

Departments Announce Developments

Heading the geology department recently installed at High Point College is Dr. H. W. Miller, Jr.

Dr. Miller said that during second semester mineralogy and petrology will be offered. Mineralogy is the study of the composition, formation, and identification of minerals.

Petrology is also the study of the composition, formation, and identification of rocks.

Dr. Miller said that a rock saw, a lapidary unit, a sandtable, and petrographic microscopes have been added to the equipment.

The purpose of the rock saw is to slice slabs of rocks. The lapidary unit serves for cutting thin sections of rocks and for polishing rocks.

The sand table, which is filled with sand and elevated at one end, shows how erosion is started and also shows constructions of various other conditions after water has been added in certain ways.

According to Mrs. Marjorie E. Stack, professor of general chemistry, HPC students are showing an increased interest in making chemistry their major field of study. A record number of seven seniors, including one girl, Vickie Boles, will be graduated from HPC this year with majors in chemistry.

The largest sophomore class in organic chemistry is being taught this year with five girls included in the usually all-male class. In Mrs. Stack's opinion, with more interest being shown in the field of chemistry, the proposed science building cannot be completed too soon.

Dr. Earl Crow, assistant professor of religion and philosophy announced that future plans for a major in philosophy rather than the current religion-philosophy degree are being discussed. A candidate for a major in philosophy would have to meet new and more requirements in that particular field.

New courses are being offered this year by the religion and philosophy department. In religion, "History of Christianity" is taught by Dr. Earl Crow.

Philosophy courses, increased because of the new rule requiring three hours for an A.B. degree, now include "Introduction to Philosophy" and "Logic."

Yarborough Lists Enrollment Of 1106

Nathaniel P. Yarborough, registrar, announced today that 1106 students from 24 states, including Alaska and Hawaii, and several foreign countries, have enrolled in regular day classes.

Although applications for admission from freshman and transfer students totaled more than 1655, the college could accommodate only 428 of these.

Former Mayor Teaches History

16 Join Faculty

Many new faces have been added to the HPC faculty for the academic year 1965-66.

Teaching for the first time in the HPC history department is Mr. Kirkman, a former mayor of High Point. He has studied law at Oxford University, England; and Spanish at Candler College of Havana, Cuba, and has taught Spanish at the University of Virginia.

Foremost to the members of the publications staffs (THE HI-PO and ZENITH) is their new advisor, Mr. Ira L. Baker who comes to us from Furman University. Mr. Baker has been included on the English department staff. He received his A.B. from Wake Forest College, his M.A. from Columbia University, and his Master of Science in Journalism from the University of Illinois.

Mr. William R. Phillips, another newcomer to the English department, received his A.B. and M.A. from Wake Forest College, and has done graduate work at Princeton University.

Miss Angela Terry, who has joined the biology department, received her B.S. from Valdosta State College, Valdosta, Ga., and her M.S. in 1965 from U.N.C. at Chapel Hill.

Receiving her B.S. degree in 1962 from High Point College is Miss Dianna F. Sink. Miss Sink, an instructor of the business administration department, is currently working on her master's degree.

Also with the business administration and economics department is Mr. Robert G. Leonard. Mr. Leonard received his B.S. from Newark College of Engineering, his M.S. from Princeton University, and has done extensive graduate work toward his doctorate. For the past ten years he has been affiliated with the U. S. Government as Scientific Administrator in the CIA and Bureau of Ships.

Dr. James Allen Thacker is a new addition to the education and psychology department. He comes to us from Pfeiffer College where he has been associate professor of education since 1958. He has also served as principal of Bertie and Alamance County schools.

A new face to some, a familiar one to others, is Dr. William P. Matthews. Dr. Matthews, who was with us at High Point College in 1963, is returning after serving a year as president of Vardell Hall, Red Springs, N. C. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. at Teachers College, Columbia University.

Miss Nancy Ferrel, a new face in the fine arts department, came to us from UNC-G. She taught at UNC-G while completing her masters in music.

Mrs. Jane Burton, also in the fine arts department, comes to HPC from the N. C. Advancement School in Winston-Salem.

Having recently received her M.F.A. from the University of Georgia, Mrs. Jake Halford is now a member of the HPC speech department.

Coming to HPC from Lexington Sr. High School is Mrs. Mary Ann Calloway who has been added to the history department. She received her A.B. from Salem College and her M.A. from Wake Forest.

Mr. Alvin G. Myrick teaches both Mathematics and Physics. He received his B.S. degree from N.C. State, and his M.A. from UNC at Chapel Hill. He has taught at N.C. State, Page High School, Greensboro, N. C., and Bakersfield High School, California.

New to the modern foreign languages department is Mr. Thomas E. Scott. He received his A.B. from Emory University and his M.A. from UNC at Chapel Hill. Mr. Scott has taught at

(Continued on Page 5)

HPC To Give Examinations For Teachers

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the four different test dates announced today by Educational Testing Service.

New dates set for the testing of prospective teachers are: December 11, 1965; and March 19, July 16, and October 8, 1966. The tests will be given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations, which measure the professional and general preparation of teachers, and one of 13 Teaching Area Examinations (formerly called Optional Examinations) which measure mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

A Bulletin of Information containing a list of test centers, and information about the examination, as well as a registration form, may be obtained from college placement officer.

Scholars To Lecture In Cultural Program

Two visiting scholars will lecture at High Point College in October as a part of the cultural program offered by the Piedmont University Center.

Dr. Louis D. Rubin, Jr., English professor at Hollins College and an authority on the modern novel and Southern literature, will visit the campus October 18.

Dr. Lawrence Roger Thompson, Princeton University of English and scholar of American literature, will lecture on Robert Frost October 28. Each will meet informally with the English Club and will deliver a formal lecture open to all students and the public. Exact topics of the lectures will be announced later.

Dr. Sam J. Underwood, head of the English department, said: "The main value of these lectures will be the informal contact the speakers have with the students. These are good speakers, and they will make a valuable contribution by sharing their knowledge."

The Piedmont University Center of North Carolina, sponsored by the Visiting Scholars Program, is an association of seventeen small colleges for the purpose of an interchange of scholars. The center also conducts an Interinstitutional Lecture Program in which professors of the member colleges exchange lectures.

High Point College faculty participating in this program are Dr. C. E. Mounts, Mr. Raiford M. Porter, Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, and Dr. Christopher L. Wilson.

High Point College men make no "bones about it" as they watch this parade of co-eds after an evening meal.

Freshmen Women Rebel

Girl watching, a popular after dinner dessert among the men of H.P.C., found a unique turn-about last week when packs of courageous freshmen girls decided to demonstrate against the trend.

Every evening the males on campus congregate on the steps of the Student Center to watch the pretty girls parade dormward. To the freshmen gals this phenomenon became somewhat frustrating — it was too much to simply bear the strain by constantly detouring behind the S.C.

Take a group of restless, homesick girls with a few empty hours before closed study, and an unbearably embarrassing situation and a few ring leaders — Volia — Rebellion!

The reaction added excitement as well as confusion to the campus, especially for the cafeteria assistants prepared, as usual, for the pre-dinner drag. The workers were understandably startled forty minutes early that notable night when Harrison

Hall was abruptly swarmed with beanie-adorned lasses. It seemed as though food were suddenly going out of style.

With food half-eaten or swallowed whole, the determined ladies soon surged from the cafeteria in an effort to beat the men to their nightly perch.

Smugly covering the S.C. steps, the girls enjoyed their brief reign with abundant use of the borrowed theme song, "We Shall Overcome". As for the few brave guys who dared pass, the special "stare treatment" was administered.

Lacking their usual "planting spot", boys moved to the grass lawn facing the demonstration. By the way, with limited exceptions, the H.P. boys, tables-turned, simply cannot take what they dish out. They, in turn, employed the detour routes (under and behind).

Finally at 6 p.m. (Happiness is 6 o'clock), beanie removal time, the defiant girls made a victorious retreat.

College To Extend Campus Facilities

High Point College has assumed the challenge to head the list of small colleges and universities in the south. This challenge involves carrying out the goals established for the $10,000,000 project which are to be completed at the end of the Golden Decade, 1975.

Major plans for expansion include the building of bigger and better facilities such as a science building, an infirmary, a religious building, a student union, and more up-to-date dormitory buildings and classroom facilities.

The plan also calls for better and more motivating educational activities. Such controversial speakers as Madame Chiang Kai-Shek have been considered in proposing possibilities for future speakers on campus.

Faculty acceptance standards have been raised as have incoming freshman standards and upperclassmen academic standards in order to culminate the gradual process of elimination of weak links in the educational chain.

The overall purpose of this long-range plan is to provide a tangible outline for the improvement of High Point College.

Campus Viewpoint . . . Quantity or Quality?

Given the purchasing power, would you choose to buy a pair of weejuns, or rather would you be complacent to settle merely for a pair of inexpensive off-brand, discount store loafers?

If your choice should be the weejuns, what socio-economic factor influences you to make such a distinction with the buying power of your dollar?

Could your choice have been influenced perhaps by the fact that weejuns mean social prestige because all the truly "Sharp" kids on campus wear them? Could it be because any loafer or a lesser name would tend to stereotype you as "dull" and probably unacceptable in the circles of the campus elite?

Yet, to go one step further, let us examine the economic reasoning behind this purchase. American economic practicality influences us to purchase quality rather than quantity. Although quality costs a bit more, it may be utilized twice as long as the mediocre, economy product.

Furthermore, when we are the possessors of quality, we exhibit it with an air of prestige because we are proud of our foresight. We realize we bear distinction when compared to those who would accept less.

And yet, does our discrimination of quality carry over into all phases of life?

In the field of education, for example, are we willing to accept less than our dollar has paid for? Are we the shrewd business-man who takes every bit of quality he can for each penny he spends, or are we merely the mediocre purchaser who "gets taken"?

If quality is offered to us — and surely it must be or we would not have chosen H.P.C. as our future alma mater — are we willing to work to make every moment of our campus life advantageous toward making our diploma one which will be looked upon with distinction and prestige in the future?

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Although we realize that Mr. and Mrs. Wright face many problems and responsibilities preparing three meals a day for over 600 students, we feel that there are problems in the cafeteria which should be rectified.

The cafeteria is known to have a standing policy of not allowing students without meal tickets to eat unless they buy a new meal ticket. Now we are in favor of standing policies, but we do feel that it can be carried to an extreme as it was last year when a very prominent student was not permitted to eat at the Easter banquet because her meal ticket was accidentally locked in the science building. The student explained the situation to Mrs. Wright, but to no avail. She was then forced to return her tray and miss the holiday meal.

In another incident, a student returned to the serving line to pick up his beverage that he had forgotten on his regular trip through the line. He was later informed by a student cafeteria worker that Mrs. Wright had asked the staff to "watch" the student because he was "stealing."

This past Sunday, another incident took place which prompted the writing of this letter. About ten minutes before one, we took our place in the cafeteria line, and by one o'clock we had reached the serving line only to be informed that there was not any steak, tossed salad, or rolls. When we later returned to ask Mrs. Wright the reason for the shortages, we were abruptly told, "You should have come earlier." We then proceeded to explain that we felt that the cafeteria should make every effort to obtain adequate food to serve all students during the posted serving hours. Mrs. Wright, with a curtness bordering on outright rudeness, answered, "Well, it doesn't matter what you think anyway."

We would like to inform Mrs. Wright that the $425 that each student pays per year for the privilege of cafeteria meals intitles him to some consideration from the management. A small amount of such consideration would be greatly appreciated.

David E. Gilbert
Joseph F. McNulty, Jr.
David M. Robinson

COLLEGE

By Jean Halladay

The smell-fresh books I'd just begun,
The graveled walks, the paling sun,
The belled-hours passing one by one — Autumn.
The evenings spent in quiet talk,
The stuffy rooms that smelled of chalk,
The snow that creaked beneath my walk —
Winter.
The pages that I didn't read,
The yearnings that I longed to heed,
The gin-cokes that I didn't need — Spring.
The nervous feet on bar-room floors,
The grey-white thighs on moon-wet shores,
The drifting closed of open doors —
Summer.

foy's fancies

Explanations Are Necessary

Now that I can honestly believe that this is the Fall semester at HPC rather than second semester summer school (the heat, man!), perhaps I can apply my mental facilities to the problem affecting campus spirit.

Primarily, we the youth of America crave to be understood. Yet, we can be understood only in the light of our own somewhat limited capacity for understanding.

We do not have the experience and wisdom of age, true. Yet, we, holding to our American heritage of freedom, cannot accept, without reservation, the limiting standards the wise would establish for us. We, in attempting to organize within our own selves the basics for independence and responsibility, must be given the freedom to learn through experience.

We do not believe we should be given free rein; rather, we believe it is the role of the American adult, and especially the educator, to extend guidance to us — guidance with the understanding that we must be allowed the freedom to judge between good and evil.

To exemplify my point, I raise the question of the validity of H.P.C. students being required to sign a student pledge (of which they had no prior knowledge) before being allowed to register.

As many H.P.C. students (especially upperclassmen) have expressed, the weakness in this innovation lies not in the fact that we were asked to verify our belief in the philosophy and rulings of our college, but rather that we were required to do so apropos. By "apropos" I mean without the privilege of renewing our knowledge of the philosophy as set forth in the student handbook and college catalogue, which I might add that upperclassmen did not receive until after arriving back at school this year.

Furthermore, now that we have complied with the college's desires, perhaps an "en masse" explanation for the reasoning prompting such an innovation might establish in us wholehearted acceptance and support — without grumbles.

Are we little children who have prolonged our stage of negativism?

No! We are souls searching for ourselves. We are young men and women who are striving to assume the responsibility which life entails. And we must not be pushed.

New Books Hit Library Shelves

Many new books have been included in Wrenn Memorial Library's collection this fall.

Several of the following which have been briefly summarized might possibly provide interesting spare time reading.

Charlotte Armstrong's, The Turret Room, is a mystery as eerie and chilling as the dark mansion of its setting.

Edith Wharton and Henry James, the story of their friendship by Millicent Bell.

Never Call Retreat by Bruce is the final volume of the series, Centennial History of the Civil War, traces the war from Fredericksburg to Appomattox and the death of Lincoln.

Burke Davis wrote The Summer Land, an appealing and funny novel, as a chronicle of life on a North Carolina tobacco farm during the "tobacco wars" of 1916.

The Flight of the Falcon is Daphne DuMaurier's newest book. In the tradition of Rebecca, this novel is a masterpiece of hypnotic suspense.

That Day With God, the religious expression of all faiths following the death of President Kennedy, is written by William M. Fine.

White Lotus by John Hersey, is a creation of the imagination, in which the dust and confusion of immediate issues are pierced, and the underlying issue of any race against another, of man against man, is searched out.

May You Die in Ireland, is another novel of exciting suspense by Michael Kenyon.

One of the novels of the life, passion, and miracles of Thomas Becket is Thomas, written by Shelley Mydans.

Beloved Invader, a book that penetrates and illuminates was written by Eugenia Price.

The Hi-Do

"VOICE OF THE STUDENTS"

The Official Newspaper of High Point College, High Point, N. C.
Published Bi-Monthly Except During Holiday Periods

Entered as third class matter on October 19, 1950, at the Post Office at High Point, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Subscription and Advertising Rates upon Request

Editor-in-Chief	Phyllis Foy
Associate Editor	Barbara O'Connor
Business Manager	Helen Wasileski
Advertising Manager	Joe McNulty
Solicitors	Rick Calvert, Meggs McClaine
News Editor	Donna Peck
Layout Editor	Nancy Taylor
Staff	Sandra Richie, Mary Jane McGruder
Social Editors	Ann Greco, Jim Duggan
Sports Editors	Mac Hoyt, Judy Armington
Feature Editor	June Hill
Typists	Faye Harmon, Carol Resch, Paula Bower
Copy Editor	Jane Woolridge
Staff	Jeanne Klinefelter, Wanda Wise
Columnists	George Roycroft, Tillie Clark
Photographer	Charlie So
Cartoonist	Sandra Hutchins
Faculty Adviser	Mr. Ira Baker
Reporters	Gina Venning, Judd Richardson, Sharon Oliver, Ron Lowenthal, Jim Sloan, Jim Brucki, Kathy Hoecker, Cheryl Martin, Nancy Tabor, Jean Anderson, Nancy Seales.

Orientation Committee Deserves Applause

By Tillie Clark

Once before this column has served to congratulate someone for a job well done. This article shall congratulate a group of people—the Orientation committee—for the tremendous job it did. Orientation has probably been forgotten by most of the students, but we should not forget those who organized and conducted this time-consuming task.

It goes without saying that the committee members enjoyed the entire week of activities. In order to enjoy these activities, however, the committees were forced to put in long hours of hard, detailed work. Their efforts were not wasted in the least. Indeed, they developed a smooth, co-ordinated program. If and when changes in the program were necessary, they were quickly and efficiently carried out.

This article is not intended to rob any member of the Committee of the credit due him. There simply is no space to list all of those who worked on the committees. There are a few, however, who deserve a personal word of thanks for their work. The first and foremost of these leaders is junior Tom Dignam, S.G.A. vice president, whose job included the hard-core planning and co-ordinating. Also, thanks go to junior Judy Stone, Refreshments committee; junior Angie Smith, Publicity committee; senior Larry Amick, Entertainment committee; and senior Ken Giliam, Facilities committee.

Our entire Orientation committee was of the highest caliber. If the committees of the future are half as good as this one, we can rest assured that our Freshmen will be in capable hands.

g o r
t

Anxious parents and exuberant freshmen enjoy Sunday afternoon tea in the Student Center. Judy Stone, Orientation Chairman of the refreshments committee, and helper Diane Ferran, smile graciously as they serve the guests.

—HPC News Bureau photo.

How To Win Friends And Influence Teachers

From an article in AMERICAN YOUTH

By Richard Armour

The opening gambit is to come to class late, not merely on the days when you are unavoidably detained by an interesting conversation, but every day. And not a few seconds late, but after the teacher has, let us say, given the assignments for the next week. To get the maximum malignancy out of this, time your arrival to the very moment — when he has finished the preliminary announcements and drawn a deep breath preparatory to launching into his lecture. Then raise your hand and when he has nodded in your direction, cry out, "Would you repeat those assignments, please?" You can even leave off the "please," but don't try for too much annoyance all at once. There is plenty of time.

Speaking of time, shortly after this initial disturbance, and every five minutes thereafter, look at your watch. Your wristwatch will do, provided you hoist your arm ostentatiously. You might wish to sharpen the effect by bringing an alarm clock. If the alarm accidentally goes off at about the middle of the hour, so much the better.

Throughout the class period, be as noisy as possible. It is not necessary to hum or whistle or hammer out a bongo beat on a pile of books. It will suffice merely to drop things from time to time — pens, pencils, books, tennis rackets, bottles of ink. This last not only will make quite a satisfactory noise, but also will divert attention from the teacher while the floor is mopped up and the girl in the white dress gets to work with her cleaning fluid.

Reference to the girl's attire reminds me that wearing a white dress is not the most effective thing to do, unless there is a strong light in the room and the white will reflect the glare into the teacher's eyes. Or a girl can wear a jacket casually gathered around her shoulders, without putting her arms through the sleeves, so that she will look as though she has four arms — an unnerving sight for any teacher to put up with us for 50 minutes.

But the greatest progress toward reducing the teacher to a quivering bundle of nerves comes from challenging every statement he makes. Your arm may grow weary from constantly being raised, but it is worth it. A standard response to any statement, almost certain to have some effect on the teacher's nervous system, if you come out with it often enough, is "I beg to differ" or, if you prefer, "I can't go along with you on that." Whatever you do, the main thing is to suggest that you have no confidence whatsoever in the teacher's knowledge of the subject or in his native intelligence. A cynical sneer on the face at all times will help to show this.

Finally, don't linger after class, since this may be construed as taking a more than routine interest in the course. Besides, you will have done enough damage for one day. This is the time to grab your books and rush out as if you can hardly wait to get to the next class, which is on a more interesting subject and is more competently taught.

Be sure to slam the door as you go out.

MITCHELL ESSO SERVICE

"We Are Happy To Serve You"

1100 E. Lexington Ave.
High Point, N. C.
Phone 888-5966

Dr. Crow draws a crowd for his discussion of Waldo Beach's "Conscience on Campus" one of the books reviewed during orientation week. "No Exit," by Sartre, was reviewed by Dr. Weatherly, and Dr. Spearman, head of the Journalism Department reviewed "The Negro Revolution."

—HPC News Bureau photo.

Right: A frustrating recurring phenomenon.

Freshman Registration!

—HPC News Bureau photo.

The Future It Depends On You

By June Hill

Freshman Orientation is a most unique time of your life. Never again will you feel so lonely with so much company. Never again will college be so awesome, so new. The strange faces that met you at the gates, that carried your luggage, will soon be familiar faces. The room which first greeted you with cold severity will soon be very personally yours, with a bit of you in most every corner. Anticipation and fear will pass; you will settle down in your new home.

Do you feel orientated? Has fright been replaced with eagerness and expectation? Do you feel ready to brave four years on your own? Perhaps not. For orientation is not a time when each individual finds his every need cared for and catered to. It is a brief panorama of the whole of your college experience. People will always be around to advise, to cheer, to encourage; but mainly, each person's concern is himself. There is no "Big Brother" watching you here. If you cut a class, no one will reprimand you. If you fail to do your homework, no one will have to know. Only you. The responsibility for your college life lies solely with you. And as in everything else in life, college is what you make it. This is not to say no one cares. You will find many genuine friends here. But no one can do for you what you must do for yourself.

What will you do for yourself? And as important, what will you do for High Point College? Will you rise to the dignity of your position or will you allow yourself to get bogged down with trivial complaints and lame excuses? Will you make these four years a time of introspection and growth or will you leave H.P.C. just as you entered it — perhaps worse off. Have you truly considered the great importance of this time of your life? Will you be a responsible college student?

Letter From A Beanie

September 20, 1965

Dear Mom and Dad,

Today was "Beanie Day 1965" and all of us frosh got our purple 'rat hats! We were crowned by the sophomore (ugh!) class officers during an assembly this morning. When the vp slapped mine on (sideways at that) he told me to grin and bear it; the pres suggested that I wear it in my sleep so that I wouldn't forget it. You see we have to wear these 'purple pinwheels' from sunrise to 6 p.m. — happiness is 6 p.m. — and if a sophomore catches one of us without it he writes out a beanie ticket to appear in court the following Friday. For each ticket we are fined $.50 which goes toward a dance after we're 'dehatted'.

One girl came to the assembly without her beanie (the bookstore sold out) and was first to receive a ticket. Since then she made herself a paper beanie.

My roomie and I went to the shopping center about 3:30 today and you should have seen the kids from the local high school stare! I felt like I was marked for life!

Anyhow, we have to wear these things for four to six weeks before we're allowed to challenge the sophomores to a tug-of-war. Our class lines up on one side of the creek while the sophomores line up on the other. If they pull us in we have to wear these beanies as long as they choose; but if we win — bye, bye beanies, hello dance! I can't wait! Guess who's going to win!

Tell everyone hello and give them my love. Write soon.

Love,

Your frosh daughter

P.S. Please send money.

A woman is a lady when she is in the presence of a man who is a gentleman.

The Men's Den

For the Big Game

Don't Miss Our Three-

Piece Casual Wear

1920 South Main Street

Phone 882-9627

The Social Lite . . .

HPC Students Wed During Summer

We wish to begin this first column of the school year with an explanation. This undertaking is an effort to put before the student body a brief picture of High Point's social life. We accept news from every social organization on campus and print it for your convenience and enjoyment. We ask for the co-operation of all the organizations on campus. Only through your help can this column be truly informative and interesting.

The greeks on campus ended the school year with gaiety, began the summer vacation with frolic at the South Carolina beaches, parted ways, and now they have returned to High Point with stories of intrigue, romance, and high adventure. Taking a quick glance around campus, we see that many of our fraternity men have lost their pins and that many sorority women have acquired shining new jewels.

Delta Sigs Tie Knot

Three Delta Sigs tied the proverbial knot this summer: Mac Lambeth married Marlene Brinley of Zeta Tau Alpha; Gene Kester married Jane Rankin; and Mickey Russell married Joyce Kirkman. Bill Carter pinned Christi Bolton, a freshman from Winston-Salem; Robin Russel is now engaged to Nina Honeycutt as is Chuck Richards to Pat Skinney.

Welcomed into Delta Sigma Phi brotherhood are H. B. Thomas and Val Zumbro, and into pledgeship, Tony White, Ken Macklin, and Jerry Yarrow. The Delta Sigs are now looking forward to their annual mountain trip.

Three Lambda Chis married High Point sorority women this summer: Bruce Swanson married Pat Young, Kappa Delta; Lenny Johnson married Sandy Hargrove, Kappa Delta; and Sonny Chisholm married Gayle Nichols, Alpha Gamma Delta. Charles Presley was pinned to Kitty Yokley. We are all pleased to see that Lambda Chi Dave Cerchio has recovered from wounds incurred on the fraternity beach weekend.

HPC'ers Attend D. C. Wedding

HPC'ers from all over came to Washington, D. C. to attend the wedding of Theta Chi brother, Tony Taylor, to Betty White of Alpha Gam. Wayne Furman, Theta Chi graduate who is now studying for his Master's Degree at East Carolina College, had a rehearsal party. Susan La Salla, Phi Mu graduate, had a tremendous party after the wedding and reports were that the crowds were even filling the basement of her lovely new townhouse.

Theta Chi brother Joel Silver was also married this summer. Brother Dick Lewin became pinned. Congratulations to Mickey McDaniels and Anne McAdams who are pinned.

What's this we hear of a certain Theta Chi who is yearning to study abroad? Theta Chi, in co-operation with the Lions Club, are busily selling brooms, the proceeds of which go to the blind.

Marty Weds Secretly

Marty Hedrick of Zeta Tau Alpha announced her secret wedding to David Daetwyler. Also married were Ann Organ and Jim Arthur. Valerie Lochte announced her engagement to Tom Parker. Zeta's fall initiates will be Joan Warren and Jeannie Elms.

Besides the two Kappa Delta sisters who married Lambda Chis, wedding bells rang for Cynthia Beall and Doug Hyatt, Peggy Wiley and Dale Neal, and Patsy McCormack and Joe Knuckolls. Vickie Boles is engaged to Jerry Freedle of Lambda Chi Alpha, and Leslie Van Fossen is pinned to Stu Perry, a Phi Delt from Davidson.

