LONG AWAITED CONSTRUCTION BEGINS

Student Center Due Next Fall

Long awaited construction on the new student center has begun thus finalizing the selection of the central site as the best possible decision.

Plans to build the center next to Cooke Hall and later next to Haworth Hall of Science were scrapped last semester because they were too far away from the center of campus and because of the projected increase in traffic on Montlieu Avenue respectively.

The original idea of adding it onto the present student union was discarded because the thought of hiding a million dollar building seemed senseless.

Advantages of the present site are that it is centrally located and conveniently located for all students.

Although much of the campus natural beauty was sacrificed it was felt that convenience was the outweighing factor.

The building will have an estimated 33,000 square feet of space and will house a cafeteria, office space for the SGA, office space for the three publications, meetings rooms, post office, study rooms, bookstore, card room, billiard room, and a snack bar.

When the new center is occupied, the present one will be renovated to meet the needs of our growing campus.

The present snack bar will be turned over to the maintenance department in order to alleviate overcrowded conditions in this area.

Plans are not yet complete for the future of Harrison Hall, but it has been suggested that this building be torn down to facilitate the parking needs which will arise when the new center is opened.

Civilization Series Relates To Students

"Civilization," the renowned color film series on the cultural life of Western man, written and narrated by art historian Kenneth Clark, is being shown in weekly segments at High Point College.

This film would be especially of interest to students interested in art, music, and history.

The film, which is divided into 13 parts to be shown at different times, is shown at 10 A.M. each Monday as part of history 101 at High Point College, and again at night as a community service.

High Point College is receiving the fifty-five minute films on loan from the National Gallery of Art in Washington, under a new program offered through the Gallery's Extension Services.

This distribution program has been made possible by matching grants totaling $181,056 from the National Endowment for the Humanities and from Xerox Corporation.

Thirty-six area colleges, high schools, and junior high schools have been invited to view the films along with numerous civic clubs.

Dr. A. Paul Gratiot, chairman of the History and Political Science Department and Mrs. Lucy Washington, assistant professor of history, each took trips to Europe this summer to prepare themselves for the History 101 course this fall, which is a course on "World Civilization."

Dr. Gratiot journeyed to Italy, while Mrs. Washington traveled throughout Greece.

"We went because we felt we had to have a first-hand background for this course this fall," explained Dr. Gratiot. "We chose the two countries which were perhaps the most significant in the development of 'civilization' as we know it today, and we should be able to compliment each other this fall."

"We will use the film as a basis for the course. We plan to teach it as a total course including the political, social, and cultural aspects of history, rather than from a straight political approach."

The film's many subjects include the Gothic cathedrals,

Hayworth Chapel Due in Spring

Construction seems to be the in thing on campus this year as the Golden Decade Program nears its final goals.

Among the new and projected construction is that of the new Hayworth Memorial Chapel which is being built next to Haworth Hall of Science.

Long rumored about and many times forgotten, the chapel was started late this summer when the final plans met the approval of the Hayworth family.

Plans for a chapel were discussed several years ago when the Reverend Roland Mullinix became the chaplain of High Point College.

Now, unfortunately, the Reverend Mullinix has left High Point and the chapel is under construction.

Along with the construction of the chapel and the new student center, it appears quite likely that the next project to be started in approximately one year is that of a new pool to be built on the north side of Alumni Gymnasium.

There is already a sizable amount of money for this project and several firms have already given estimates on the cost of the pool.

The final project which is slated to be started within three years is the new library.

Plans for this project are still under consideration as a decision is yet to be made as to whether it will adjoin the old library, or be a separate building.

EDITORIALS

This semester has seen the advent of two new and important programs to improve the academic life of the college.

The first is "Operation Schoolbell" which is designed to allow and encourage professors to become 'bona fide' students in courses outside of their concentration area.

It is hoped that the results of the program will be both beneficial and stimulating to the teacher, student, curriculum, and classroom situation.

We feel that a program of this nature will not only improve the teaching skills of the professors, but will aid in the understanding of the role of the student in today's academic society.

High Point College has become the first college in the SouthEastern United States to become a member of the World Campus Afloat Association of Colleges and Universities.

The program was instituted by Chapman College and is dedicated to the objective of offering a student an education in a real world.

The campus is the U.S.S. Seawise (formerly the Queen Elizabeth) and will be used on extensive tours to ports directly related with the curriculum.

We feel that this is a wise and noteworthy step of the administration to provide the students with a real and exciting curriculum.

Due to the increased number of student operated automobiles on campus and the diminished number of parking spaces due to construction, the parking problem at High Point College has reached the crisis stage.

It is further complicated by the reluctance of both dorm and day students to park in the areas on the periphery of the campus.

In order to alleviate the problem, we propose several programs to be enacted upon; both long and short range.

We first suggest that the student body and administration meet and agree on a suitable security system to provide protection for those who park in the more remote areas of the campus.

This could take the form of a paid student security force to patrol the campus during the night. If this is not satisfactory, the security system should be minimized during the day to provide increased protection during the night.

Since the college owns the lot bounded by East College on the west and Montlieu on the south, and since there are presently no plans to develop this area, we suggest that this lot be paved and landscaped to provide suitable parking during the school year.

Another solution which is long range, is the conversion of the Harrison Hall property into a parking area to accommodate the increased traffic which will result after the new student center becomes occupied.

We also suggest that the lot behind Haworth Hall be extended westward behind the chapel and southward to the street to provide adequate parking for students and visitors.

First Weeks' Experiences Related?

Beverly Koch

As the end of the first week of school draws to a close, comes the time that all good freshmen must write home. It's also a time to compare notes with friends at other schools. It's amazing how differently the same week's events can be related.

Dear Mom and Dad,

I am fine. I'm doing okay but I really miss my own room and Mom's good cooking. My courses are hard but I am really studying. The social life is adequate and I've made several friends. I must go now as I have to "hit the books"

Love, Sally

Dean Ann,

College is the grooviest. I can't really believe I'm on my own. (well sort of) The freshman courses are dull but I'm not worried. I got all last year's tests from a kid down the hall. Anyway, my roommate studies all the time, so she can brief me before quizzes. I've been here a week and haven't cracked a book. Some record, huh!

I met the dreamiest upperclassman. He's about 6' 2", blond, has his own corvette (no less) and is president of his fraternity. If I work hard enough maybe I'll have his pin by Christmas. Fat chance! He's probably engaged. I really haven't had time to do too much. I've been to a party every night. After that I've tried to settle down. You know what dorm's are like. Monday we had a shaving cream fight. Tuesday I put soap flakes in the bed of this creep down the hall. Wednesday we had a water fight. Thursday we rolled the campus. And then the weekend finally came and it was time to play. Oh well, not much news. My dreamboat should be here in 10 min. so I'd better take my hair down and put my grubbies on. (It's a pasture party) Will write more when I can take time from my studies.

Love, Sal

views on news

Question; Operation Schoolbell has this year at HPC placed seventeen professors in the student role by requiring each to take three hours of study outside of their particular field. Can this program, in your opinion, aid the professors in better understanding the students' role in college, or is this a mere token program. Also any general feelings.

Scott Furman- Something had to be done, and I feel this program is an honest effort in the direction of bettering the relationship between faculty and students. I have Dr. Patton in one of my business courses and he does seem to take a big interest in the class and his fellow students.

Barry Brennen- I think it's a good start at letting the faculty see what pressures are on the students. It can strengthen the overall academic program and bring better understanding. It's been a one-way street too long.

Mr. Tom Scott- I'm not officially enrolled in PHILOSOPHY IN LITERATURE as a student- I'm auditing the class, as a student. As a teacher of literature I am looking for a new approach to philosophy and literature which may be helpful in my own classes. I hope to involve students by giving them first hand ideas rather than sending them to the library.

Bobbi Peterson- The program can't hurt anything. I feel the faculty is trying to understand the student role and create better relations with their students. I hope it works.

Betty Scott- I think that in the past and even now the students are taking most of the initiative to better student-faculty relations. A few teachers will take the initiative to better understand student problems but many don't seem to care at all. This program could be a start.

Profs Become Students

By
PEGGY INGRAM

Of all living things only man has developed a means of passing on his learning—values, skills, and attitudes. Learning takes place throughout the entire life span of man.

The speed with which people learn changes with age, subject matter, method, background, attitudes, interest, and many other factors.

Aware of the fact that professors can learn from students and have a close relationship with them, the High Point College faculty and administrative staff have put their shoes on the other feet and have unanimously accepted a unique program "Operation School Bell," as an official College program which came into existence this fall.

High Point College is the only known college in the United States that has designed a program of this quality.

The significance of the program is to promote understanding among faculty members and students—to have the opportunity to look at our educational program through the student's eyes—his problems and the faculty's answers to these problems as the students see them.

Dr. Wendell M. Patton, president, is confident that the faculty members will benefit from the program through personal development, diversification and broadening their fields of knowledge.

Also the development of real and practical knowledge to help the faculty members as they continue to develop and plan for continued curriculum improvement will be advantageous to the college.

The 14 High Point College professors who have volunteered to become students again are taking at least one course—three to six hours—in a subject of their own choosing. They were urged to take a course preferably not in their field, but perhaps related to it; something that they have always wanted to study or know about; or something useful or interesting, exciting or related to a hobby. More than one course may be taken by the professor if he so desires.

In addition to instruction, every member of the teaching faculty is a member of one or more Staff Committees and is subject to be called out of town to attend meetings from time to time.

Nevertheless, the faculty members must be a bona fide student, assuming course requirements, including lesson preparation, term papers and examinations.

Dr. Patton, said, "That the faculty members participating in this program could have a stimulating and sobering effect in the classroom where these teachers are enrolled as students, that it will provide opportunity for cross fertilization, and exploration of different viewpoints from different age groups.

"Teaching methods and techniques can be improved by putting teachers in a position where they might be a bit more concerned about their teaching skills when they know that their associates will be observing.

And also the faculty members will become more concerned about the actual learning process and the values that are inherent in the courses that they require."

Faculty members participating in "Operation School Bell" are: Mrs. Emily Sullivan, Thomas Conally, Raiford Porter, W. Lawson Allen, William Highbaugh, Mrs. Jane Burton, Miss Betty Jory, Dr. Earl P. Crow, Dr. A. Paul Gratiot, Dr. William Locke, Dr. C. E. Mounts, Dr. Alvin G. Myrick, Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Jr., and Dr. Owen M. Weatherly.

