Birthday Party Scheduled

Officially, High Point College will be fifty years old on Monday, September 16. In attempting to celebrate the event, the Office of Alumni Affairs and the Student Union are sponsoring a Birthday Party on Saturday, September 14. It should be a great day of fun and participation by Alumni, friends, students and the College family.

Registration with coffee and doughnuts will continue all morning beginning at 9:00 in the Loyd of the Holt McPherson Campus Center.

Field Day Events will take place on the lawn in front of McCulloch Hall beginning at 10:00 and continuing for two hours. Teams for tug of war, three legged race, sack race, and egg throw will be composed of students, faculty and staff, alumni, and guests.

The long English and Language Placement tests arrived quite early Monday morning and were followed by an official welcome to the college from President Patton, Dean Cole, Mr. E. F. Holt, Mr. Dalvey, Dean Boyle, and Dean Guy.

On Monday night the cafeteria was turned into a "Have we got a dance for you" atmosphere. The new students danced to the music of the Catalina off Greensboro, NC as they met more new friends. Tuesday students registered and received I.D.'s and P.O. numbers.

After dinner Dr. Britt led the new students in Mixer Activities which offered a new and different experience.

On Wednesday all freshmen reported to the auditorium for psychological tests, followed by an optional language and math test. The afternoon provided a long awaited rest period as the upperclassmen began to arrive only to add to the long lines at dinner.

The Hi-Po also welcomes all incoming freshmen and transfers to the campus and invites them to get involved and participate in campus activities such as The Writer's Club; Phoenix Club meetings; the Tower Players - the college drama club; Apogee - the literary magazine of H.P.C.; Zenith - the college yearbook; the Greek fraternities and sororities and the upcoming rush; the multitudinous activities of the Student Union; and a special invitation from the Hi-Po to all freshmen interested in journalism.

If there were anything the reporters of the Hi-Po have noticed about the freshmen to date, it is a certain patience and intrepid good humor in the face of the endless red tape involved in registration and the testing of Orientation. As so many students from all the U.S. and many foreign countries enter college here for the first time, there will inevitably be numerous difficulties of every kind. But just as inevitably on a campus with such an unique family atmosphere, all rough edges will be smoothed out and everyone will discover just what is here for him. In the meantime, for the next few weeks, we can all "grin 'n bear it."

Fellowship Teams Organize

The High Point College Fellowship Teams will officially begin another year on September 12, 1974. The teams meet each Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the First Floor Lounge of the Student Center.

The Thursday night meetings are workshops on the dynamics of the youth group in the local church. During the year individual teams make weekend visits to local churches to work with youth and their adult counselors. This unique opportunity for Christian service is sponsored by the Department of Religion and the Students for Christian Action. Academic credit can be received for work in Fellowship Teams. Anyone who may be interested is welcome at the First meeting at 7 p.m. on Thursday, September 12, 1974 in the First Floor Lounge of the Student Center. No commitment will be required, but do feel free to come hear what Teams are about. Contact Glenn Myers, Jr. 883-9509.

Film Festival

A major upcoming event of entertainment for the new year is a Classic Film Festival, sponsored by the Writer's Club.

The first film of four, "The Phantom of the Opera", starring Lon Chaney Sr., will be shown on September 19 at 7:00 p.m. in the Old Student Center.

Lon Chaney is noted for his portrayal of the hideous Phantom. The film itself is noted for the music of the Paris Opera House. "The Phantom of the Opera" is a silent film with the original organ background music.

Incoming freshmen who will be needing cultural credits should note that attendance at this event has been approved by the Assembly and Artist Committee as counting for Cultural Credit.

The Writer's Club welcomes all students to attend the film festival free of charge. More information concerning the Writer's Club may be obtained by contacting President Cindy Stocker, Campus Mail, or Sponsors, Dr. William DeLeeuw and Dr. Edward Placentinon.
Hello H.P.C. Even as I type this, my first editorial, I reflect upon the many things both good and bad about this position which I hold. I am constantly distracted from my typing by a trophy that is ensconced nearby upon the desk. It is a trophy for the best college newspaper in this entire state, which the Hi-Po won in 1969. Five years ago, last year at this college there was serious consideration of discontinuing the paper entirely and just not having a campus newspaper in the future. All of this change in four years time. It seems that the paper was no longer "relevant", (even the word is becoming a cliché), no longer the paper that was for a radio station which some people think will be able to do all that the paper could do and more. Maybe.