Jackie Brendle attended the national Kappa Delta Convention in Chicago this summer. Our best wishes go to Omega Walrep who is recovering from foot surgery.

Summer wedding bells also rang for two more Alpha Gam's. Suzanne Mock married Bob Jessup of Delta Sigma Phi and Kay Demik married Kirk Stewart. Alpha Gams. Dawn Hamilton and Becky Williams have transferred to the University of Kentucky and The University of Maryland, respectively.

Judy Attends Conference

The Phi Mu National Leadership Conference was attended by Judy Stone. Phi Mu marriages included: Brenda Symes to Mike Sabino, and Connie Powell to Greg North. Arthurine Spry is engaged to Richard Hammon from Connecticut.

Glancing around the campus, one can see hundreds of purple and white beanies scurrying frantically to classes. Our warmest welcome goes to our Freshman Class. Congratulations to Tom Dignan, Vice President of the Student Government, and to the Orientation Committee for an outstanding Orientation Program.

Compliments of

QUICKER THAN YOU THINK

Compliments of

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

Grad Volunteers For Mission Corps

Neil Jones, 1965 High Point College graduate has recently been commissioned as one of the first of Southern Baptists' newly-formed US-2 missions corps.

Mr. Jones will spend two years helping establish ministries with juvenile delinquents in Texas cities. His first assignment will be in El Paso.

US-2, a term designating the area of service and the length of time of service, is a two-year missionary appointment by the mission agency for college graduates.

The volunteers are assigned to strategic and difficult areas of the United States, Panama, or Puerto Rico.

Neil was pastor of the College Heights Mission of the First Baptist Church in High Point for two years. He also served as president of the High Point College Baptist Student Union.

Roma Villa

Italian American Food
Sandwiches of all Kinds
Pizza, Spaghetti

Phone Take-out Order
883-7219

Carmelo Matino, owner

K & W Cafeteria

110 East High Avenue
High Point, N. C.

HARRIS

5 Shirts for $1

$3 of Drycleaning for $2 on

Tues. - Wed. - Thurs.

Next door to Winn-Dixie
College Village Shopping Center

COLLEGE BOARD FAVORITE

our "go go" little heel "GHILLIE"

By DORINA

COLORS:

Red
Navy
Black
Briarwood

$15.

Gilberts - Beautiful Shoes
118 South Main

Boys Invade Women's Stores

Zeke Ellis Awards HPC Day Prizes

Saturday, September 25, a saleswoman in a ladies' department store was overheard saying to a customer, "I've never seen so many boys in this store before." The reason for this visit to ladies' stores by boys, and men's stores by girls was that this was the day for the registration for HPC students in the annual High Point Merchants Association High Point City Day.

At assembly on Wednesday, there were very few absences. This strange phenomenon was the result of either curiosity or hope on the part of the HPC students. "Will I win, or if I don't, who will?" This is who won.

Advance Store, Carolina Tire Company, B. F. Goodrich, Mann's Drug No. 1, and Richardson's Department Store all gave away transistor radios, and the lucky winners were, respectively, Carol Carno, Bob Musial, Becky Floyd, Doris Witt, and Craig Furman.

Many stores gave gift certificates worth from $5 to $20. The stores and the winners are as follows: Belk-Beck Company, Rex Connor; Diana Shop, Rita Witt; Ellis, Inc., Alice Robertson; Fashion Shop, Jim Walters; Firestone Store, Charlotte Anderson; Friedman Fashions, Sharon Sherwood; Gilbert's Shoe Store, Bill King; Gill's, Phyllis McDowell;

Frosh Receive Scholarships

For the second straight year High Point College is offering Presidential Award scholarships totaling $10,000.

To receive the scholarships, students must have outstanding personal characteristics, high academic qualifications, and a record of service to their school, church, and community.

Students receiving these awards this year include Detra Blackburn, Mt. Airy, N. C.; Linda Blalock, Washington, D. C.; Margaret Brookbank, High Point, N. C.; C. Daniel Crews, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Frances Garris, Christiansburg, Va.; and Nancy Holcombe, Statesville, N. C.

Others are Sandra Gale Lee, Thomasville, N. C.; Linda Ruth Sessums, Hyattsville, Md.; Sarah Alice Thompson, Graham, N. C.; and Vicki Anna Wood, Siler City, N. C.

To maintain this $250 per year renewable scholarship, each student must maintain a "B" average in his college work.

Glenn's Sewing Machine, Joan Taro.

Hall's Corner, Pat Smith; Harlee's, Jessica Thomas; The Jewel Box, Bill McGinnis; Men's Den, Pat Hardester; J. C. Penny Company, Doug Thayer; Quality Shoe Store, Barbara Burton; Ring Harris Drug Store, Linda Smith; Sample Shoe Store, Kimbrough Hones; Stutts Men's Store, Judy Cox; Sweet Shoppe, Jim Allison; Tobias, Patsy Humphries; Watson Clothiers, Art Warren.

The remaining gifts were won by these students: Beeson Hardware, tennis racket, Bill Lea; Graham Photo, Kodak Instamatic No. 100 Camera Outfit, David Pulliam; Samuel Hyman, Baby Ben alarm clock, Nina Honeycutt; S. H. Kress, $29.95 radio, Walter Craig; Nash Jewelry, leather shaving kit, Sharon Leathurbury; News and Record Center, choice of any LP record to $5; Peggy Anne Shop, sweater, Ted Renfro; Perkinson's Jewelry, piece of Lady Baltimore Luggage, Tom Colby; Rosaine's, mohair sweater, Laura Stayer; Susan's, choice of hat or bag, Faye Harmon; F. W. Woolworth Company, desk lamp, Wayne Ervin.

Al Thorburn was the very lucky winner of the $79.95 Solitaire Diamond Ring presented by Lester's Jewelers. Last, but far from least, was the grand prize, the much coveted portable television set, compliments of the High Point Merchants Association. This year's winner was Mrs. Patricia White, a day student from Sophia, North Carolina. The prize was presented to her by the master of ceremonies, Mr. Zeke Ellis of Ellis, Inc.

A very special gift was given to Miss Christie Underwood, the little six-year-old girl who had the honors of drawing each of the winning names. The gift was a $10 gift certificate from Perkinson's Jewelers.

For those of you that did win, congratulations. For those of you that did not, Better luck next year.

New Faculty

Continued from Page 1

Georgia Military Academy, University of Georgia, UNC, and in the High Point City Schools.

Mr. Juan Miranda is a native of Cuba and served as Consul for the Cuban Government in Winston-Salem. He has taught at Oak Ridge Military Institute, Salem Academy, and Salem College. Mr. Miranda is also with the foreign languages department.

The Reverend Henry Samuel Carter is teaching religion. He received his A.B. from HPC and his B.D. from Candler School of Theology, Emory University. At present he is also serving as District Director for Town and Country Work of the Western North Carolina Conference.

In addition to these faculty members, we have several new staff members. Captain F. L. Edwards, our Dean of Students, received his B.S. from Wake Forest College and was commissioned as ensign after graduating from Northwestern University Midshipman School. He has taught history, orientation, and engineering. He was retired from the U. S. Navy July 1 after 25 years of service.

Miss Anne B. Orren is assistant to the Dean of Students. She graduated Magna Cum Laude from Duke University and has done graduate work at UNC at Chapel Hill. She comes to HPC from the Employment Security Commission of North Carolina, High Point, where she served as interviewer in the Professional Placement Department.

Moody Heads Human Relations At High Point College

Dr. Wendell M. Patton, president of the college, has announced the establishment of the Department of Human Relations at H.P.C.

Founder of the American Humanities Foundation and guest speaker for the event, Dr. H. Roe Bartle, was instrumental in securing the grant — one of three in the United States — for the college.

The new department will be headed by Leslie E. Moody, who received his B.S. in History and Science from Kansas State University and his M.A. in Diplomatic History from Sanford University in California.

The program, designed to better equip students for youth leadership, will consist of field trips and seminars to acquaint students with the principles, techniques, and theories in the field of human relations.

High Point College was selected by the Foundation for its small size, atmosphere of challenge for service, and strong liberal arts program.

Pope Compliments Frosh Integrity

Cooperation of freshmen and transfer students during the humid hours spent in the auditorium during orientation week impressed a great many people.

Dr. Pope stated that he was highly impressed by their cooperation and ability to follow directions. He said the new students were serious minded, polite and appeared to have a direction for which they were headed.

Dr. Pope also commended last year's students on the interest and helpfulness they showed toward the new students.

He conducted the fall placement tests, giving a total of seven tests. All the tests will be graded and the results given to the student upon request.

Throughout the year Dr. Pope will continue to give tests to those who wish to take them. He has on hand study habits, personal adjustment, vocational and scores of other tests available to all students. His office is also well equipped with many catalogues for graduate and undergraduate schools.

Along with faculty advisors, Dr. Pope will help the student choose a major field for which he is best suited.

Students are encouraged to keep in touch with Dr. Pope. Last week he said, "Students are my colleagues. I am not here to lead them but to guide them, and help the men and women of High Point College grow to total maturation."

Editors To Meet Committee On Publications

Editors of THE HI-PO, APOGEE, and ZENITH will meet with the Faculty Committee on Publications Monday, October 11, at 3 p.m. in room 41 of Roberts Hall. The student editors will discuss problems they might have and present their plans for the coming year.

ANDREW'S VILLAGE RESTAURANT
1040 East Lexington Avenue
Fine Italian Food
883-6516

WILSON'S
for
WEEJUNS
108 North Main Street
High Point, N. C.

Hall's Corner, Ltd.
(Traditional Clothing for Men and Women)
100 South Main Street • High Point, N. C.
(AT THE BRIDGE)

MEN	WOMEN
Orange Alpaca Sweaters	Red Barn Shirts
Palimino Loafer	Boe Jest Sportswear
Whiskey Tone Sweaters	Herringbone Shirts and Slacks
Alligator Belts	Plaids
Whiskey Tone Slacks	Belts
	Miss Adventure Sportswear

Meet Your Friends at the Corner . . . "Hall's Corner"

Carriage Hill

Tucking, peter pan collar, zips in back, pearl-like buttons, 65% dacron, 35% cotton. Navy.

ROSAINE'S
127 South Main Street, High Point, N. C.

Down With Football? October Marks Beginning Of Cross-Country

By George Roycroft

Saturday afternoons are quiet in Albion Millis stadium. There are no crowds, no cheers, no victories or defeats; High Point College has no football team.

The last time the college was represented on the gridiron was 1951. The team experienced few victories, and the gate receipts continued to dwindle. After losing many thousands of dollars on football over a four-year period, it was decided that it would be in the best interest of the college to end the fall sport.

Today the reasons for not having a team are the same as those for ending the sport 14 years ago — finances.

According to Earle G. Dalbey, business manager of the college, there are two factors which determine how profitable football will be: the nearness to other colleges and the attitude in the area toward football.

High Point College's proximity to the Big Four (Carolina, State, Duke, and Wake Forest) is easily discernable — the furthest school is 90 miles while the closest is only 15 miles away. At least one of these teams is engaged in a big home game each Saturday during the season and naturally draws upon much of the same crowd that High Point would be vying for.

Though football is fairly popular in this area, there seems to be little interest in the sport on the small-college level. Seven of the ten colleges which are members of the Carolinas conference do have football, but most have rather pitiful attendance. Even championship teams attract only meager crowds.

Some have suggested that the college enter the football realm on a non-recruiting basis. Obviously any such team could hardly compete with the teams whose players are on scholarship.

Even if funds could be found to support a team, when could the games be played to avoid conflict with the Big Four? Saturday nights have been suggested, but football games are usually weekend affairs with pre- and post-game parties at the universities.

Certainly there are advantages to having a football team, particularly in the areas of public relations and completing the existing physical education program. At the present time, however, it does seem as an unsound venture.

As head of the athletic department, Dr. James T. Hamilton, stated, "We have to decide which is more important — football or the immediate needs of a new science building, dormitories, student center, and higher faculty salaries. In each case it has to be said that the needs are more important than football."

Panthers Hope For Successful Season

By Ronald Loewenthal

Lacking experience? Nevertheless, the HPC basketball team should be a top contender for the Carolina Conference title.

Returning from last year's District 26 champions are 6' 5" Steve Tatgenhorse, a starter for last year's team; Bill Green, a 6' 9" pivot man; and two forwards, 6' 5" Larry Wall and 6' 5" Ron Loewenthal.

Heading the list of Freshmen is Gene Littles, 6' 1" from Washington, D. C. It is anticipated that Gene will take Barry Smith's place as team leader and most valuable player.

Chris Lindsay, 5' 10" from Rochester, New York, an excellent ball handler and passer, will make a more than ample running mate at guard for Littles.

John Davis, 6' 3" from Greensboro, North Carolina, should develop into the best outside shooter in the league and most likely will start at forward.

Jim Pica, from Baltimore, Maryland, is expected to fill Dale Neal's shoes at center. Jim's size and weight, 6' 10" 230 lbs., should enable him to become an outstanding center.

Bill McDermott, a 6' 5" transfer from Mount Saint Marys College, will give the Panthers needed help with his defensive play and rebounding.

Chuck Tomlinson, 6' 7" from Young Harris Jr. College, will add depth at center.

Because of the limited number of experienced players returning, much of the success for the upcoming season will depend on the development of Freshman and junior college transfers. Although it is too early in the season to make any predictions, another successful year for the HPC cagers is expected.

Cheerleaders — left to right: Diane Holt; Bobbie Taylor; Julia De Gooyer, head; Diane Abbott and Gail Whittemore.

—Staff photo by Charlie So.

Cheerleaders Needed

Each fall new cheerleaders must be selected and added to that squad of girls that cheer our Purple Panthers on to victory. This year, five positions are going to be filled.

Practice will begin this week on Monday and Wednesday afternoons and will continue for the next three weeks.

Julia DeGooyer, our head cheerleader, will organize and conduct these practices and try-outs. She hopes to have a superior squad of girls to lead the thousands of fans that come to support the future Carolina's Conference Champion.

October Marks Beginning Of Cross-Country

The 1965 edition of High Point College's cross-country team opens their schedule against St. Andrews College in Laurinburg, North Carolina, Tuesday, October 12. Lew Farlow, who set many track records in cross-country last year will not be returning. However, Captain Griff Balthis, Ed Clarke, last year's number three man, Larry Neal, and Charley So will be back. Four Freshman will round out the team.

One outstanding prospect is Doug Frair from North Hagerstown, Maryland. The others are Dave Schultz, Tim Taylor, and Walter Greg.

A larger number of spectators are anticipated to lend support, especially at home meets held at Blair Park Golf Course.

Coach Bob Davidson is to be commended for a tremendous job in readying the cross-country team for inter-school competition.

Intramural Football Begins, Announces Coach Davidson

Coach Davidson, director of the High Point College intramural program, anticipates much steam and competitive spirit to be exuded in the football games and play-offs this fall.

Seven teams are competing in intramural football, which began September 30. Greek teams playing this year are Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Chi, Delta Sigma Phi, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Alpha Phi Omega. The Hot Dogs and the Montlieu Jets represent the independents.

A meeting was held Friday, September 24, to discuss rules and regulations of touch football. Games will be played at 4 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday on the practice fields below the gym.

HPC Starts Field Hockey

Field hockey, a sport that has been played to the most part in the North, has finally invaded H.P.C.

Although Miss Clary has attempted to introduce the game to the women athletes of this campus for the past three years, little interest has been shown for the sport until this year. An inter-collegiate field hockey team is being organized which will compete against other colleges in this area.

Although the schedule has not been determined, Miss Clary plans to have the team play the University at Greensboro, Salem College, Catawba, and Averett. She expects to have a successful season, since many freshmen have shown interest and ability in this sport.

SNEA Presents Coke Party October 7

President of the Student National Education Association at HPC, Betsy Neese, has announced that the association will sponsor an informal coke party to be held October 7, at 3:30 in the foyer of Memorial Auditorium.

S.N.E.A. is the preprofessional association for college students preparing to teach. Its programs are designed to acquaint the student with the work of a professional organization, and to broaden his interests in the teaching profession. All departments will be represented in this year's program.

Dues of $3.50 per year will be collected from October 7-23.

Cross Country Team — left to right: Top, Griff Balthis, Larry Neal; Bottom, Charlie So and Ed Clark.

—Staff photo by Charlie So.

Nowhere else for miles around can you find all these great names under one roof!

for men

Corbin
Gordon-Ford
Hunter Haig
Gant
Norman Hilton
Johnston & Murphy
Alan Paine
Braemar
Burberry
Lord West
Canterbury
London Fog
Moustache
London Lyme

for girls

Villager
John Meyer
London Fog
Bass
Estee Lauder
Mr. Mort
Lassie
Andrew Geller
Vanity Fair
Etienne Aigner
Stacy Ames
Mam'selle
Scandia
Christian Dior hose

All this amid the most beautiful surroundings, the friendliest people in town. Come see us!

Collier Ellis
AND COMPANY
727 North Main

The Hi-Po

Volume XXXV, Number 2

High Point College, High Point, North Carolina

October 15, 1965

Martha and the Vandellas, a female trio, will appear in concert Fall Weekend, Oct. 16, in Memorial Auditorium at 2 p.m. The trio has recorded such hits as 'Dancing in the Street,' 'Nowhere to Run,' 'Wild One,' and 'Heat Wave.' The trio will be backed by the Sensational Playboys. The Playboys will also perform for the dance to be held in Harrison hall from 8-12 p.m. the same evening. Admission for the concert will be $1.00 per person.

Four High Point Professors To Participate In Piedmont University Center Program

Four High Point college professors representing different fields of study will participate this year in the Interinstitutional Lecture program sponsored by the Piedmont University center of North Carolina.

The purpose of this program is to make possible an interchange of scholars among the 17 colleges cooperating with the center under the leadership of executive director, Dr. A. R. Keppel.

Institution Nominates Scholars

The nomination of scholars for this program is made by each institution, the center promoting the program among the member institutions.

Those selected from High Point college to participate in this sharing of knowledge include Dr. Charles E. Mounts, associate professor of English; Mr. Raiford Porter, assistant professor of fine arts; Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, head of the education and psychology department; and Dr. Christopher Wilson, chairman of the division of physical sciences at the college.

Mounts Authors Articles

Dr. Mounts is the author of several articles dealing chiefly with the field of Spenser. He now has a book manuscript pending publication entitled Ladder to the Stars: The Influence of Spenser on Wordsworth and Coleridge. Dr. Mounts is equipped to lecture on such subjects as 'How to Get the Most out of Reading a Play,' 'Shakespeare's Attitude toward Cupid and Venus,' 'Colin Clout, Priest of Cupid and Venus,' and 'Observations on the Teaching of Freshman Composition.'

Porter To Lecture

Mr. Raiford Porter will provide lectures on 'The Place of the Arts in an Academic Curriculum,' 'Asiatic Arts,' 'The Development of Modern Painting,' 'The Development of Optical Art,' and other subjects related to the visual arts.

Dr. Dennis Cooke will lecture on such subjects as 'Personnel in Education,' 'The Psychology of Arithmetic and Mathematics,'

'Research in Education and Psychology,' and the general field of education and educational administration. He has authored or co-authored approximately 100 articles in education and psychology dealing mainly with the administrative aspect, and has published 26 books in the same area.

Wilson To Speak on Sciences

Dr. Wilson will lecture on such topics as 'Organic Electro-chemistry,' 'Industrial Academic Research,' 'Isocyanate Reactions,' and 'An Ex-Englishman Looks at American Education.' Dr. Wilson is a Fellow of the Royal Institute of Chemistry in London and a member of the Association of Consulting Chemists and Chemical Engineers. He has authored more than 100 original publications in chemical journals in the United Kingdom and the United States.

High Point college and each of the other participating institutions is allowed a maximum of four visiting Interinstitutional lecturers per academic year, with the Piedmont center sharing the cost of the visit with the inviting college.

22 Finalists Compete In Tar Heel Contest

Finals for the High Point Woman's club annual statewide Tar Heel Talent contest will be in the campus auditorium at 8 p.m. on Oct. 23.

A record number of 53 entries has been narrowed to 22 finalists. These finalists include tap and ballet dancers, baton twirlers, vocalists, pantomimists, and folk singers.

Some of the entrants may be asked to appear on local television while the four winners will receive savings bonds.

The talent contest, now in its tenth year, is sponsored by the Woman's club to promote interest in the visual and oral performing arts.

Tickets, which are $1.00 for adults and $.50 for students, may be purchased from any member of the High Point Woman's club or at the door.

Finch Lectures Begin

Dr. M. A. Cayley To Speak

The second of the Finch Lectures will be given Oct. 20 at 10:20 a.m. in Memorial Auditorium. The theme of this year's Finch Lectures will be 'Religion and Family Relations.' Guest speaker will be Dr. Murray A. Cayley, well known author, lecturer, and psychologist.

Dr. Cayley has attended the University of Toronto, Union Seminary, and Columbia College, and is presently Chaplain and teacher of Sociology at Rochester Institute of Technology.

Cayley Authors Books

He is the author of such books as 'Are We Spiritually Dead?,'

'Drama and Pageantry,' and 'Philosophy and Social Problems;' his latest achievement is 'Preparing for Marriage and Parenthood.' Dr. Cayley also writes a regular newspaper column and has appeared on television and radio.

Discussion Opens Program

The Finch Lecture program will begin with a get acquainted session to be held in the Student Center on Oct. 19 at 7:30 p.m. There will be a discussion at this time on 'Families in and out of Trouble.'

During Chapel, Oct. 20, Dr. Cayley will speak on 'The Good Marriage.' He will be in the Student Center at 3 p.m. that afternoon to lead a discussion on 'Domestic Relations Counseling,' and will return to the Auditorium at 8 p.m. to give his final lecture, 'Creativity in Religion.'

SCA Sponsors Lectures

The Finch Lectures are sponsored by the department of religion and the Student Christian Association of HPC. Funds given to HPC by the Charles F. Finch Foundation of Thomasville support this annual affair.

UNC-G Theater Plans Integrated Program, Excursion In Europe

A season of comedy, music, and drama is on the bill of fare for the theater of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro; the piece de resistance will be a tour of Germany, France, and Italy.

William Shakespeare's The Tempest begins the theater year with performances of the poetic comedy scheduled for Dec. 9, 10, and 11.

March 3, 4, and 5, Al Capp's famous comic Lil' Abner will come to life on stage in a top musical comedy. This will be the production the UNC-G theatre group will carry to Europe under the American Educational Theatre association-department of Defense-USO program. It will be the third overseas tour by a UNC-G drama group.

The seven week tour will begin March 15 and will cover approximately 10,000 miles in France, Germany, and Italy, with a company of 18.

Winding up the busy season will be Philip Barry's Hotel Universe, an early success of the thirties set in the era of the Great Depression. It will be given May 12-14.

Drapeau Announces Cast For 'Way Of The World'

Tower Players completed casting for their first production Oct. 12. The play entitled 'The Way of the World' by William Congreve is scheduled Nov. 18-19 in Memorial Auditorium.

Selected for roles in the play were: Jay Cornet, Fainall; Jim Sloan, Mirabell; Ralph Hoar, Witwoud;

Steve Seningen, Petulant; Jerry Proffitt, Sir Wilfull; Gary McMahon, Waitwell; Avis Swallow, Lady Wishfort;

Nancy Taylor, Mrs. Millamant; Julie Turner, Mrs. Marwood; Jeannie Haines, Mrs. Fainall;

Frances Garris, Foible; Sandi Leigh, Mincing; Laura Abernathy, Betty; Nancy Scales, Peg;

Drew Ayers, Coachman; Messenger, Chuck Westmoreland; Servant, Bill Newby; Al Thorburn, Footman and Servant.

'The Way of the World,' a Restoration comedy written in 1700, is a satire on the gentlemen and ladies of the English court. 'This is the first time Tower Players has attempted a play of this type,' said director Don Drapeau.

Ralph Hoar, president of Tower Players, felt the student response this year was 'heart-warming and indicative of growing interest in campus productions.'

Oct. 13 and 14, Tower Player members traveled to Aycock Aud., UNC-G to see two plays produced by the National Repertory theater.

Wed., 36 members saw 'The Mad Woman of Chaillot' by Giraudoux. Thurs., the group was entertained by Sheridan's, 'The Rivals.'

Frosh, Sophs To Engage In Tug-o-War

Freshmen and sophomores will engage in a tug-o-war Nov. 12 at 3:30 p.m. to determine whether or not the neophytes can remove their beanies, announced Gary Sappenfield, president of the sophomore class.

The site for the conflict will be over the creek bordered by E. Farris avenue across from the athletic field.

The losing side will host a victory dance the same evening in the Student center.

Music will be played by Richard Wagoner, Charles Kurkjian, and Richard Noble, sophomores who recently formed a band.

Freshmen have won the tug-o-war the last three years by outnumbering their foes.

The thousands of pounds of pressure on the rope being pulled in opposite directions has caused the rope to snap the past two years, spilling both sides on the ground. By doubling the rope in each instance, the 'battle' was allowed to continue.

The losers end up in the creek, joined by others in the free-for-all that follows.

A muddy free-for-all traditionally follows the beanie tug-o-war.

Campus Viewpoint...

GOLDEN DECADE GAINS MOMENTUM IN '66 PLANS

Of late, I have heard many students complaining that they sure would like to know, specifically, the present extension plans of the college.

I myself have wondered how long it would be before I might be awakened promptly at 7 a.m. (without setting my alarm clock, no less) by metal striking metal.

To answer some of my fellow students' questions, as well as my own, I did a bit of research.

Epidemic Prompts Action

Last year, an outbreak of flu reached near epidemic proportions. Unfortunately, the college dispensary was not equipped to cope with the situation. Consequently, the inadequate facilities fostered ill feelings in the college community, and rightly so.

Unbelievable as it may seem, however, the administration was not really blind to the situation. Rather, it was pulled between two alternatives: whether to convert the basement of Yadkin hall into a more adequate dispensary or to construct an infirmary building.

Several years ago, the Southern Accrediting Association suggested that the college need operate only dispensary facilities. This suggestion was based on the assumption that the High Point City hospital would be able to accommodate extreme cases of illness under the required student insurance plan.

That the hospital is able to do so is indeed questionable.

However, until the availability of hospital facilities for college utilization is defined positively or negatively, something must be done.