At the end of the semester the teachers will assemble with students, evaluate their learning experiences as a student in student groups, and make recommendations to improve the teaching program and curriculum.

H.P.C Joins Campus Afloat

By
PEGGY INGRAM

Dr. Wendell M. Patton, Jr., has announced that High Point College has been accepted into membership in the World Campus Afloat Association of colleges and universities.

World Campus Afloat is a unique experience in education initiated by Chapman College, in 1965 with emphasis placed on international and cross-cultural affairs within the context of liberal arts education.

The campus for the World Campus Afloat is The S. S. Seawise, formerly the R. M. S. Queen Elizabeth, the famous 83-ton luxury liner.

High Point College is the only college in the Southeastern U. S. that is a member of the program.

Davidson College has recently applied for membership.

Courses offered are in line with the curriculum at High Point College and the college will give full credit for any course taken on the campus afloat.

Today's student faces a world in which events and involvements in formerly remote areas have a profound impact on his daily life.

World Campus Afloat, therefore, holds to a commitment to innovate, to experiment and discover, to extend education beyond the four-wall classroom, to gain varied environmental and academic experiences, to provide for each voyage a student body and faculty of diverse cultural, geographical, ethnic, socio-economic and academic backgrounds, and to provide a triple learning experience where students learn from each other, from their professors and from contacts in ports of study throughout the world.

For education purposes, the giant liner includes classrooms, laboratories, library, audio-visual facilities and a theatre.

Other facilities include a buffet service dining room, student union, offices, bookstore, gift shop, and barber and beauty shop services.

Whenever possible, at the beginning of the voyage, the student and the professors for each course cooperate to set individual objectives toward which the student will work throughout the semester.

Implementation of his own plan then becomes the responsibility of the student.

The curriculum offered aboard World Campus Afloat is based largely on relevance to the itinerary and to the ocean environment.

According to the same principles, port activities are, for the most part, planned on the basis of course work to which they relate.

A full range of student personnel, social, and religion activities are provided.

Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish chaplains hold religious services at appropriate times.

Medical doctors and nurses serve the health needs of students.

Guidance counselors and a psychologist are also available.

A variety of physical activities including intramural sports, swimming, wrestling, dancing, gymnastics, weight lifting, fencing, volleyball, basketball, shuffleboard, and table tennis are sponsored on board.

Volunteer student organizations offer an opportunity for training in leadership, form the foundations for many shipboard relationships, and help the student develop values by which to live.

Among the clubs and organizations active on World Campus Afloat are: Students of Service, Ambassadorial Committee, Student Council, Choir, Drama Club, The Helm (student newspaper), Foreign Aft (student yearbook) and Rotaract.

campus in brief

Fall Weekend

Fall weekend will be held on the High Point College campus on Friday and Saturday October 22, and 23 respectively.

Tentatively announced for the concert is SHA NA NA.

Homecoming

February 19, 1972 has been designated as the date for Homecoming Activities by the Alumni Association.

This will also be Parents Day which is usually held in the Fall.

Rally

October 12 is the date of the North Carolina Environmental Rally to be held at the Greensboro Coliseum.

Speakers will be Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, and U. S. Senator Robert Packwood of Oregon.

Also in attendance will be Governor Robert Scott, and the North Carolina Congressional Delegation. Admission is free.

Part-time jobs

There are several part-time jobs available through the Placement Service of the Student Personnel Office.

Class Elections

Petitions for the officers of the Freshman class are due on October 5th.

Each petition must have the signatures of fifty freshmen to be valid.

Student Faculty Committee

Anyone interested in serving on a Student Faculty committee should sign up at the SGA office above the Student Center.

Fund

Fun Fund loans are again available through Mrs. Saunders in the Vice-presidents office in Roberts Hall.

Any student may borrow up to $25. for a period of two weeks with the only charge being $1. service charge.

Fall Play

Sonny Melrose was cast as lead in High Point College Tower Player's fall production of "Dracula" to be held Nov. 19 and 20 in Memorial Auditorium.

The female lead, Lucy Seward, will be played by Sally Keonp.

"Dracula" is the story of a young girl, Lucy Seward, who becomes mysteriously anemic. A specialist in obscure diseases suspects a vampire which according to legend is an ugly soul that, grave-bound by day, roams the earth at night and sustains his life by sucking the blood of approachable victims.

Women's Hockey Set To Open

The 1971 Women's Field Hockey Season will open this year with a game under the lights on the new astro turf at Appalachian State University.

High Point will also participate in the Deep South tournament at Furman University and the Southeast tournament in Washington, D.C.

Also slated in the National Field Hockey tournament at Westchester College (Pa.) should the Pantherettes qualify.

Only two starters were lost from last year's team that posted a 2-2-4 record.

Fullback Sue Wilson, a captain last year, was named to the Deep South All-Star team last year and leads the list of returning veterans.

Miss Jacqueline A. Palmer, who is in her second season as coach of the women's field hockey squad termed last year's team "very weak defensively, and very strong defensively." Among those four ties were a pair of 0-0 decisions.

"We still don't know how we'll be offensively," commented Miss Palmer, "But we do hope to be improved.

It's still too early to tell who will be starting."

In addition to the game at Appalachian, the Pantherettes will play UNC-Greensboro, Wake Forest, Catawba, East Carolina, and Averett College.

FIELD HOCKEY SCHEDULE

Oct. 5--At Appalachian; Oct. 8-9--Winthrop College Clinic; Oct. 11--At UNC-Greensboro; Oct. 14--Wake Forest; Oct. 20--Catawba; Oct. 22--At East Carolina; Oct. 26--At Catawba; Oct. 28--UNC-Greensboro; Nov. 2--Averett; Nov. 5-6--Deep South Tournament; Nov. 19-21--Southeast Tournament; Nov. 24-28--National Field Hockey Tournament.

May To Broadcast

Mrs. Pat Moore May, assistant professor of music at High Point College, has signed a release to permit the Southern Educational Network to broadcast on member stations the taping of her complete music recital for airing which covers territory from Texas to Maryland.

The recital was presented in February at Elon College and in the Memorial Auditorium of High Point College and was aired over WFDD-FM (Wake Forest) Radio Station in late April and again Sunday night, Sept. 20 at 8:00 p.m. on Showcase.

The only radio station in North Carolina representing the Southern Educational Network, WFDD-FM was asked to submit tapes that they had used.

Mrs. May's recital was selected for her performance and the high quality of the recording.

Mrs. May is a graduate of Virginia Intermont College, and has a Bachelor of Music degree from Salem College and a Masters degree from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Lambda Chi Abolish Pledgeships

Pledgeships in the large fraternities of the larger universities are quickly disappearing in the light of the ever changing social functions on the college campus.

In keeping with this directives of the National Office, Lambda Chi Alpha has instituted the abolishing of pledgeships on the High Point College campus.

Tradition has given way to a new humanistic movement in which the pledge is given the responsibilities of a brother in order that he will prove to the fraternity that he is willing and able to honor the rights and privileges that will be awarded him as a brother.

The new members of the fraternity will be known as associate members and will receive their schooling into the purposes and objectives of the fraternity in the form of seminars and discussion groups where they will exchange ideas with the speaker.

The associate member will attend all meetings of the brothers and serve on committees; however, he will be unable to cast votes or know the ritual of initiation.

The associate member will be inducted as a brother after he has proven that he is willing and able to assume the rights and responsibilities of a full-fledged member.

Soccer Selected As Fall Sport

For the first time since the early 1940s, High Point College is preparing for a season of intercollegiate soccer.

Twenty candidates for the squad began practice this week in preparation for the season opener against UNC-Greensboro here on Friday, Oct. 1.

Working with the soccer squad is Albert Khanlarian, and underclassman who is a transfer from Columbus College in Columbus, Ga.

Khanlarian, a native of Iran, has a background of soccer experience, in addition to being an outstanding tennis player.

The Panthers, who have not fielded an intercollegiate team since World War II curtailed athletics in 1943, played three matches as a soccer "club" last fall.

The need for a spectator sport in the fall, and the interest in the student body, prompted the decision to begin soccer on an intercollegiate level once again.

High Point College has an outstanding soccer tradition, and at one time fielded not only one of the strongest soccer teams in the state, but also in the East.

The 1941 team went undefeated with an 8-0-1 record, and that tie was a 1-1 match against the U. S. Naval Academy in which the Navy goal was scored by a High Point player.

That season the Purple Panthers downed the University of Virginia twice — once by a 9-0 score, Duke twice and Davidson on two occasions. That followed the 1940 season in which the only loss was a narrow 2-1 decision to the University of Maryland.

The Panthers are scheduled to play 10 matches this year, four of which will be played at home.

Opponents include UNC-G, UNC-Wilmington, Belmont Abbey, Pfeiffer, Guilford, Laurinburg, and Erskine, which is expected to be a contender for the national NAIA title this fall.

Home matches will be played in the baseball stadium at High Point College and are scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock p.m.

SOCCKER SCHEDULE

Oct. 1--UNC-Greensboro; Oct. 2--at UNC-Wilmington; Oct. 4--at Belmont Abbey; Oct. 6--at Guilford; Oct. 12--at Erskine; Oct. 15--At Laurinburg; Oct. 19--Pfeiffer; Oct. 20 at UNC-Greensboro; Oct. 25--Pembroke; Oct. 27--Guilford

H.P.C. Golf

High Point College golf prospects took a upswing this fall when former Ragsdale High School star Charlie Webster transferred from N. C. State University.

While playing No. 3 on the State varsity as a freshman last year, Webster finished in a tie for ninth place. He fired rounds of 74-71-71 for the three-round affair and his 71 was the second lowest round of the final day.

At Ragsdale Webster never lost a high school match, nor did his high school team ever lose a match in those four years.

Ragsdale won the sectional at Blair Park all four years and as a freshman he played among the top six and among the top three the other three seasons.

In 1968 he and his father, J. B. Webster, Jr., captured the North Carolina-South Carolina Father-Son tournament, and this summer participated in most of the major tournaments in this area--the Southern, Carolina Golf Association, Carolina Amateur, and the Carolina Open.

