hymns. Miss Clarice Bowman helped our group with program planning. Rev. Paul Duckwall of Salisbury visited our campus and led a session on Organization of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Other visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Hodges, came and helped us with our session on recognition. At the close of our training period we had a dedication service and concentrated our learning to greater service. The team chairmen and their team members were announced. There were nine teams and ten alternates.

Bobby Little, Chairman—Ted Brazzelle, Pat Peterson, Hallie Sumpter, Donna Blue; Benny Martin, Chairman—Bill Reeves, Libby Graham, Margarette Damewood; Allen Windley, Chairman—David Baxter, Carolyn Williams, Jeannie Van Nortwick, Marilyn Tulloch, Ann Huggins; Mary Jewell Touchton, Chairman—Don Drapeau, Natalie Tunstall, Julia Hobson, Pat Clarke; Bill Webb, Chairman—W. B. Harrell, Jane Crowson, Georgianna Hardin, Faye Griffith, Louise Whiteley.

Shirley Beatty, Chairman—Larry Maxwell, Judy Longwith, Shirley McDaniel, Marilyn Floyd, Grace Seaver. The alternates are: Dell Rita Phillips, Sandra Vestal, Nina Lawson, Annie Carol Boyd, Mary Lee Willis, Barbara Allgood, Hugh Cameron, Jean Thomas, Ann Runyon, Dell Conrad.

We have made twenty-seven visits this year. These have ranged all over the state from Asheville to Aberdeen. We helped with a District Vocations Conference in Valdese, a subdistrict Rally in Aberdeen, and a District Rally in Boone, plus the other visits to local churches. Our teams have served some of the largest churches in the state as well as many small five church charges.

Wherever the location, the team members always feel they have gained much more than they could have given the people they served. All of the teams are headed by an executive team called the planning committee. The members of the planning committee this year were Betty Gray Dorman, Chairman, Karen Carpenter, Sherwood Nance, Bobbie Shuford and Jimmy Edwards.

To close our year's activities we held a retreat at City Lake on May 5, 1960. We shared the experiences each team had had on their visits. After an inspirational worship service by the lakeside, the planning committee for the coming year was installed by Dr. Locke. Betty Lou Williams is Chairman and serving with her are Karen Carpenter, Sherwood Nance, Pat Yokley, Pat Peterson, Patti Collier and Larry Maxwell.

They are beginning now to make plans for a successful year to come with the capable guidance of our advisors, Dr. Locke and Miss Bowman.

AH-HUMPH!

Confucius say: Man who crosses ocean once and back again and doesn't take bath for entire time is dirty double crosser.

Too many meetings are held every two weeks for no other reason than that it has been two weeks since the last one.

Senior girls: "I like them! I like them!"

It seems that the key to a teen-ager's social success is the same one that fits the ignition.

The weaker sex is the stronger sex because of the weakness of the stronger sex for the weaker sex.

Girl from Philadelphia: "Boys are all alike."

Girl from Augusta: "Boys are all Ah like, too."

PANTHERS IMPROVE OVER '59

When we look at the Panthers' 8-12 record (as of May 16), we are inclined to think that our baseball team hasn't had a very successful season, but if we would look at last year's conference record of 3 wins and 12 losses, we can at once see a great improvement. This year has definitely been a rebuilding year for Coach Chuck Hartman. Hartman said, "I think that with a stronger pitching staff, we could have gone all the way this season. We had the potential, but our pitching staff was not strong enough. We have improved much over last year, and I am looking forward to a good season in 1961."

The High Point squad will lose only three members of this year's squad (Willard Formyduval, Gil Buck, and Bob Boles). Heading the Panthers in statistics have been Formyduval and pitcher Roy Grant. Through May 16 with only 3 games left to play the figures were as follows:

Player	AB	R	H	RBI	Avg.
Formyduval	82	24	34	14	.415
Buck	68	24	26	15	.382
McCorkle	77	13	27	22	.364
Ray Grant	57	19	17	15	.298
Guzinski	75	19	21	22	.280
Nolan	54	15	13	8	.241
Boles	69	16	15	5	.217
White	19	1	4	2	.211
Shackleford	38	5	7	5	.184
Cook	24	5	4	4	.160
Norris	13	2	2	2	.154

Formyduval also leads in stolen bases with 11. Freshman Roy Grant leads the pitching staff with 5 wins against 2 losses. The other pitching records are Blair 3-4, Smith 0-3, Boles 0-2, and Norris 0-1. In conference play the Panthers have posted 6 victories and have fallen to defeat 7 times.

GRANT TWINS MEAN DOUBLE TROUBLE

Have the High Point College baseball fans been seeing double for the past few weeks? Well, not quite. They have been seeing two of the Panthers' top baseball stars, who are identical twins, Roy and Ray Grant. Roy and Ray have meant double trouble for most North State Conference teams in this their freshman year in college baseball. With Roy posting a record of 5 wins and 2 losses as a pitcher and Ray rapping out 17 hits for an average of .298, these two boys are fastly becoming a nightmare to many North State coaches.