Plans are now nearing completion for appropriate dispensary facilities to be provided in the basement of Yadkin Hall.

The $23,000 project will be financed in part by an $11,500 gift, the remainder coming from the college capital building fund.

Since the warehouse has been completed, and the furniture heretofore stored in Yadkin Hall removed, construction should begin by the end of Nov.

Moving the dispensary, however, does not rule out the possibility of an infirmary. Many considerations must be examined before the project is deemed unnecessary.

I, myself, would like to hear student opinion on this question.

Enrollment Explosion Fosters New Science Building

Eleven years ago, a new science building was erected to accommodate the needs of a student body of 700. Today, 1300 of the present 1526 equivalent students find the building totally inadequate to meet their laboratory and classroom needs.

Realizing the shocking fact that a student body could not be expected to develop individual scientific talents under such harrowing conditions, the college began plans for a more adequate building last year.

Today the plans are in the final stages. The date of the ground breaking for the proposed building, which will be located on the health center side of Montlieu Avenue, has been established as Feb. 15, 1966.

The proposed $1,012,410 building will house six lecture rooms, five biology labs, six chemistry labs, three physics labs, and one geology lab.

In addition, the building will also contain six small research labs, three small seminar rooms, and a library area. Other necessities such as adequate office, storage, and stock room space will also be provided.

Other Extensions Are Considered

Three other extensions are presently under consideration. These include a student union, a religious center, and a lecture hall.

At this time, however, neither project has been assigned priority. This may be attributed to lack of sufficient funds for either project.

Funds for these projects must be secured from federal loans and from private or church donations.

War Babies Face Restless Future

I am a full twenty years grown, almost twenty-one now. Born in 1944 into a world which knew no peace. Of course I can't remember those closing months of the War; nevertheless, I felt their influence, for I was a 'war baby.'

Eight months passed before I first met my Dad. He was with the soldiers fighting for 'Mom's apple pie.' The day he came home, he was no more than another stranger to me. And I was just as strange to him. The feel of smooth baby flesh was unknown in the hands which had held the guns on a bomber. I imagine that he quickly handed me to someone else, and it was in those other arms that I stayed.

Little was ever mentioned about the war. It was finally over, and all of those who had been a part of it wished to forget. Not until several years later was I to find out what war was all about. As a child I squealed the words 'Bang, bang! You're dead!' But to a child, death is unknowable, and the chant was only a game.

Television brought me the facts of another war—in a place called Korea. News broadcasts showed the scenes of battle and men facing death. I sat before the grey-and-white screen the very day peace in that faraway place was announced. For a while I thought I could sense the difference between war and peace.

To a little boy war is made to seem as heroic as it appears in a Saturday morning TV show. What child doesn't have an arsenal of toy guns? How well I can remember a certain toy rifle, and the feel of the trigger under my grubby fingers. I even had a 'pup' tent, canteen, and helmet—all obtained from an army surplus store. War games filled many an afternoon of fun. In my six-year-old voice, I yelled 'You're a filthy Jap!' At eight, 'You're a dirty Nazi!' I saved 'twenty popsicle wrappers and fifty cents in coin' for a toy bazooka.

When I was ten, I spent Saturday afternoons at the movies. Iwo Jima, Guadalcanal Diary, and The Naked and the Dead were digested with a salty box of popcorn. With news of the Hungarian Revolt, my twelve-year-old voice cried, 'The Communists must die!'

At fifteen I learned 'Ten Ways to Survive an Atomic Attack.' Two years later I began making plans for a bomb shelter.

On my eighteenth birthday I registered for the draft. My name was filed with the government, and I received that prized draft card—symbol of manhood.

Only a few months after I had picked up my college text books, the President announced the blockade of Cuba. I was at that moment ready to trade my college blazer for an army uniform and offer myself to the cause of national defense.

In time tension eased and other trouble spots flared up, especially in southeast Asia. Today reports of coups, guerrillas, and warmongering fill daily newspapers and are read by an anxious generation.

At the same time 'make peace' is preached from the pulpit, from the TV screen, from the radio speaker.

And as a member of the war-oriented generation, I am expected to step into society to achieve what I have never understood.

'TINY ALICE' MYSTIFIES NEW YORK

A Play by Edward Albee
Reviewed by Jerry Profit

The scene is the garden of the Cardinal. The characters are a lawyer and a Cardinal. The lawyer is discussing with the Cardinal the fact that his client would like to donate two hundred million dollars to the church.

During the course of their discussion, however, all realism disappears (and as a matter of fact, never returns). Their discussion generates into a session of namecalling and mudslinging which is equaled only in another play by Albee, Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe? This is all supposed to be symbolic.

'Sedate' Scene Follows

Albee follows this opener with a somewhat more sedate scene. It consists of the Cardinal's private secretary, Brother Julian, having an interview with the lawyer's client's butler, who is logically named Butler. This is also supposed to be symbolic.

Brother Julian seeks to gain an audience with the lawyer's client. It is at this point that we discover that the church's benefactor is a woman named Miss Alice, and, apparently, seeing Miss Alice is more difficult than seeing the Pope. To make a long story short, Brother Julian does get to see Miss Alice, and the events following that defy description.

Third Act Sheds No Light

If the reader can wade through the symbolism, and the often crude humor of Albee's first two acts, he will be richly rewarded by a third act which sheds

JVDHZDX

KKK Advocates 'Equality'

by Tillie Clark

'If you are a Native-Born Loyal United States Citizen, 18 years old, a White Gentile Person of Temperate Habits, of Protestant Faith, and believe in White Supremacy and Americanism, please fill in below.' The above is an excerpt from an application of the United Klans of America, Inc.—better known as the Ku Klux Klan.

It's healthy for any country or nation to foster minority groups, for these groups give a means of expression to those who do not subscribe to the beliefs of the moment. These groups serve the purpose of keeping the pulse of a nation.

A line should be drawn, however, between minority groups and hate organizations. The above mentioned organization, the KKK, teaches and preaches hate of any human who is not white, who is not a Gentile, or who is not a native-born American.

Klan Burns Crosses

The KKK subscribes to this hate policy, and yet it claims to abide by a deep faith in God and Christianity. This hate group has made a ritual of burning crosses. It is strange indeed that a group would claim to be Christian and at the same time put a torch to the symbol of Christianity.

... and believe in White Supremacy and Americanism... Americanism is defined by Webster as being 'attachment or loyalty to the United States, its traditions, interests, or ideals.'

It is neither a tradition nor ideal of this country to project one race or religious faith above another.

KKK Urges Suppression

It certainly would not be in the national interest to propagate suppression of any race. The KKK urges suppression.

Assuming that all men are equal regardless of race or creed—and this assumption is part of Americanism—we then would have a problem of deciding which race to suppress.

KKK Supports National Interests

The KKK does not make this assumption of equality although it does profess loyalty to the United States, its traditions, interests and ideals.

It is fitting and proper that an organization such as the Ku Klux Klan should hang itself by the mere wording of its application. The words of the application contradict themselves just as the actions of the organization contradict the professed beliefs.

The Hi-Po

"VOICE OF THE STUDENTS"

The Official Newspaper of High Point College, High Point, N. C.
Published Bi-Monthly Except During Holiday Periods

Entered as third class matter on October 19, 1950, at the Post Office at High Point, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Subscription and Advertising Rates upon Request

Editor-in-Chief	Phyllis Foy
Associate Editor	Barbara O'Connor
Business Manager	Helen Wasileski
Advertising Manager	Joe McNulty
Solicitors	Dave Gilbert, Rick Calvert, Meggs McClaine
News Editor	Donna Peck
Layout Editor	Nancy Taylor
Staff	Sandra Richie, Mary Jane McGruder
Social Editors	Ann Greco, Jim Duggan
Sports Editors	Mac Hoyt, Judy Armington
Feature Editor	June Hill
Typists	Faye Harmon, Carol Resch, Paula Bower
Copy Editor	Jane Woolridge
Staff	Jeanne Klinefelter, Wanda Wise
Columnists	George Roycroft, Tillie Clark
Photographer	Charlie So
Cartoonist	Sandra Hutchins
Circulation Manager	Jean Allen
Faculty Adviser	Mr. Ira Baker
Reporters	Ron Loewenthal, Al Thorburn, Sharon Oliver, Bill Bingham, Carol Resch, Jud Richardson and Jim Sloan.

Does Sex Saturate HPC?

by June Hill

There is a greater degree of sexual expression among college students today than ever before. The students of High Point college take no exception to this statement. Reasons for this vary from the greater possibilities for privacy, to the rising means of sex without involvement.

Ours has been called a 'sex-saturated' culture. But what is the college student really looking for? Does he accept sex as an isolated part of his life to be used for fulfillment when other things fail to succeed? Or is he looking for real relationships that satisfy over and above the passing moment?

Among students at HPC, the latter seems to be the general feeling, although the former is the more prevalent practice.

Why is it that a student will set out looking for a genuine experience and settle for so much less?

The reasons are many and depend on the individual. Generally they can be put into two categories: a lack of meaningful standards enforced and exemplified by the authorities around the student, and a failure in the search for self to fulfill his greatest needs.

The American community has never really made up its mind what it wants and expects from the college student. While the world outside is busy experimenting with its own morals—trying out the Playboy philosophy, furthering a back-to-church movement—the college student is living in a fish bowl, the center of all attention when he, too, tries to experiment. (Have you ever noticed how those of your friends who bypassed college to go right into business are never up for special comment?)

A young person comes to college advised to think for himself, but instead he finds himself the victim of a group of meaningless rules which are supposed to be his standards for life. Rules without reason are forever without meaning. No student wants to live in a normless society. He expects restraint and guidance from those older and more experienced than himself. But an overwhelming amount of rules accompanied by a conspicuous lack of whys and wherefores are cause for rebellion, and rebellion comes in various forms, including sexual aggression.

College is supposed to cater to more than just intellectual needs. It is a place of searching for identity, and while no student knows exactly what he is looking for, he has some idea of what he would like to find. He expects to further his personality by interacting with others whom he finds interesting, and to interest them in return.

It is here that we find a basic complaint about our campus. The boys are not happy with the seemingly singlefold purpose of the girls-to-look-good and be liked because they look good. They are searching for more depth, and finding it lacking. So, they turn to sex.

The girls, in return, register almost the same sad story. They contend that the boys are less interested in who a girl is than in how she looks.

The girl who is asked out at the very last minute doesn't feel that she's being sought for her personality, but rather, only as a time consumer. And what could be more time consuming than sex?

A total philosophy of life is involved here. The college community should provide an emotional, social, and intellectual climate which fulfills the student's needs. But apparently something is missing.

Sex is not a trite thing to be played with, and most students know that, without commitment, it is a superficial and unsatisfying experience. But as the college campus becomes more 'sex-saturated,' where do we place the blame?

Modeling their prized possessions are these freshmen girls: first row (l-r) Elaine Seigle, Carol Scheuffele, Diane Williams, and Cheryl Johns; second row (l-r) Susan Fowlkes, Janet Gurkin, and Barbara Poole; third row (l-r) Linda Crowder, Lynn Crawford, and Pam Berry.

The Socialite

SGA Weekend Highlights Social Season

by Anne Greco and Jim Duggan

This gossip corner of the campus news could be so much better with your co-operation. Do the organizations, other than the Greeks, wish to remain socially obscure?

We suggest that each organization appoint a member to report social events to us twice a month. That isn't really so very much to ask, and besides, we think you might enjoy seeing your name in print!

Fall weekend is upon us. If you don't have a date by now, forget it!

The entertainment committee of the SGA has contracted Martha and the Vandellas for a Saturday afternoon concert. A dance will follow Saturday night in Harrison hall with music provided by the sensational Playboys. Admission for the concert is $1.00 and the dance is free.

We feel that this weekend could provide a lot of fun at a very meager price. So, on second thought men, try to make it a little more successful; call Woman's Hall one more time.

Delta Sigs Turn Homemakers
The Delta Sigs have made plans for a bake sale, Oct. 23, between two and five in the afternoon. The baked goods will be on sale in the Delta Sig lounge and at the College Village shopping center. We're wondering who the busy mystery bakers are. . . .

Bill Herndon recently represented High Point college at the Delta Sigma Phi National convention in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Delta Sig 'philanthropists' were collecting cigarette packages to redeem for a wheel chair which they were going to donate to a convalescent home. As it turns out, however, this idea, unknown to the Delta Sig Fraternity, was nothing more than a plan to get people to smoke more cigarettes.

The Lambda Chis began their extensive social program this year with the annual open house, which was well attended by both faculty and students. Much to the dismay of many a co-ed, the brothers made their annual mountain trip to Mr. and Mrs. Mac's lodge a stag affair this year. Needless to say, they had quite a time for themselves.

Clinton Loses Pin
Clinton Forbis, Lambda Chi's representative to the National Annual Management Training Seminar, recently became pinned to Mary Lou Spence of Peace College.

Theta Chis have welcomed Frankie Thigpen into the brotherhood. Theta Chis are presently enthusiastically involved in a "do-it-yourself" project of remodeling their lounge.

The brotherhood is looking forward to their stag rush party on Oct. 21, and their drag party on Oct. 30.

Tekes Initiate Two
Tekes opened their new year by initiating two new members; they are James Richardson and James Moore.

Teke officers for this year are: John Steimle, president; Don Crossley, treasurer; Gene Treants, secretary; Jim Moore, pledge trainer.

Alpha Gams recently initiated three new sisters: Cathy Cline, Donna Gottsche, and Louise Garnett. Congratulations to Cassandra Ritchie on being elected secretary of the student legislature.

AGD also announces the marriage of sister Nancy Pearson to Larry Varner, Oct. 16, High Point.

Phi Delts Choose Leslie
Kappa Delta Leslie van Fossen is the sweetheart of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity at Davidson College and will represent them at homecoming on Oct. 23.

KD's recently celebrated White Rose week in honor of their two new sisters, Diane Holt and Monica Goggin.

The Phi Mu's had a formal tea on Oct. 3, at the Panhellenic house for the Alum club of High Point and for four pledges, Mary Dim LaSalla, Betty Pat Thomas, Peggy Sharpe and Mary Rachael Deviney, all of whom have since become sisters.

Phi Mu is proud to announce the marriage of Velma Holden to Charles Barger, Jr.

Art Director To Speak At Assembly Program

Raiford Porter, professor of art at HPC, announced that Dr. Justus Bier, director of the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, will be the speaker for the assembly program Oct. 18 in Memorial Auditorium.

Dr. Bier has served as professor of art history at the University of Louisville, lecturer at the Municipal university of Nurnburg, Germany, and has had positions in several other German universities.

The former Fulbright lecturer will speak on 'Masterworks in the North Carolina Collection of Art.' Dr. Bier illustrates his lecture with slides of art pieces from the collection.

High School Student Gripes On Teachers' Requirements

Editor's Note: This article written by John R. Bowler, a high school senior from Lima, Ohio, was extracted from American Youth. Although the author wrote from the high school class viewpoint, the same rules might be considered applicable in the college classroom.

Most of my 17 years on this earth have been spent behind a desk which usually has been too small. Having spent such a length of time on the other end of the hickory stick, I cannot help being of the opinion that someone, somewhere, has written a manual for the teacher's harassment of students.

Perhaps that is the little black book which they seem to spend hours memorizing, or perhaps it is contained in that satchel which they always bring to class.

Regardless, I am sure that such a document exists and deserves a place beside 'Lenin's Toward the Seizure of Power' and Hitler's 'Mein Kampf.' The following paragraphs contain some of the points I am quite sure all teachers must memorize before receiving their degree:

If the school specifies a total of three hours of daily homework, be sure to assign all three hours in your class, in case your colleagues might have forgotten.

Spend at least four hours a night searching the pages of Webster's for a minimum of 500 words which no student is capable of defining. Use these words in class: the class will appreciate this because it presents a 'challenge.'

Pull an unannounced exam whenever possible. Always pick that one time in 50 when the students failed to study their notes. You can always determine this day by the look of stark terror in the eyes of your pupils.

Never let a day pass without reminding the students about school in your day and the five-mile walk in the cold because there were no buses. This will develop in the students a sense of admiration for your great physical stamina.

Wear heel plates or some other distracting item during an important test. Your pupils will thank you for this because it develops their powers of concentration.

If a student finds an error on your part, assume an indignant attitude and then say, 'I was just testing to see if you were awake.'

Tell a joke whenever the students are in a depressed mood. It is preferable to use one that has been in circulation for the last year and a half. This may do nothing for their mood, but it will give them a better reason for being depressed.

During an exam, roam freely about the room, peer over the shoulder of a student, then give an indulgent chuckle and move on to the next one.

If there is extra time left during the class period, sit complacently at your desk silently reading your grade book. From time to time glance at any student and shake your head in dismay. This will drive him to the verge of nervous prostration, but he will thank you for calling his attention to his marks.

No matter what happens, remember the 'ultimate weapon,' last year's class. Despite the fact that you have yet to give a grade below B to the present group, always tell them how much better 'last year's class' was.

Above all, never forget the teacher's code: 'The customer is always wrong.'

Wis. Draft Registers Frosh Co-ed for ROTC

Collegiate Press service — A 17-year-old Brown Deer, Wisconsin, girl has been 'drafted' into the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Frances M. Ullenberg received her orders along with her class schedule cards to the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee.

Her first class, according to the schedule sent her, was to be at 8:30 a.m. in the fine arts building. The course? 'ROTC Orientation' — a course required of all freshmen at the university.

'I thought it was pretty funny,' she told newsmen, 'especially since a lot of my friends call me Frank.'

She was planning to follow her schedule and report to that ROTC class. A World War II Italian army cap, borrowed from her father who brought it home as a souvenir, was perched atop her long brown locks as she marched off to college.

Miller Finds N. C. Fossils

Dr. H. W. Miller, associate professor of geology, is currently conducting research and exploring the fossiliferous area of the Cape Fear River near Elizabethtown.

Dr. Miller began this work because he was curious as to what cretaceous fossils might be uncovered in the North Carolina coastal area.

Several significant cretaceous fossils, or hardened remains or traces of plant and animal life of some previous geological age, have been found thus far.

They include: two kinds of crocodiles; two kinds of dinosaurs, one amphibian and one carnivore; three kinds of turtles, partly fresh water and partly marine water; three kinds of sharks and several fish. The crocodiles, sharks and fish, as of yet, have not been identified, Dr. Miller stated.

Also in his collection, Dr. Miller has vertebrae of some of these specimens, the skull of a dinosaur, plates of turtles, and different types of shark teeth.

According to Dr. Miller, all these specimens are one hundred million years old or older. In order to preserve these remains, he must spray them with acetone and glue. This process keeps them from crumbling so readily.

Dean Farmer, Leif Erikson, George Lare, and Jim Richardson accompanied Dr. Miller on some of his excursions to the Cape Fear River. Presently, he plans at least two more field trips.

Carl Schwab, a former student of Dr. Miller and employee of the Humble Oil research department in Houston, Texas, is presently assisting Dr. Miller.

College Delegates Attend Textile Chemical Seminar

Students and a faculty member will attend the Walter F. Fancourt Memorial seminar in Greensboro Oct. 28 and 29.

Sponsored for the fourth straight year by the W. F. Fancourt Co., textile chemical manufacturers, the seminar outlines textile career advantages to students.

It is conducted on an informal basis with the participants conferring in small groups with industry leaders. This atmosphere, according to John L. Fancourt, president of the sponsoring firm, contributes to a greater exchange of opinion and information.

Also scheduled are visits to the J. P. Stevens Co. Carter plant in Greensboro for an examination of techniques used in the manufacture of fiberglass piece goods; and to Burlington Mills' new J. Spencer Love Hosiery center in Burlington to study their production techniques.

Climax of the seminar will be the annual banquet at which students, professors, and industry and business leaders will hear an address by a prominent textile industrialist.

Schools scheduled to attend include Belmont Abbey, Catawba, Clemson, Davidson, Duke, Elon and Guilford.

Others are North Carolina State, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, University of South Carolina, Wake Forest and the Women's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, as well as High Point.

Intramurals Begin; Underdogs Triumph

The intramural football season opened Sept. 30, with contests between four of the eight registered teams. This annual event, which enables all boys of the college to participate in a fall sport, is just one phase of a diversified intramural program set up by the physical education department.

The two games of the season saw the Montlieu Jets slip past last year's intramural champions, Theta Chi fraternity, while last year's intramural football champions, the Hot Dogs, defeated the Woolly Bully, 15-0.

Advisers Lecture Yearbook Staffs

Mr. Ira L. Baker, Adviser of the Zenith staff, and Dr. Sam Underwood left Wednesday to attend the Columbia University Scholastic Association yearbook conference in New York, Oct. 14-16.

Dr. Underwood will present a speech entitled 'Trends in the Modern Yearbook' to the conference.

Meanwhile, Mr. Baker will discuss 'Tips for the Beginning Yearbook Staff.'

Dr. Joseph M. Murphy, director of CUSA, says, 'The purpose of the conference is to give current yearbook staffs a chance to do something about this year's book.'

The conference serves both high school and college staffs. General sessions are conducted in the mornings; in the afternoons, the group attends divisional (high school or college) meetings concerning many aspects of yearbook composition.

Dr. Underwood and Mr. Baker will spend their free time attending several Broadway plays.

Netmen Forsee 1966 As Winning Season

by Ron Loewenthal

As a result of last year's second-place finish in the Carolinas Conference Tennis tournament, the 1966 tennis team should be one of the best that HPC has had in many years.

Returning, with a year's experience, is Ken Machlin, last year's second-flight champion and outstanding freshman player in the conference. Coach Tom Quinn has commented that Machlin should become one of the best tennis players that the Carolina conference has ever produced.

Also returning are Larry Amick, a three year veteran, and Bob Whitaker, the number-five man on last year's team.

Leon Chidester, who was not in school second semester last year, will give the team a strong nucleus to work with. Coach Quinn believes that in the doubles category Machlin and Amick should be the Conference's best one-two punch.

Though more depth is needed, it appears that Coach Quinn will have enough solid players to be a top contender for the Carolina conference honors.

Displaying his highly rated style is Ken Machlin.

LAWSON ALLEN

W. Lawson Allen, director of public affairs division at High Point college, has been named as chairman of the membership committee for the Mason-Dixon district of American Colleges Public Relations association.

Round Robin Tournament Progresses

Last minute scrimmaging before the Oct. 28 game occupies these field hockey players.

The Woman's intramural council met at the beginning of the school year to set up the fall intramural program. A round robin field hockey tournament is in the process of being run off.

As soon as this is completed, a single elimination tournament in speedball will be scheduled. Following this, the teams will move inside for a round robin tournament in volleyball.

Field hockey started last week with the Zetas defeating Kappa Delta by a score of 2-0. Alpha Gam defeated the Independent team the same afternoon.

Later in the week, Zeta defeated Alpha Gam 1-0, while the score of the Independent, Phi Mu game was 1-0.

As it stands now, Zeta Tau Alpha is the only undefeated team.

Math Whiz Passes Quiz

'Charles W. Honeycutt is the first math major who passed both advance placement examinations in mathematics since this program was adopted by the college the later part of last year,' states Colonel Carlton J. Cook, head of the mathematics department.

When asked why he liked math, Honeycutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Honeycutt, 613 West Farriss, said, 'It is logic at its best, and I enjoy analyzing and discovering the truth about things through the logical and mathematical approach.'

Charles is now taking a course in analytical calculus. 'I'm interested in analytical research,' he declared, 'but as yet, I haven't decided which path I will follow in the field of mathematics.'

Colonel Cook stated that the mathematic advance placement program will assist those students who pass them by allowing the students, in whatever field, to go on to other subject areas. Since this was the first year the college has offered these examinations, there was not as much participation from the students.

Two other freshman students, Walter J. Hendrick, an English and drama major from Silver Spring, Maryland, and Linda R. Sessums, a pre-medical student from Hyattsville, Maryland, also passed both advance placement examinations in math.

MSF To Visit Va. Mountains

Methodist Student Fellowship members will visit the Virginia mountains Oct. 17 for a day of outdoor recreation at a private farm near the Blue Ridge parkway.

This year the MSF plans to emphasize service activities. The organization hopes to work with Beddington Street Mission, the Community House, and the Salvation Army stressing recreational activities for the underprivileged.

Betts Davis, president, revealed plans to organize interest groups which would meet independently and discuss books and political situations.

MSF meets each Sunday night at 6:15 in the Student center.

Gidget Gives Tip On Surfing

Sally Field, who will play 'Gidget' in the new television series, gives a tip on surfing: 'If you think the board might hit you — find the bottom of the ocean and lie there as long as possible.'

from T.V. Guide.

Hi-Po Offers Exchange

Exchange newspapers which THE HI-PO receives from colleges and universities in the Carolinas are available to the student body.

These newspapers are placed on the shelf to the left of the periodical shelves on the main floor of the library.

Roma Villa

Italian American Food

Sandwiches of all Kinds

Pizza, Spaghetti

Phone Take-out Order

883-7219

Carmelo Matino, owner

MITCHELL'S ESSO SERVICE

"We Are Happy To Serve You"

1100 E. Lexington Ave.
High Point, N. C.
Phone 888-5966

Tobias

ARE YOU A VILLAGER COLLECTOR?

If you welcome casual days as the time for an individual and beautifully put-together look, a look that's yours...then come and see the new VILLAGERS. We have them in abundance.

Seven Barbers

To

Serve You

College Village
Barber Shop

Compliments

of

College Village
Lanes

Patronize

Your College

Bookstore

A Home

Away From Home

The Hi-Point

Volume XXXV, Number 3

High Point College, High Point, North Carolina

October 30, 1965

HPC Ceremonial Traditions Increase With New Additions of Mace, Seal

New notes of authority and symbolism have been added to the college ceremonial traditions with the inclusion of a specially designed mace and seal.

Originally an emblem of authority dating back to the reign of James I of England, the mace was one of the prerogatives of authority. In academic use, it is the symbol of a college or university as a corporate body of scholars with its own legally constituted authority. Born in procession immediately before the chief executive of a college, it is placed before him during formal academic ceremonies.

Conrad, Patton, Instigate Idea

The idea of a mace for High Point college was instigated by Dr. Harold Conrad, dean of academic planning, and Dr. Wendell Patton, president; and designed by Raiford Porter, assistant professor of art. The plans were commissioned to Jake Wagner of High Point who hand-carved the mace from pecan wood. Distinctive is the lamp of learning found at the top.