Why has the paper fallen so drastically? An examination of the old records may be the best indicator. At the time the Hi-Po won that trophy it had an enormous eight thousand dollar or so budget. This years Hi-Po has just half that amount. At that time the Hi-Po was a sixteen page, multi-sectioned paper which came out weekly. It is now an eight page pimpy which comes out twice a month. At that time the editor of the paper got a stipend from the college and was able to get college credit hours for his work. I get paid nothing and get no credit of any kind.

Does it sound to you like I'm just trying to get back a little of my own? You're right! But that's not all I'm trying to do. Anyone can see that with twice the budget and the incentive of a paid job the paper would be run more professionally and might just become the best in the state once again.

But why go to the trouble? Why have a paper at all? Let's explore what a paper can do. A paper is a permanent record; it is more than that. Important? No, you...you show me. That this ridiculous bit of paper you are holding can be so much more than invite, I challenge any member of this college, and bring it to me. If you want to write, then do write. If you want to offer your own drinks if you go independent, but there's something somehow All-American about that anyway.

There are a lot of good times, in fraternities and sororities, but the G's system didn't make them that way. They had their heads together long before they pledged.

In short the Greeks offer a link to the society of their own, a fraternity or a sorority, but the payment is tough, and the independents offer a helping hand when you need it, too.

You'll hear a lot of good things about the Greeks in the coming days. I just wanted you to hear both sides.

The First Day of College: A Freshman's Impression
by Paul P. Hildreth
On Sept. 1st, 1974 I began my first day at High Point College, which is a story in itself. All of the babies, I mean freshmen, myself included, were lump-throated and about to die from heat exhaustion. I was not dreaming, it was my first day at High Point.

I strongly advise gentlemen to stay clear of our campus chapters of Delta Sigma Phi, Theta Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Alpha, and Lades you would do well to avoid the Miss America smiles of Phi Mu, Kappa Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

The reasons are simple and varied. Booze is a good one. People who like to drink and drink a lot are always good Greeks? The tactics used to entice new students into their ranks would seem to indicate that this is true. Watch the potential pledges walk down the halls of McCulloch with their brown bags as they head for rush parties and dinners and watch them come back. The toll alcohol takes on these people is obvious, and with teen alcoholism an increasing-ly serious national problem, better watch out when trying to build an organization on.

A second reason to stay clear is that you may not be asked to pledge. Maybe you've never seen what happens to a person's head when they've been courted, wined and dined and then dumped by a fraternity or sorority. Friendship is a lot like love, no? Maybe you have lost a lover? It gets real ugly when the little invitations come out or don't come out as the case may be. But suppose you do pledge? Then comes the third problem, cash. In a time of inflation it's hard to understand why anyone would pay hard money for friendship when so much of it is free for the asking. And it does cost. But there are only minor offenses when compared with the falseness of it all. The system works to provide you with a sense of brotherhood and sisterhood. Lonely freshmen are offered a chance to go out to lunch with an upperclassman, maybe out to dinner, to a party, to drink, to gossip. The loneliness is dissolved as the cash hits the barrelhead, magic! Why can't our upperclassmen extend an open arm policy without Greek organizations? Why can't freshmen make friends with each other instead of meeting over a mug of brew in the shadow of Greek letters?

Independents have done it for years and years. There are plenty of good organizations to get involved in that have a decent purpose. We've got service clubs, Tower Players, Writer's Club, Students for Christian Action, Fellowship teams, intramural sports, even the newspaper staff isn't a bad place to meet people. Of course, you buy your own drinks if you go independent, but there's something somehow All-American about that anyway.

The Hi-Po is an independent newspaper. Its policies and editorials, both signed and unsigned, reflect the opinions of the editors and not necessarily those of the college.

Does Sex Saturate HPC?

by June Hill

There is a greater degree of sexual expression among college students today than ever before. The students of High Point College take no exception to this statement. Reasons for this vary from the greater possibilities for privacy, to the rising means of sex without involvement.

Our has been called a 'sex saturated', culture. But what is the college student really looking for? Does he accept sex as an isolated part of his life to be used for fulfillment when other things fail to succeed? Or is he looking for real relationships that satisfy over and above the passing moment?

Among students at HPC, the latter seems to be the general feeling, although the former is the more prevalent practice.

Why is it that a student will set out looking for a genuine experience and settle for so much less? The reasons are many and depend on the individual. Generally they can be put into two categories: a lack of meaningful standards enforced and exemplified by the authorities around the student, and a failure in the search for self to fulfill his greatest needs.

The American community has never really made up its mind what it wants and expects from the college student. While the world outside is busy experimenting with its own morals - trying out the Playboy philosophy, furthering a back-to-church movement - the college student is living in a fishbowl, the center of all attention when he, too, tries to experiment. (Have you ever noticed how those of your friends who bypassed college to go right into business are never up for special comment?)