Speakers Selected For Forum Series

The Medical Director of the Haight-Asbury Medical Clinic, a staunch conservative, a Supreme Court correspondent for the New York Times, a spokeswoman from the Women's liberation movement and the underground newspaper work, a former prison official in the Arkansas penal system, and a noted critic of the lack of privacy in the American society will be featured speakers in the 1971-72 Forum Series at High Point College.

The Forum Series, sponsored by the Assembly Artist Committee of the college, began with conservative Reid Buckley on Oct. 21. The appearance of Dr. Jerry Rosenberg, who's book "Death of Privacy" has attacked the government and the use of industrial computers that threaten privacy, will conclude the series on April 13.

In addition to these six speakers, four prominent lecturers will be presented at High Point College as part of the Visiting Scholars program of the Piedmont University.

The primary purpose of the series is to provide the High Point College student with a balanced and stimulating cultural program. The secondary purpose is to provide an enrichment program for interested members of the community.

Joining Buckley and Dr. Rosenberg in the Forum Series will be Dr. David Smith, Medical Director of the Haight-Asbury Medical Clinic in San Francisco on November 9; Fred P. Graham, the Supreme Court correspondent for the New York Times, on December 1; Dr. Tom Murton, who exposed much of the brutality in the Arkansas penal system, on February 23, and Claudia Dreifus, who has been prominent in women's liberation, on March 14.

The lecturers for the Visiting Scholars program include Dr. Theodore J. Ziolkowski, renowned Professor of Modern Languages at Princeton University on November 17; Dr. Norman J.G. Pounds, Professor of Geography at Indiana University, on November 29; Dr. Clark E. Bricker, Professor of Chemistry at the University of Kansas, on March 1; and Dr. Morris Kline, former Chairman of the Department of Mathematics at New York University, on April 20.

'The New Consciousness' To Awaken HPC Campus

On November 15, the Student Union (SU) will present the first in a ten part Video-Tape series entitled, The New Consciousness.

The programs are designed to strengthen the educational value of dormitory living by presenting the pros and cons of some of the current controversial issues in America today; which would not normally be seen on the television set.

The tapes will be presented in a different dorm each night and all students (including day students) are urged to attend.

The programs will include:

'Waiting For Change' — A hard-hitting look at repression in America today featuring Mankiewicz' inside look at Washington, and Ralph Nader's plan for enlisting college students in his efforts.

Also an examination of the drug scene from Woodstock physician, Dr. William Abruzzi, some humorous information from Abbie Hoffman, a look at washroom graffiti with professor Robert Reisner, and a visit to a meeting of the Gay Activist Alliance.

'People First' — Six months in the making and filmed across the United States, "People First" is a candid documentary exposing the effects of corporate irresponsibility on average citizens whose anger has turned them into giant killers.

In it, the audience is introduced to Ed Gregory, who was responsible for the recall of two and one half million Chevrolets due to safety defects; Buck Gladden, a three dollar an hour day laborer who is winning his fight against billion dollar Union Carbide Corporation; Donald Jenson a twelve year old schoolboy who has raised $10,000 to bring a Nader-style public interest law group to Connecticut.

'Lieutenant Calley' — Famous war correspondent John Sack was chosen by Lieutenant Calley to write his complete story.

For weeks Sack was Calley's constant companion, privy to his deepest thoughts.

In it, Sack discusses the heretofore undisclosed facts of the Calley case, and the implications for all Americans.

'The Black Man and the System: Julian Bond' — The Georgia Legislator who made history in 1968 when he was the first black man ever nominated for the Vice-presidency, speaks out on his views on changing the "system" from within.

Bond appears in an arena setting at Brandeis University, surrounded by college students, including many militant blacks who strongly argue their opposition to Bond's more moderate views.

During the discussion, the viewer is introduced to the many paths open to black activists in today's America.

N P A C Sets Antiwar Protest

November 6 is the date set by the antiwar movement for "massive, legal, and peaceful" demonstrations in New York City and 15 other major cities to demand "immediate withdrawal of U.S. military forces from S.E. Asia".

"The wage-price freeze combined with the Pentagon Papers and the recent Saigon election scandal can make the Fall Offensive the biggest ever.

November 6 can see many demonstrations like the giant April 24th marches," predicted Jerry Gordon, coordinator of the National Peace Action Coalition.

"With the strong reaction against the freeze we can forge a real unity between the students and other sections of the population in the fight to end the war", Gordon stated.

Labor leaders are becoming more vocal in the dislike of Nixon's war policies.

In an "Open Letter" over 160 trade union leaders from around the country attacked the war this Fall.

The student/labor antiwar coalition began forming last Spring and may have matured in time for NPAC's Fall Offensive.

'Keep America Clean and Beautiful' Posters have been littering the campus. the obvious work of H.P.C.'s "environmental action committee."

ACLU Seeks Rights For College Students

Washington, D.C. (CPS) Asserting that college students are entitled to the identical first amendment protections on the campus as well as in the community at large, the American Civil Liberties Union asked the Supreme Court to review two cases; one involving demonstrations inside campus buildings and the other involving official recognition of student political organizations.

The ACLU noted that "by virtue of the 26th amendment, almost every college student is now fully enfranchised and entitled to participate in the political process".

The demonstration case arose at Madison College, a state supported school in Harrisonburg, Va., during the student reactions to the invasion of Cambodia in April, 1970.

About 25 students and faculty had met in an open air meeting to protest the firing of several teachers and they expressed their intention of meeting and holding a vigil within a few days.

The first vigil was held successfully but when a second attempt was tried, 30 were arrested by campus police.

The second case concerns students at Central Connecticut State College, in New Britain, Conn., who in September 1969 asked for official college recognition of their chapter of Students for a Democratic Society.

The ACLU is arguing in this case that college officials may interfere with the exercise of First Amendment rights only upon showing "a clear and present danger of some substantive evil occurring", and that the burden of proof is on the administration.

Cross Country Fares well In New Season

Out of three starts this season, High Point has compiled a three wins, one loss, and one tie, record.

The first meet, held September 29, was a three-way meet against Methodist-Campbell and Belmont Abbey.

High Point won the meet and due to the scoring of cross country, earned three wins.

On Oct. 6, High Point met Wake Forest in a home meet which ended in a 28-28 tie.

Coach Bob Davidson cited this as a very unusual occurrence for cross country.

High Point lost its first meet to Pembroke on Oct. 11, at a meet on Pembroke's home ground.

On October 16, the High Point squad traveled to Carrollton, Ga., for the West Georgia Invitational.

Out of 13 teams and 100 runners, High Point finished fourth with Lloyd Davis coming in sixth spot for the Panthers.

Western Carolina won the meet, Pembroke was second, and Troy State of Alabama, was third.

Coach Davidson singled out for praise Lloyd Davis who has been top in all the meets so far. "Lloyd is the leader of the team and serves to inspire the other runners," Davidson said.

"This is a young team in that senior Eric Noren has been injured most of the season and the remainder of the team, aside from Davis, a Junior, is made up of freshmen," commented Davidson.

Bob Phippen, Joe Meck, Neil Smith and Kevin Sullivan, are the current starters, along with Davis, who have carried the High Point banner of three straight District 26 championships into a fourth year of probable success.

Upcoming meets include the State Meet scheduled for October 28, at Raleigh.

Every school in the state with a Cross Country team is expected to be represented with at least 18 teams, fielding about 140 runners.

Home meets will include Davidson Nov. 1 and the District 26 meet on Nov. 13.

As older people revert to their pasts through No, No, Nannette; Maybe, Maybe, Mae; Sure, Sure, Shirley, and the rest of those vintage camp-side memories, we've been left without a nostalgia to call our own. Until now, we've had to live vicariously through our parents' pasts, as they try to bring it all back home again.

But now we can go back to those long weekend hours in front of the TV shouting tee hee at Howdy Doody, Buffalo Bob, Phineas T. Bluster, Clarabel, Dilly Dally and the rest of our 1950 family figures.

Because now Buffalo Bob, the Doody-Gang ringmaster, is making a come back. We have our very own nostalgia. With old films of Howdy Doody Shows that were last seen on the screen more than ten years ago, 53-year old Bob Smith is making the rounds of college campuses with a two-hour presentation that has long-hairs longing to retreat to their days of innocence. It all began last year when the University of Pennsylvania students wrote to Uncle Bob asking to borrow a Howdy Doody kinescope. Since then, Mr. Smith - Howdy in tow - has toured more than 60 colleges and has played full-house gigs at places like the recently-demised Fillmore East.

It was an innocent nostalgia—where we lived in a Wonder Bread world, building strong bodies 12 ways, drinking Ovaltine and searching for the cream filling in our Hostess Twinkie lives.

But, like the rest of us, Howdy - the dummy with brains enough to mutter only an occasional Gosh, Golly Gee and Right You Are - has grown up. At 24-years old, Mr. Doody still has his freckles intact, his ears outturned and, with all strings attached, is ready to lead us on to a new nostalgia.

Gee Whiz.

HPC To Unite Child Educators

by Beverley Koch

High Point College has taken the first steps in initiating an Association for Leaders of Young Children.

Thursday, October 21, a group of educators of young children and interested students met to try and establish an association to unify the kindergartens, nursery schools, and day care centers in the High Point area.

High Point College felt that they could contribute to an association of this type through the laboratory school which they plan to open in January.

Present plans indicate that the laboratory school for children ages 18 months to 5 years 6 months will be housed in the Gate House once it is renovated.

Students enrolled in Developmental Psychology for Early Childhood, as well as those in observation and student teaching involving K-3 will be participating in the program.

Children of faculty members and students will be given priority when selection of pupils is made.

Mrs. Carolyn Spillman, Coordinator of the program briefly stated that the goals of such an organization were:

1. To benefit the children.
2. To educate the parents.
3. To enrich the professional lives of teachers.

The newly formed organizations voted to meet again in February and April. The February meeting will be a tour of the newly opened laboratory school.

Anyone in the school or the community who is interested in better meeting the needs of our growing youngsters is urged to contact Mrs. Spillman at her office in Robert's Hall.

ED McADAMS leaps for a pass in the recent intramural football game between the Lambda Chi's and the independents in which the Lambda Chi's emerged as the victors.