Cast in bronze by the National College Emblem company of Muncie, Indiana, the seal will be worn by the chief executive during ceremonial occasions.

Designed in 1925 by Dr. N. M. Harrison, then serving as dean of men, the seal displays the lamp of learning positioned on a book of knowledge. Behind the lamp is a cross in full radiance representing the relationship between High Point college and the Methodist church.

Seal Includes Latin Motto

Within the sphere is found the Latin motto, "Nil Sine Numine," which means "Nothing Without Divine Guidance." A belt encircling the seal symbolizes the tie between religion and the knowledge of man.

When the seal and mace are not in use they are placed on display in the foyer of Roberts Hall in a specially constructed display case given to the college by the 1965 graduating class.

The cornerstone of the administration building, Roberts Hall, was laid June 29, 1922, followed closely by the construction of a dorm for men, McCulloch Hall, a central heating plant. Sept. 15, 1924, HPC opened for study with 132 students.

From these modest but ambitious beginnings, HPC has enjoyed growth, achieved maturity and established a mark of excellence in the academic community.

Freshmen Class Elects Officers; Run-off Reveals 'Local Boy' President

Freshman elections Oct. 6 to determine the class officers for the 1965-66 year.

For their vice president, the freshmen elected Bob Montgomery from Stratford, N. J.; for secretary, Margaret Brookbank from High Point, N. C.; and for treasurer, Jack Driscoll from Somerset, Mass.

The member to the judiciary will be Carol Scheufele from Arlington, Va.; and legislative representatives will be Sharon Baker, from Charlotte, N. C.; Diane Nailand from Arlington, Va.; and Sylvia Pratt from Charlotte, N. C.

A run-off was necessary between Robbie Myers and Bucky Stilwell for the office of president. The Freshmen voted once again on Oct. 8, and chose Robbie Myers, who is from High Point, N. C.

Administration To Raise Academic Point Standard

Academic standards will be raised next September.

Freshmen must have a .50 average, sophomores a .80, and anyone with .67 or more semester hours must have a 1.0 average to return.

If a student does not go to summer school to make his average, he will be ineligible to re-apply for admission for one year.

—Photo by HPC News Bureau.

New notes of authority added to college ceremonial traditions include the seal and newly designed mace.

Student Government Association Meets; Discusses Coming School Year Plans

Members of the Student Government association met Oct. 20 to discuss plans for the coming year.

It was decided to have the bills redistributed so that everyone will have an opportunity to become familiar with them.

SGA Discusses Honor Code

One of the subjects discussed was the possibility of an honor code.

Social calendar plans include more concerts by big-name groups. One is planned for Dec. 10, with the Four Seasons as a possibility.

Another concert is scheduled for the afternoon of Homecoming. The weekend festivities will include a dance Friday night, a concert Saturday afternoon, a game that night, and a dance following the game.

SC Switches To 'Go-Go'

Ping-pong players will have to share some of their time with Go-Goers beginning Oct. 27. At 9:30 every night the Student center will be transformed into a Go-Go club. Tables and chairs will be set up, and the juke box will play continuously.

Visiting Lecturer Dr. Rubin Speaks On Southern Writers' Contributions

In an address on Oct. 18, visiting lecturer Dr. Louis D. Rubin asserted that memorable literature has been produced during the twentieth century by Southern writers, intellectuals, and artists, who outgrew their Southern communities.

Southern Writers Go North

Almost all Southern writers went North at some time. They were in search of favorable surroundings, but they found the North was not as enchanting as they had dreamed, Rubin said. However, the Southern writer could not go home again. He could not accept what he found there when he returned. The homeland was no longer the community it had been, and he was no longer part of it, he added.

Rubin Teaches at Hollins

Dr. Rubin, a professor at Hollins college upheld his assertion with references to Thomas Wolfe, William Faulkner, and Robert Penn Warren.

The context of Rubin's address

College Slates Parents Day For Nov. 6

Parents of freshmen and transfer students have been invited to attend the festivities planned for Nov. 6.

The freshmen class will be in charge of registration for the parents in the foyer of the auditorium at 9 a.m., with an assembly program following.

President Wendell M. Patton will present a welcome address to parents from the administration.

Dr. David Cole, Mr. Lee Edwards, Mr. Lawson Allen, and Robert Myers, president of the freshmen class will also assist Dr. Patton in welcoming parents.

Parents are encouraged to see their sons' or daughters' professors between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. and also during the professors' free periods for conferences.

House Mothers to Serve Coffee

House mothers of all dormitories will serve coffee and doughnuts and welcome parents to visit the dorm rooms during open house.

After lunch, which will be served from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m., parents are invited to return to the auditorium for a musical program given by the college band and choir.

The program for the day will be concluded with a faculty-parent tea at 3 p.m. which will be sponsored by the sophomore class.

P.E. Club Plans Games

Younger children in the family are also invited to spend the day. Various games have been planned for their entertainment by the Physical Education club. Children are requested to bring tennis shoes and meet in the gymnasium.

The SGA will act as host for the day, and will be available to assist parents.

Committee Selects 12 Junior Marshals

—Staff Photo by Charlie So.

Junior Marshals for the class of 1967 are (front row, l-r) David Pulliam, Gloria Lewallen, Betty Jo Vaughn, Kay Benfield, Jean Ruth, Gail Whittemore, Barbara Walker, and Tom Anderson. Others include (back row, l-r) Bill McInnis, Ruth Ann Sides, Billie Allen, Judy Stone, Susan Hood, Jan Young, Ella Stout, and Steve Eller.

HPC Is Miracle

"HPC is a miracle in education," announced Holt McPherson, President of the college board of trustees and editor of the High Point ENTERPRISE, at the Golden Decade Planning Conference banquet here Wednesday.

"HPC is a rare combination of things and people," he went on, "one that encourages self-discipline and academic freedom."

(Continued on Page 4)

Campus Viewpoint...

ARE YOU A VICTIM?

Are you on the outside looking in—a victim of hate, disgust, bitterness, disillusion, anger, confusion, uncertainty, suppression, dissatisfaction, hostility, distrust, misgivings, ignorance, and inhibition? Then you're not alone. High Point College is full of students who are suffering from the same malady.

Everyday more complaints are launched about the state we're in. "What a gross existence!" (disillusion) "Why did I ever come to HPC?" (bitterness) "This campus is as dead as Main street at 8:30!" (disgust) "Rules, rules, rules!" (hostility) "No one understands us!" (confusion) "Least of all the administration." (anger) "They don't ever let us know what's going on." (ignorance) "Where does our money go?" (uncertainty) "Why do we lose so many good teachers?" (dissatisfaction) "Why can't we wear shorts in the cafeteria?" (suppression) "Whadaya mean roomcheck every week? Am I a student or a charwoman?" (hate).

This is what's known as the "bad attitude." And it seems to be prevalent at HPC. Why? This is a question many people ask, but no one bothers to answer. So the days pass and ignorance continues, and raw feelings exist all around. A feeble attempt is made here and there to enlighten us, but the fact remains—there is no communication between students and administration on this campus. The result is student hostility to any policy the administration advocates.

Is this justified? Perhaps so. Students do have a right to be angry when they, the heart of the campus, are kept in the dark about important matters. Who wants to find out about the erection of a new building when he sees the ground being dug up? Who wants to have to pick up the "High Point Enterprise" to read about the college purchasing the Magic Block? The students are entitled to firsthand knowledge of these facts. And we can have it. But few realize this.

Too often, we tend to criticize what we don't understand. Hearing bits of information here and there, we draw our own angry conclusions. If we could get the story straight from the horse's mouth, such anger could be avoided.

This is a plea. If you are angry enough about being kept in the dark, take some action. Stand up for your rights! If you're curious, ask questions. Surprisingly enough, you'll get answers. And this does come from the horse's mouth. The administration is ready, willing, and able. They will consider any suggestions we have to offer, and they will answer ANY questions we have to ask. But they are not mindreaders. Small grumbings and hidden frustrations will get us nowhere. So let's let them know what's on our minds and now!

N.J.H.

Writer Encourages 'War Babies' To Face Reality

Editor's Note: This letter was received in response to the article "War Babies Face Restless Future" which appeared in the Oct. 15 edition of THE HI-PO.

This article sounds like a plea, or maybe a complaint. It asks an unanswered question. Dis-satisfaction with today's realities can but offer a challenge . . . a challenge many times accepted in the past.

Are War Babies of 1944 different, more troubled, or faced with more uncertainty than some other generation? Does this generation find a lesser heritage than their forebears? Glance at history . . . we have had 5000 years of the same toil, conflicts, strivings, and war.

Each generation has the total experience of the past to build on. Maybe the '44's can strive a little harder with a little more understanding and faith than the '20's. The future has never been a certainty, but the reflection of man's growth, both moral and intellectual.

So take heart '44's . . . the '20's and the '70's are depending on you.

—Your Printer.

Draft Looms Ominous For College Male

by George Roycroft

'End the Draft,' 'Attack Poverty—Not People in Viet Nam,' and 'Better Red than Dead' read placards carried by unshaven, unscrubbed self-styled pacifists. Draft cards are burned, and ways to beat the draft are sought.

All this by an anxious college generation who has in recent weeks spread their demonstrations against U. S. foreign policy in Viet Nam from Berkeley to Manhattan.

Do College Youth Fear Death?

Why have these protests taken place? Are college youth afraid to fight, afraid of dying?

These demonstrations have aroused great concern among government officials who now fear that the control of the protest movement begun by loyal Americans has now passed into the hands of Communists and extremists.

For the most part, however, the views of these "Vietniks," as these students have been called, are not the opinions of the majority of college youth.

This fact has been proved by the counter-protesters who support this country's policy in Southeast Asia. Recently pacifists attempted a rally on the university campus at Chapel Hill but were heckled and outnumbered by U. S. supporters by more than 30 to one.

If these then are only the actions and opinions of a few, what are the opinions of the majority of collegians?

Students Desire War's End

True, college students, like most other Americans, do desire to see the end to the Viet Nam crisis. Few men want to be drafted. If it were their desire to serve in the armed services, they would volunteer.

Many people fail to realize that a college education is an investment which has cost several thousands of dollars and years to acquire. If the skills and techniques learned by many of these graduates were to lie dormant over several years while in service, they might be lost or forgotten.

Many students have the desire to go on to graduate school, but find themselves short of finances. They must then work a year or so to earn the money. Service at this time of course would only delay further study and perhaps quell the existing desire for more knowledge.

College Men Are Flower of Society

College men are indeed the "flower of our society." They have spent nearly their entire lives in preparing themselves to meet the future. They are not cowards, nor are they afraid to die.

They are thinking men who have dreams and ideals which they hope will help to make our society greater through their education.

Thus, the draft does loom as an ominous prospect for the college male. However, when the question of the preservation of American ideals and even the support of free governments in Asia, Africa, or where ever is to be decided, the red-blooded American college youth will answer the call.

And it won't be with a sigh or a whimper. They will lift their heads high, fix their eyes forward, and answer, "If I must, I will."

JVDHZDX

Sororities, Frats Are Inherently Valuable

Quite often in the past year or so several articles have been written in various periodicals for the express purpose of denouncing sororities and fraternities.

In the majority of these articles, the sole reason for the denunciation was the fact that someone would be left out, and the whole fraternity-sorority system was, therefore, undemocratic. This shows very shallow thinking on someone's part.

In the first place there are few organized groups which are designed to include anyone and everyone. Ninety-nine per cent of all organizations are founded with the inherent right of selection and choice of membership.

Fraternities and sororities have this right and need it for the protection of their private and secret proceedings.

This privacy and secrecy is the very heart and soul of such organizations. A group of people who share the same interests accept formal organization in order to function more efficiently.

Their participation in such organizations assures them of the right to select others who would be of value to the organization.

Any person that has had any active connection with a sorority or fraternity knows the incomparable part it plays in his or her life.

These groups offer a rich abundance of experiences and provide one with life-time friends. This is not to say that friends do not exist outside the group. They do. Being one of a select group does provide an even stronger bond upon which to build a friendship.

It is unfortunate that some are not asked to join these groups. It is design, not desire, that dictates strict selection of group members. The positive good that such groups do more than compensates for any "undemocratic" practices.

gort

The Hi-PO

"VOICE OF THE STUDENTS"

The Official Newspaper of High Point College, High Point, N. C.
Published Bi-Monthly Except During Holiday Periods

Entered as third class matter on October 19, 1950, at the Post Office at High Point, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Subscription and Advertising Rates upon Request

Editor-in-Chief _____ Phyllis Foy
Associate Editor _____ Barbara O'Connor
Business Manager _____ Helen Wasileski
Advertising Manager _____ Joe McNulty
Solicitors _____ Dave Gilbert, Rick Calvert, Meggs McClaine
News Editor _____ Donna Peck
Layout Editor _____ Nancy Taylor
Staff _____ Sandra Richie, Jeanne Klinefelter
Social Editors _____ Ann Greco, Jim Duggan
Sports Editors _____ Mac Hoyt, Judy Armington
Feature Editor _____ June Hill
Typist _____ Faye Harmon
Copy Editor _____ Jane Wooldridge
Columnists _____ George Roycroft, Tillie Clark
Photographer _____ Charlie So
Cartoonist _____ Sandra Hutchins
Circulation Manager _____ Jean Allen
Faculty Adviser _____ Mr. Ira Baker
Reporters _____ Al Thorburn, Sharon Oliver, Bill Bingham, Carol Resch, Jud Richardson, Joan Parker Warren, Ann Montague, Ann Talley, Pat Hardister, and Cheryl Martin.

BISHOP PRICKS CLERGICAL ILLUSIONS

"How To Become A Bishop Without Being Religious" by Charles Merrill Smith (Doubleday and Co., Inc.) reviewed by Jerry Profit

"Chapter one—The Professional Stance, or The Techniques of Being Unmistakably Clerical." Thus begins one of the funniest books published this year.

Mr. Smith, who is a bishop to the Methodist church, sets forth in his book to prick some of the favorite illusions of the laity about the clergy. He does so by writing a handbook as it were for the ambitious clergyman.

Success Means Piety

He advises the theologian in such matters as "Piety and Its Uses" ("You can expect to be a successful clergyman without being religious. But never forget that you cannot be a success unless you are pious.")

The bishop gives hints on "Living the Inhibited Life" ("The average Protestant church in America is made up of people who are only a few decades removed from their Puritan ancestors and who have not yet succeeded in shaking themselves free from the conviction that a Christian is one who doesn't enjoy this world very much.")

Clergy Wife Not Sexy

Smith also has the solution for "Selecting the Clerical Wife" ("... for a clergyman to marry a woman who possesses an abundance of sex appeal is absolutely fatal to his career. The men of the congregation will appreciate her, of course, which is the first reason that their wives won't.")

He goes on to give pointers on the successful sermon ("Make them laugh. Make them cry. Make them feel religious.")

From this point he takes up "The Administration of a Church, Which Is a Polite Phrase for Raising Money," in which he introduces very sage advice for getting what you want out of a congregation.

How to Move to the Major Leagues

He points out all the ways to move from the rural congregations to the "major leagues" as he calls them. From this point on Mr. Smith shows the ambitious young clergyman how, step by step, to get himself elected bishop.

Furthermore, he explains everything from "The Blessings of a Board Executive" to "The College Presidency—Its Joys and Hazards." Along the way he creates one of the best satires written this year.

This book will prove to be interesting reading for the religious and the non-religious alike. If you don't have time to read Mr. Smith's book, make time! I promise you a thoroughly entertaining and rather enlightening look at this two thousand year old institution we call the Church.

The Socialite

Delta Sigma Phi Serenades Coeds

by Jim Duggan and Anne Greco

Delta Sigs thrilled the new freshman dorm students last week, not to mention a few of the upperclassmen, when they serenaded all campus women.

They went on their annual mountain trip October 24. Their stag rush party was October 25.

ADT Pledges 16

Alpha Delta Theta has sixteen new pledges. The excited young women include Mary Brown, Susan Griffin, Janna Murphy, Fuschia Lackey, Janet Maston, Ann Parker, Alice Thompson, Laura Coltrane, and Joyce Van Hook.

Other new pledges are Carol Resch, Doris Whitt, Martha Hadley, Glenda Huffman, Lynda Corn, Sharon Sherwood, and Janine Gilliam.

Congratulations are in order for ADT sisters Barbara Walker, Betty Jo Vaughn, and Ruth Ann Sides who have been selected junior marshals.

Three Join Pikas

Congratulations to new Pika brothers Tom Coleman, George Bageant, and Bob Gawen. New pledges chosen were Bill McDermott, Ritchie Marshall, Rudy Shackleford, and Bobby Craver.

Pika's are looking forward to their stag and drag parties scheduled Oct. 28 and Oct. 30, respectively. The drag will be at the Holiday Inn featuring "Guitar Slim and the Starfires".

Thanks go to the Pika's for taking time out from riding Hondas in order to supply us with this information.

Theta Chi A-Go-Go

Theta Chi's held their stag rush party Oct. 21 at the Elks Lodge in High Point. The highlight of the evening was the "Theta Chi A-Go-Go" with music by brothers Rich and Charlie and dancing by KD's Jeanne Vanneman, Kathy Rogers, and Kay Jackson.

After the party, Theta Chi's were proud to announce their new pledges Bobby Robertson, Jim Spiridopoulos, and Bob White.

Tekes rushed prospective pledges at their party Oct. 18. Brothers from Lenoir Rhyne, the providence supervisor and the field representative also attended their party.

Gray Pins Monica

Holiday Inn was the setting for the Lambda Chi stag rush party Oct. 26. Lambda Chi's had a fine drag party at I.T. Mann. Highlight of the month is president Gray Macy's pinning to Monica Goggin, KD.

Word has it that Lambda Chi's have taken up target practicing with handguns . . . hummmmm.

Alpha Gams Wash Cars

Need your car washed, your stomach filled, or a suggestion for Christmas gifts? Ask any Alpha Gam for help.

AGD's are proud not only of their 3-1 record in field hockey, but also of their new cheerleader, Tamara Kerns.

Kappa Deltas congratulate Diana Ferran, one of our new cheerleaders.

Several KD's will be contestants in the Miss Golden Decade pageant. Diane Holt will represent Pi Kappa Alpha. Sherry Snow will represent the junior class, while Anne Greco represents Lambda Chi Alpha.

KDs ask you to buy their potato chips before they eat them all themselves.

The month of October has been a very exciting one and November, we think, seems even more promising. When one looks back on October, he will recall Fall weekend (for which Chuck Richards and his committee deserve a big thank you), mountain trips, intramural football games, and fraternity rush.

Looks as if coed Kathy Ward and date John Roberts really got the jerk for the Sensational Playboys Fall Weekend.

-Staff Photo by Charlie So.

Cayley Closes Books At Assembly

by Ann Talley

What! Study during assembly? No sir! On Oct. 20, almost every book was closed, if not every single one! The reason? Dr. Murray A. Cayley, conciliating counselor of the Murray county family courts in New York. Dr. Cayley held his audience spellbound by his excellent lecture, "The Good Marriage."

Tillie Says Cayley Tremendous

Tillie Clark expressed the feelings of the majority of HPC students when she said, "He was tremendous! Dr. Cayley told us a lot that we have heard before, but he made it seem real."

Her roommate, Sharon Leatherbury added, "Dr. Cayley is a real personal-type person. He feels what he is saying. The views he expressed were his own feelings, not just what he was expected to say."

Assembly Lecture Outstanding

Those students and faculty members who heard Dr. Cayley at times other than Wed. morning seemed to think the assembly lecture most outstanding.

Several felt that Wed. evening's continuation of "The Good Marriage" contained too much rehashing, but thought that those who attended, as well as the radio audience, greatly benefited from what Dr. Cayley had to add.

Other than speaking on "The Good Marriage," Dr. Cayley discussed "Families In and Out of Trouble," and "Domestic Relations Counseling."

HPC Needs Speakers Like Cayley

Although many ministers, faculty members, and students gained a great deal from these lectures, many felt as Emilie Auman: "The Wednesday afternoon topic did not really relate to me, but it was interesting. We should have more speakers like Dr. Cayley on campus. He makes you feel like there really is purpose to life."

Most students felt as Don Hevener, Larry Adams, Pam Fletcher, and Jim Elkins, who all expressed the opinion that Dr. Cayley "spoke the language of the students."

Mrs. Conner helps student locate fetal pig liver, the organ where energy is stored after glycoliss takes place.

-Staff Photo by Charlie So.

Cast Begins Blocking 'The Way Of The World'

by Ann Montague

"The Way of the World" cast, chosen Oct. 12, has begun rehearsals. Presently, cast members are going through the mechanics of blocking. This concerns the technical aspects such as learning mannerisms, stage positions, and exits.

The play takes place during the restoration period in England. The biggest problems in preparation for a production of this type involves re-casting the dress, mannerisms, and flowery language of the period. Both cast and crew regard this play as an interesting challenge because of these factors.

Speaking for the cast, actress Nancy Taylor says "all is going well thus far. It really is an interesting play, quite comical in parts and we really enjoy doing it."

The production is scheduled for Nov. 19-20. Those who are familiar with the play promise viewers their money's worth in entertainment and amusement.

Arts Festival Begins Nov. 14; Opera Class, University Trio To Sing

Dr. Lew J. Lewis, chairman of the HPC fine arts department, announced that the college will hold its Fine Arts festival beginning Nov. 14 and running through Nov. 20.

Nov. 15 the Opera class from UNC-G will present a program in the Memorial Auditorium at 10:20 a.m. The University Trio from the music department of UNC-G will present a program at the assembly period Nov. 17 at 10:20 a.m.

The climax of the festival week will come with the presentation of "The Way of the World," a dramatic production by William Congreve. This play will be enacted by the Tower Players under the direction of Don Drapeau of the fine arts department faculty.

Throughout the week of the festival, paintings by members of the HPC art department will be on display in the foyer of Memorial Auditorium.

Biology Professor Studies New Methods

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Conner, a biology professor at High Point College, spent eight weeks of her summer at the Institution of Molecular and Developmental Biology at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. This institution was operated through the National Science Foundation.

"I learned new methods of scientific discovery and the more modern data concerning molecular and developmental biology," Mrs. Conner said as she explained the differences in cellular biochemistry, which deals with the make-up of plant and animal cells, genetics, and the study of plant and animal heredity.

Prior to the three years that Mrs. Conner has been teaching at HPC, she had not been able to delve deeply into research nor renew her knowledge in more modern biological courses.

Teaching made her realize that more concentrated study in specific fields was necessary for better teaching techniques. Therefore, when the summer program at UNC-G offered her a chance to answer old as well as new questions, she donned her school girl attitude once again.

Mrs. Conner said she was amazed at the development and changes in genetics and cellular bio-chemistry since her school days at Duke Univ. and the Univ. of Mo.

Mrs. Conner was also surprised at the number of schools that offered such advanced courses to freshman students. Therefore, she has taken a slightly different approach to teaching her freshmen students this year.

She includes modern theories of cellular structure in her lectures to give freshmen an overall insight to biological bases.

ATTENTION SCA!

The Student Christian Council has changed its meeting time to every first and third Friday, at 3 p.m. in room 34 Roberts Hall. All interested students are invited to attend and contribute their ideas.

Hall's Corner, Ltd.

(Traditional Clothing for Men and Women)

100 South Main Street • High Point, N. C.

(AT THE BRIDGE)

MEN	WOMEN
Orange Alpaca Sweaters	Red Barn Shirts
Palimino Loafer	Boe Jest Sportswear
Whiskey Tone Sweaters	Herringbone Shirts and Slacks
Alligator Belts	Plaids
Whiskey Tone Slacks	Belts
	Miss Adventure Sportswear

Meet Your Friends at the Corner . . . "Hall's Corner"

Reynders Mimes Before 1,000 At Nov. 3 Program

by Al Thorburn

The arts program of the Assoc. of American Colleges will visit the campus in the person of Frans Reynders, pantomimist, Nov. 3, at 10:20 a.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

The art of pantomime, the oldest form of dramatic expression, relies entirely upon the body and facial expressions of the mime in conveying the action of a story through simplified, exaggerated or symbolic gestures without words. It is an art which suggests rather than imitates. The number of accomplished interpreters of our times is limited to a very few.

Reynders Performs Internationally

Mr. Reynders, who has performed all over America as well as Europe, has earned his right to be included among these few.

After attending the Amsterdam Academy of Art following World War II, he traveled to Paris to study under Etienne Decroux in the Theatre de Mime.

He toured Europe and Britain with the Decroux troupe for two years, then returned to Holland where he displayed his talent as a performer, director, lighting technician, and costume designer in musical comedy.

His many years of training, constant exercise and discipline, and thorough knowledge of theatre and music, along with his obvious talents are just a few of the many reasons why he is considered the most outstanding pantomimist on the American scene today.

FRANS REYNDERS

Pantomimist Mimes "Till"

In 1960, Reynders joined with the Springfield, Mass. Symphony Orchestra in the world premiere performance of "The Merry Pranks of Till Eulenspiegel" miming the part of Till.

Mr. Reynders was featured in "An Essay on Doors" on the CBS-TV series, "One of a Kind" in the spring of 1964.

His visit to High Point will also include a two hour workshop on the techniques of mime and mime improvisations beginning at 3 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium for the benefit of the acting class.

New York Editor James Reston Denounces Student Demonstrations Against Viet Nam Policy At Reviews

"Further student demonstrations against United States Viet Nam policy can only have harmful effects," James Reston, associate editor of "The New York Times," told the 18th annual Town Meeting on Books held October 19 at Greensboro College, and attended by members of the High Point College faculty and students.

Mr. Reston, who recently returned from a fact-finding trip to South Viet Nam, also said that Ho Chi Minh, leader of communist North Viet Nam, feels that eventual national disunity over the Viet Nam problem will force the United States to withdraw in defeat as it helped defeat the French in the Indochina War during 1954.

Besides commenting on the international political situation, Mr. Reston reviewed the book "Kennedy" by Theodore Sorensen as part of the Historical Book Club of North Carolina program.

Joining Mr. Reston on the panel of critics were Miss Margaret Cousins, author and short story writer as well as senior editor for Doubleday, and Prof. Walter Spearman, of the School of Journalism at the University of North Carolina and a professional reviewer of books. Both Miss Cousins and Mr. Spearman reviewed a variety of current books.