The Grants are one of the few twin combinations in college baseball today, and they are the only such battery combination in the North State Conference. So with three years left, the Grant twins will cause the opposing teams to prepare for "double trouble."

WILL ROCKY RETURN?

It seems that the question has arisen: If Ingemar Johansson beats Floyd Patterson in their return bout for the heavyweight championship, will Rocky Marciano come out of retirement and fight the champ? It seems as though both Ingo and Rocky are all for the idea, but there is one thing that could stop the whole idea. Rocky's wife has said, "Rocky will fight again over my dead body." So it seems as if Marciano will have to fight his wife first if he wants to meet Johansson. Personally I don't think Rocky can ever beat his wife.

AN ODE TO EX-CHAMPIONS

Today the trend seems to be for many professional baseball players to have the game as merely a hobby or a sideline, instead of a serious job. As proof of this statement I would like to pass along this poem that appeared on the bulletin board of the New York Yankees' clubhouse:

Although you were defeated, Yanks,
You shouldn't feel so blue
Just think of all your bars and banks
And bowling alleys, too.
As businessmen you guys are tops:
It really seems a shame
That you should have to leave your shops
For such a lousy game.

DO WE NEED MORE SPELLING IN COLLEGE?

In the daily edition of the Western Carolina College newspaper the following names appeared in a baseball boxscore several weeks ago: Gurykins, Grunt, Back, McCrinkle, and Dolan. The names should have been Guzinski, Grant, Buck, McCorkle, and Nolan. This just goes to prove that no one is perfect, not even sports reporters. Moral: Stop teaching so many advanced courses in college and go back to "readin', riitin' and 'rithmetic," and oh yes, spelling.

TRACKMEN VICTORIOUS

In view of the cloud of confusion and conflict which has hovered over our Physical Education Department this year and in regard to the sketchy stories and accusations which all have talked about and few have actually known about, it was gratifying to see a handful of faithful Panther cindermen, the likes of Dean, Houston, Wagner, Farlowe, along with several other standouts and Coach Gil Hertz, add an illuminating bolt of sunshine to a picture which until Saturday had indeed been dreary.

The Student Body must realize that these men are to be sincerely lauded for their perseverance, ability, and service to High Point College. The mere act of capturing the North State Crown does not in itself establish the courageous greatness of this group, it merely reflects it. When a man can participate in several events spontaneously and against fresh opposition each time, there can be no other definition.

Then he can be classed as nothing but courageous. The meaning of the word "guts" had taxed these men repeatedly, but it was never able to defeat them.

HPC Loses, Who Gains?

by JOHN WARD, JR.

"She will be a great loss to our school, especially the physical education department. She will be very hard to replace. She has worked very patiently and diligently with the students and has never been partial to any one of them. I feel that her leaving will definitely be a loss to High Point College and a gain of the school that she chooses." These are the words of a High Point College student in her description of Miss Nancye Hood, who will be leaving High Point College at the end of this semester.

Miss Hood has been with the High Point College Physical Education Department for two years. During these two years she has made an outstanding record with the department. Besides teaching many classes, she has been very active in the P.E. Majors Club. Before Miss Hood's arrival to our campus, the club was composed mostly of male members. Now there are twelve girls in the club. This is only one example of the many things that she has done to increase the interest and participation of our feminine physical education majors in the club and also the entire department. The P.E. Majors Club sent two members to the National Convention in Miami this year. There has been a complete revision of the club constitution. She has started tumbling as a course for girls instead of the previous co-educational course. This has stimulated much interest among the girls of our college.

Until leaving for college Miss Hood spent her entire life in Knoxville, Tennessee. She received her B.S. degree in physical education from the University of Tennessee. After teaching for one year at Berea College in Kentucky, she returned in 1957 to the University of Tennessee for her Master's degree. In 1958 she joined the faculty of High Point College.

As far as her plans for next year are concerned, Miss Hood is undecided. At the present, she is planning to go to Florida, although there is a possibility that she will go back to Kentucky. She said, "I definitely like Florida, and there I would be able to teach outside physical education classes the entire year. Here I have to spend three or four months inside. I would like to teach in a junior college or a small four year college. But I am still undecided as to what I definitely plan to do." She said that there was no special reason for her leaving High Point. She also added, "I like the college, the town, and the students, but when a person has a chance to work in Florida, it is hard to pass the chance up."

When asked what she thought about the college as a whole, most of her comments were very favorable. She commented, "I feel that our student body is a select group of young men and women from the surrounding high schools and also of out-of-state schools, but a few of them refuse to accept their responsibilities that are necessary in obtaining an education, and this is a bad reflection on the majority of students who are sincere. I think that High Point College should be proud of the close relation the students have and of how they are able to work together."