A young person comes to college advised to think for himself, but instead he finds himself the victim of a group of meaningless rules which are supposed to be his standards for life. Rules without reason are forever without meaning. No student wants to live in a meaningless society. He expects restraint and guidance from those older and more experienced than himself. But an overwhelming amount of rules accompanied by a conspicuous lack of whys and wherefores are cause for rebellion, and rebellion comes in various forms, including sexual aggression.

College is supposed to cater to more than just intellectual needs. It is a place of searching for identity, and while no student knows exactly what he is looking for, he has some idea of what he would like to find. He expects to further his personality by interacting with others whom he finds interesting, and to interest them in return.

It is here that we find a basic complaint about our campus. The boys are not happy with the seemingly singlefold purpose of the girls-to-look-good and be liked because they look good. They are searching for more depth, and finding it lacking. So, they turn to sex.

The girls, in return, register almost the same sad story. They contend that the boys are less interested in who a girl is than in how she looks.

The girl who is asked out at the very last minute doesn't feel that she's being sought for her personality, but rather, only as a time consumer. And what could be more time consuming than sex?

A total philosophy of life is involved here. The college community should provide an emotional, social, and intellectual climate which fulfills the student's needs. But apparently something is missing.

Sex is not a trite thing to be played with, and most students know that, without commitment, it is a superficial and unsatisfying experience. But as the college campus becomes more 'sex saturated', where do we place the blame?

Happy Birthday HPC

High Point College celebrated its fiftieth Birthday on Saturday September 14. The day-long party was underway by 10:00 a.m. as the students, faculty and guests joined together for relay games and races on the front lawn of McColloch. The morning’s games were directed by members of the HPC Student Union. Dr. Murphy Osborne accepted the winner’s trophy for the HPC faculty who expressed surprise regarding the many changes which have taken place since they last visited our campus. Following lunch was a brief program led by Dr. Robert Williams, Director of Alumni. Mr. Williams welcomed the alumni back to HPC and assisted alumni members; Mrs. Har- mon Colbe Sr., Mrs. Helen Lewis, and Miss Elena Young, in cutting the Birthday Cake.

Welcome Dean Boyles

by Doug Potter

High Point College has hundreds of new faces this year, and among them is the new Assistant Dean, Mrs. Ann Boyles. Ann was born in Rocky Mount, N.C. only a few years before most of us. Her parents are Dr. and Mrs. Leon Robertson. She is married to N Bennet Boyles who is the principal at Sumner School.

Opening Convocation

by Doug Potter

On September 11, 1974, at 10:00 a.m., High Point College held its opening convocation assembly at Memorial Auditorium. After the processional played by Mrs. Pat Moore May, Dean David W. Cole greeted the administration, faculty, guests, and extended a warm welcome to new and returning students. Following Dean Cole, the President of the SGA, Steve Lawton, gave a simple, but meaningful message to the students encouraging them to become an active part of the HPC scene. Reverend Charles Teague gave the invocation which led into the beautifully sung solo, “The Impossible Dream” by Miss Donnah Harrington. Dr. Harold Con- rad, professor of History, introduced the guest speaker, and is an applicant for his Doctorate of Education in Educational Administration at U.N.C-G. Ann’s high school days were spent at Rocky Mount, N.C. after which she attended the University of Pittiers, La Rochelle France, from which she graduated with a certificate d’Etudes in the summer of ’66. She has also attended Meredith Col- lege, U.N.C. Wilmington and U.N.C. Chapel Hill, where she received a B.A. degree with a major in French and a minor in Religion. She obtained her Master of Education degree from U.N.C-G in French. Presently she is an applicant for Doctorate of Education in Educational Administration at U.N.C-G.

Ann’s activities have been varied. They include being a high school cheerleader, working on a high school paper, being an AFS student to Rio de Janerio, a member of the National Honor Society, a member of Lakeside Baptist Church, and winner of several beauty awards. During her college years she tutored high school and college students in French, worked in language labs, and assisted Dr. Sarah Bell while she was authoring Charles Nadler: His Life and Works. As could be expected by her friendly smile and poise, she was a finalist in the Miss North Carolina Pageant in 1967. Dean Boyles was an active member of Kappa Gamma Sorority at U.N.C-Chapel Hill and has expressed her desire to see a good Greek union here at H.P.C.

Dean Boyles has expressed to me that she truly enjoys the atmosphere here at H.P.C., plans to become well known to students as an administrator, and also hopes students will feel free to drop by for a chat. On behalf of all the students, dean Boyles - Welcome.