Large delegations from Depts. of History and English attended.

PUC Sponsors Overseas Study-Travel Program

Overseas summer study is now included in a travel program being sponsored by the Piedmont University Center of North Carolina.

Educational studies and travel are combined to give the program a double purpose. Historical places of interest will be toured.

The program will last for eight weeks. The first four weeks will be spent at either the University of Burgos in France or at the University of Dijon in Spain. During this time, students will engage in formal study. The last four weeks of the program will be spent sight-seeing.

Students leave for Spain June

3 and return August 8, or for France June 20 and return August 15.

Eligibility requirements include completion of an intermediate year of language of country to be visited and a cumulative quality point average of 1.4.

An application should be submitted to Piedmont University Center not later than Dec. 15. A minimum of 25 students are allowed for both countries. Up to six hours credit will be given in either French or Spanish.

Persons interested should contact either Dean David W. Cole or Dr. Arthur E. LeVey for applications.

Many Keep Diaries

by Mary Whitman

Keeping a diary is far from a lost art today.

Usually a diary is begun during school years. But many prominent men and women—statesmen, social leaders, authors and others—like to pin down the day's events for pleasure or posterity.

Students Read Pepys Diary

Even the ancient Romans kept diaries. In 17th century England, the diary became a polished literary form. Perhaps the most famous is that of Samuel Pepys, begun on Jan. 1, 1660, and still read by school-goers today. Jonathan Swift kept a diary in 1710, while James Boswell had one published in 1785.

Queen Victoria kept a diary, as well as Sir Walter Scott, Lewis Carroll, and Charles Darwin. The custom was carried to America where Ralph Waldo Emerson kept journals that were more useful as author's notes than as records of any particular day.

Clergymen, diplomats, actresses, and travel writers have all found it fascinating to keep notes on the world around them. Some famous diaries have been solemn, some witty, some dramatic, and some staid. But all bring back to us a sense of kinship with days gone by.

Although people usually prefer one-year diaries, a whole group of these could be bound together as a heritage for later years.

Families Cherish War Diaries

Many families cherish Civil War diaries, or even routine household records jotted down in the 1900's. We all live in historic times. Today we can casually write down news of space flights along with what we did at school or work or play.

Now comes a word of advice. Never read another person's diary—unless it's published or inherited. It's not only unethical; it may be unsettling. Some diaries rely on fact; some are purely fanciful. If a diary is to be taken seriously, time will tell—preferably a hundred years or so.

Meredith Enrolls At Columbia Law School

Collegiate Press service — James Meredith, whose enrollment at the University of Mississippi three years ago set off long, bloody rioting, has enrolled at the Columbia University Law School.

Meredith, 32, registered at Columbia on a $2,000 scholarship he had received from the university.

He told a news conference that he didn't expect to have much time for civil rights activities because of the heavy load of classes he was taking.

Roma Villa

Italian American Food
Sandwiches of all Kinds
Pizza, Spaghetti

Phone Take-out Order
883-7219

Carmelo Matino, owner

Compliments of

FAIR LANES
COLLEGE VILLAGE

HPC Is Miracle

(Continued from Page 1)

In an atmosphere sprinkled with golden chrysanthemums, Miss Golden Decade Contestants, and the golden voices of the HPC, Concert Choir, directed by Mr. Charles Lynan of the fine arts department, 300 guests were caught up by the dynamic momentum of the decade movement.

"The first three years we propose a $2,000,000 campaign," stated Bill Henderson, president of Bennett Advertising and director and chairman of the campaign.

Already the trustees have raised $260,000 of their $300,000 goal, and the faculty pledges total 100 percent.

Last week a donor from High Point contributed a $100,000 gift toward the proposed $260,000 chapel. "This will definitely be the number two project," stated Henderson.

"Make no little plays; they have no magic to stir men's hearts," pronounced Lawson Allen, director of public affairs, HPC, as the excitement and inspiration of the group mounted.

And High Point College is making no little play. High Point College is leading the list of small colleges in the South in its endeavor to stamp out mediocrity, to uphold quality.

"Two years ago," Wendell M. Patton, president of the college, told the guests, "HPC could no longer accept the mediocrity of her status; she desired to do something about it." And She did.

Two years ago a ten-year long range plan began to be formulated. Students, faculty, administration, trustees and alumni served on a committee which examined the philosophy and objectives of the college.

The committee, after extensive research and planning, resolved a ten year plan with a $28,000,000 budget.

Several months of further re-examination and compromise revealed a ten year, $10,000,000 budget plan.

The plan is unique in that review each year will always enable it to predict the succeeding ten years. Furthermore, each year of evaluation will enable a more precise working plan for the future.

ROSAINE'S

127 South Main Street, High Point, N. C.

English Club Sells Tickets For Film Enrichment Series

Jan Samet, president of the English Club announces that club members will be selling membership cards for the world film enrichment series until Nov. 1.

Seven great plays and novels converted to motion picture entertainment will be shown.

Robert Taylor will star in Knights of the Round Table Nov. 3.

Orson Wells and Joseph Cotton entertain in the Dec. 1, film, Citizen Kane.

Frank Capra's mystery comedy, Arsenic and Old Lace will be presented Jan. 12.

Good Earth, a conversion of Pearl S. Buck's novel will star Paul Muni and Luise Rainer Feb. 2.

The following months will feature Don Quixote in color, Grapes of Wrath starring Henry Fonda, and Pride and Prejudice starring Laurence Oliver and Greer Garson.

The enrichment series is sponsored by the Center Theatre of High Point.

School To Administer Graduate Examinations

Graduate Record examinations will be given December 3-4 for all seniors who graduate in January, and on March 25-26, 1966 for seniors who will graduate in May or Aug.

These examinations are a graduation requirement according to Dean David W. Cole. Seniors may take the test on one of the two dates or make their own arrangements to take it at other locations.

Seniors who plan to apply for a fellowship or a scholarship in graduate school should apply by Feb. 1. Most schools request results from these tests before they will award grants; therefore any seniors planning on going to graduate school should take the examinations in December.

Seniors are asked to come by the Dean's Office to make known the time they will take the test.

Committee Selects Science Foundation Fellowship Candidates

The National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council has been called upon again to advise the National Science Foundation in the selection of candidates for the Foundation's program of graduate and regular postdoctoral fellowships. Committees of outstanding scientists appointed by the Academy-Research Council will evaluate applications of all candidates. Final selection will be made by the Foundation, with awards to be announced on March 15, 1966.

Fellowships will be awarded for study in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological and engineering sciences; also in anthropology, economics (excluding business administration), geography, the history and philosophy of science, linguistics, political science, psychology (excluding clinical psychology), and sociology (not including social work). They are open to college seniors, graduate students working toward a degree, postdoctoral students, and others with equivalent training and experience. All applicants must be citizens of the United States and will be judged solely on the basis of ability.

Applicants for the graduate awards will be required to take the Graduate Record Examinations designed to test scientific aptitude and achievement. The examinations, administered by the Educational Testing Service, will be given on January 15, 1966, at designated centers throughout the United States and certain foreign countries.

The annual stipends for graduate Fellows are as follows: $2400 for the first level; $2600 for the intermediate level; and $2800 for the terminal level. The annual stipend for postdoctoral Fellows is $5500. Limited allowances will also be provided to apply toward tuition, laboratory fees, and travel.

Further information and application materials may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences-Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C. 20418. The deadline for the receipt of applications for graduate fellowships is December 10, 1965, and for regular postdoctoral fellowships, December 13, 1965.

Furniture Market Unveils Newest Furniture Lines

Newest lines in furniture were unveiled for the first time to furniture buyers Oct. 18 at the High Point Fall Furniture Market.

The fall furniture market was attended by 85 per cent of the furniture buying power of the nation.

All premarket indications pointed to an even greater year for the furniture industry with a large backlog of orders plus a rise in sales and shipments.

According to Mr. E. P. Scott, a furniture buyer who has attended the furniture market for twelve years, the furniture line looks strong this year and shows no sign of weakening because people are building larger and more expensive homes and must have the furniture that corresponds in design and expensive looks.

Thrills - Chills - Spills

MODEL RACEWAYS

OF HIGH POINT

at Five Points

Patronize

Your College

Bookstore

A Home

Away From Home

Wilson Attends Chemistry Convention

Approximately 13,000 members of the American Chemical society, including Dr. D. L. Wilson, professor of chemistry and physics, attended the annual convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey, during the second week of Sept.

One of Dr. Wilson's long-time associates, Sr. Christopher Ingold, British physical-organic chemist, was presented an award for "outstanding contributions to the field of physical organic chemistry" by the society.

Dr. Wilson has helped Sr. Ingold with approximately 32 of his 400 research papers.

According to Dr. Wilson, the real value of the annual convention is that it gives members the opportunity to meet other chemists from all over the world, as well as to hear their latest research papers.

Class to Visit Mount Gilead

The Indian mounds near Mount Gilead will be visited by the anthropology class in Nov. at a date to be announced.

Dr. Leopold Hays said that the regularly scheduled field trip is a "valuable contribution to the class," as the Indian Mounds show an inearthed and carefully reproduced civilization.

"They are unique in that they reveal the way of life of some of the first Indians to settle in the United States," Dr. Hays further explained.

Students Begin Parallel Reading

Mrs. Mary Ann Calloway, instructor in the history department, has begun a "concentrated program" of parallel reading in her American history classes.

In this new program, students are assigned a minimum of 250 pages a week of parallel reading selected from an assortment of books held on reserve in the library.

Mrs. Calloway says that the purpose of this program, "Is to broaden the outlook of the student and enable him to better understand American history."

Boys Enroll in Home Economics

Home Economics, usually considered a course for "young ladies," now has as many boys as girls in many of the classes. A course such as house planning and interior design is equally necessary for both sexes, according to Mrs. Kathryn Ring, assistant professor of applied arts.

This class will tour the furniture market when it comes to High Point this month. They will see various furniture designs and house interiors. Although the furniture market is only open to retail buyers and sellers, the class will receive special passes for the entire day.

"They will also tour various furniture factories, this semester, and see furniture in the making," Mrs. Ring explained.

Ceremony Begins Building Expansion

In a simple groundbreaking ceremony Oct. 18, the Southern Furniture Exposition Building began its newest expansion to make it one of the largest furniture display buildings in the United States.

Officials of the city, county, Chamber of Commerce, furniture industry, and the Southern Furniture Exposition Building joined in the brief ceremonies.

The Southern Exposition Building started as a small regional market back in 1921 and has expanded to 28 acres with the new addition that will be built.

The new addition will add 340,000 square feet to the present building at a cost of approximately 3.25 million dollars.

William F. Freeman, Inc. is the architect.

School Leases 'Magic Block'

The "Magic Block," brought last year by the school for $250,000, will be leased to Sears-Roebuck and Co.

Tentative plans for the building call for 50,000 sq. ft. of sale space and 30,000 sq. ft. of storage space.

The amount of rent payment will be based upon a percentage of the sales made by the store.

The Men's Den

Distinctive Clothing For The Gentleman And His Lady

BIG MAN ON CAMPUS

with our textural weaves in suits, sportcoats and slacks you can rise to the BMOC. By the way, the flat look is out, so think textured.

State Talent Show Is Rated As Best Yet

By Pat Whitlow

A fair section of North Carolina was represented Oct. 23 as the 10th annual Tar Heel Talent Contest was reeled off at Memorial Auditorium.

A total of 22 acts was presented to an appreciative, if small, audience. Like cheese, the talent contest appears to improve with age. The 10th one was the best yet, according to comments from several who witnessed the variety show.

The four winners were: Michelle McDade, 17, of Lexington, who sang "Young and Warm and Wonderful"; Julie Harper, 18, of Charlotte, who presented a series of numbers from "My Fair Lady"; Juanita Elaine Hines, 19, of Statesville, pantomimist and dancer; and Evander Gilmer Jr., 22, of Greensboro, who sang "Climb Every Mountain."

Each was the recipient of a $50 savings bond, presented by Mrs. Ed Kemp, president of the sponsoring High Point Woman's Club.

The panel of judges consisted of Dr. Sam Underwood, Mrs. John Tuele, Mrs. Frederick Dodge, Mr. Barry Ruth, and Mr. Ray Hollingsworth.

Music for the contest was by the Five Naturals, Dave Carter, Ray B. Wesson, Charles Jones, Nick Ghezzi, Joe Watkins, and Paul Rainey.

—Staff photo by Charlie So.

As part of their pre-season training, these cagers have taken up brick-carrying to improve their rebounding.

Quinn Lays Solid Team Foundation With Bricks

If you have been in the area of the gymnasium lately, you probably saw a group of lanky boys running around with bricks in their hands. Who were they and what were they doing? An easy investigation proved them to be the 1965 edition of the Purple Panthers.

But why bricks? The bricks represent, according to Coach Thomas Quinn, an exercise to increase the strength of the forearm and upper arm portions of the limbs. This running with bricks is necessary to increase the rebounding strength of the mighty Panthers.

High Point College has one of the best pre-season training programs in the nation. Its organizer, Coach Quinn, has lectured on it on several different occasions to other institutions. The program is divided into four parts including a weight program, exercises, isometrics, and a running program.

The weight program consists of alternate presses, squats, dead lifts, curls, and raises. Each weight exercise has a specific duty in mind. For example the squats with weights strengthen the thighs.

The next program contains the natural exercises, such as push ups, sit ups, toe touch, and jumping rope.

What are isometrics? They are exercises which measure up the strength of the neck movements, upper body, arms and chest and the abdomen.

The last program is probably the hardest to some of the players. It is the gentle art of running. Running is running but Coach Quinn sees running in several different lights. First a cross country course is decided and then a series of sprints, bleacher running, and timings of 100, 440 and ½ mile run are taken. This completes the pre-season training in brief.

Parts of this program are carried out along with basketball training daily for 2½ to 3 hours six days a week. Anyone for training to be a basketball player?

Girls Interscholastic Hockey

Team Ties First Game With UNC-G; Hosts UNC-G, Catawba Next Week

At 4 p.m., Oct. 26 H.P.C.'s girls field hockey team clashed their sticks with those of U.N.C.-G. This was the first game of the season, and it ended in a tie score of 1 to 1.

U.N.C.-G.'s team, coached by a former member of the Scottish touring hockey team, Miss Richardson, controlled the ball for the most part during the first 20 minute half.

Although they scored once during this half, our halfbacks, fullbacks, and goalie demonstrated their ability to defend our goal. It wasn't until the second half that the offensive team began playing together and scored.

Our team traveled to Salisbury this Thursday to meet the Catawba team.

Although Catawba defeated U.N.C.-G. with a score of 3 to 1 last week, our coach, Miss Clary, feels that we have the ability to win this game. She is confident that we have a very strong defensive team, and our offensive team is improving rapidly.

Next week, the team will play host to U.N.C.-G. and Catawba. Considering the great interest in this new game, it is expected that many will come out and support our team.

The members of the team are: Center forward, Pat Coffey; Right inner, Kaye Moody; Right wing, Judy Armington; Left inner, Martha Simmons; Left wing, Wanda Howlett and Carolyn Burns.

Right halfback, Mickey Tuttle; Center halfback, Bev Moody and Sue Keiger; Left halfback, Nancy Fallon; Right fullback, Dede Tolsen; Left fullback, Jane Milner and Lesley McCall; and Goalie, Lorraine Reidda.

WAA Attends N.C. Conference

Five members of the Woman's Athletic Association and their advisor, Miss Betty Jo Clary, left early this morning for Western Carolina for the North Carolina Athletic and Recreation Federation for College Women meeting. They arrived early this afternoon and will attend meetings today and tomorrow.

The theme for this year's convention is interscholastic competition.

Members from most of the colleges in North Carolina will be divided into discussion groups according to their college's location.

These groups will discuss the problems of having an interscholastic program in their schools and will try to present some solutions to these problems.

Intramurals

Hot Dogs Battle Theta Chis For Football Crown

Theta Chi and the Hot Dogs have so far this season remained unbeaten with records of 4-0 and 2-0 respectively.

First place will be determined Nov. 2 when Theta Chi and the Hot Dogs meet in the final game of the season.

Fraternities Tie For Second

Pi Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Phi fraternities are tied for second place after battling to a 6-6 tie. Both have records of 1-1-1.

The Montlieu Jets and Wooly Bullies have yet to win a game and are deadlocked for last place.

Theta Chi defeated Delta Sigma Phi 6-0, Pi Kappa Alpha 26-0, Wooly Bullies 20-7, and the Montlieu Jets 6-0.

The Hot Dogs defeated Delta Sigma Phi 19-0 and the Wooly Bullies 15-0.

Pi Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Phi both defeated the Montlieu Jets with scores of 20-0 and 7-6 respectively.

Track and Volleyball Begin

The intramural track meet will be on or about Nov. 1.

Volleyball intramurals are scheduled to begin about Nov. 5.

College Purposes '66-67 Calendar

A new calendar has been proposed for the academic year 1966-67. This calendar will give students the opportunity to take exams prior to Christmas holidays.

The tentative first semester schedule is:

Friday, Aug. 26 — Faculty report; Sunday, Aug. 28 — Freshmen report; Wednesday, Aug. 31 — Registration, upperclassmen; Thursday, Sept. 1 — Registration, Freshmen; Friday, Sept. 2 — Classes begin; Wednesday, Nov. 23, 5:00 p.m. — Thanksgiving holidays; Monday, Nov. 28, 8:20 a.m. — Thanksgiving holidays end; Tuesday, Dec. 13 — Last day of first semester classes; Wednesday, Dec. 14 — First semester exams begin; Wednesday, Dec. 21, 5:00 p.m. — First semester exams end.

This schedule provides for 43 MWF classes and 42 TThS classes, including the final examination time of three hours for each class.

MITCHELL'S ESSO SERVICE

"We Are Happy To Serve You"

1100 E. Lexington Ave.
High Point, N. C.
Phone 888-5966

The Rathskellar
Serving the Finest Pizza
and the Coldest Beverage
in High Point.
Meet Your Friends
at the "Rat"!

—Staff photo by Charlie So.

Pictured left to right — Top row: Barbara Peterson, Dianne Holt, Julie DeGooyer, (chief), Susan Folkes, Bobbi Taylor, Bottom row — Linda Cox, Diane Abbott, Diana Ferran, Tamara Kearns, and Gail Whittemore.

Sore Muscles Yield Three New Cheerleaders, Two Alternates

Sore, aching muscles can best describe the results of three hard weeks of cheerleading try-outs.

The final try-outs were Oct. 19 in the Student center. Dr. and Mrs. Mounts assisted the cheerleaders in judging the 16 girls trying out. All admitted difficulty in picking only five girls from such an outstanding group.

The new cheerleaders are: Diana Ferran, a sophomore from Eustis, Fla.; Susan Fowlkes, a freshman from Pompano Beach, Fla.; and Tamara Kearns, a junior from Lexington, N. C.

First alternate is Barbara Peterson, a freshman from Fuquay Springs, N. C. Linda Cox, a freshman from Eugene, Ore., is second alternate.

Cindermen Take First Two Meets

H.P.C. Cindermen have won their first two meets.

In the first meet against Methodist college the Panthers won 32-23.

Methodist put in the best time of 22:19.

Grif Balthis ran the four mile course in 23:50 to capture third place. Capturing fourth, fifth, and sixth places for High Point were: Doug Fryer, Larry Neal, and Walter Gregg.

Our second meet against St. Andrews was a 79-52 victory for High Point. Once again the opposition turned in the best time of 21:42. Doug Fryer had High Point's best time of 23:51.

But be sure each blouse is identified with the label. Then you know you have the real McMullen... with meticulous tailoring, long-lived fabric, fresh exclusive prints.

The outstanding in look blouses 829 all around the world.

Collier Ellis
AND COMPANY

ZTA, AGD Share Crown

A championship game between the Zeta Tau Alpha's and the Alpha Gamm's was the climax of this year's field hockey intramurals.

Both teams battled stick against stick for the two 15 minute halves while the score remained 0-0.

As a result, two trophies will be given to the two co-champs, Zeta Tau Alpha and Alpha Gamma Delta.

In other games the previous week, the Kappa Deltas defeated the independant team and the Alpha Gamm's defeated the Phi Mu's with a score of 1-0.

Golden Decade Drive Begins

By DAVE GILBERT

Golden Decade solicitations get into full swing when the kick-off luncheons of each division in the High Point area are given this month.

Faculty and administrations solicitations have been completed with 100 per cent participation. Staff solicitations also have been completed with 50 per cent participation.

Organizations Compete

The kick-off for student solicitations was Nov. 10 with different groups and organizations on campus competing against one another.

"My feeling is that the students are ready to get hold of this thing. It's not the money but the participation and support that will be important," said Mr.

Lawson Allen, Development Director, in an interview.

The campaign is divided into different divisions according to the evaluation of the prospects. Pace-Setters, $10,000 and up; Leadership, $1,000 to $10,000; General, $100 to $1,000; Wills and Bequests; and Family are the five main divisions.

The Family division includes students, alumni, faculty, administration, Board of Trustees and anyone directly associated with the school.

Ceremonies Begin Nov. 7

Kick-off ceremonies for the Pace-Setters division were Nov. 7. The Leadership division began solicitations Nov. 10.

At least six major buildings will be built with three million dollars of the money that is raised.

The new science building will be the first building of the Golden Decade to be erected. A religious center is second on the list of projects.

According to Mr. Allen, the religious center will provide a worshipful atmosphere on campus. A memorial gift of $100,000 has already been contributed to the religious center.

Plans Call for Chapel

Tentative plans call for a chapel with a seating capacity of 250. Religion and philosophy departments will be located there along with classrooms, Seminar rooms, the Chaplain's office, and other related offices.

The site for the religious center hasn't been decided upon as yet. The corner of Montlieu and East College Drive, the present site of Harrison Hall, and the area in front of the present science building all have been proposed as sites.

Proposed Chapel

The Hi-Point

Volume XXXV, Number 4

High Point College, High Point, North Carolina

November 12, 1965

Scheduled for Nov. 14-20

College to Present Second Annual Fine Arts Festival

By BILL BIGHAM

The second annual Fine Arts Festival of High Point College will be Nov. 14-20. The Festival is on campus to encourage participation in the field of fine arts.

Members of the faculty and the administration are responsible for the planning and executing of this event. The principle idea behind it is the presentation of creative work.

Festival Features Opera

The first festival, given last year, featured an original opera by Dr. Lew Lewis, head of the fine arts department. The program for this year's festival features many fine attractions for the students and faculty.

Beginning Nov. 14, the festival will have programs in all fields of Fine Arts according to Dr. Lewis.

At 7:30 p.m. Sunday, two films will be shown in Memorial Auditorium. "The Magician," directed by the internationally famous Ingmar Bergman, will be the main feature. This film has been called one of the truly great art movies of the century.

Film Highlights Sketches

Also to be shown is "When Comedy Was King." This film is a group of selected short sketches from some of the early movies.

Starring in some of the scenes are such great comedy actors as: Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Ben Turpin, Mabel Normand, and Gloria Swanson.

The Opera Workshop of UNC-G will present the program Monday. At 10:20 a.m. the group will give excerpts from "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini, and "The Medium" by Menotti.

The workshop is directed by Paul Hickfang whom many of the HPC students will remember from the opera last year.

Members of the workshop cast include Mr. Charles Lynam and Mrs. Frances Redding, both members of the HPC faculty. This presentation is free and open to the public.

Trio To Perform

Wednesday's assembly program will have The University String Trio from UNC-G. This trio is a group that is fast gaining wide recognition for its musical accomplishments in the state of North Carolina. The program will include Beethoven's Trio in E flat Major Opus 1, No. 1; and Schumann's Trio No. 3 in G Minor, Opus 110.

—Staff Photo by Charlie So.

Co-ordinates of the fine arts festival (left to right) Dr. Lewis, head of fine arts, Mr. Raiford Porter, art professor, and Mr. Don Drapeau, director of "The Way of the World", discuss musical arrangements for the program.

Members of the trio include William Hillbrink, violin; Arthur Hunkins, viola; and George Kiorpes, piano.

The drama department will close the week of fine arts with "The Way of the World" by William Congreve. This English Restoration comedy has been in rehearsal since casting was completed on Oct. 12. The play is a satire on the ladies and gentlemen of the English Court.

The Tower Players of HPC have never tried before this year (Continued on Page 6)

High Point Students Will Visit UNC

Modern poetry students will attend a lecture at Greensboro College Nov. 16 and plays at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill No. 18, department head Dr. Sam J. Underwood announced.

Dr. Benjamin H. Wilson, Jr., chairman of the English department at GC and teacher of modern poetry, will lecture on the meanings of the modern trends in poetry.

"The value of this visit," said Underwood, "is to see what other institutions do with the same course."

Three poetic plays by William Butler Yeats, "Calvary," "Purgatory," and "Resurrection" will be presented at Duke as part of the Centennial Celebration of that writer's birth.

Sponsored by the Cooperative Program in the Humanities, this centennial program of a poet "is one of the most significant cultural events of the season in North Carolina," Underwood said.

The Cooperative Program was established by Duke University and UNC-CH for the purpose of the advancement of humanistic learning in the South.

The program is supported in part by funds given by the Ford Foundation.

MSM Plans Discussion

The Ecumenical movement will be the topic of discussion of the Methodist Student Fellowship Nov. 14 in the student center at 6:15 p.m.

Fred Macon, who recently had experience with the non-denominational Christian church of India, will be the guest speaker.

Mr. Macon will discuss the background of the movement and pros and cons towards one united Christian church.

Roman Catholics and all Protestant denominations will be invited to participate in the program.

Eleven Will Compete For Title of Miss Golden Decade Dec. 3

The Miss Golden Decade pageant will be Dec. 3, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

The purpose of this contest is two-fold. First, to take the place of the Miss High Point College pageant, and secondly, to select the girl best qualified to represent High Point College in the Golden Decade project.

Capps to Emcee

Emceeding will be Mr. Jimmy Capps, a professional emcee and radio announcer.

The title "Golden Age" has been selected as the theme for the pageant.

The contestants will be judged in three categories: street clothes, talent, and evening gowns.

Representing the sororities are: senior Omegia Waldrep, Kappa Delta; sophomore Emilie Pickett, Alpha Gamma Delta; sophomore Joan Warren, Zeta Tau Alpha; and junior Judy Stone, Phi Mu.