If you have never written before, then we need you! Make your days on campus a little more interesting by joining the HI-PO. Come to Room 9 Harrison Hall (beneath cafe.) on Monday, Nov. 1, at 10:20 A.M. Experienced writers may also attend.

During one of your semesters at HIGH POINT

Why not go to AUSTRALIA?

— and Bali, and Singapore, and Bangkok, and Bombay, and Kobe, and Hong Kong, and Capetown, and Mombasa, and Casablanca . . .

You can, and get full academic credit at the same time. Through our association with the World Campus Afloat program of Chapman College, you can leave in February or September for an exciting semester at sea. You'll study under an experienced international faculty, and during port stops you'll study the world itself.

The WCA program is in its seventh year; more than 6,000 students have participated in this unique experience in international education. Scholarships and financial aid are available. You can get details here on campus from the World Campus Afloat Advisor,

HPC Literary Magazine Seeks Editor

Now in its tenth year of successful publication, APOGEE, the High Point College literary magazine for both students and faculty, faces its recurrent first-semester dilemma concerning adequate editorship.

The main editorship has been held, in the past, by a senior English major, but exception to this will be made if necessary.

At present the APOGEE staff consists of business manager Douglas Poorman and faculty advisor, Dr. Eugene Mounts.

There will be financial compensation from a renewed grant from the North Carolina Arts Council.

Both the editor and business manager will receive a $75 literary scholarship from the college for their efforts.

Anyone interested in filling this position should see Dr. Mounts in room 25-C of Cooke hall as soon as possible.

Other activities related to the APOGEE, include a trip to the North Carolina Arts Council conference in Raleigh, on October 30 and the resumption of the weekly workshop to counsel student writers.

BRITT TO PUBLISH

Dr. Morris F. Britt, an Associate Professor in Psychology at High Point College, has been notified for acceptance for publication of two articles in national publications.

Dr. Britt's article, "Studies in Humor" will be published in an upcoming issue of Counselor Education and Supervision. This is a complete bibliography of empirical studies on the psychology of humor, preparatory to the research on the subject.

An article entitled "Behavior Modification" will be published in Psychological Reports. These papers report on the utilization of a seminar with parents to train them to modify their children's behavior with behavior modification techniques — primarily operant conditioning.

WORLD AFFAIRS INSTITUTE

The annual World Affairs Institute will be held at Greensboro College on November 12-14.

The topics and speakers will be varied and current. For instance, Miss Houser is currently under consideration for the Supreme Court, and whether she gets it or not, she should have much to say on the matter.

Dr. Bronfenbrenner, an ardent free trader will be matched with a leading textile executive.

Moreover, Mr. Broadwater, a black gubernatorial candidate will discuss both racism and Viet Nam.

A number of student activists representing Vista and the Charlottesville pledge will be present. Last, we have Norman Cousins, a journalist.

He is not only the editor of the Saturday Review, but an elegant spokesman of the peace movement.

CO-EDS HOST MARKET

Seventeen High Point College Co-eds have been chosen by Masland Duraleather to act as hostesses during the Furniture Market on October 22 thru October 29.

The contestants will be judged by their co-workers in their assigned spaces in their ability to greet prospective furniture buyers at the market.

The winner will receive a $1,000 dollar scholarship and will go on to the national competition in Detroit for another $1,000 scholarship and a new car.

This years hostesses are: Debbie Chappell, Nancy Crocket, Chris Cutrova, Bonnie Henesy, Debbie Howland, Sue Johnson, Jeanette Jones, Ann Magill, Deborah Mead, Linda Shipe, Jerri Reed, Jane Swanson, Ann Slaughter, Lana Voyiagis, Debra Wilhelm, Ann Dykes, and Anne Navaro.

Last years regional and national winner was Anne Navaro.

WRITERS NEEDED

Hallmark Cards is once again sponsoring the Kansas City Poetry Contest with more than $1,600 in prizes.

Interested poets should send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to Poetry Contests Directors, P.O. Box 5313, Kansas City, Mo. 64131. for the contest rules and entry blank.

APPRECIATION DAY SET

Ministers Appreciation Day will be held on the High Point College campus on November 11.

Invited ministers will be on campus from 10 a.m. until 12 noon for a series of presentations and then from 2 until 4 to attend a forum and meet students and faculty members.

The purpose of the meeting is to bridge the gap between the college and churches.

LITERATI

Once again the Washington & Jefferson Literary Journal is soliciting students for new materials that will help to compose this annual literary magazine. Interested students may send prose, poetry, music, graphics, and photography to: The Journal, Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Penn. 15301.

All manuscripts must be received no later than December 17, 1971.

Students interested in the Society for the Advancement of Management receive the necessary orientation materials from S.A.M. Secretary-treasurer, Phyllis Weyraugh.

S A M Registers Higher Membership

An increase of 50% in membership has been announced by the HPC chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Tom Heaton, chapter president, revealed that it was the combined efforts of Jerry Brown, vice-president; Phyllis Weyraugh, secretary-treasurer; and faculty advisor Joe Robinson along with support of the other faculty members in the business department, that helped attain the goal.

Mr. Heaton also revealed the clubs plans for this semester.

The plans now include a managers tour to Schlitz Breweries, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco, a Federal Reserve Bank, and Sears Roebuck and Company.

Meetings are also to be held once a month with the Senior Chapter in Greensboro.

A special attraction at this meeting on November the 16th is a panel discussion with representatives from HPC, Elon, and the Senior Chapter.

The discussion will be the generation gap in management.

HPC representatives are Tom Heaton, Charles Burgess, Robert Carter, and Mr. Cletus Kruyer.

EDITORIALS

The HI-PO recently began its forty-fifth year of publication with much the same problems it has faced in its last two years — a lack of student interest.

Three years ago The HI-PO was selected the best small college newspaper in the Carolinas by the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER and copped the best small college newspaper award in national competition at Columbia. Since that time the HI-PO has been desperately fighting to stay alive.

The blame for the failure of this publication to serve as an effective means of communication for the student body rests entirely upon those it is meant to serve.

The administration has fought to keep the HI-PO alive by inaugurating a journalistic laboratory course by which students receive semester hours for actively contributing material to be published in the HI-PO.

Unfortunately, only four students have optioned to take the course and the HI-PO is back where it started — with a lack of help.

The student government has reluctantly (and with strong pressure from the administration) allowed the HI-PO to print by allocating a budget which allows the HI-PO to print less than twice a month. They have agreed to give the HI-PO one semester to "get going again".

We the editors would like to see nothing more than to print an eight page tabloid on a weekly basis again. However, we are realistic in saying that a semester is not enough. To effectively serve as a communications media again, we need the support and contribution of time and materials from the student body. Only then, will the HI-PO be able to once again present itself to the college for what it is... the best small college newspaper in the nation.

Those who are willing to help in any way should contact the editors through the campus mail, Box 3038, and your reply will not go unheeded.

The largest faction of the student body seems to have been pushed almost entirely off of the High Point College campus.

Most of the social activities (including the "New Consciousness" series) are geared toward the dorm students, the most convenient parking spaces are taken up by the dorm students, and now, the Day Students will be forced to eat their lunch off campus because of a new rule which prohibits students from bringing food or drink into the classroom at any time.

Why should the day student be forced to eat his lunch amid the clamor which is constantly erupting from the student center? Why can't the snack bar be opened during the day to allow the students to sit down and eat their lunch quietly?

The complaint of some professors that their classrooms look like a pig pen is well taken; and day students would rather not eat in them, but how can the administration allow these students to be pushed out with no place to go? It cannot.

Had the day students an organization through which they could protest (there is a 'day student' organization in name only it appears since the president of the organization has yet to call any type of meeting) they would not feel as if they were being thrown off the campus.

We feel that the administration is doing the day students a disservice if it allows them to feel that they are not a part of the student body at HPC; because they are a large and important part.

We call upon the administration to open the student snack bar during the day so that students can eat their lunch on campus without breaking any rules.

Direct (?) Distance Dialing

by Beverley Koch

Last spring, North State telephone company brought High Point one step closer out of the dark ages by introducing a new concept in telephone service, direct distance dialing.

Having never before tried the new marvelous system, I decided to call an old school friend in another state last week.

I properly read the A*B*C blocks on the cover of the directory, poised my index finger above the dial, gathered all of my courage to try out this new fangled invention and dialed.

With eager anticipation I listened as the phone rang five, six, then seven times. I had just decided that there was no one at home when a voice answered.

"The number you have reached is a non-working number. This is a recording in Portland, Maine!"

I was shocked at my feat since I had been trying to call Washington, D.C.

Not to be dissuaded from completing my call, I quickly dialed again. Nothing.

Suddenly a voice said, "Hello? Is this Woman's Dorm?"

"Who are you? I'm trying to call Washington, D.C."

"This is Jack in Amherst, Massachusetts and I'm trying to call."

"Hello, is this Woman's Dorm?"

"Who is this?" I quickly asked, "I'm trying to dial direct to Washington."

"This is Annie in Baltimore and I'm trying to call..."

Without waiting for a reply, I quickly slammed the receiver on the hook and dialed 0. I allowed the phone to ring at least twenty times when a pleasant voice answered.

"The number you have reached is a non working number. Please use direct distance dialing."

I hung up the phone and dialed 0 again.

"I'd like directory assistance for the Washington area" I said. She gave me the number and I dialed.

"Directory Assistance for the Washington Area" said the voice on the other end of the phone.

"I'd like the number for Lucy Smelt, Babcock Hall, Drew University."

"Just one moment, please," she said.

I waited for about five minutes and was ready to hang up when the operator suddenly came back on the line.

"I'm terribly sorry," she said, "but there is just no such person living at that address."

"But Operator..."

"I'm sorry...click."

As I sat at my desk, I got out a piece of paper and a pen. Phone rates may be the only thing that have not been affected by inflation I thought, but post office boxes don't tell me that the person to whom I am writing does not exist.

As I started out the door to go mail the letter, the phone rang. I hesitated for a moment, and then I answered it.

"Hello" said the person on the other end.

"The number you have reached is a non working number" I said. "This is a recording. Beep." and I hung up.

What is your opinion of President Nixon's upcoming visit to Red China? Do you feel Red China should be recognized and seated by the United Nations?

Ignorance accounts for the presence of only one commentor in this student opinion poll this week.