The first school song composed by Miss Dorothy Hoskins and Mrs. Margaret Gelsey Fussell, of the 1929 class was sung, followed by the Almama Mater composed by Dr. Lew J. Lewis, former professor of High Point College. The birthday party resumed at 2:00 pm on the steps of the Student Center for a Student Talent Show. Cez Goner and Bill Ashley, masters of ceremonies, welcomed the varied audience. The Stu- dettes opened the Talent Show.

Cultural Enrichment Program Announced

The Assembly and Artists Committee, chaired by Dr. Vance Davis, has enacted a new program to enrich the cultural life of our campus. The program is instituted in the 1974-75 college catalog, and so affects incoming freshmen and all students who choose to abide by the current catalog.

These are the basic requirements of the program. Four semester hours of credit must be earned in the cultural enrichment program. One semester hour is earned by attending five of the cultural/intellectual events, three of which must be on-campus events. All students in the program receive five cards at the beginning of the year which may be turned in as they attend the events. No one event is required. Following is a list of the approved activities for credit in the program.

FALL SEMESTER 1974

Congratulations

by Pat Jobe

Frank Caulfield’s food ecology program is working and thank the Good Lord. Although there was considerable excitement over fifteen perfect inflations since school closed in May, the cost of board has not gone up. Caulfield is doing everything in his power to keep the prices the same and the selection wide. And let me state here that although I’ve listened to complaints about quality of the food for two years, we’ve got a good cafeteria. Sure it’s not the best, but it’s still the Poincress in Chapel Hill if you want some rotten institutional food. Friends of mine who have visited from other colleges in the area agree that we have a better selection of better food, and a better facility. But the fact that the food ecology program is working is the best news yet. Caulfield talked about our nation program last week. In his machine-gun bregue, he slammed at higher costs, congratulated the students on their co-operation, and talked of possible higher rates in board.

“I don’t want to see the board go up, but canned food is going up forty percent next month. Not only is the food out of line, but milk’s up, bread’s up, even ice cream’s up. It seems like the prices come up with the sun every morning.

“But these kids are picking in their pockets and putting them on the belt. Of course, the whole thing isn’t fault. I’m trying to get my servers to try to exercise a little control. I saw a girl putting about a pound of hamburger pie on a plate today, but they’ll get better. The whole thing is teamwork. I’m not saying don’t eat a lot, just eat what you think you should. I still have a couple who load up with one of everything on the line and then eat only a little of everything. But there’s always a few in every crowd.”

A few minutes later Caulfield smiled and moved energetically.

He’s had more than enough to worry about with what will happen if prices get worse. He likes the fact that he can offer several desserts, salads, and vegetables and hopes not to have to cut back. But even beyond the issues of selection and waste is the simple matter of money. Meanwhile, I bought for what you paid last January is as rare as hen’s teeth and old lady’s roller skates, yet that’s exactly what we’re doing this semester with our meals.

Soon a decision will have to be made about next semesters board and that decision will be based on two things, prices and the success of the ecology program. So I will ask you to perform a very casual experiment. The next time you happen to be in the cafeteria, order some of everything on the line. I want you to take your bills and add them up. I want you to sit down with a pad and paper: it will only hope, be a well run paper. I will not let any of you in my sight be hidden behind a label or stuck with a paper. It will only hope.

Dear Editor:

In response to Pat Jobe’s article, “Don’t Go Greek”, in your September 5th edition I would like to express my feelings as a Brother of Lambda Chi Alpha international fraternity. My comments will be slanted in regards to only one fraternity on this campus and the generalized concernings our entire HPC Greek system.

Pat stated reasons for the young men and ladies not joining a fraternity or sorority, but I question Pat’s knowledge of what goes on inside a Greek chapter.

People who like to drink do not always and are never pledged by a fraternity or sorority for that reason. Granted the Greeks do hold parties off campus where beer, alcohol, and coke are at personal discretion to consume. Everyone in a Greek chapter does not drink, and if Pat tries to say the Tower Players, Writer’s Club, Students for Christian Action, Fellowship Teams, intramural sports, and newspaper staff are all Greeks, then you sure haven’t been around much. It is only fair to let the students know that certainly Greeks drink, but so do the GDI’s and Pat!!!

Pat’s second reason dealt with the presentation of bids to rushers. It is true that all rushers do not get bids (invitations), but this too is a Greek privilege. Not everyone who rushes or is rushed is going to fit in properly with the ideals and meaning that a chapter on campus possesses. Each individual is discussed in the secrecy of the chapter, voted on, and then some are given bids. One should remember that there are several other considerations which use the power to accept and reject individuals on the basis of qualifications and adaptability to the organization, such as is true here at High Point College with the Greeks and even the Admissions Office.