Delta Sigs Choose Freshman

Delta Sigma Phi has chosen freshman Claudia Babb as their representative and Theta Chi will have Jan Morris representing them.

Pi Kappa Alpha has selected sophomore Dianne Holt and Lambda Chi Alpha has chosen sophomore Anne Greco.

Margaret Brookbank is representing the freshmen class; Bev Albright, sophomore representative; and Sherry Snow, junior class.

Omegia Walrep, from Shelby, plans to sing "House of the Rising Sun." She will be accompanied by Rich Wagoner and Dick Noble.

Emilie To Sing

Emilie Pickett, from Denton, will sing and will be accompanied by Sandy Richie.

Claudia Babb has chosen a skit entitled "Honeybun" from "South Pacific." Claudia is from Suffield, Conn.

Anne Greco, Dianne Holt, Jan Morris, and Joan Warren will dance as their talent.

Sherry To Read "Medea"

Sherry Snow, from Winston-Salem, has selected a dramatic reading from a Greek tragedy called "Medea."

Margaret Brookbank will sing "One Kiss" from "New Moon."

When asked about reactions to being a contestant, the common reply was that they were very excited and proud to be representing the individual groups.

Judy Speaks of Responsibility

When Judy Stone was asked to imagine how she would feel if she were Miss Golden Decade for 1965-66, she answered, "If I won, I would be very thrilled of course, but also I would feel the responsibility as well as the honor that is connected with the duties of Miss Golden Decade."

Ann Mackie, Donna Suhadolc and Mr. Dale Brown have helped to organize this project.

—Photo by HPC News Bureau.

Miss Golden Decade contestants left to right: (back row) Bev Albright, sophomore class; Dianne Holt, Pi Kappa Alpha; Claudia Babb, Delta Sigma Phi; Omegia Waldrep, Kappa Delta; Judy Stone, Phi Mu; Emilie Pickett, Alpha Gamma Delta; (front row) Anne Greco, Lambda Chi Alpha; Sherry Snow, junior class; Joan Warren, Zeta Tau Alpha; Jan Morris, Theta Chi; and Margaret Brookbank, freshman class.

Campus Viewpoint...

ARE SPEAKERS SLIGHTED?

Several weeks ago, a very prominent gentleman traveled from Princeton University to speak to the students of High Point College about Robert Frost.

Unfortunately, the gentleman, Dr. Lawrence Thompson, the official Frost biographer, got very little response from the student body.

Only a handful of people showed up, and at least half of these were professors or administration members.

Whether Dr. Thompson, who, by the way, delivered a most interesting discussion of his personal association with Frost, felt slighted because no larger audience attended, I can not say.

Perhaps he expected no larger turnout from a small college, especially since attendance was not required. However, he, and all others visiting lecturers of his calibre do, without question, deserve the consideration of a supposedly well-rounded student body.

Furthermore, how can we as a student body demand the right to abolish required assembly attendance if we are not even responsible enough to support an occasional speaker at a non-required performance.

FIRST COME, FIRST SERVE?

Perhaps the most frustrating aspect of college life, or life anywhere for that matter, is having to wait to be served a meal.

Diners in restaurants will get up and walk out if they are not waited on and served with efficiency. Husbands will raise "cain" with the poor helpless housewife who hasn't his meal prepared on time. But college students must stand in line and wait their turn for meal service.

Understandable! Especially when there are 4-500 students who must be served three meals a day. Most students have accepted the fact that "first come, first serve" is the unwritten law of the Harrison Hall dilemma.

However, there are some expediant members of the student body who have no respect for their fellow diners. If they happen to feel just a wee bit "empty", they lose no time in sighting a mutual acquaintance at the head of the line and edging their way ahead of 50 other similarly starving persons.

Getting at the head of the line is okay if students have classes or some similarly good excuse. Others are understanding in this respect. But if more and more collegians continue to disregard the rights of the group, even the minority must suffer.

THE HI-PO STATES POLICY

THE HI-PO is aware that many of her readers would like to be "in-the-know" concerning her editorial policies.

Basically, these policies may be summarized in one phrase, "complete freedom of opinion within the limits of good taste."

This means that all gripes must be based on legitimate grounds, and must be both rational and free of personal attack.

Monitor...

Frustration, Failure, Folly Generate College Drop Outs

By GEORGE ROYCROFT

Greg stands before an open suitcase and boxes, trying to find space for the clothes, books, and mementos. He turns, and glances around the dorm room - a sanctum where aspirations, frustrations, successes, and failures have all been felt.

This place will no longer be his; he is leaving college.

This situation is repeated many more times than we care to think about, for six of every ten students who enter college leave before graduation, and most of them by the end of the sophomore year.

No one can effectively predict who will drop out of college, and no one as yet has been able to give an easy summary of all the reasons.

The most obvious reason of course for the college dropout is simple: they fail. This is particularly the case at the state universities which are bound by law to admit all students who have earned a high school diploma.

In these schools, the common practice is "selection after admission." In most state universities a large percentage of the freshman class will flunk out before the end of the first year.

Even at High Point College from the freshman class of about 400 which entered in the fall of 1961, only about 190 were left to graduate four years later.

What were the reasons that some of these people failed? They had been selected by a skilled admissions office as having exemplified college abilities.

In actuality, however, some were unable to do college work.

There were others who could, but wouldn't, or didn't want to. Even in high selective schools such as Harvard it is the bright student who drops out because it is only the bright who get in.

Students faced by the overwhelming college environment and responsibility begin to question and hide the answers behind a facade of rationalizations.

Finding no concrete answers to "What does it all mean?" and "What is the use of it all?" they drop out of school thinking that the world of work will offer the solutions.

And behind each of these "escapists" there is an unresolved emotional problem - the inability to cope with the situation.

Other reasons for the college drop out are existant. Sometimes the reason may be the frustrated romance which has seemingly ended all purpose for the rejected suitor.

The institutions are also responsible in some cases. College students complain that college teaching is bad. They are unwilling to endure the dissatisfaction and thus convince themselves that they can just as well "educate" themselves on their own.

Transfer students account for about twenty per cent of the nation's drop outs. Discounting the junior college transfers, the reasons for the leaving of one college to go to another institution is more often emotional than any other.

Many leave college because they had no particular personal reason for going in the first place or for choosing the college they chose. Often it was the decision of some anxious parent who felt junior would be more successful if he had a diploma.

(Then again,) marriage is another reason college students drop out. It is to be questioned, however, whether they "dropped out of college to get married," or if they "dropped out and got married."

Some suggest that those who don't stay are immature. This then implies that those who do remain are more mature which isn't necessarily true. There are all sorts of maturity and college is only one place where people grow up.

Greg stands there looking for the last time at the room he had gotten to know so well. There had been some good in the most trying of the experiences and a little to be regretted in the best of them.

As he went back to his packing he remarked, "It's sort of like taking down a Christmas tree."

JVDHZDX

Add Your 'Two Cents'!

By TILLIE CLARK

Operation Golden Decade - a program initiated by adults, designed by adults, and conducted by adults for the most part. Some of the students have worked for the advertising company handling the publicity for the Operation, but this is merely token participation.

Actually, because of the great lack of detailed information the students have, there is very little we have been able to do.

There are at least two ways, however, in which the student body can help. The first is by support of the Miss Golden Decade Pageant. Miss Ann Mackie, chairman of the committee handling this monumental task, is doing a superb job of organizing and directing the pageant.

We ask that the student body help with this pageant by attending it en masse. With eleven contestants such as we have, that shouldn't be asking too much.

The second way of helping is concerned with the actual building plans of the buildings - the Student Center in particular. The administrators would like, indeed need to know, what the students think should be included in this building.

A billard table has been suggested by one student. Perhaps there are suggestions about types of rooms to be included such as a study room.

All of these suggestions and ideas should be brought to the attention of someone who is able to do something about them. The ideas may be given to anyone in the student government association, in legislature, or a class officer. These will then be given to someone of authority.

As a student body, these are two ways by which we can add our "two cents" to the Golden Decade program.

GOLDMAN WRITES SHOCKER

This is Mr. Goldman's fourth book and his most ambitious one to date.

In his previous works - "Soldier in the Rain", "Your Turn to Curtsy, My Turn to Bow", and "The Temple of Gold" - he showed considerable promise in characterization. This promise is, to great extent, fulfilled in his latest novel.

The characters in "Boys and Girls Together" are nothing short of superb, particularly the characters of Rudy and Old Turk.

Goldman captures the essence of the love between a boy and his grandfather in his magnificent scenes between these two characters. Rudy, alone and rejected by his parents, and Old Turk, alone and rejected because of his age, compliment one another as few characters in popular modern literature do.

Goldman soars to his heights in his discussion of these two outcasts.

His other characters are not to be passed off lightly either. Each one is meticulously developed.

Goldman handles each with an almost psychoanalytic accuracy, but he never allows this careful exposition of mind to get in the way of his constructing basically human and intensely real people. If anything is to be criticized, it is not the characters, but rather the plot. The author allows himself to fall into that tired old formula - sensationalism.

It seems these days that the only way to write a best-selling novel is to shock the pants off Aunt Tillie, and this Goldman tries to do. It is because of this that at times the plot breaks down and becomes tiresome.

All in all it's a book well worth reading, though. The characterization alone is well worth the ninety-five cents you will have to pay for it, and if you are willing to overlook the crass sensationalism, you may even find a few strains of unpremeditated art in the way he creates his characters.

Goldman is obviously one of the better novelists around today, and hopefully, we can look forward to more and better material from him in the future.

The Hi-PO

"VOICE OF THE STUDENTS"

The Official Newspaper of High Point College, High Point, N. C.
Published Bi-Monthly Except During Holiday Periods

Entered as third class matter on October 19, 1950, at the Post Office at High Point, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Subscription and Advertising Rates upon Request

Editor-in-Chief	Phyllis Foy
Associate Editor	Barbara O'Connor
Business Manager	Helen Wasileski
Advertising Manager	Joe McNulty
Solicitor	Meggs McClaine
News Editor	Dave Gilbert
Layout Editor	Nancy Taylor
Staff	Sandra Richie
Social Editors	Ann Greco, Jim Duggan
Sports Editors	Mac Hoyt, Judy Armington
Feature Editor	June Hill
Typist	Carol Resch
Copy Editor	Jane Wooldridge
Staff	Jeanne Klinefelter
Columnists	George Roycroft, Tillie Clark
Photographer	Charlie So
Cartoonist	Sandra Hutchins
Circulation Manager	Jean Allen
Faculty Adviser	Mr. Ira Baker
Reporters	Sharon Oliver, Carol Resch, Jud Richardson, Nancy Fallon, Pat Hedrick, and Jim Sloan.

gort

Youth Ponders Youth

By JUNE HILL

"Why is youth wasted on the young?" Early morning is a time of reflection, and as one sits, book in hand, supposedly cramming in the knowledge, the eyes stare off into space, and the mind wanders over the past (particularly the past day or so when the present studying should have been done—oh foolishness! But back to deeper thoughts.)

When I was in the fourth grade, I remember faithfully carrying home all my books every night and pouring over the basics of education—my arithmetic, spelling, and grammar.

I had books of all shapes and sizes, with beautiful big writing, and colorful pictures to enhance the reading. I was proud of my books and the tall stack they made on the table beside me.

And my parents were proud of me for all my diligence.

It wasn't until eighth grade, when my studying definitely declined, and I left most of my books in my locker, that my parents started in with those immortal words: "I walked six miles to school and back, through rain, snow, sleet, and hell when I was your age, and our books were heavier too!" (I suppose they had more words per square inch.)

In the ninth grade, I laid out the plans for my magnificent future—straight A's, the honor roll, scholarships, and Ivy League Colleges.

Two weeks into the term, I decided I'd settle for B's the scholastic roll, a few miscellaneous awards, and a college with a good name.

In my Junior year, when I looked back with bewilderment on my straight (almost) C's, the jelly roll, and absence of awards, I wondered if any college would take me.

I left all my books in my locker that year. The challenge lay in getting my homework done one class ahead of the class it was due in.

Needless to say, my parents had given up on me.

But I didn't consider myself a hopeless case. College was soon enough to turn over a new leaf. Once accepted, I would settle down to routine, responsibility, the rewards of true learning and true knowledge.

College would open the door to the real me—the stimulation would unearth hidden talents and I would acquire a new image, a new self.

I would care. I would study. I would learn.

Why am I sitting here, staring off into space at this ridiculous hour, supposedly cramming in the knowledge?

Administration Strives To Eradicate Doubts

By LINDA ROBERTS

It's not too unusual to hear grumbling comments about the value of our education here on campus. Many students, (who incidentally, will be the first to complain about heavy assignments), advocate that a High Point College diploma doesn't carry too much weight in the competitive "outside" world.

Our administrative officials are constantly working to erase these doubts from the minds of the students, and academic improvement is evident wherever you go.

A prime example of this was the installation of Kappa Mu Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi on this campus last May.

Kappa Delta Pi is a national honor society in the field of education. On our campus, individuals who are education majors, have at least a 2.0 average, and have exhibited a professional attitude enabling one to grow in the field are invited to membership.

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke stated that extensive processing over a number of years is necessary for a college to be awarded the honor of having a chapter of Kappa Delta Pi on its campus.

The national organization carefully screened every aspect of our institution and the education department before granting membership. The fact that only five other chapters exist in our state is worthy of noting.

This should dispell many of the doubts people have about the "quality" of our education.

Teddi Smith demonstrates perfect "tummy tucking" form. Teddi was in High Point representing Burris Chair Company during the fall furniture fair.

Luboff Choir To Sing In High Point, Nov. 18

The Community Concert Series of High Point will present the internationally famous Norman Luboff Choir in a concert, Nov. 18, at 8 p.m., at the High Point Central High School auditorium.

Students of HPC are admitted free to the concerts; however, due to limited space at the high school auditorium, it will be necessary for students to obtain tickets.

Tickets may be obtained from Don Drapeau, professor of speech and drama, in the Fine Arts building.

English Club Travels To Davidson College

Members of the English Club journeyed to Davidson College this week for the opening of their drama season, according to Jan Samet, president.

Presented was Lynn Rigg's American folk play, "Green Grow the Lilacs."

The play, with music, reflected life in the Oklahoma territory at the turn of the century.

Samet also reported that ticket sales for the "Enrichment Series" were a big success.

Tuck Tummy In

Bunny Gives Advice

By JOE McNULTY

"Stand up straight and hold in your tummy," is the advice given to the Miss Golden Decade candidates by Playboy bunny and playmate Teddi Smith.

Teddi, a 23-year-old blond who spends her time traveling for Playboy Magazine's college bureau, was in High Point to promote the Burris Chair Company's products during the recent Southern Furniture Market.

Before joining Playboy, Teddi was working in her hometown of Van Nuys, California as a model when a photographer sent a picture of her to Playboy. A short time later, Teddi had become a Playboy bunny and the July 1960 playmate.

Concerning her job as a bunny,

Teddi says that she enjoyed the work, but likes her present job much better because of its opportunities for travel.

Teddi commented that she has read the Playboy Philosophy, and respects Hugh Hefner for writing it although she doesn't agree with all of it. She also related that the upper-echelon Playboy employees are even more sophisticated and urbane than the magazine would suggest.

After nine days of signing autographs, making personal appearances, and talking to furniture buyers, playmate Teddi Smith headed toward New York City for the weekend before returning to her Chicago home.

Exchange Student Feels Very Close To The United States

By GENI KLINEFELTER

Which student on campus is famous for his unique ability to take a group photograph in which he also appears? Charlie So, one of our favorite exchange students of course.

In a recent interview, Charlie revealed that while he was born in Indonesia, he feels very close to the United States in many ways.

He attended an english speaking Methodist school in Medan, which is in North Sumatra, and there became interested in going to school in America.

A Methodist preacher, Reverend Stone, recommended several colleges here, and Charlie chose High Point. He arrived last year after a long, arduous airplane trip and immediately began his indoctrination in American life.

Charlie is not the first of the So family to come to the United States. He has two older sisters attending Bennett College on full scholarships in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Charlie spends his weekends and vacations with his American foster parents, the Reverend and Mrs. Worth Sweet here in High Point. However, this year he plans to spend his Thanksgiving vacation in Virginia at a convocation of the International Students Club, of which he is an active member.

When asked if he planned to visit home any time soon Charlie quipped, "I barely made it over here; I can't afford to get home for quite some time." Incidentally, Charlie has not seen his family in over three years.

Besides being a member of the International Students Club, Charlie belongs to the Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity and is an active member of The Hi-Po staff as a photographer.

In a discussion of Indonesia, Charlie stated that Sukarno had nationalized all the schools and that now English was only being taught as a short course.

Most English schools have been closed, including the one Charlie previously attended. This means that the younger generation will no longer have a chance to learn the English language.

Charlie finds America a wonderful place to be and plans to spend quite some time here.

Charlie So examines his work.

Faculty Wives Treat Hubbies To 'Pot Luck'

Centered around Autumn's vivid array of color with pumpkins and golden leaves representing the Thanksgiving tradition, the theme of this year's faculty dinner is Harvest Feast.

Faculty wives serving on the committee include Mrs. Charles Mounts, Mrs. Dale Brown, Mrs. Charles Clark, Mrs. David Cole, Mrs. William Cope, and Mrs. Don Drapeau.

Others include Mrs. Charles Lynam, Mrs. William Phillips, Mrs. Tom Quinn, Mrs. Allen Thacker, and Mrs. C. L. Wilson.

Following tradition the wives will prepare the banquet and decorations and the husbands will provide the entertainment.

A surprise for faculty husbands concerning the "lady of yesterday" and "the woman of the modern age" will also be presented.

The

Rathskeller

A Division of Castaways of Greensboro

Featuring:

THE JIMMY DAVIS TRIO

Every Monday Night

7:30 until 11:30

tradition
WITH taste

quiet, restrained stripings provide a fresh impetus to the renowned full-flared Purist® button-down — exclusively Sero of New Haven. Traditionally correct — a shirt of rare distinction — in fine-combed oxford and broadcloth stripes. Also available in an oxford of 65% Dacron® polyester, 35% combed cotton.

$5.95 to $8.95

Stith's

Dalbey Identifies Mystery Building

Replacing the college warehouse torn down last year to make way for the shopping center at Five Points, a new structure has been erected behind Yadkin Hall.

Storing choir raisers, platforms, extra furniture and desks, a tractor, and mowing equipment, the $11,500 building measures 30 x 100 ft.

College Business Manager Earle G. Dalbey commented that the warehouse cost $4 per square inch in contrast to $12 per square inch for Yadkin Hall and $25 per square inch for the new science building.

Authorized last year by the Board of Trustees, the location was chosen because the area was too low and too close to the steam plant to be suitable for any other purpose.

To improve the appearance of the area the white shack near the warehouse will be torn down.

North Carolina Fund Seeks Volunteers

Representatives from the N. C. Fund, a state-wide anti-poverty program, recently visited the office of Student Personnel.

The group is interested in finding volunteers on this campus to help in their program. Representatives would first have to contact local groups in town for support.

The Health, Education and Welfare department in High Point would have to be contacted to see what type of service is needed and how extensive the program would have to be.

The program would be designed to teach the underprivileged and expose them to some cultural development.

Dr. L. Thompson Tells Of His Friendship With Robert Frost

By PAT HARDISTER

Dr. Lawrence Thompson quipped "I have had more fun since I got here" than at any other college on the tour. He then proceeded to "take his hair down" and relate a series of accidents which led to his friendship with Robert Frost.

The first accident occurred during Dr. Thompson's second year at Wesleyan.

Frost Speaks at Wesleyan

Frost came to speak there and also held a small meeting that night. He charged a poem as admission.

Dr. Thompson said that although his poem was very bad, Frost saved him much embarrassment. He and three others were invited to dinner with Frost.

That night they talked at length and began their long friendship.

Accidents Strengthen Tie

There were two more accidents which strengthened the friendship between the two men.

The second of these ended with Dr. Thompson having the permission to do Frost's biography.

This started a long and intimate friendship between the two men.

In 1940, they went to Florida. While they were there, Frost's wife died. He never got over this.

War Interrupts Friendship

World War II interrupted their friendship for a while.

After it was over, Dr. Thompson returned to the States and started a search for Sabra Peabody.

She was Frost's childhood sweetheart. He said that he thought that puppylove was a very significant thing.

She was found living in Salem, Mass. Although her husband was dead, she said she was no longer interested in Frost.

There he found some notes written by Frost to Sabra. They were put in a safe, not to be published until after Frost's death.

Frost Finds Notes

Frost did not know that these were there and found them one day by accident.

Dr. Thompson thought that he was angry. He later found that Frost was not angry but deeply moved by the memories that the letters brought.

Dr. Thompson revealed that "Frost was so fascinated by his own life that he never tired of telling of it."

Poet Invents Myths

Frost told many myths of how he wished things had happened. It wasn't that Frost was a liar, he just changed a few things to make a story more interesting.

Dr. Thompson is still trying to track down some of Frost's adventures.

The Socialite

Rivieras To Entertain HPCers Nov. 13

By ANNE GRECO and JIM DUGGAN

Social life at High Point is swirling like the brightly colored leaves that blow in the brisk November wind. The S.G.A., in conjunction with the sophomore class will present a dance at the City Lake, Nov. 13.

Bob Myer and the Rivieras have been contracted to play from 8 p.m. till 12. No charge will be made, but ID cards must be presented at the door.

Since we hear the co-eds whispering about their plans to attend, we expect this to be one of the best dances of the year.

By the way, freshman, this will be the night after you loose the tug of war... so go to the dance and give your spirits a lift!

Halloween Carnival was the theme of the Delta Sig rush party. The Sensational Playboys, playing at the YWCA sounded more sensational than ever. The annual Green and White Dance, feting the new pledges was held Nov. 6.

Delta Sigs Sell Cards, Candy

Looking forward to Christmas? The Delta Sigs are spreading Christmas spirit by selling Christmas cards and candy which are reasonably priced and may be obtained from any Delta Sig brother or pledge.

Delta Sigs installed 27 new pledges: Larry Adams, Jim Allison, Reggie Allred, Steve Benson, Larry Boyles, Steve Breckheimer, Glenn Chorpeneing, Dave Collins, Jim Coston, Tom Crouch, Danny Culler, Jack Driscoll, and Dan Eisert.

Pledges F-W are: Larry Fagge, Doug Fryer, Joe Johnston, Jon Lyons, Bill McMillan, Bob Montgomery, Dave Phillips, Dave Schultz, Jim Scott, Richard Smith, Don Staley, George Vann, Butch Weleck, Benny Wood.

Pika's Pledge 14

Pika's congratulate their new pledges on their wise decision and welcome them into the brotherhood.

They are: Bill Novinger, Ken Jurney, Jack Stoddard, Alan Lord, Mike Key, Mike Milward, Rickie Steffen, John Williams, Virgil Reid, Andy Pell, Forrest Dover, Phil Lockman, Chuck Mershon, and Larry Thetford.

Nov. 5, the Pika's traveled to Farmer High School to play their annual game against brother Pat Hedrick's fine team.

Theta Chi proudly announces 15 new pledges: John Winters, Clifford Cox, David Anderson, Bill Stewart, Ted Renfro, Charles Rock, Bill Lagos, Ron Mann, Pat Hardister, Russ Gehwieler, Bucky Stillwell, Dave Ackerman, Ray Blossie, John Marshall, John Duffy.

Theta Chi's held a brother-pledge football game which was followed by an evening lounge party last Sunday.

Oxen Practice Top Spinning

A few Theta Chi's have been practicing for the Top Spinning Championship of the World. They may have it "in the bag" with such greats as Tommy Kiley, Jim Duggan, and Noel Rendell.

Phi Mu, Jill Knuckey has been chosen by Theta Chi as their yearbook sponsor while Judy Stone was selected to represent the sorority in the Miss Golden Decade Pageant. Meanwhile Susan Hood, Jean Ruth, and Judy Stone graciously bear the honor of Junior Marshals.

Mary Ruth to Wed

Sister Mary Ruth Corder announces her engagement to Terry Parrish of Kernersville, N. C. She plans her wedding for Nov. 26.

Sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta will be entertained Nov. 12 at the home of Mr. John W. Rogers, their new sponsor.

Kappa Delta's share the happiness of Fran Freeman who recently became lavaliered to Lambda Chi, Earl Senger. KD's are still selling potato chips... get 'em while they're crisp!

Congratulations and best wishes go to Joan Root and her husband Stuart Rhodes. Before she left HPC on Sunday, Joan announced that she and Stuart had been secretly married since July 31.

Tobias

Going Formal

Tobias will help you look your best. Come in and see the beautiful collection of long and short formals in dazzling fabrics and colors on the second floor at Tobias.

The Rathskeller

Collegiate Carolina's

Favorite Pub

Hopsacking is traditional for the individualist

This is a sport coat for the man with the strength of an individualist and the taste of the traditionalist. College Hall has tailored this outstanding fabric with all the authentic details of natural shoulder styling. A wealth of colors and tones, all by College Hall, naturally.

$39.95 and up

Bull 'n Bush Restaurant

Dinners From 5:00 Until 11:00 P.M.

5727 High Point Road

Featuring — Captain Kidd's Oyster Cove

Roma Villa

Italian American Food

Sandwiches of all Kinds

Pizza, Spaghetti

Phone Take-out Order

883-7219

Carmelo Matino, owner

Patronize

Your College

Bookstore

A Home

Away From Home

Compliments of

FAIR LANES

COLLEGE VILLAGE

Tower Players Present 'The Way of the World'

"Says Who?" Nancy Taylor and Jim Sloan seem bored with it all as they rehearse a scene together.

Play's Plot Concerns Wooing Compromise

The Tower Players' latest project, William Congreve's intricately plotted play, concerns the wooing of Millamant by Mirabell and the resulting compromise achieved in the face of the way of the world in which they live.

Plot Reaches Climax

Dramatic building of the plot reaches a climax in the famous 'bargaining' scene wherein the lovers set forth the conditions that will make their union mutually tolerable.

Fainall's love for Mrs. Marwood and the amorous relationships of Mrs. Marwood, Mrs. Fainall, and Millamant to Mirabell greatly complicate the plot.

Wit Enlivens Play

This play is considered by many the high water mark of Restoration comedy; it is, in any event, one of the master-pieces of English dramatic literature. The prose style is dazzling and the wit brilliant.