After wading through numerous "I don't know" or "I don't care" replies, this column was left somewhere between amazement and disgust at the ignorance of supposedly well-informed and educated voters and students of learning.

This question inevitably came to mind: How can students of learning, in their most open-minded and inquisitive years, justify their apparent oblivious attitude to their world?

A part of that answer was supplied by attending the first of a Forum Lecture Series in Hayworth Hall Thursday night. The speaker was Reid Buckley; twenty High Point students heard him.

This column will not offer comment on Mr. Buckley's talk for that is not its present undertaking. The fact that ONLY twenty students were exposed to Mr. Buckley and did in fact gain some degree of enlightenment concerning national politics by hearing him makes its own point.

Can students justify their indifferent ignorance? To a degree, yes.

By its size and location High Point College keeps its students in a microcosm not known to the students of Columbia or George Washington. Those students are constantly bombarded by new ideas and events and are through their very environment swirled into the mainstream of national and world thought.

Necessarily, High Point College must and is making an attempt to give some semblance of life to an almost lifeless mass. Through daily World News Briefs and the continuing Forum Lecture Series the college is attempting to offer a new spectrum to an almost non-existent area of basic knowledge. Whether the college will drown itself in ignorance and indifference is yet to be seen.

YAF Opposes United Nation's Move

North Carolina Young Americans for Freedom (YAF), a conservative youth organization, has announced its support of Congressional action that would terminate all financial aid to the United Nations. In a letter sent to all members of the North Carolina delegation to Congress David Adcock, State Chairman of North Carolina YAF, said, "The recent action of the General Assembly of the United Nations expelling Nationalist China and admitting Red China constitutes a final abandonment of the principles on which the U.N. was founded—international peace, morality, and order. Due to this abandonment, the U.N. no longer deserves our support."

In a letter dated November 3, 1971 that was sent to all North Carolina Congressmen, Adcock warned of the opposition of organized Conservative groups to those candidates for Federal Office that "fail to realize their duty to uphold the moral integrity of American foreign relations."

According to YAF, they have taken this action as a result of the expulsion of Nationalist China from the United Nations. Among other projects, YAF places heavy emphasis on programs that stress victory, rather than co-existence, over communism. Owen Jones, YAF publicity director said "Red China has consistently renounced the very foundations of liberty and peace. In my opinion, the U.N. has given recognition to the principles upon which Red China sustains itself—namely, war, genocide, totalitarianism, and repression. We (the United States) cannot continue supporting an organization that condones international anarchy."

Currently, the United States provides 36% of the U.N. budget. Young Americans for Freedom is a nationally based conservative organization founded in 1960 by newspaper columnist William F. Buckley. YAF claims 71,000 members across the nation and some 1,500 members in North Carolina.

Sen. Harris Advocates Students Participation

Senator Fred R. Harris (D. Okla.)

If we are going to have a better distribution of power in this country, we must make sure that consumers of every kind of service — from police protection to medical care — have some control over the decisions that affect their lives. Too often people feel that their views don't count any more — that all the cards are held by a small group of experts accountable to no one.

I think we can change that. For example, several years ago when there were student disorders on campuses all over this country, there was a lot of talk about getting students involved in the decision-making process in their schools.

But right now only three per cent of the colleges in this country have students as voting members of their boards of trustees. A few schools such as Vassar and Princeton have chosen young alumni to serve as trustees. A few others have appointed students to advisory committees with no real power.

In the majority of colleges and universities, however — especially in the public universities and community colleges where most students go to school — we've seen hardly any movement at all toward student participation.

The majority of college trustees are still chosen for their financial or political connections, not for any special vision or commitment to education.

Last year the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania voted to sell the school's stock in General Motors — not because of the company's monopolistic pricing, pollution policy or record on auto safety. The trustees announced they were selling the GM stock because they were afraid tough new federal anti-pollution standards would lower the value of the stock.

That's the kind of big business way of thinking people of this country, and especially young people, are sick of.

The redistribution of power in our schools and colleges should be an important priority, for all of us concerned about higher education.

I believe the government can promote this by requiring all colleges and universities receiving federal funds to have significant student representation on their boards of trustees. Not control, but real representation.

Some people in Congress have tried to use federal funding as a way to punish schools. It is time the government started using its power to encourage good efforts.

That means, among other things, giving students a real voice in making decisions which affect their lives.

Colleges and universities receiving federal funds should be required to open up their trustees to student representation — to representatives chosen by other students and accountable to them.

This would be a kind of fundamental change in the distribution of power in this country. It is the kind of change people are entitled to.

Julian Bond Speaks

HIGH POINT, N.C. — Julian Bond, Democratic member of the Georgia House of Representatives and outspoken advocate of civil rights, will speak at High Point College Thursday morning, November 18, at 10:15 a.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

Bond's appearance at High Point College is sponsored by the Student Union.

Born in Nashville, Tenn., on January 14, 1940, Bond became the first black man to be elected to the Georgia House of Representatives since Reconstruction in 1965. He was prevented from taking office in January, 1966, by members of the legislature who objected to his statements about the war in Viet Nam. After winning a second election in February, 1966 — to fill his vacant seat — a special House Committee again voted to bar him from membership in the legislature.

Bond won a third election in November, 1966, and in December, 1966, the United States Supreme Court ruled unanimously that the Georgia House had erred in refusing him his seat. On January 9, 1967, he took the Oath of Office and became a member of the Georgia House of Representatives, where he is a member of the Education, Insurance and States Institutes and Properties Committees.

Bond is a member of the Board of Directors of the Southern Conference Education Fund and a member of the Advisory Board of the proposed Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Library.

He attended primary school at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, and was graduated from the George School, a co-educational Quaker preparatory school. He entered Morehouse College in Atlanta in 1957 and left in 1961 to join the staff of the Student Nonviolent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC), an organization he helped found a year earlier.

While with SNCC, Bond directed the organization's photography, printing and publicity departments. His work with SNCC took him to civil rights drives and voter registration campaigns in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Bond is a member of the Executive Committee of the Atlanta NAACP, and a member of the Board of the Highlander Research and Education Center. He has been a Research Associate of the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council.

His poems and articles have appeared in Negro Digest, Motive, Rights and Reviews, Freedomways, Ramparts, Beyond the Blues, New Negro Poets, American Negro Poetry, The Book of Negro Poetry, and other publications.

EDITORIALS

Four years ago, the Publications Committee, in an effort to secure continued and professional editors for the Zenith, Apogee, and Hi-Po, passed, and set in motion a resolution which granted literary scholarships to the editors and business managers of the three publications.

The funds, it was decided, should come from the unspent money left in the budgets at the end of each semester. The scholarships were to amount to no more than $106.25 per semester regardless of the amount of unspent money. Should the budgets of the publications lack this amount, the editors would receive only a portion of the excess.

After four years, the head of the Student Union, in what can only be termed an act of jealousy, introduced a bill which would remove any scholarships from the editors unless the college agreed to give the heads of Student Government, Student Union, Student Legislature, and Student Judiciary scholarships of equal value.

The bill, which passed student legislature by acclamation, is erroneous because the college does not pay the literary scholarships and we do not wish for them to begin now.

Miss Linda Bagby, vice-president of the student body, has been quoted as saying that this is the first bill concerning this matter to be formally presented to legislature.

This may be true, but we wish to remind Miss Bagby and the student body that on Wednesday, November 6, 1968, the student legislature passed a "nonremuneration" bill which deleted from the budget of the Student Government Association "any funds to be paid to the executive heads of the student government". Previously, the executives had received the sum of $100 per year to pay them for services performed.

It was argued then, just as it is argued now, that the heads of Student Government, Student Legislature, Student Union, and Student Judiciary are ELECTED officials of the student body and do not require payment since they were aware of the duties involved when they CHOSE to run for these offices.

Mr. Cagle, president of the student body, has stated that he does not expect to be paid. Why then did he vote in favor of a bill which called for granting him monetary compensation?

Mr. Donald LaMar, speaker of the house, states that if the college wants these jobs done, then they should employ professionals on a full time basis. We can think of no better solution to the problems of our campus than to have a professional student legislature which would not be so preoccupied with killing the three publications, that it would at least tend to the more pressing matters.

Both Mr. Cagle and Miss Bagby have stated that they "are not out to kill the three publications". If this is so, then why have the heads of the publications been subjected to such coercive and abusive measures as having their budgets cut to a bare minimum, having bills introduced in legislature to remove the publications from the student activity roster, and having resolutions passed asking for their resignations when there was no one to accept their positions?

Mr. Cagle stated at the first meeting of the Publications Board that when student government can find no problems to solve (they are obviously not looking for any) they 'pick' on the publications in order to have something to discuss. If this is a valid statement, then we can only state that we feel these elected officials are failing their duties to the students and to the school.

Instead of isolating the publications as if they were sores to be hidden from the public view in hope that they will dry up and go away, student government should be willing to help the three publications to better serve the student body.

Let us hope that the student government begins to function properly before someone decides that they are an unnecessary expense and should be cut from the budget.

Coach Barnett has proven himself to be a capable coach who has earned the respect and admiration of his players and the school.

We extend our wishes to the Panthers for a successful season and hope that they will go on to Kansas City for the nationals in the same manner which brought them there during the 1968-69 season.

Guest Editorial

Emergency

Conference for New Voters, December 3, 4, & 5, Loyola University, Chicago

As college students, we are almost all 18-24 years old, which means that the twenty-sixth amendment to the Constitution entitles us to do something we have never done before—vote for a candidate for President of the United States. We are eleven million in number and we possess a political potential greater than almost any other single group in the country. Organized, we could have a remarkable impact on politics next November, but the opportunity is about to quietly slip. The situation in the two major political parties indicates that neither party is particularly anxious to welcome the young, newly enfranchised voters as full participants in the politics of 1972. It is quite possible that both the Democrats and the Republicans will simply fill their "youth slots" on their national convention delegations with young party hacks—thereby fulfilling their numerical obligations, without changing the philosophical base of the parties whatsoever. We cannot allow that to happen.

The Emergency Conference will mark an end and a beginning in the politics of 1972. It will see the ending of the bi-partisan voter registration efforts of the past six months and the beginning of the struggle for delegate power in the nominating conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties. It is in Chicago that we must set the national strategy by which young people, in cooperation with the already formed minority and women's caucuses, can formulate a caucus of our own—the Youth Caucus—to insure that one or both of the national parties nominates a candidate acceptable to the young and the poor in this country.