Sports Program in General

by CHARLES WATSON

Sports at High Point College play a major role in student activities. This program includes the varsity and Intramural sports. Let's take a closer look at the good and bad points of this program and also try to see where the lack comes into the picture. First of all, we will review varsity sports and then observe briefly Intramural sports.

Basketball and baseball hold a big part of the leading interest of the campus crowd and team members. Probably the greatest fame has come to the basketball team. Certainly, student support is seen more vigorously at Panther Basketball games. I haven't heard of any spectators traveling over a hundred miles for a baseball game or, even less so, for a tennis match. Maybe some have not realized that High Point has baseball and tennis.

The most disappointing thing has been the poor show of interest in the track team. The spirit of both the coaching and running seems to have obtained little existence. There has been a great deal of controversy over the track team, and it looks as if with the abundant material floating around that results could, and should, have been reached. Perhaps things will work themselves out and the cancelling of meets will no longer have to be present.

Intramurals at High Point College offer competition in sports to the campus fraternity and independent teams. Intramurals also give individuals who might not make varsity teams a chance to prove and better themselves. Competition is keen, and feeling for victory among the teams and individuals is high. The Intramural program offers sports such as football, basketball, track and field, golf, horseshoes, and softball. It has been said that the Intramural program under the leadership of Mickey Dean has shown much improvement at the college this year.

The Panther baseball team closed its season in triple defeat with a duel loss to East Carolina and a single loss to Atlantic Christian College. The Panthers truly finished as they started. The scores were 7-5 and 10-5 in the double-header with East Carolina and 13-2 in the season's final game against Atlantic Christian.

Coach Chuck Hartman's boys looked at one time as if they would turn a poor start into a very successful season. They really took fire and hit a good winning streak after losing their first six games. However, the fire burned out.

The final results show that the Panthers in conference play won six games while losing ten. The over-all record is eight wins and 15 defeats.

Best of luck to graduating baseball men Gil Buck, Bob Boles, and Willard Formyduval. May their fine team effort, spirit, and sportsmanship be carried on by those who try to fill their shoes in future years.

The sports program at High Point College leaves much to be desired. It can not continue as long as there is only mild support by the participants and spectators. This is your college, and you should be proud enough of it to support it. It is a disgrace to the college to see more people at an Intramural softball game than at the college baseball game. No one is downing Intramurals, but it would

These are the silver wings of a U. S. Air Force Navigator. As a flying officer on the Aerospace team, he has chosen a career of leadership, a career that has meaning, rewards and executive opportunity.

The Aviation Cadet Program is the gateway to this career. To qualify for this rigorous and professional training, a high school diploma is required; however, two or more years of college are highly desirable. Upon completion of the program the Air Force encourages the new officer to earn his degree so he can better handle the responsibilities of his position. This includes full pay and allowances while taking off-duty courses under the Bootstrap education program. The Air Force will pay a substantial part of all tuition costs. After having attained enough credits so that he can complete course work and residence requirements for a college degree in 6 months or less, he is eligible to apply for temporary duty at the school of his choice.

If you think you have what it takes to earn the silver wings of an Air Force Navigator, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Ask him about Aviation Cadet Navigator training and the benefits which are available to a flying officer in the Air Force. Or fill in and mail this coupon.

There's a place for tomorrow's leaders on the Aerospace Team.

Kathy Traywick

Campus Profile

"The Doctor's Wife"

One hundred and ten miles southeast of High Point and deep in the heart of Dixie lies the town of Marshville, famous for a military ball held there in the spring of 1862 and more recently for the doctor's wife-to-be Miss Kathy Traywick. If charm and intelligence are the true ingredients of success, then our young lady can't miss.

Born just a country girl twenty-one years ago, Kathy, in early youth, became fascinated by a typewriter and decided to be a Business teacher. So, most naturally this blooming Southern belle decided to enter High Point College and was so enrolled in the autumn of 1957. Besides using the typewriter, Kathy managed to get pretty much into the endless roulette of student activities highlighted by membership in Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority and her election as President of Women's Dorm, a position which she has most notably served in terms of coming in right on the buzzer—just to make sure everyone else has arrived safely, of course.

But seeing that everyone got in was not her only duty in the capacity of President of the Dorm. The little errands, the thousand-and-one seemingly unimportant questions and details that needed attention within a year's time—all came in somewhere—too often everywhere—in her job. However, no problem was too small for Kathy's attentive ear and patient understanding. Nor did she shun any larger project which would mean much time and effort on her part.

The respect that the girls show toward Kathy is quite certainly their way of saying "thank you" for the job that she did so well.

A Who's Who selection for nineteen sixty and one of our top ten seniors, Kathy is definitely a standard in terms of a personality for all months. We are sure that her lasting smile and tender sincerity will always prevail, and we know that her apple a day still won't keep the Doctor away.