Restoration comedy is often attacked as being immoral. Is "The Way of the World" characterized by immorality?

The production will be given Nov. 19 and 20.

"Its upstairs to the right sweetie," Avis Swallow is informed by Jerry Profit.

"You're just my type, Big Boy," Jerry Profit confesses to Drew Ayers.

HPC Students Teach In Local Schools

"These weeks student teaching have meant more to me than all the education courses in the world."

"One realizes more than ever that kids are not just characters in a book, but they are real human beings."

Such are the comments of two student teachers.

Two times a year High Point College students are sent out into area schools to try out their latest techniques in learning.

Student teachers from HPC have been placed mostly in the High Point and Thomasville City school systems. Others, however, find themselves in Guilford, Davidson, and Randolph County schools.

Student teachers sometimes experiment with their pupils but this year some of the teachers themselves are being used as guinea pigs in a new program.

Team teaching is the latest innovation in the education department. Sending students out into the schools in pairs is still in the trial stage, although much optimism for the success of this program is expressed.

How do I love thee; Let me count the ways: I, well, ugh I... I... I... states Gary MacMahon to Avis Swallow.

Two UNC-G Students To Debate With Naval Academy Midshipmen

Two University of North Carolina at Greensboro students are preparing to clash with the U.S. Navy on the subject of crime.

But it will be in the form of a public debate rather than any all-out (or even a "cold") war.

The UNC-G Debating Union, under the direction of Dr. William C. Seifrit, Jr., is sponsoring a public parliamentary debate Nov. 10 at 8 p.m. in the Alexander Room of Elliott Hall.

Barbara Watry of Andrews, and Sue Benson of Pawling, N. Y., will represent UNC-G. The two midshipmen from the U.S. Naval Academy have not yet been named.

The question for debate is: "This House is Resolved that Law Enforcement Agencies should be given Greater Freedom in the Investigation and Prosecution of Crime."

Dr. Seifrit, in announcing the first of a series of public debates, said that after the principal speakers have finished "almost anything goes... the audience may ask questions, heckle, and make brief speeches in support of, or in opposition to, the motion."

AN OVERWEIGHT JAMES BOND

Bill Dana has been hired by CBS to develop new shows. In an article written for TV Guide, Bill explains why he is "bugged" at the network for rejecting most of his ideas. One of his adventure series was to be titled "The Adventures of 000." It's a story about "Phileas Phatte, agent 000, who weighs 385 pounds and is 5-feet-4. He works for a dangerous-but-low-budget power, which provides him with a soup-up Volkswagen.

Each week we thrill as we watch him try to get into it. He never does. That's why the gang at headquarters call Triple Zero Big Nothing." —TV Guide.

Mr. Pritchett Attends History Convention

James R. Pritchett, instructor in the History-Political Science Department, attended the annual Southern Political Science Association meeting held Nov. 4-6 in Atlanta.

The meeting was attended by educators from throughout the Southeast.

During the three-day event, delegates heard and discussed various papers on domestic and foreign policy, Federalism, constitutional law, and other related subjects.

Thrills - Chills - Spills

MODEL RACEWAYS OF HIGH POINT at Five Points

Hall's Corner, Ltd.

(Traditional Clothing for Men and Women)

100 South Main Street • High Point, N. C.

(AT THE BRIDGE)

MEN

Orange Alpaca Sweaters

Palimino Loafer

Whiskey Tone Sweaters

Alligator Belts

Whiskey Tone Slacks

WOMEN

Red Barn Shirts

Boe Jest Sportswear

Herringbone Shirts and Slacks

Belts

Miss Adventure Sportswear

Meet Your Friends at the Corner... "Hall's Corner"

Calender of Events

Nov. 17 — Assembly: Fine Arts Festival.

Nov. 19 — Marine Officer Selection Team, Student Center, all day.

Nov. 19-20 — "The Way of the World" presented in Memorial Auditorium at 8 p.m. by Tower Players.

Nov. 24 — Special Thanksgiving Assembly Memorial Auditorium.

Nov. 24-27 — Thanksgiving Holidays.

Nov. 26-27 — Miss High Point Pageant Memorial Auditorium.

Dec. 5 — THE BIRDS in color starring Rod Taylor, Jessica Tandy, and Tippi Hedren.

Dec. 12 — BYE BYE BIRDIE in color starring Janet Leigh, Dick Van Dyke, Ann Margret, Bobby Rydell, and Ed Sullivan.

Jan. 9 — UNDER THE YUM YUM TREE in color starring Jack Lemmon, Carol Lynley, Edie Adams, Dean Jones, and Imogene Coca.

—Staff Photo by Charlie So.

Girls Volleyball Team—Left to right, back row: Tillie Clark, Lorraine Reidda, Leslie McCall, Wanda Howlett, Judy Armington. Front row: Bev Moody, Mickey Tuttle, Jan Young, Kaye Moody, Sandy Walters.

HPC Seethes With Spirit

Even though High Point College does not have a football team, it is certainly not lacking in school spirit. The fever of basketball grips the campus each season, and the students feel a necessity to purge themselves by giving complete support to the team.

During the season, few students leave campus on weekends when there is an important game. The gymnasium swells with throngs of loyal fans who have come to see another Panther victory.

In other years, the heat of competition has swept the campus so completely that students have draped toilet paper from telephone wires as an expression of joy at winning.

Yes, HPC seethes with spirit. There is an undulating current of excitement now building among students as the season nears.

Coach Quinn and players are carrying bricks, and fans are carrying torches in anticipation of another great year for the Purple Panthers.

Marine Corps Teams Will Interview Applicants For Officers Training

The United States Marine Corps Officer Selection Team from Raleigh will be in the student center Nov. 19. They will interview qualified applicants for the Marine Corps Officer Candidate program.

Interested freshmen, sophomores and juniors may be eligible for the platoon leaders class program as ground or aviation officers.

Platoon leaders class requires two six week training periods taken during different summers.

Successful completion of the summer training programs and graduation from college will qualify the student for a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps.

Interested seniors may enroll

Fine Arts Festival

(Continued from Page 1)

to present a play of this type. The production promises to be one of the best ever presented on this campus.

Crews Keep Scenery Secret

The scenery and costumes for the play are being kept secret until time for the play. Those involved in the production say that these technical aspects should prove to be one of the finest features of the play.

Cast members include Jay Cornet, Jim Sloan, Drew Ayers, Steve Seningen, Jerry Proffitt, Gary McMahon, Avis Swallow, Nancy Taylor, Julie Turner, Jeannie Haines, Frances Garris, Sandi Leigh and Laura Abernathy.

Also included are Nancy Scales, Bucky Stillwell, Chuck Westmoreland, Bill Newby, and Al Thorburn. The play is directed by Mr. Drapeau.

The foyer of the auditorium will be the location of an art exhibit containing works of Raiford Porter and Mrs. Jane Burton of the art department faculty.

Department To Display Works

The paintings and graphic works will be on display for the whole week of the Festival.

Hockey Team Loses To Catawba, UNC-G

Receiving its first defeat of the year, the girls field hockey team lost to Catawba in Salisbury by a score of 8-0.

Another defeat was suffered when the team played host to UNC-G. The score for this game was 2-1 in favor of UNC-G.

The team played Catawba at home last Friday with a resulting score of 2-0 for Catawba.

SCA Makes Plans For 'Religion In Life Week'

Plans for the "Religion In Life Week" are being made by the Student Christian Association.

This program will be held Mar. 30-31, and April 1 in the student center. A main theme will be derived from a combination of "God Is Dead," a highly controversial topic, and "Security Is A Thumb In A Blanket," originating from the comic strip, "Peanuts."

Collection of paper-back books for distribution to soldiers in Viet Nam is one of the major projects of the year. This project is to be campus-wide and hopefully, city-wide participation.

Christmas caroling plans are being made for Dec. 12 in which every student may participate. Following the caroling, refreshments will be served in the student center.

—Staff Photo by Charlie So.

Charles Kerr places second in intramural competition with a jump of 5 ft. 4 in.

Theta Chi Wins Football Crown

In the final game of the intramural football season, Theta Chi put down last year's champs the Hot Dogs by a score of 12-2.

This game was the deciding factor in the team standings. The win gave Theta Chi the championship with a 5-0 record.

Close behind them were the Hot Dogs having a 4-1 record. Following on down the ladder were the Delta Sigs and Pikas tied for third with 2-2-1 records.

Dropping down to fourth place were the Woolly Bullies with one victory and four losses. Keeping up to their name, the Montlieu Jets completed a perfect record and season of 0-5.

After the dust has cleared and the injuries have healed, play will begin again, but this time it will be on the courts with volley ball.

Panther Golfers Hold First Intrasquad Match

By dividing into two squads — Purple and White — High Point's golf team staged an intrasquad match at Blair Park Nov. 4.

Members of the White team are Harold R. Sparks, Larry Waugh, Dick Olson, Tommy Holmes, Richard Hutchins, and Larry Thetford.

The Purple team consists of players Roger Watson, Dodd Webster, Robert Gowen, Richard Marshall, William Fanning, and Johnny Carter.

White beat Purple by a point score of 15-9, with Waugh making the lowest score of 71.

Individual game results include Sparks over Watson, Waugh over Webster, Holmes over Marshall, and Fanning over Hutchins.

Olson tied Gowen while Thetford and Carter also tied.

Dr. Earl Crow, professor of religion, sponsors the team.

—Staff Photo by Charlie So.

Tom Grace, master of the 100-yard dash, displays his excellent running form. Tom placed second with 10.8 seconds.

Why should you pay $6 for this Moss Shirt
when you can buy one that looks just like it
for $8.95?

Because this Moss Shirt is just as traditional as the best of them. In every carefully executed detail. With some very persuasive extras like seven buttons instead of six to insure a flat, smooth front. And a locker loop that trophy-collecting girls can't pull off. Of course, a saving of $3.00 won't make you a millionaire, but who knows, maybe you are one already. The shirt you see here is a humdinger. In a slightly mad plaid cotton that looks more like linen than linen. The pattern is perfectly matched all over. In knock 'em dead color combinations. About $5.95.

P.S. We're still accepting members for our Locker Loop Club. This Club was created to take care of the frustrations of the opposite sex who have difficulty pulling a locker loop off a Moss Shirt. Naturally, the harder they are to pull off, the more desirable they become as trophies. You may have a free batch of locker loops for discriminating distribution. Just step in at our shirt department and pick up a free, handy form.

Wright-Womble-Pitts
INCORPORATED

Do You Know That:

The ferocious robber fly has a mustache and beard, which help protect its eyes from struggling victims.

Guidance Office Offers Interest Inventory Tests

The office of Guidance and Counseling is offering the California Interest Inventory test. Would you like to work with people or be in the out-of-doors? Are you suited for the field of mechanics or business?

You can find the answer to these questions when you consult Dr. L. B. Pope for your test results.

If you are a sophomore or junior and would like to complete your testing program visit Dr. Pope's office.

The tests being offered now are: Wrenn Study Habits, Otis Mental Ability, California Occupational Inventory, and the Bell Adjustment Personality Test.

The Rathskeller

Best Pizza West of Rome

Compliments of

Quicker Than You Think Laundry
and Dry Cleaning

207 Centennial Street

STEVE'S PIZZA HOUSE

Friendly Service and Best Pizza in Town

1 Block East of Main on
English Road

MITCHELL'S ESSO SERVICE

"We Are Happy To Serve You"

1100 E. Lexington Ave.
High Point, N. C.
Phone 888-5966

The Hi-Point

Volume XXXV, Number 5

High Point College, High Point, North Carolina

December 11, 1965

Junior Representative Wins Crown

Winners of the Miss Golden Decade Pageant, (l-r); Omega Waldrep, first runner-up; Sherry Snow, Miss Golden Decade; Miss Golden Decade; and Bev Albright, second runner-up, pose with their trophies following the pageant.

Impressions From The Miss Golden Decade Pageant

By SHARON OLIVER

Miss Sherry Donese Snow, representative of the junior class in The Miss Golden Decade Contest held Dec. 3, became the first Miss Golden Decade of 1966.

In all her radiant glory Miss Snow stood before the audience in Memorial Auditorium with a very surprised but proud countenance.

First and second runners-up were Miss Omega Waldrep, representing Kappa Delta Fraternity and Miss Bev Albright, representing the sophomore class, respectively.

"I'm not nervous, after dinner I just put my right glove on my left hand." "Somebody just tell me I'm beautiful." "What do I do with this door knob?" "This lipstick is clogged in the corner of my eyeball." "Your zipper broke." "Are you kidding me," queried our new Miss Golden Decade back stage before evening gown competition.

Following the introduction of the contestants, Miss Nancy Taylor sang "Try to Remember" from the "Fantastics", accompanied by Jim Sloan.

Seeing all the contestants together in their gowns was, just as emcee, Mr. Jimmy Capps said, "A beautiful scene."

The audience was captured by each contestant as she came out individually in her gown. The judges, in this particular phase, watched for grace and poise as each contestant walked across the stage.

Miss Walrep wore a beige and white brocade gown with an empire waist while Miss Albright wore a white dress also with the very popular empire waist.

Miss Snow wore a beautiful white dress with the top of sequins and spaghetti straps.

Preceding the talent competition, Pat Whitlow and cousin, Tim Webb, both freshmen at H.P.C., provided more intertainment while changes were being made back stage.

The song by Miss Whitlow and Mr. Webb was one entitled "Ah Woe, Ah Me," a story of a father, mother and their son.

During talent competition Sherry presented a dramatic reading from the Greek Tragedy, "Medea" with magnificent expression. The audience could perceive Medea's lack of sanity when she killed her children because she didn't love them as much as she hated her husband, Jason.

Dick Noble and Rich Wagoner accompanied Omega as she sang "House of the Rising Sun." So much feeling and expression came from this song that the young and inexperienced present especially enjoyed it due to the story of the song.

Bev brought forth a combination of dialogue and song. She told of her experiences at Camp Tekoa, a Methodist youth camp, this past summer and of the particular thing she enjoyed most which was singing around the campfire at night. She sang one of her favorite songs "He's Got the Whole World In His Hands."

Intermission which followed talent competition gave not only the girls a chance to be relieved and as one of the girls said, "I can think about Christmas, now" but also gave the audience a chance to make up their minds individually as to who the three winners would be.

The next facet of the competition was the appearance in street clothes. All the girls looked as though they had stepped out of "Vogue."

To give the contestants a chance to change back into their evening gowns, the judges were introduced. They were as follows: Ramona Curtis who is a television personality, Susan Hedrick, an account executive for Bennett Advertising Company, and Virginia Melville, an account executive for WSJS in Winston-Salem.

Also there were Mr. Ray Hollingsworth, a dance instructor, and Mr. Marty Jacobs who was formerly a costume and set designer for Broadway musical productions.

Dr. Patton presented the decision of the girls for "Miss Congeniality."

Tied for this title were Miss Dianne Holt and Miss Claudia Babb. There was a look of surprise by each as she heard her name. Because of the tie, there will be another trophy purchased and the title will be shared.

When the curtain opened all contestants were seated in gown patiently waiting on stage for that big decision as to who would be chosen as finalists.

Again Dr. Patton received an envelope, this time with the three finalists.

The audience strained to listen and there was absolute silence.

Miss Sherry Donese Snow, Miss Omega Louise Waldrep, and Miss Beverly Glenn Albright were the three names heard.

After a vast round of applause each contestant was asked one question. Called upon first was Miss Snow. At this time each girl was advised to take a little time to think through their answers.

"Sherry, what do you consider to be the three most valuable possessions and why?" "First of all, I value my parents for without them I would not have been here tonight. Secondly, I value my life and lastly, my education."

Following Miss Snow, Omega was asked what she thought to be the three most important characteristics a person can have. Omega said, "First, a person must have honor, without honor, he is nothing. Second, one must have nobility and third, faith. One must have faith in order to live."

The last envelope was, of course, for Bev. Her question was: "After participation in the pageant tonight, would you enter again and why?" A very enthusiastic "yes" followed this question. "This is an experience that everyone should be able to know. One is able to meet many new people and get to know them well. Also, to enter again would show how much I thought of other people while trying to do my best for them."

After considering carefully the answers to these questions the judges passed the envelope containing the winner and runner-up to the Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Jimmy Capps.

The spotlight on the three beautiful finalists revealed anxiousness from each.

Mr. Capps read, "Second runner-up - Miss Beverly Glenn Albright. First runner-up - Miss Omega Waldrep, and Miss Golden Decade of 1966, Miss Sherry Donese Snow."

Miss Snow was presented with a trophy and two dozen long stemmed roses and was crowned by Miss Ann Mackie.

Displaying a few tears at this moment of joy, Miss Snow walked out onto the ramp as though

(Continued on Page 4)

Campus Crier: Dean Conrad Holds Office In State N.C.A.D. Association

Dean Conrad Is Elected To N.C.A.D. Office

Dr. Harold Conrad, Dean of Curriculum Planning for High Point College, was elected to the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Association of Academic Deans during the annual meeting of the North Carolina College conference in Charlotte.

Dr. Conrad, who is a former Dean of High Point College, is presently directing the Academic Planning Program at the college and directs the summer division of the college. He is a member of the American association of Academic Deans, American association of University Professors, Mississippi Valley History association, and Kansas History Teachers association, of which he has served as president.

Legislature To Improve SC

The College Improvement committee of Student Legislature, headed by Steve Pearson, is working to make our present student center more appealing. The reason the night club type set-up after 9:30 p.m. has not gone into effect as announced is that the furniture has not arrived.

It has been suggested that a refreshment center also be set up after 9:30 in the room upstairs behind the present vending machines.

Appalachian Stages Debate

Appalachian State Teachers College was the scene of a recent regional debating meet involving 25 colleges from North Carolina and Tennessee.

High Point College was represented by a newly organized debating team composed of freshmen, Lee Cheney and Charles Honeycutt, junior Wayne Ervin; and sophomore Bill Beans.

Mrs. Celia Halford, sponsor of the team and speech instructor, reported that although we have a very new team with little experience, they withstood the competition well and won several matches.

Mrs. Halford added, "This meet served as a learning process for the team and provided them with valuable experience. The judges remarked that our team had excellent potential and should present a real challenge to other schools in the future. Our team now realized how fascinating and challenging debating can be and faces future meets with much enthusiasm."

SGA Sponsors Christmas Dance

Sponsored by the Student Government Association, the Christmas dance on December 10, featured Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs. The Dance was held at the Moose Lodge located on North Main Street. Since the Dance was limited to High Point College students and their dates, I.D. cards were presented at the door.

Maurice Williams was backed by his own band of five members. The group has had two national hit recordings including "Stay" and "Do You Believe".

Their first recording of "Stay" has sold over a million copies and has been re-recorded by such groups as the Four Seasons.

Both the SGA and the Entertainment committee went to great lengths to make the Christmas dance a success. They hope everyone had an enjoyable time. The students supported the dance well. The Freshmen had to make early arrangements with upperclassmen to get rides to and from the dance.

The Dance began at 8 P.M. and was over officially at 12 P.M. All girls had one o'clock permission.

Dress for the Dance was informal. Refreshments were served.

Maurice Williams, backed by the Zodiacs, was featured last night at the annual Christmas Dance, sponsored by the SGA.

SGA Movie

Dec. 12

"Bye, Bye Birdie"

Campus Viewpoint...

Editorials are from the editor's desk unless otherwise indicated by the writer's initials. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect those of the administration, the newspaper staff or the student body.

LEGISLATORS WOO ACTION

Student Legislature is really on the ball this semester. During the Nov. 17 meeting the legislators passed a bill which will enable the SGA to appropriate a portion of the student activity fee to be put in a savings account until it may be utilized to better student facilities in the proposed student center.

Also, the junior class bill proposing that upperclassmen maintaining an overall 2.00 average be granted unlimited cuts is presently under consideration.

Reports from various legislators indicate that the bill may possibly be passed, especially since Academic Dean, David Cole seems to feel favorably inclined toward it.

Our duty, students, is to endorse all efforts of our legislative body by lending our support through suggestions and aid whenever possible. In this way we can strive to better our college life.

DO YOU SET AN EXAMPLE?

High Point College students have come into some criticism from a few of the local merchants. Comments have reached the ears of some of the day students concerning the dress and behavior of college students while patronizing local business establishments.

Comments have ranged from mild remarks to statements to the effect that one merchant has even thought of asking students to leave his place of business unless the students can dress according to good taste. Behavior has been discussed with several merchants however most have said that this problem is one that they can handle much better than the matter of dress.

High Point College is a vital part of the economic life of the city of High Point. The merchants of this town welcome the students with open arms in most instances. Why can not the student body of this school respect the business concerns of this town the same as they would in any other town. Each individual on this campus should try in every way to help further the public relations of the college by setting an example as a young adult.

-W.B.

The Hi-PO

"VOICE OF THE STUDENTS"

The Official Newspaper of High Point College, High Point, N. C.
Published Bi-Monthly Except During Holiday Periods

Entered as third class matter on October 19, 1950, at the Post Office at High Point, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Subscription and Advertising Rates upon Request

Editor-in-Chief	Phyllis Foy
Associate Editor	Barbara O'Connor
Business Manager	Helen Wasileski
Advertising Manager	Joe McNulty
Solicitor	Meggs McClaine
News Editor	Dave Gilbert
Layout Editor	Nancy Taylor
Staff	Pat Whitlow, Sandra Richie
Social Editors	Ann Greco, Jim Duggan
Sports Editor	Mac Hoyt
Feature Editor	June Hill
Typist	Carole Calvert, Paula Bower, Carol Resch
Copy Editor	Jane Wooldridge
Columnists	George Roycroft, Tillie Clark
Photographer	Charlie So
Cartoonists	Mary Jane McGruder, Sandra Hutchins
Circulation Manager	Jean Allen
Staff	Janie Wager
Faculty Adviser	Mr. Ira Baker
Reporters	Carol Resch, Jud Richardson, Pat Hedrick, Jim Sloan, Al Thorburn, Gina Venning, Ron Loewenthal, Pat Whitlow, and Bob Betterton.

Each semester students complain of low quality instruction. Yet, to whom can the problem of bettering this situation be attributed? Does the solution lie in the educational method of the professor, in the attitude of the student, or in a combination of both of these?

Monitor...

Should Students Have Say About Quality Instruction?

By GEORGE ROYCROFT

Since students alone consume the offerings of the classroom, should they not be entitled to have their say about their instruction?

College students at various citadels of learning across the country are engaged in grading their teachers for effectiveness, knowledge, and personality.

Naturally not all the instructors are pleased with the thought, but many are.

In a few institutions teachers may soon find that their jobs depend upon how their students evaluate them.

The grade-the-teachers idea is in part a response to the growing dissatisfaction of college students with certain aspects of mass education.

Complaints are made in many universities about oversized classes, about assistants teaching courses while professors bury themselves in research, and about the faceless mob on the impersonal campus.

To meet these complaints many university officials are encouraging students to evaluate the quality of their education.

At Yale University honor students write their appraisals of courses and professors immediately after graduation.

Harvard professors and courses are rated unofficially by editors of the "Crimson" in a catalogue of candid comments based on a random polling of students.

A similar directory was published at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; it sold 7,000 copies last year.

This system of evaluation is not found on the large university campus alone. At nearby Wake Forest students are continuing efforts to establish a course evaluation program after having had several proposals rejected by the faculty.

The present plan being considered by Wake Forest students and faculty has two major provisions.

First, a professor would be required to furnish prospective students a complete course description, including the amount of reading, the type and number of tests, and the course's practical application.

The second part would require every student who completed a course to submit a confidential evaluation form to the professor. This form would be seen only by the professor and would tell him what the student thought of his teaching and the course.

But to some it seems questionable as to whether these attempts to grade the professors are anything more than a popularity poll.

College instruction can hardly lend itself to such a contest since the most pleasing and conscientious teacher is not always the best.

The best instruction seems to run in two rather different extremes.

There is the natural teacher who has an all-consuming desire to open closed minds and to impart knowledge. He is kind. He listens to whatever his students have to say regardless how absurd. He makes his subject some alive and shares his enthusiasm with his students. He is an actor, an orator, or a preacher: most good teachers are.

Then there is the other type whose very name strikes terror to the bone. His course is "impossible," and he is a variable "tyrant." In the classroom he assails students with a verbal whiplash of sarcasm and threat. The shy student writes home about him. The dull despise him. The bright student trembles and somehow survives.

Who is better? The Gallup-

Editor's Mail

SCA Requests Old Paperbacks For Servicemen

Dear Editor:

Ann Talley is in charge of the Student Christian Association program to send paperback books to our service men in Viet Nam.

At present our men in Viet Nam have no reading material. It is impossible for them to get books or magazines.

If we are able to collect enough books they would be sent to Camp Lajeune, in Jacksonville, N. C. From there the United Service Organization would send them to Viet Nam.

This program is being promoted on the campus and in the city of High Point.

Any paperback books, new or used, will be appreciated. They may be turned in to Ann Talley or Art Warren.

Poll shows the Mr. Chips-type to be wonderful; the Simon Legree-type, a holy terror. Yet, how time seems to alter these memories.

The kindly proddings of Mr. Chips are clouded. One remembers how interesting his classes were, but his facts of the first Continental Congress have gone cold. But, the brute's sarcasm branded in fire is unforgotten.

We can only hope that both approaches to teaching have their own reason for being.

JVDHZDX

Intramurals Promote 'Good Sportsmanship'

By TILLIE CLARK

A great deal of time, effort and planning goes into the development of a successful intramural program.

We are fortunate here at High Point College, to have those who are dedicated to the task of developing just such a program. Miss Clary and Mr. Davidson, have done an excellent job as advisors to this program.

The purpose of an intramural program is four-fold. First, it is to promote leisure physical education-with emphasis on education.

Secondly, it is to enrich social competence by organizing and conducting the program.

Thirdly, it develops or strengthens group loyalties.

Fourthly, it provides healthful exercise which is a biological necessity. The end product of such a program is sportsmanship.

Now, sportsmanship certainly includes competitive spirit—a spirit that enjoys winning.

Some of the intramural games in the past have been very close and very exciting. Victory in these games has been attained only after a deadly battle.

These fights certainly make for interesting intramurals and increased participation.

It's a pity that there are those who are interested only in victory—regardless of the spirit with which it is attained. A prime example of this happened last Wednesday night. Never has there been such a lack of sportsmanship on an athletic court as this.

Winning is fine but the proper spirit behind it is even finer.