Those of us who worked for Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy in 1968 learned that the structure of the old politics buckles under hard pressure, correctly applied. The power elite did not deny us the Presidency in 1968: an assassin did, and while the tragedy of Robert Kennedy's death is still incomprehensible, it does not convince us that the political system can repel all efforts to change it.

Only by a concerted effort in Chicago can we hope to rival the power and organization of the political machines which run our political parties. But the process must begin now. Serious reform in the parties is dependent upon the mass numbers which only young people can bring to bear and in many states delegate selection will be effectively finished by the end of February. If you care about using the 1972 elections as an effective mechanism for change in America, we invite you to join us in the work of the Emergency Conference for New Voters, December 3, 4, & 5, at Loyola University in Chicago. Come to Chicago and cooperate in the planning and organizing which alone will give us real power inside the convention halls of 1972.

—Duane Draper, Chairman of the steering committee for the Emergency Conference, and President of the National Association of Student Governments in Washington, D.C.

In only a few short days, the High Point College Panthers will officially begin their 1971-72 basketball season in the Carolinas Conference.

The Panthers are under a new coach this year and we do not have to state the hopes of the student body, administration, and alumni as to the success of the team this year.

SGA Pres.Call Emergency Conf.

Over one hundred student body presidents from colleges and universities across America joined with the Association of Student Governments this week in calling for an Emergency Conference for New Voters to organize students as voting delegates to the national party nominating conventions in 1972. The Emergency Conference is slated for December 3, 4, and 5 at Loyola University in Chicago.

"The events of the past month clearly indicate that neither of the two major political parties welcome the young, left-leaning voters as fully-enfranchised participants in the parties," said Duane Draper, President of ASG and Chairman of the steering committee for the Emergency Conference. "These events create a crisis situation for the millions of young people who wish to effect constructive change through existing institutions. Unless we begin the task immediately of organizing students within the party processes, we will find ourselves totally excluded from the delegate selections and the Presidential nominating procedures, thus effectively disenfranchised despite the 26th amendment."

The events Draper referred to were the Democratic Committee's selection of Patricia Harris as temporary chairman of the credentials committee over liberal Senator Harold Hughes (D-Iowa), who had been viewed by many as the key to enforcement of the McGovern Commission reforms at the Democratic convention in Miami.

On the Republican side, pressure from higher echelon Republican officials to thwart Congressman Pete McCloskey's (R-Cal) challenge to President Nixon in the primaries has caused serious financial problems for McCloskey's campaign, and could essentially eliminate him as an alternative Republican candidate.

"It is imperative that the twenty-five million 18-24 year olds in this country are aware of the mockery that both Democratic and Republican party officials are making of the reform movements in the parties," continued Draper.

"Young people must sense the urgency of this meeting of the student community and the absolute necessity of mobilizing very quickly to combat those forces who would seek to isolate us from the regular party procedures. We must remember that there are great numbers of people in both parties who would prefer to wind up at their conventions with 3000 students outside chanting instead of 300 students inside voting. We do not intend to give them that satisfaction," he concluded.

The Emergency Conference for New Voters is the last national gathering of students before the delegate selection process begins, which in some states is as early as February. The Conference at Loyola will include a number of workshops, seminars, and panels to discuss voter registration and political organization. A series of national speakers, to be announced at a later date, will address the students at the Chicago conference concerning the issues confronting them in this election year.

Love Means...

Future Shock, the sociologists tell us. Future Shock? Never. We're suffering from Schlock Shock. And it all revolves around one word: Love.

What used to be so personal, private and intimate has turned into a merchandising formula for wealthy would-be poets and capitalistic couldn't be writers who never have to say they're sorry.

Mass-produced love, like hula hoops and Barbie Dolls, is a new vogue. "Love is universal and love is an easy thing to merchandise," says the merchandising director of Paramount records. And not only are there bountiful banal books and multitudinous m lin movies. We're not being taken by it. We're taking it in.

We're allowing today's millionaire mod prophets to perpetuate old romantic myths that dictate the meaning and greening and, worse yet, how we can find love.

In order to find The Meaning of Love, you have to play hockey at Yale, break away from your rich father and find a poor girlfriend who has leukemia.

You'll find it if you get rid of your bad breath. Or the frizzies. Or psoriasis. Or your mild case of terminal acne.

You'll find it if you buy the world a Coke.

You'll find it if you live alone-alone-alone with a cat named Sloopy.

Cardboard Love is enveloping—rather than developing—us. In poetry, in movies, on television, in alleged literature.

"i used to be in love with my teddy bear, but i love you lots more..." proclaims a book called "i love you" that's guaranteed to be so impersonal you can give it to anyone—your lover, your mother or your teddy bear. One dollar please.

Or Peter McWilliams who has written a slew of sappy books ("Come Love with me & be my Life," "I love therefore I Am," not to mention "The Hard Stuff: Love.") His books contain such hard stuff as:

first
I lived for love.
then
I lived in love.
I lived love
now, with you
I just love!
Two dollars please.

But their books read like Walgreen greeting cards compared to the works of the fathers of them all: Erich Segal and Rod McKuen.

A Classic® Waterbed is 200 gallons of love

A WATERBED is close to nature. It creates a totally unique feeling of complete comfort, happiness and sensual well-being. Physically a waterbed consists of a puncture-resistant heavy duty vinyl bag, a safety liner to protect against spillage or leaks, an insul-pad to regulate water temperature and a frame to firm the mattress and support the safety liner.

EASY TO FILL AND REMOVE—The mattress is filled by connecting a garden hose to a faucet and placing the other end through the safety valve. The water never has to be changed. Sheets and spreads can be used by tucking the bedding under the mattress. To remove the waterbed, simply siphon out the water and fold up the mattress and safety liner.

ACCIDENT PROOF—Only deliberate stabbing with a sharp object will harm a waterbed. A cigarette or match will not inflame the mattress because the water in the mattress disperses the heat to prevent the vinyl from reaching flammable temperature. Four or more people can romp, jump, and play on the bed without harm to the bed.

FUN IN BED—Lying on a waterbed is an experience beyond verbalization. It is an effortless delight of sensual pleasure, enhancing all your motions. Your mind and body will experience perfect weight distribution and muscle relaxation. You'll sleep deeper, feel more rested, and need fewer hours of sleep each night. You can't be uncomfortable in any position because the bed molds itself to your contours.

LIMITED OFFER—ACT TODAY: Save 50% or more. Buy directly at special student prices. This offer expires Dec. 31, 1971. Our merchandise has a full 10-day money-back GUARANTEE. If within this period you are dissatisfied with your waterbed for any reason, send it back and we will return your money. The waterbed also has a factory guarantee against defects in material and workmanship.

Salons Create Parking Policies

By Bob Herbst

Parking places are at a minimum at HPC.

This year as an inducement, the administration has allowed Freshmen to have cars on campus.

In the student hand book is a clear statement of where Freshmen are to park their cars. However, due to a security problem, the students are becoming victims of increased incidents of 'vandalism.'

As a result, many Freshmen have refused to park their cars in these areas.

To correct this problem, new campus police have been hired and a new parking bill has been drawn up by Student Legislature.

This bill states its knowledge of the parking problem and Lot behind the gym is seldom occupied.

$1.00 per day extra will be charged up to $15.00 (15 days). Presently being suggested to shows concern for the safety of female students.

The first resolution is that Freshmen not be allowed to have cars on campus after the '71-'72 school year.

The second resolution is as follows: "Be it further resolved that the Dean of Students purchase stickers for all female dorm students and that female dorm students have exclusive parking rights to the following areas between 5 a.m. and 7 p.m.; front of Co-ed, front of Snack Bar, behind Roberts Hall, and in the lane toward Woman's Hall."

Most important of all is that "all other dorm students be allowed to park anywhere on campus except in areas reserved for women."

"A fine of $5.00 will be levied on all cars not in proper areas.

This fine is to be paid within a week.

If at the end of that period, the fine is not paid and no arrangements have been made with the Dean of Students, a students to be allowed to park in reserved areas around Roberts Hall from 7 p.m.-7 a.m.

Some new parking suggestions have arisen including the land owned by the college across the street from the library.

A further suggestion and possibility is to carve out the area between the library and Woman's Hall.

Another possibility is to expand the lot behind Hayworth Hall.

Our world diminishes from natural beauty to ugly clutter. A painful contrast that raises the question "Why?" In fact, why poverty in a land of plenty? Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal everywhere provokes the question...

Students Talk on Today's Problems

by Peggy Ingram
High Point College
News Bureau

HIGH POINT, N. C. — On the spot learning is what 10 High Point College students in the "Speaking Bureau" of the Speech for Business and Professional People course will be doing during the month of November and early December.

The course is designed to acquire principles and practices in the forms of speech communication frequently found in business and in the professions with emphasis on parliamentary procedure, conferences, interviewing, and persuasive speaking.

"The students were asked to participate in a Speaking Bureau for one month in order to gain practical experience in the art of public speaking." Said Mrs. Judy Marshall, instructor of the course. "Classroom assignments provide experience in theory whereas practical application enhances the student's skill in reacting to a realistic speaking environment."

The course was introduced in the spring semester of 1970 while the Speakers Bureau is in an experimental stage. If proven to be successful, the Speakers Bureau will be incorporated in the class requirements on a permanent basis.

The speakers are: Tom Houck of Winston-Salem; Emmett Ellis of Kernersville; Tom Heaton, Rita Littles and Molly Sandifer, all from High Point; Robert Carter of Savannah, Ga.; Charles Burgess of Lynchburg, Va.; David Baird of Buffalo, N.Y.; Bill Florenz of Timonium, Md.; and Barry Mayberry of Greensboro.

Houck spoke on "The Generation Gap" to the High Point Chapter of the American Business Club at the Top of the Mart in High Point on Nov. 9.

On (Sunday, Nov., 14) at 6:30 p.m., Ellis spoke to the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Main Street United Methodist Church in Kernersville. His topic was "The Effects of Misused Drugs."

On Tuesday, Nov. 16, when the Greensboro chapter of the National Society for Advancement of Management (SAM) meets for their regular monthly meeting at the Hilton Inn in Greensboro, three members of the High Point College Student Chapter will participate in a panel discussion entitled "Bridging the Generation Gap."