The third reason Pat gave for not going Greek was the notion that Greeks are very little conception of how much it costs to go Greek and what becomes of the money. All initiation fees are given directly to the chapter’s national organization, and money dues are used to carry out functions by the Greeks. All the Greek chapters have a formal dance during the year, some have functions with welfare families, orphanages, and social parties to help alleviate the tensions of classes and are used to meet campus emergencies through the dating procedure. Some fraternities and sororities even hold “mixers” which are designed to get to know each other the Greeks are.

By my last comment Pat’s terminology “Greek Mafia” is very far from true. If we too were a “mafia” we too would have power, but we are just small groups working together and still encourage the members to maintain a sense of individualism.

I would like to close by saying that many upperclassmen would not be here at HPC unless they had become an active Greek, and I am one of them. I encourage students to get to know the Greeks for we have something to offer and we are people. “Individuals” first, not Greek second.

-Douglas
Film Festival Nears

On Thursday, Sept. 19, at 7:00 p.m. in the Old Student Center the Writer's Club will begin the Classic Film Festival with a showing of "The Phantom of the Opera", starring Lon Chaney Sr.

Anyone interested in classic cinema art will enjoy attending this event. As part of an attempt to encourage more than passive consideration of such art, students are urged to write a review of the film, as it may be interpreted today. There will be a five dollar awareness to the student submitting the best review.

Incoming freshmen who will be needing cultural credits should note that attendance at this event has been approved by the Assembly and Artist Committee as counting for Cultural Credit.

The Writer's Club welcomes all students to attend free of charge this chance to see one of the greatest actors of all time in one of his most famous roles.

Moose Lodge Dance Success

The Student Union Association sponsored its first Moose Lodge dance for the 1974-75 year on Friday, September 13. The action began at 8:00 p.m. as HPC students arrived at the High Point Moose Lodge apartmented with personal mugs and anticipation for an evening of fun and brew.

Students danced to the music of Frost of Charlotte, North Carolina. As the music progressed the approximately 400 students managed to drain the kegs of 155 gallons of beverage. Inspite of the cries of thirst and the lack of fresh air the Student Union reports that the dance was a success. Please mark your calendars for the next Moose Lodge dance which will be October 12, with Brice Street Band providing the entertainment.

The Youth Services Bureau invites you to become a part of their Tutorial Program. The Youth Services Bureau is sponsored by Model Cities and is funded by LEAA. Across the city of High Point there are many children (ages 6-16) who need a friend and some help making it in their school work. These children come from frustrating homes and social environments filled with disappointment. Some have already had contact with juvenile authorities. All are facing adjustment problems which if not alleviated immediately will hinder them for their entire lives. Your participation as a tutor and friend requires only two hours a week on a voluntary basis. That’s not very much time, when you think of what a great difference YOU can make! An optional one-hour credit may be earned. Join us! For more information contact: Lydia Brown, Box 3122, or Ken Phaiah, Box 3480.

Sore muscles, bruises and bruises are beginning to disappear after the first two weeks of conditioning and stickwork of Hockey practice.

High Point’s six returning team members combined with the seven new athletes compose this year’s 13 member Hockey team. Mrs. Michael Quinto, addition to the Physical Education teaching is this season’s Hockey Coach. Coach Quinto is optimistic with the team. She realizes that a team can’t always start out on top, but by the middle of October the team should be tough to beat.

The ultimate goal of the team is to develop to its greatest potential by Deep South Tournament in November.

The Hockey season officially begins Thursday, September 26th in our home field. Our first three conference games are on our own field. The Lady Panthers will meet Guilford College on the 26th, Wake Forest on September 30th, and then meet UNCG the next day, October 1st. Game time is 4:00 p.m.

If you have no idea of what Hockey is or never even heard of it, please come down to field, we’ll be glad to introduce you to our world in women’s sports.
Women's Volleyball

by Karen Redfern

On September 5 approximately 30 young ladies invaded Alumni Gymnasium anticipating the first intercollegiate volleyball practice. Over the past couple of weeks, excitement and enthusiasm has been building among the girls. The season will get under way on September 26.

This year's team will include six members of last year's team, Karen Koelst, Wanda Walton, Carolina Clements, Pam Silar, Karen Redfern and Julie Rochelle. With many freshman trying out for the team, it could prove to be a very interesting season.

Coach Jennifer Alley has great hopes for the team. "We have great material to work with and the team looks to be very promising."