THE HI-PO Solicits

Several vacancies are open on The Hi-PO staff.

Solicitors are needed to round out the advertising staff.

According to the bill presently under consideration of the Publications Committee and Administration, solicitors may be able to obtain 10% commission on gross sales.

Persons interested should contact Joe McNulty, advertising manager.

gort

A Coward Dies A Thousand Deaths, A Hero Dies But One

By JUNE HILL

It is a damp and dreary 5 a.m. Joe College lies smugly in his bed. G. I. Joe pulls himself out from under his thin blanket and slowly rises from the hard, stoney ground. Joe College rolls over, and with a shiver pulls the covers up closer around his neck. G. I. Joe shivers also, but his is more a shiver of fright. What lies ahead? Is it a risky life or a bloody death? How many more hours of this existence? Will I kill again today or be killed?

The hours pass. G. I. Joe is tramping through the jungle, tense and jumpy. Joe College reaches over and slams off the alarm. "Dread! Another day of this crummy life. I can't face it. This is madness getting up to go to a stupid class when I could sleep. Pain!

G. I. Joe feels the brush of leaves against his sober, unshaven face. He pushes on, to who knows where or what. His mind is a playground for memories of home, friends, smiles, and love. Will he ever again touch these things?

With the last stroke of his electric shaver, Joe College grabs his books and dashes off to class. He is greeted by all who pass him, but his sleepy vocal chords can offer little more than a grunt. Once in class, he returns to the land of Winken, Blinken, and Nod.

Winken, Blinken, and Nod — isn't it funny how one's mind recalls such faraway and childish things when placed in a shockingly real life and death situation. Perhaps life is just a fairy tale after all. I'm not really here, and even if I am, we'll all live happily ever after. Somewhere in the distance a shot is fired — and then another. G. I. Joe stops dead in his tracks — but only for an instant. He must seek and find or be sought and found.

L<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>-E<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>. One lousy letter — from home, of course. Wonder what trivial things are happening there? As usual, no money. Typical.

It is a very rare day. The lieutenant hands out mail as G. I. Joe stops for a cherished breath of air. Each face eagerly awaits the sound of his name. To hear from home is the greatest, and perhaps only joy to be possessed in this dense nowhere. If only for a moment one can feel that someone cares, then his struggle is not all in vain. Little things go a long way through an empty heart.

Hunger abounds — especially if one sleeps through breakfast. Joe College takes his place in the cafeteria line — the length of which gives him more time to gripe about the food. As he slams down his tray, he surveys its contents with disgust — milk, salad, bread, butter, meat, two vegetables, dessert, olives. How could a bird live on that?

As he finishes the last of a can of cold beans, G. I. Joe prepares himself for what may come. He checks and rechecks his equipment, smokes a cigarette, breathes a prayer, smokes and prays. His ears capture every sound expectantly, waiting for something, anything.

Falling in line again, he continues in his journey. Joe College continues his worthless day. He gets out of it what he puts into it — less than little. The day is time, measured by meals, finished with relief.

But is there relief? The heat is intense, the heavy silence thundering. Suddenly the silence is broken. An ambush team sets off a land mine. Nowhere to run to, nowhere to hide. Only cold, clammy death looking in the face. Someone is running towards you. He's firing. It's either you or him. It's him. But it's you too. With every death is you. Now its deathly silence. All around you men look dead. They are. After seemingly minutes of fighting, the lucky few limp away. And still your hide-and-seek is not finished.

And as a moral factor, the morning after leaves no hangover, only the "heady feeling of having drawn blood, spilled blood, and proved worthy."

G. I. Joe or Joe College?

Students Offer Ideas For New Student Center

By GINA VENNING

Since final plans have not been made for our new student center, there is much interest as to what should go into it. A survey

Proposed Student Center

The Socialite

Sororities Compete Rush, Announce Pledges

By ANNE GRECO and JIM DUGGAN

Sorority rush is over and things are settling back to normal.

Zeta Tau Alpha pledges include Myra Bailey, Scottie Cochrane, Connie Corum, Lynn Donington, Beverly Echerd, Marty Emrich, Susan Fischer, Linda Greenwood, and Mary-Jo Hall.

Others are Lois Mainwaring, Carolyn Kapp, Laur Stayer, Linda Sessums, Sally Teuteberg, Kathy Walker, and Pat Whitlow.

Congratulations go out from the Zetas to Steve Pearson, who was chosen to be Zeta Tau Alpha "Sweetheart."

Phi Mu Welcomes Pledges

Phi Mu welcomed 24 new pledges including Claudia Babb, Sharon Baker, Carolyn Britt, Ellen Law, Shirley Hemphill, Cathy Miller, Nancy Carnes, Leslie McCall, Judy Parker, Cathy McCleod, Christie Bolton, Julie Turner, and Ann McAdams.

Others are Linda Lawrence, Cheryl Johns, Marcia Rainer, Maggie Nance, Vicki Wimberly, Kitty Kindred, Phyllis Sturdivant, Sandy Kyles, Kay Feimster, and Nancy Holcomb.

Phi Mu held a semi-formal dance honoring their 24 new pledges at the YWCA Dec. 4.

Alpha Gams Add 26

The Alpha Gams added 26 new pledges to their roll. They include Kitty Chappell; Pat Coffey, Lynda Corn, Linda Crowder, Gail Grabavitch, Kathie among the students revealed that the co-eds' outlook differed from the males in some respects, but that both had some views in common.

A main requisite for one co-ed was that the new student center have personality and atmosphere. There should be pictures and good indirect lighting.

Males Want Pool Tables

Prominent in the minds of most males was the addition of pool tables.

Other suggestions were a bowling alley and a swimming pool.

Both thought there should be a place in the new student center for day students to eat.

The cafeteria will be in the new student center, but, in addition, students requested a place to eat which would serve more than just packaged foods. Booths or tables were also requested.

Students Suggest Dining Area

Another student suggested a more extensive bookstore with better facilities and separated from the snack bar.

Two small private dining rooms were deemed highly desirable in addition to the one private dining room planned. These could be rented to clubs for supper meetings. In addition, meeting rooms for the various clubs and organizations were requested.

At present, it is thought that the school will send a committee of students from the SGA to visit other schools to see what should go into a student center.

Hayden, Patsy Humphrey, Judy Kievning, Susan Kiger, Geni Klinefelter, Susan Knam, Barbara Mize, and Joanie Nance, Diane Niland, and Patsy Peterson.

Others are Barbara Poole, Sylvia Pratt, Carol Sheufele, Martha Simmons, Pat Smith, Lynne Swink, Janie Wagar, Diane Williams, Penny Williamson, and Vicky Wilson.

Kappa Delta announces their 17 new pledges including Helen Wilson, Elaine Seigle, Jane Laughridge, Jane Gardner, Jane Whitley, Linda Hopkins, Suzanne Wells, Lee Cheney, Carol Isaacs, Nancy Hunter, Mary Lynn Wagner, Pat Boyles, Cathy Cruik, Janet Guirkin, Susan Fowlkes, Diana Stein, and Clayton Cleaves.

KD pledge Suzanne Wells is lavaliered to Ernest Daniels.

Pikas went to the mountains and Diane Holt, KD, came back from the trip sporting Tom Coleman's pin.

Pikas Sell Light Bulbs

Pikas pledges are selling light bulbs to raise money for the gangster ball Dec. 11.

Pika has two new pledges — Steve Laney and Chuck Tomlinson.

Theta Chi had a lounge decorating party Dec. 4. Their new color television is also a step in their redecorating plans.

Theta Chi brother Stan North lavaliered Faye Harmon. The trap is drawing closed; she has been heard to say "congratulations Stan!"

Pledges Defeat Brothers

The secret has leaked out — Theta Chi pledges scored a whopping victory against the brothers in the game.

Lambda Chi had another successful rush this year and pledged 17 including Bob Hooper, Jay Cornet, Ernest Daniels, Emery Raper, Warren Godwin, Ken Martin, Phil Keefer, Paul Payne, and John Woods.

Other new pledges are Jeff Brooks, Kanny Williams, Joe Needham, Ed Fowler, Tim Taylor, Tom Grace, Richard Folts, and Barney Peeler.

Activities thus far have included a stag party, rock painting excursion, hay ride at brother Charles Presley's house, Weiner roast, two brother-pledge football games (pledges came in next to last), a car wash, and a Mighty Moe party in the lounge.

All the brothers are looking forward to their annual Mills Home party for the orphans Dec. 16.

Paulette Announces Engagement

Night school student Paulette Weaver has recently announced her engagement to Roger Purgason, Lees McRae and Guilford College graduate. The wedding will be March 26.

With this we close the social column, wish you a "Merry Christmas" and bring us back lots of social news.

Has Spirit Of Christmas Lost Old Fashioned Flavor?

By CAROL RESCH

Christmas is the holiday of fine candies, old fashioned fir trees lighted with candles, brightly glowing fires, red holly and green mistletoe, snow and snow-cream, the big family gatherings, and gifts for all from good-old Saint Nicholas or the Americanized Santa Claus.

This was America's ideal of Christmas not so long ago, and now only some of these ideals exist.

Many families today spend the holiday traveling or partying during the entire season. Families have split traditional ideas of Christmas along with contemporary ideas of the modern age.

In some parts of the country artificial trees are decorated and adorned with expensive ornaments and gifts which the members of the family really cannot afford.

Other families open gifts on Christmas Eve and leave the day of peace as "nothingness" day.

Still other families to whom the tradition has yet lingered find peace and joy in welcoming the spirit of Christmas into their living rooms to visit with them on Christmas day as they share in expressing the joy of giving in small and meaningful ways.

Yes, Christmas remains the holiday for the people to reverence and uphold peace and good will.

Teacher Education Assumes More Importance At HPC

"More than 50% of all our graduates," declared Dr. Dennis Cooke, Director of Teacher Education for High Point College, "have become teachers in school systems across the country." The college has graduated 4811 students since it opened its doors in 1924, which means that approximately 2405 of these are engaged in the teaching profession.

As Dr. Wendell M. Patton, during commencement exercises this summer when the first two students graduated with the ABT degree, stated, "As far as we can determine, High Point College is the only college in North Carolina who is offering this degree."

This teacher education program was introduced into the curriculum in 1964 to provide better qualified teachers who meet the new State Board of Education requirements.

The program is offered in five areas: Art Education, Business Education, Elementary Education, Music Education, and Physical Education.

As a professional teacher degree program, the college provides special required core courses for teachers in the five areas, which were chosen because of the special requirements made by the state in these areas.

Those students who wish to teach on the high school level in other major fields will still work toward the bachelor of arts degree, but they also take the twenty-one hours of education courses required by the State Board of Education.

"At present," said Dr. Cooke, "High Point College is besieged with request for teachers in Elementary Education by a ratio of 3 to 1. The pay scale for elementary teachers is on the same level with secondary education, but at present, the college can not meet the demands for elementary teachers."

Students going into teaching begin taking a core curriculum designed specifically for teachers. As freshmen, the students complete many of the general requirements which every student must take.

As sophomores, the teacher core courses are begun as well as the completion of general requirements.

In the latter part of the sophomore year, the students take education courses and are tested as to teacher qualification.

Juniors continue their education courses, begin work on their majors and complete their core courses. During the senior year, the prospective teacher finishes his major area of study and participates in supervised student teaching.

"The major advantage to this new degree for the students is that the planned curriculum and testing allows the student to begin preparation for a teaching career much earlier, while working off the requirements for the teaching profession," stated Dr. Cooke.

As an indication of the excellence of the teacher education program at the college, the professional honor society in education, Kappa Delta Pi invited and initiated an HPC Chapter into its organization in the Spring of 1965.

Friendship is a chain of gold. . . . Shaped in God's all perfect mold. . . . Each link a smile, a laugh, a tear. . . . A grip of the hand, a word of cheer. . . . Steadfast as the ages roll. . . . Binding closer soul to soul no matter how far or heavy the load. . . . Sweet is the journey on friendship's road.

Students Recieve Verbal Grades

(CPS)—Some students at Kalamazoo College are getting verbal grades.

What they hear, simply, is the recorded voice of their professor evaluating and grading their term papers or lab reports. By replacing the red pencil with a dictation machine, several professors have found that they can give students more than twice as many comments without increasing the time it takes to grade a set of papers.

The school has not had the opportunity to evaluate the system scientifically but some observations, based on the 200 students involved in the initial test, have been released.

Thus far the system has been tried by professors in the English, history, philosophy, and chemistry departments. All the teachers who have tried the new form of grading plan to keep using it. Dr. John B. Moore, who introduced the system at Kalamazoo, says that student-teacher contact is greatly increased. Dr. Moore originally tried the idea in an attempt to save grading time. Instead, he found he was spending about the same amount of time grading papers but was making far more detailed comments than he did with a pen.

There have been no student complaints and much praise from those who felt they were receiving more personal attention. "We get a lot more understanding just by hearing the tone of the professor's voice," one student said.

Publication Advertisers Request Commission

Advertising managers of the Hi-Po and Zenith sought pay for their staffs at the meeting of the Faculty committee on Publications, Nov. 8.

Joe McNulty and William Rimmer, advertising managers of the Hi-Po and the Zenith respectively, presented a bill to the committee asking that each member of the advertising staffs be paid ten per cent of his gross sales.

The bill also asked for a one per cent commission of all gross advertising for each semester be paid to the advertising managers.

The commissions are to be

Miss Golden Decade, Sherry Snow, dramatizes a scene from "Medea" in talent competition for the pageant.

PAGEANT

(Continued from Page 1)

she had been in Convention Hall in Atlantic City.

When asked how she felt, Miss Snow's spontaneous reply was, "I just can't believe it."

Our reigning Miss Golden Decade will receive $100 wardrobe, $50 scholarship, the trophy and the crown.

made retroactive to September, 1965.

The bill was approved unanimously by the committee.

The first runner-up will receive $50 gift certificate and trophy while the second runner-up receives a $25 gift certificate and trophy.

All contestants will receive an engraved keepsake bowl.

Many long hours and much hard work were put into this pageant. Miss Ann Mackie and Miss Donna Suhadok are to be commended for the outstanding job of the production of the "Miss Golden Decade Pageant" of 1966.

Coming Events

- Dec. 10
10:20 in Memorial Auditorium—all students who are on financial aid will meet with Mr. Calloway.
- Dec. 11
Pi Kappa Alpha Dance—8:00-12:30.
Zeta Tau Alpha Dance—8:00-12:30.
- Dec. 12
Student Center 6:15—SMF.
Robert's Hall 6:30—caroling—S.C.A.
- Dec. 13
IFC meeting in room 26 in Robert's Hall.
- Dec. 14
High Point College choir will present a Christmas program at 8 p.m. in Memorial auditorium.
- Dec. 16
Lambda Chi Alpha orphanage party at Mills Home in Green Cottage in Thomasville beginning at 8 p.m., 6:30 p.m. Faculty Open House.
- Dec. 17
7:30-11:30—T e k e lounge party.

STEVE'S PIZZA HOUSE

Friendly Service and Best Pizza in Town

1 Block East of Main on English Road

Bookstore Open
Mon. 7-9 p.m.

FREE COFFEE

Odds and Ends
For Modern Trends,
A Place to Meet
Your Friends.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

Compliments of

FAIR LANES

COLLEGE VILLAGE

MITCHELL'S ESSO SERVICE

"We Are Happy To Serve You"

1100 E. Lexington Ave.
High Point, N. C.
Phone 888-5966

JOHN MEYER
OF NORWICH

Our John Meyer tree is laden with heathery shetland niceties in tender nosegay colorings. They're wonderful for holiday wearing and giving. Come in and see the John Meyer collection before our cupboard is bare.

Collier Ellis AND COMPANY

Frenzy, Chaos Prevail Before Xmas Vacation

By JEANINE COTTRELLE

Exactly how many days until Christmas vacation? Almost any student on the campus can immediately respond with 8!

The atmosphere of the campus just prior to a vacation is completely different from any other time of the year. An air of chaos and excitement prevails.

A typical girl's room is a mass of presents and new clothes for the holidays. She has calendars wall-to-wall, counting the days. She is tediously trying to plan each day of her vacation to make the most of her short stay at home.

She then makes a list of each article of clothing which she is going to take with her. After writing 4 pages she decides she must cut down. Six suitcases will never do! But with each attempt she only recalls more things she has omitted.

She gives up on the list and goes to listen to Christmas carols while playing the inevitable game of bridge.

Professors have piled an unsurmountable amount of homework on the student which must be completed before the vacation begins.

The student leaves this until the last 3 days before vacation then rushes madly to the library. He tries to get all of his studying done, the gifts purchased, and his things packed in just 3 days.

He scratches his head and ponders — "But it seems like I had 8 days, just the other day!"

Day Students Unaware of HPC Campus Privileges, Responsibilities

Campus Day Students are generally unaware of their privileges and responsibilities, according to a recent survey of several day students.

When asked about the Day Student association, one Ashboro sophomore replied, "What is it?"

There are 453 day students registered for this semester, according to Registrar N. P. Yarborough. Each one has representation in the Student legislature and on the Judiciary council.

SGA Provides for Council

The Constitution of the Student Government Association provides for a Day Student council that consists of a president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer. Also provided in the Constitution of the SGA is that the president of the Day Students be a member of the Student Legislature and that two members of the Judiciary council be elected from the Day Students.

But what could the Day Students' organization do? It could sponsor dances, banquets, or teas for its members.

"The Day Students could have their own intramural teams in volleyball, basketball, or softball," said Wanda Howlett, sophomore physical education major.

With interested support from its members, the Day Student association can become an active part of HPC campus life.

Student Makes 'Big'

Yesterday a window washer was about five stories up on the building at Seventh Avenue and 38th Street wearing a sweatshirt lettered 'High Point College, High Point, North Carolina.'

—New York Daily News.

Harris Tweed sport coats are a tradition here

Only genuine imported hand woven Harris Tweed can achieve the rugged look and unusual colorings of these outstanding sport coats. Internationally acclaimed, Harris Tweed is the sport coat for all purposes and all occasions. Authentic in every detail, it is tailored to natural shoulder perfection by College Hall, naturally.

$50.00 - $55.00

Stith's

Rosaine's

sharpest new coat in town

You'll soar to the heights and unquestionably be top doll on campus . . . you are a winner with this winsome, flared "A" shape cloak. It'll turn your figure into the cutest trick going . . . or coming. No matter how you look at it, this is CAMPUS-VILLE'S newest hit . . . and you can be number "1."

Now 29.88
regularly $40

HEATHER SHADES OF:
Brown — Blue — Green
Sizes: 5 to 15

COURREGE BOOT
$13

Bull 'n Bush Restaurant

Dinners From
5:00 Until 11:00 P.M.

5727 High Point Road

Featuring —
Captain Kidd's Oyster Cove

PINEVIEW TAVERN

Dancing Nightly

Students Free Week Nights

Your Favorite Beverage

5 Mins. North of HPC on U.S. 311

Cagers Win Five, Lose To Campbell

By JUDD RICHARDSON

High Point's Purple Panthers once again have shown their superiority on the hardwood floors by having won five games this season.

The first victim to feel the mighty Panthers' claws was the Pfeiffer Falcons. The Falcons lost to High Point with a score of 85-77. The Panther victory was attributed to the fine playing of freshmen Eugene Littles and John Davis, sophomore Steve Tatgenhorst, and seniors Bill McDermott and Bill Green.

Littles Scores 30

Littles captured the scoring lead with 30 points followed by Davis with 18 points, McDermott with 14 points, and Tatgenhorst with 11 points.

Opening the first home game, the Pirates of East Carolina succumbed to the Panthers by a score of 69-60.

Again Eugene Littles, this time along with Steve Tatgenhorst shared the scoring honors with 25 and 20 points respectively.

Half Moves Slowly

The first half moved rather slowly as compared to the usual play of the Panthers. Holding an edge of seven points at half-time and keeping the lead throughout the game provided the 2,900 spectators with a slow but victorious opening home game.

High Point continued on its winning ways by defeating Campbell College 86-51, and Newberry College 93-58. In both games Freshman guard Gene Littles led the scoring with 26 points and 33 points, respectively.

Other players contributing to the two victories included John Davis, Steve Tatgenhorst, Bill McDermott, Bill Green, Chris Lindsay, Jim Picka, and Ron Loewenthal.

The Panthers suffered their first defeat of the season Thursday, in a thrilling game against the Campbell Camels.

The game was thrown into overtime at the end of the second half with a tied score of 73-73.

During overtime the Camels moved rapidly ahead, scoring 13 points for a final victory of 86-80.

Freshman John Davis drives for a lay-up during the High Point-East Carolina game.

Quinn Comments on Basketball Team Stressing Ability to Shoot, Rebound

District 26 champions for the past two years, the Panthers are trying to do what they have done for the past five years.

According to Coach Quinn, this edition of the Panthers has shown themselves to possess the quality of winners.

Quinn Describes Team

In describing the team, Quinn remarked that they were the largest (weight and height) that he had ever coached. "Their shooting and rebounding is outstanding," he added.

The only disadvantage, as Quinn sees it, is their inexperience as a "team organization". "This," he said, "should be possible to overcome through improved defense."

Quinn Likes Spirit

"At any rate, I am especially pleased with the freshmen and the quality of team spirit I am working with this year," concluded Quinn.

League leaders this year will probably be a toss-up between High Point, Western Carolina, Guilford, Lenoir Rhyne, and Catawba.

The remaining season's schedule is:

Dec. 15—Guilford College—Away

- Jan. 3—Newberry College—Away
- Jan. 5—Appalachian—Away
- Jan. 8—Catawba College—Away
- Jan. 11—Western Carolina College—Home
- Jan. 22—Elon College—Home
- Jan. 24—Phillips "66" Oilers—Home
- Jan. 26—Guilford—Greensboro Coliseum
- Jan. 29—Lenoir Rhyne College—Home
- Feb. 1—Atlantic Christian—Away
- Feb. 3—East Carolina—Away
- Feb. 5—Catawba College—Home
- Feb. 9—Western Carolina College—Away
- Feb. 12—Appalachian—Home
- Feb. 14—Atlantic Christian—Home
- Feb. 16—Pfeiffer College—Home
- Feb. 19—Lenoir Rhyne College—Away
- Feb. 23-26—Conference Tournament—Lexington, North Carolina

'Hot Dogs' Dominate All-Star Team With Four Placing On First String

Leading the league in men voted to the intramural all-star football team are the Hot Dogs with Rick Larrick, Tom Blanciak, Ray Rodgers, and Bobby Robertson.

Theta Chi, intramural champions, placed Spencer Brown, George Lare, and Ralph Goode, while Rudy Shackelford of Pi Kappa Alpha also made the first team.

Buff, Blossé Makes Team

Other first stringers are Ray Blossé of the Wolly Bullies and Steve Buff of Delta Sigma Phi.

Receiving honorable mention are Mike Milward, Max Boales, Keith Conner, Tom Digman, and Charles Kirkjohn of the Hot Dogs; Bob Harris and Tom Blake of Pi Kappa Alpha; John Williams and Carroll Hutto of the Montlieu Jets; and Jack Bloom and Jim Brucki of Theta Chi.

Theta Chi Wins Meet

Theta Chi won the intramural

P. E. Majors Sponsor Co-Recreation Night; Pika-Phi Mus Win

Sponsored by the Physical Education Majors club, Co-Rec night featured sororities, fraternities, and independents paired together, resulting in seven teams competing against each other.

The Pika-Phi Mu teams emerged as the 1965 Co-Rec champions.

Badminton Begins Games

The first events of the evening were badminton, table tennis, box hockey, tetherball, and shuffleboard. They were followed by a closely contested volleyball game and the carnival games.

In the carnival games, one girl and boy from each team participated in such events as nail hammering, crisp shooting, hoola-hoop, egg throwing, and doing the limbo.

Eggs Add Amusement

The egg throwing event proved to be one of the most interesting when an egg broke in the face of one of the contestants.

The last event of the night was the relays which included the three-legged race, the balloon race, the broom relay, feather race, and ever-popular orange relay.

track meet with a total of 35 points. Delta Sigma Phi finished second with 20 points, followed by Pi Kappa Alpha, Alpha Phi Omega, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Tau Kappa Epsilon respectively.

Theta Chi is in the lead with an over-all point standing of 145 points. Delta Sigma Phi has 90 points, Pi Kappa Alpha 80, Alpha Phi Omega 15, Lambda Chi Alpha 10, and Tau Kappa Epsilon 10.

Three Leagues Compete In Women's Volleyball

Because of the large turn-out for women's intramural volleyball, three separate leagues have been formed. The three teams with the greatest number of wins will be champions.

Dec. 6—

Phi Mu I over Zeta I
Alpha Gam II over Zeta II
Ind II over KD II
Zeta III over Alpha Gam III

Dec. 8—

KD III over Phi Mu III
Zeta I over Alpha Gam I
Phi Mu II over Ind II
KD II over Alpha Gam II
Phi Mu III over Zeta III
Phi Mu I over KD I

Alpha Gamma Delta currently leads League I with a 3-0 record. It is followed by the Independent team (2-1), Zeta Tau Alpha (1-2), Phi Mu (2-2), and Kappa Delta (0-3).

The Alpha Gams have won in League II with a 4-0 record Phi Mu and Zeta are tied for second with 2-1 records followed by KD (1-3) and Independents II (0-4).

League III results put the Alpha Gams in first place with a 2-0 record. The Zetas are 0-3, Phi Mu 2-1 and KD 1-1.

Monday at 6:30 p.m. the Zetas II will play the Phi Mu second team and KD III will take on Alpha Gam III.

At 7:15 p.m. KD I will play Alpha Gam I and Alpha Gam III will play Phi Mu III.

The 8 p.m. games include Independents I vs. Zeta I and KD III vs. Zeta III.

NEW! CHANEL No 5 SPRAY PERFUME

5.00

PERFUME

AT YOUR FINGERTIPS
WHENEVER, WHEREVER

The Rathskeller

This Coupon Good For One PIZZA at One-Half Price on MONDAY, DEC. 13,* TUESDAY, DEC. 14,* and WEDNESDAY, DEC. 15*.

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

*WHEN PROPERLY ENDORSED

tradition

CAUTION: SOFT SHOULDER

A lambswool classic pullover in the V-neck tradition. An easy-going way of adding to your sweater collection that's available at the Establishment in a line-up of worthy colours.