The three participating are Heaton, Carter and Burgess. Cletus Kruyer Jr., associate professor of business administration at the college will also participate. Heaton is president of the SAM chapter at High Point College.

Other participants on the panel will be three Elon College chapter members and Allan Sanders, head of the business administration department at Elon and five senior members from the Greensboro area chapter of SAM. Lloyd Gordon, news director for WBIG Radio Station in Greensboro, will be panel moderator.

Baird will speak to the Northwest High School journalism class in the Guilford County School System on Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 9:30 a.m. Baird's topic will be "Censorship in Modern Literature".

Also on Nov. 17, Florenz will address the T. Wingate Andrews High School Athletic Club in High Point at 3:45 p.m. His topic is entitled "Advantages of Sports in a Small College."

On Monday, Nov. 22, at 1 p.m., Mrs. Littles will speak to the Northwest High School Speech and Drama class. She will discuss "Communications."

Molly Sandifer will speak on "Courtesy and Manners" at the 7:30 p.m. Girl's Business Club meeting of T. Wingate Andrews High School on Nov. 23 and on Dec. 1, Barry Mayberry will conclude the series of speeches at the Women's Society of Brown Summit United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. He will speak on "A Breakdown on Toy Safety."

When the students were asked their reactions to the program, Carter said, "In the everchanging world of communication in business, the ability to communicate effectively with

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORT

This report stated that hopefully there will be a meeting with the Board of Trustees during the month of December.

The Newsletter is now being published by the S.G.A. Any announcement to be printed must be in before noon on Monday.

To hand in material or get any questions answered contact Linda Bagby, Susie Walters, Nate Cagel, or student personnel.

New Bills

Legislation was light this time on new bills being proposed.

Passed was a bill entitled Rule 22, and Student Union Director. Rule 22 was set up so day students who sometimes have meetings in the Trustees Dining Room be allowed in the cafeteria without having to buy a lunch.

The bill entitled Student Union Director entails the knowledge that a Student Union Director is in the process of being hired.

Therefore since Student Union has the largest expenditure on campus, that they shall have the power with the approval of Student Union to advise and consent with the Administration on this.

Tabled was the bill which if approved would put a sidewalk from McCullough Dorm to Hayworth Hall.

This sidewalk would be put in the general area where there is a path already trampled out.

This bill also suggested that a cross walk be painted by the city for this path.

It was pointed out that if that cross walk was painted there that the other one would have to be removed.

As it stands now people who cross in the un-marked walk area may not be covered by their insurance if an accident were to occur there.

The bill was tabled for further research.

others is the most important factor in achieving success."

Florenz thinks that one speech to an unknown group outside college provides much more experience than speaking to the class several times. He said, "This speech should break the ice of over coming the fear of speaking to strangers."

"Classroom study is great," said Heaton, "but how we handle ourselves under fire, will really determine how successful we will be in the business community."

CIRCLE K REORGANIZES

by Molly Wetmore

The Circle K Club, the largest service organization on colleges in America, has been reactivated on campus here at High Point. The Circle K Club here was organized by Reece Beane, who is Lieutenant Governor of the Foothills Division of Circle K which includes eight colleges in the area. The Circle K Club is sponsored by Furnitureland Kiwanis of High Point. The club has started a K-ette or womens auxillary and is now operating as a coed organization with approximately 20 members. The officers are; Wayne Block - President, Doug Moore - V. President, Doug Watts - Secretary, and Carl Ridgeway - Treasurer. The club started off the year with a membership drive. The goal is to have 30 members. The club conducted a stream cleanup on campus in conjunction with the High Point Public Works Department. Approximately 40 man-hours were spent on the cleanup. The club plans to work with the Public Works Department in the spring during the spring cleanup campaign in High Point. The club sent five members to the Carolinas District Training Conference at Wafford College, at Spartanburg, South Carolina. The club will have a full front page article and pictures in the district magazine next month.

The Circle K Club along with the S. G. A. will be sponsoring a drug seminar from October 25-28. The week will include speakers; Charles Dunn, Tom Watson, H. P. Police, Operation Switchboard, Alcohol Education Center, films, brochures, and a final nights debate between all previous speakers in the auditorium on Thursday night. The club is calling this week, "Operation Drug Alert: Phase I." Phase II will be held in the spring and will involve the club working with the college, Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, businessmen, the Drug Action Council in High Point, Contact, Youth Unlimited, and the high schools in the area to coordinate and extensive drug program throughout High Point.

The club has been having meetings with Kiwanis and Circle K-Kiwanis relationship is fantastic. The clubs plan to work together this year on such matters as assisting disadvantaged youth, drug alert, pollution control, trying to bring High Point College and the community closer together, Walk for Mankind, etc.

The club plans to have a Halloween party for some kids from a local foster home on Saturday night, October 3. A fund raising campaign, candy sell will be conducted the first of November.

The club plans to work during the year with athletic publicity, youth unlimited, Inc. Salvation Army, Boys Club, Model Cities, Project Concern, Public Works Department, and other organizations on and off campus.

The club is working with all media in High Point on publicity for projects and activities. Reece Beane and Wayne Block will appear on "Dialing For Dollars" on Channel 8-WGHP, on Tuesday morning to discuss drug week. Coverage for drug week and other projects is being given by WGHP-TV, Radio stations, and High Point Enterprise.

The Circle K Club has many goals. If you are interested in serving mankind and helping people, (as well as having fun doing it), join Circle K.

Religion Department Begins New Exis Program

By Peggy Ingram
High Point College News Bureau

Ten High Point College students enrolled in the Principles of Christian Education course, are engaged in a unique exploration program entitled Experimental Information Services (EXIS), a direct two-way communication between church agencies and the local church and a systematic information storage and retrieval service.

An 18-month action research project in which information of use in the administration of leader enlistment, training, and supervision for Christian education is selected, indexed, recorded, and computerized. EXIS is a service of the Division of the Local Church of the Board of Education in Nashville, Tennessee.

EXIS provides relevant information references with 16 fields of data that are retrieved and printed out by computer. Also paper copy of related abstracts and reprints are located and retrieved manually, and with the printout of references, are sent to the subscriber the same day. Recorders, mostly professional educators in the Church, are the people who have prepared the information stored in EXIS.

If abstracts or reprints are not available, EXIS will provide information such as the name of the book, author, cost, chapter, and even page number for the various subjects needed.

Since EXIS is an experimental project, data will be gathered on all its operations. As a research partner in the project, students participating will help supply information that will be used in determining whether a more extensive service of this kind should be developed, and, if so, how it should be designed.

Although limited to colleges, ministers, laymen and other educational ministry affiliated with the United Methodist for its service, the information stored in EXIS was prepared from all major denominations, public education, the social sciences, theology and other resources related to Christian education.

Mrs. Dorothy Hays, assistant professor of Religion and philosophy at the college, subscribed to the service which enables her, along with the students at the same time, to use a toll-free, telephone WATS line to make inquiries to leader development—how to enlist, train, and supervise leaders—and the resources for use with leaders.

Phone inquiries during off hours are received, automatically recorded and transcribed to inquiry forms. The computer firm processes the inquiries, and the information is mailed to inquirer. Oral reports are also provided for subscribers who call back.

While traveling throughout the United States this past summer to do a special field research in Christian education, Mrs. Hays visited St. Paul's Graduate Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., where Dr. Dorothea Wolcott, professor of Christian education, had recently tried this program for her students. Mrs. Hays visited Dr. Wolcott and discovered how this program might benefit her students at High Point College.

Mrs. Hays commented, "There is an explosion of experimentation and knowledge in Christian education making it impossible to keep abreast of the field unless we do resort to the help of the computer and other new media for communication.

"I think that my students must be ready to use this media if they are to be prepared and informed for what lies ahead of them when they actually begin their various forms of service after graduation from college or graduate school. So far is known no other college students in the U.S. have had this opportunity."

To meet requirements of the course, the students also have to participate in off-campus activities. Students are also participating in various programs in different churches in the surrounding area.

In September, students attended sessions on "School for Christian Growth", held at Wesley Memorial United Methodist Church in High Point. Sponsored by the United Methodist of Churches of Greater High Point in cooperation with the Western North Carolina Conference of the Board of Education, subjects offered were Making The Bible Come Alive, Children Learn What They Live, Multi-Media and the Church, and New Life in Small Groups.

In late October students attended a three-day all-day "Workshop on Creative Teaching", held at Centenary United Methodist Church in Greensboro, sponsored by the Western N.C. Conference of Board of Education. Courses offered dealt with art, dramatics, music, Multi-Media and Interpretive Movement.

From November 21-23, students will attend a series of lectures and discussions at Wesley Memorial United Methodist Church in High Point. Dr. L. Harold DeWolf, former professor of Systematic Theology at Boston University, will be the leader.

EXIS Participants research data for new Religious Program.

Heroin Use Increasing Dr. Tells Audiences

By Ray Alley
HPC News Director

Heroin as a social ill, drug experimentation, marijuana, uppers and downers were topics of discussion Tuesday evening when Dr. David E. Smith, medical director of the Haight-Asbury Medical Clinic in San Francisco, spoke at High Point College to a gathering of students, faculty, administrators and other interested High Pointers.

The lecture was part of the college's Forum series and was highlighted by a frank and informative question-and-answer period.

"Heroin has become the 'in' thing in the San Francisco area," commented Dr. Smith, whose clinic, the first of its kind in the country, has treated over 150,000 patients during the past four-and-a-half years. "Heroin is actually less toxic to the body and causes less abuse than does amphetamine but it is much worse in its day-to-day patterns.

"The major reason for this is that heroin is a social ill, and in the United States it is controlled by a vast monopoly — organized crime. This is a billion-dollar business and forces addicts to steal, commit assault and participate in prostitution to support the habit."

One of the problems. Dr. Smith stressed in regard to returning servicemen from Vietnam who have become addicted to heroin, is that in Vietnam there are a lot of addicts, but no junkies. High-grade heroin is available on almost every street corner, and for only a couple dollars a day the addict is able to support a big habit. Dr. Smith stresses that the need is for treatment of the addicts and not prosecution.