The women's volleyball team will be traveling a great deal during the season with only two home matches. Any and all support will greatly appreciated.

Paul Gaberiel, who played the dulcimer; and Rich Fulks, a Tower Players member who sang.

While the judges made their decisions, the audience was entertained by the Carolina Melody Bells. The winner of the Talent Show was Dean Herfindhal, who sang "Country Road" and other popular songs.

Redfern sang. The winner of the homecoming contest was Karen Koelst.

With such variety, it is hard to choose favorites. Over the past couple of weeks, excitement and enthusiasm has been building among the girls. The season will get under way on September 26.

Creative Contributions Requested

by Vickie Huntly

If you enjoy creative writing and would like to see your work in print, then the Synthesis and Apogee are for you. Published by students of High Point College, the Synthesis and Apogee are literary magazines consisting of contributions submitted by students, faculty, and members of the community. All types of literary contributions are accepted for possible publication, including poetry, short stories, drama and journalistic writings. Art work is also accepted but must be limited to block prints, sketches or black and white photography due to the expense of printing.

All work submitted to the Synthesis or Apogee goes before a reading committee made up of members of the Writer's Club, editors, and faculty advisors. A contribution is published when in the judgement of the committee, it is complete in its present form and has achieved finished overall effect. If the work is selected for publication, it will appear in the next monthly issue of the Synthesis. If a work is thought to need improvement by the committee, the advisors (Dr. DeLeeuw, Dr. Piacentino) and the editors of both literary magazines (Jane Curtiss, Bucky Hooker) invite the contributor to attend a workshop of the Writer's Club or a personal conference to discuss his work. Whether or not a contribution is published, all work is kept on file to be reviewed by the Apogee for possible publication in its yearly issue.

Everyone is invited to submit their work to the Apogee and Synthesis. The first deadline for submitting contributions is OCTOBER 2, 1974. Drop them by the Apogee office (Publication Hall) or send them through campus mail.

Office hours - Monday, Wednesday, Thursday 6:00 pm - 6:30 pm. Post Office Box 3047.
Tower Player's
Production: “Mame”

This year H.P.C. is planning to do the musical comedy “Mame”, as a parents weekend activity.

This Tower Player production is approved by the Culture and Artists Committee as counting for credit on the Cultural enrichment program.

The show is the story of a certain Miss Mame Dennis and the crazy, carefree life she leads. The show opens in the Roaring 20's. in the year 1928. Agnes Grouch (the nanny) and Patrick Dennis (an orphan of ten) have just arrived in New York. They are on their way to Mame's Apartment to live, since Mame is Patrick's only living relative. As they meet Mame and Beau marry. Beauregard falls off the Materhorn and dies. Mame goes to a party at the Upson's and is turned off completely by them. She decided to have a little get together of her own and perhaps show Patrick that bigots and snobs the Illspons really are. As always Mame succeeds. The show closes with Patrick and Pegeen (the interior decorator who Maine just happens to have around to meet Patrick) are trying to forbid their son Peter to go to India with his Auntie Mame. The New President

by Pat Jobe

As Gerald Ford's rise to the presidency signals an end to our country political nightmare, Steve Lawson's election last spring to the presidency of the Student Government Association signals an abrupt change in policy and attitude. Lawson, a human relations major, was the first eighteen-year-old to run for public office in Florida. Transferring his junior year to HPC he quickly accelerated himself to campus and established enough support to win last spring's election. But winning the election was only the beginning as Lawson enters an office plagued by gutless politics, back-door deals, and high-rolling politicians who traveled extensively on student government money. Only thirty-one percent of the student body (according to the college's self-study) believe the S.G.A. is an effective organization. Enter Steve Lawson.

"I'm not sure how the statistics pertain to the here and now. I've found the freshmen and transfers are a different breed of people. They fit right in and the different breed of people.

"I didn't say that." he laughed. "I think this is an issue which has come up over and over again, calls for much debate, people get involved. Let's look at the state and local laws. A person must be twenty-one to drink."

"Hard liquor, beer and wine is eighteen." I inserted. "Right, hard liquor. But if the college changes its rule, people will be drinking hard liquor on campus. I'm not saying they don't now, but it's against the law. We're also affiliated with the Methodist Church and as such are more or less governed by the Western North Carolina Conference of that church. They spend a large amount of money to support High Point College (over $200,000 yearly) and as such are expected to follow the regulations of that church. They have a system, we must bend and bow to certain regulations and rules."

"Selling our souls to the Church?" I asked.

"I didn't say that," he laughed. "I think the way the policy is set up, it's hard, it's maybe a little unrealistic, because I think students are going to drink on campus. But then again, I think rules need to be implemented. It is a rule and as a rule, it should be respected. I heard in Legislature that every year one of the first things that comes up is a motion to legalize drinking. We have to face the fact that at this point in time we aren't going to gain anything by pressing another bill. The trustees are standing firm, we're receiving funds from the Western Conference, the college has rules, and therefore we need to focus our attention on better ways to serve the students here."

To Learn

There is a dilemma which the educators on this campus face which has plagued every teacher since the profession began. It is the constant battle between the utilitarian and the academic approach to the learning process, or to put it more simply, between preparing you for a job and the concept of knowledge for the sake of knowledge.

Perhaps surprisingly for many of you, it is the academic which has the general ascendency at High Point College. Many of the classes are fascinating, but how many of you are getting actual training that will be instrumental in helping you to make a living? Very few. Of course Education majors are being trained to be teachers. There is a rumor from the Chemistry department of a class that will lead to a job with the local furniture companies for those of you who like to play with polymers (you already know how to make aspirin). Few other classes lead directly to a practical, direct preparation.

Before I go further and before dozens of protestors lead a march on my office, let me state that I do not at all agree with the utilitarian approach, as such. It is not only naive in the belief that it can prepare me "for life", but presumptuous in the belief that I want to "make a living" at all in the usual sense of the word. It is not knowledge in itself but a fundamental flexible attitude which is essential to the actual survival of an individual; it extends far beyond the "always cut the cards" reasoning and (to extend the analogy) goes to an examination of the deck itself.

What I'm trying to say in my obtuse and often obscure way is that there is a third approach of sorts which goes beyond the bounds of their theory. It has no name that I know of, but Columbus applied it when he sailed toward the edge of the earth, and with it Occam's razor is much too dull to shave the gentleman's problem and for the next thirty-two years he took a personal interest in the lives of individual alcoholics.

He also later married my mother.

I'll admit to being a proud son so that you've got a clear case and I don't feel that political correctness is in order.

My father ordinarily is a jovial card with an eye for good times, he's Postmaster of my home town so he'll have money to feed the family, play golf, take in card games, drink and support the Church. But his grin melts into a sour grimace when he confronts an alcoholic.

They shuffle into his office, tell him of problem after problem facing their families and my pa shakes his head, "Tom, that's all real sad, but you've been drinking again; you're drunk now and it's time for lunch with these silly people."

"Oh. Nossir. Mr. Jobe, I ain't been drinking."

"Yes you have. I can smell it."

Then there is an uncomfortable silence as the two men seem to be overcome by a problem that is larger than both of them.

"Come on," sometimes he can leave the office, take them to jail, to the grocery store, to the hospital, whichever place seems to hold some hope of patching up the problem for the moment. It is the urgency of the situation which presses them toward him and him toward whatever can be done for that moment.

The way you are trained here will affect the rest of your life. Don't let it be any other way than the way you want it.

Read Thoreau's "Civil Disobedience". Read Emerson's "Self-Reliance". Read the writings of Thomas Jefferson. Read the poetry of Whitman. To push for change is also the essence of the American tradition. Since this country has existed the worst of all sins has been considered to be complacency. As I am sure our administration would wish me to say, "Sin ye not!"

PISCES [Feb. 20-Mar. 20] While you appear calm, your emotions may be churning deep inside. Take care or your constantly changing moods will pull in too many directions.

Here's to Mrs. Blake

Thursday Afternoon around 2:30, a surprise birthday party was given for Mrs. Martha Blake by the Orientation Committee, The Deans of Students, and the office workers. Mrs. Blake is the secretary in the Student Personnel Office, but those who have had the pleasure of getting to know her realize that she is much more than that. It would be needless to say that orientation itself would never have run smoothly, much less efficiently, if Mrs. Blake had not been right in there working with us. She's the one we always turn to for comfort, humor, and most of all the right answer. It takes a little bit of patience to work with nine students for six days straight and never lose your cool. It's far too difficult to put down on paper just how special someone is, especially when she touches us so many. If you ever have the chance, get to know this really special person.

Hope
by Paul Hildreth

The weapons of the mind, stand ready to wage war, on any idea or hope that cannot immediately be seen. The reason for acceptance of any given idea, is due to it's notability. If it cannot be used or understood today then why tomorrow? Our picture of hope, our belief in anything that affects our lives, must be immediate. This view is clouded and on the surface of the actual, real or reality. Hope is the sense we hope for next week, not the one just coming into our sight. The unseen and casual things are what we should place our hope on. All meaning for me exists in hope, and my faith that in that hope. I work at tasks which have seemingly no end, not my seeing, and yet wanting to see sustains my hope. The journey of life is much the same, we live for today because we hope for tomorrow, we save and collect wisdom, for then as well as now. Immediate hope, is not hope, for what is immediately, is what we see. Hope is faithfully enduring the troubles around us, hoping for what we don't see or have; a peaceful world.