Dr. Smith discussed the upper-downer syndrome that many become entrapped in. He explained that many "speed freaks" shoot the stuff into their veins to get a "flash", and often use from 1,000 to 5,000 milligrams a day, equal to 500 diet pills.

"Following the speed runs, many people started taking the downers — barbiturates — in order to try to treat these speed runs," Dr. Smith continued. "The barbs are depressants and barbiturate withdrawal is actually more serious than heroin withdrawal."

Among the programs Dr. Smith advocated where complete relief and rehabilitation of heroin addicts, methodon programs for heroin addicts who cannot break the habit by other means, legalization of marijuana, and further research into what extent excessive drug use will do to future generations through genetic change.

Regarding marijuana, Dr. Smith offered, "From tests that we've made we find nine out of 10 people who try heroin get into trouble with the drug and become addicted. One out of every 20 people who drink alcohol become alcoholics, but only one out of 100 who smoke marijuana get in trouble with the drug.

Regarding prosecution of young people for drug charges stemming from marijuana, Dr. Smith commented that the punishment of imprisonment is often much worse than anything that could happen to them by using the drug. This includes physical abuse such as homosexuality, rapes and also psychological abuse.

"We need to take a look at the law and ask whether or not it is doing what it was meant to do," concluded Dr. Smith. "Then I feel we should legalize marijuana and face the problem openly."

To: Hi-Po Nov. 8, 1971 Report from the President of S.G.A. On October 7, 1971 the Student Government Association sponsored an open forum for all students to voice their opinions on campus issues. The meeting passed four resolutions that have now been acted upon: 1. Harrison Hall be converted into a student gymnasium upon completion of the new Campus Center. This matter has been taken to the administration and it is being considered; hopefully this will be acted upon favorably.

2. The College Book Store was discussed especially in regards to its policy dealing with the buying and selling of books. It was suggested that a committee be set up to look into the different ways to buy and sell books that might be more equitable to students and faculty. This has been done and hopefully next year a new system will be in effect.

3. Parent's Weekend suggestions were discussed with the students wanting to know what has happened to the suggestions made. Presently the Administration is reviewing these suggestions and are taking action. Some of the suggestions are already acted upon: the chapel, the Campus Center, picnic area.

4. The policy of barefeet on campus has been checked into and we have found that the individual professor makes the policy for his own class. The Library policy is set by Miss Carter, and the policy of no barefeet in the cafeteria is set by a state health law

Salons Pass Bill To Nix Literary Scholarships

ED. NOTE: The following article was written by the Journalism class, under the direction of Mr. Ray Hubbard in an effort to make the student body aware of recent legislation passed by the student legislature.

A proposal to end scholarships for editors and business managers of all campus publications is under study by Dr. Wendell M. Patton Jr., President.

The Student Legislature passed by acclamation November 2 a resolution requesting "That either all heads of the Student Union, Student Government Association and Legislature receive similar scholarships or these scholarships granted to the literary organizations be discontinued effective Spring semester, 1972."

Since 1967 Editors and Business Managers of the Hi-Po, Zenith and Apogee have divided among them $1000.00 each year.

The Editors and Business Managers of all these publications have contracts this year which call for granting of scholarships.

Prior to this year funds have been appropriated from the Student Activities Fund.

Patton has requested from the Publications Board a recommendation on whether to continue the scholarship Publications Board last Wednesday voted to recommend that contracts entered into already this year be honored, but deferred until the December meeting a recommendation on what to do about the whole question of rewarding students for service activities.

The question of paying student leaders other than publication heads has been a recurring issue in recent years.

Linda Bagby, vice-president of SGA points out, however, that this is the first time a formal bill has been passed to get remuneration for additional students.

There appears to be wide disagreement among both students and faculty members on how the issue should be resolved.

Nate Cagle, President of SGA, said that when he agreed to run for his office he wanted to serve the students. "I did not expect to get paid." He says that he spends practically all of his time outside of class at meetings.

Cagle along with Chief Justice, Student Union Head and Speaker of Legislature are elected by the student body each spring.

Don Le Mar, Speaker of Legislature, tended to back up Cagle's view. He argued that the amount paid through the scholarships is so small that anyone worthy of the job would not consider this monetary reward important.

He contends that if the college wants to pay to get these jobs done, Professionals ought to be employed on a full time basis.

Editors and Business Managers of the Campus Publications are appointed by the Publications Board from persons who on their own initiative showed an interest in the Posts.

In recent years there has been a decided lack of interest in these posts and in some instances there have been no potential candidates. For example, an editor for the Apogee still has not been named for this year.

Several members of the publication Board suggest that athletes on full scholarships do

Love Story' about a male student who plays hockey instead of hookey. About a coed who gets married and then buried. $5.95 in hard-back, $9.5 in paper-back please.

And Maestro McKuen: "If they could overlook my acne/ and the inch I lacked/ to carry them to heaven,/ I too could deal in charity." $4.50 please.

"Rod puts into words all the things I feel," said one girl I know who doesn't even have acne. She considers McKuen's prose-poetry to be good literature because it puts her feelings into words. But good literature takes words and transforms them into feelings.

McKuen and Segal deal in greeting card kitsch, but on a different level than the others. They manipulate us into wanting to believe that love is easy. Their works are read quickly, cried and sighed over quickly. They lead us into a fantasy world, where life is a love story, where loneliness is a national pastime, exceeded only by leukemia and acne. And they laugh all the way through the bunk and to the bank.

Love Story has sold more than five million copies and was made into a successful (financially, anyway) movie. McKuen's books and records have earned The Bard more than $5 million a year. Not bad for a little love.

And what does it all mean? It means that we're desperate enough to find out the meaning of love that we'll go through one-night stands with McKuen and Segal, who have become Dr. Ruebens in romantic drag. everything you/ always wanted/ to know...

So what does it all mean? The answer is probably best put in one of McKuen's own poems: "If you had listened hard enough/ you might have heard/ what I meant to say: Nothing."

But whatever they meant to say, they say it over and over and over again.

Maybe love means you never have to say.

Kalidoscope

by Beverley Koch

It must have been around the middle of October that I began to notice the department stores taking on a new look.

About a week later, I was positive that the new spirit filling the stores was the spirit of Christmas.

"It's not even Thanksgiving", I said to the clerk, "why the Christmas displays?"

"We've got to get prepared", she said.

"Prepared for what?" I asked.

She looked at me as if I were rather stupid and replied, "Christmas." "Do you mean to tell me people are buying Christmas presents now?"

"They've been at it since August," she replied with a sigh; "but it's getting worse. Why just the other night..."

"Thanks," I said, "see you later."

I left that store and walked into another one. There I was confronted by rows upon rows of plastic Christmas trees guaranteed to look real, cost less, and last a life time.

As I turned the corner, I ran into a ½ price "early Bird" sale on Christmas cards. I glanced over the boxes, noticing that more and more of them were of houses, cocktail glasses, and stewed santa clauses.

Stronger and stronger feelings of disenchantment swept over me.

Signs all around me reminded me not to forget Billy's girl, Great-Aunt Sue, and to donate money to send some group here or there to be in a parade.

As I wandered along I watched everybody frantically rushing about trying to make sure that everyone got exactly what they deserved for Christmas.

Outside the weather was 70 which added to my misery.

Nothing smelled like Christmas. There was nothing old-fashioned or special about the season. There were no families eagerly trying to make something that would be a work of art, the perfect gift for the one they loved.

There were no bells, no carols, no carolers. Everything was plastic and sterile.

Amidst the commercial hustle and bustle of the holiday season the true meaning of Christmas had been lost.

As I hurried out of the store I knew that I had 30 days in which to find a real Christmas for myself and my loved ones.

not give anymore of their time than those working on the publications.

There appears to be considerable sentiment of the part of members of this board for a complete study of the whole issue and establishment of long range policy to provide guidance in future years.

As an example of the need for such a policy it was pointed out at the board meeting last Wednesday that the contracts negotiated with the Business Managers and Editors may have been invalid because of a lack of guidance.

Those are the items discussed in the open forum. Also, the Student Legislature has passed a bill on parking. Soon the Dean of Students will have Women Parking Stickers to be placed on every woman's car. The bill states that women will have exclusive use of the following parking areas: front of Co-ed, front of the snack bar, and the lane running from Roberts Hall to Womens Hall. All other cars may park anywhere on campus except in reserved areas. A fine of 5 dollars will now be used for all infractions, and this must be paid within 7 days or arrangements made with the Dean of Students or a charge of $1 per day will be charged up to $15.

The Student Government Association is working for the students but we need your help and suggestions in order to work for you. I hope this article will be published or at least the main thoughts be communicated to the students. The Hi-Po is the voice of the students, please see me or have someone contact me if more information is needed.

Sincerely, Nate Cagle Pres. S. G. A.

"S-P-I-R-I-T" that's right it spells spirit and this is what the college needs. Especially during basketball season. With the yells and turn out of all students during the basketball games, can help bring our basketball team onto "Victory." The basketball players are not playing just for themselves, but for the student body. They are also trying to project a better image for High Point College through basketball. They're trying to help us, so let's try and help them.

"He's a Winner", "He knows his stuff". This is what the basketball players are saying about Mr. J.D. Barnett, the basketball coach. Mr. Barnett is considered a tough, hard, and dedicated coach. With the background of a winning coach, High Point College can look forward to a bright and successful basketball season.

"Condition, Condition!!" that's what the game was called during the first month of basketball practice. The purple panthers are the best conditional team in the conference this year. They have to be in good condition to play the type of defense and offense that they have. The defense will be different from the one last year. It will be a man to man defense and a very tough one. The offense will have many different plays. The players will have to anticipate when and where they are going to be during the game.

This years conference will be the most competitive, and toughest conference ever. The purple panthers will have to play such colleges as; Elon, Guilford, Catawba, Lenoir Rhyne and many more, before basketball season is over. Every college has a good chance of winning the conference this year.

The basketball players for this year are: Seniors; John Kirkman, Joey Wilson; Juniors; Steve Allen, Reick Foelber, Tommy Gill, Tubby Smith, Sophomores; Mike Clark, Pete Collins, Carlwin Steel; Freshmen; Bob Aylmer, Gregg Bennett, David Bryant, Frankie Essick, Russ Taylor Jr. The managers are Travis Brand, and Carl Mastrosamon; The coaches are Mr. J.D. Barnett and Mr. Davis.