Guy Owen's work deals with his native Bladen County and Eastern North Carolina. He was born in Clarkton and frequently summers at Pocos Knob near Moravian Falls, his wife's homeplace. His roots are in the farmhards and his stories reflect every facet of the Southern life he knows. Guy Owen, however, is not only a writer of stories, but he is also a poet, an editor, and a critic. As editor and founder of the Southern Poetry Review, he knows, perhaps, more than any one else just what the current state of poetry is in the South and what directions the younger poets are taking. He co-edited an anthology in 1962, entitled Southern Poetry Today, and as a critic he has published New Essays in Modern American Literature.

Dr. Owen's writing career began officially in 1958 with the publication of Cape Fear Country and Other Poems. He next turned to fiction with Seasons of Fear in 1960. His latest and most famous work is The Ballas of the Flim-Flam Man, published by Doubleday in 1965. The scene is Ellers Bend, North Carolina, "a dinky burg you never heard of," Anyone who lives in North Carolina will feel at home in Ellers Bend.

In addition to writing and editing, Dr. Owen teaches English at North Carolina State University. He has previously taught at Elm, Davidson, and also at Stetson University in Florida. He received his Ph.D degree from UNC at Chapel Hill.

They are in the farmlands and his roots are in the farmhards and his stories reflect every facet of the Southern life he knows. Moving beyond the individual tragedy he captures a primal, authentic rendering of the human condition.

John Beecher is presently Poet in residence at Duke University.

In addition to the outstanding poetry programs, there will also be an art exhibition, with creations by two Appalachian State University professors. The art work is a display of written and woven art. The show, entitled "Poems and Fibers," attempts to reveal the bond between man and nature through word pictures and fabrics.

"The purpose of this subtle interplay of words and fibers is to lead the viewer back to experiences re-created and to the rhythms which help identify man's place in the universe."

The artists believe that survival in these mountains means looking at nature from some point of view common to all life rather than man's own special desires.

Circle K- The Alternative

If you were interested in joining one of the social fraternities or sororities on this campus, I hope you read the following. It is by the group which appeared in the HI-PO just recently. If you did read it, you may now be looking for alternatives to these organizations for enriching your college experience. I hope you are, because I want to introduce you to the fastest growing collegiate organization in this country- CIRCLE K. Read through this page, and see for yourself why Circle K has more to offer you than any other organization on campus.

OPEN MEMBERSHIP - any and everyone is encouraged to join Circle K men and women, day students and boarders. You are always welcomed, any time.

Dorm - You are welcome to stay. It's pretty much up to you. I think if you want to become a member, if you do join this you will really offer friendship for free, but you have to make the first move by joining.

PURPOSE - Circle K is founded on the idea of service first and foremost, but we also know how to have fun. We're always having parties, cook-outs, beach trips. We try to balance our fun and our service aspects in order to produce the greatest sense of accomplishment and fulfillment. Then there is district convention, international convention, plus numerous rallies and conferences throughout the year. Together they provide a sense of direction, when you become involved in Circle K you discover that you really do know where you're heading, you can see the goals and you know how to work for them.

For the time that you want to spend in outside activities, don't you think it makes a lot of sense to look into Circle K?

Hey, We’re Trying!

Introducing new programs on the High Point College campus is becoming a regular practice. This year dormitory rules and policies are becoming standardized with apparent dorms, male and female.

Each dorm has its own elected dorm council which is responsible for dealing with dormitory problems and rule infractions.

Dorm Council Seminars were held Sept. 23, 24, and Oct. 2. Dean Guy was the leader of the discussions for the seminars. The purpose for the seminars was to acquaint dorm council members, hall proctors, officers, resident counselors and dorm “moth- ers” with dormitory rules issued by the college.

At the first meeting the participants went over the General College Dormitory rules. Dean Guy offered suggestions for improvements and origins of the rules. The sessions didn't invite much participation from attending members but was beneficial in that members should now have a clearer understanding of the rules and their purposes.

The Tuesday night meeting was a different story. The meeting began with Karl Cagle, supreme justice of the Judiciary branch of the Student Government, explain- ing the general procedures of conducting a trial. Dean Guy stressed that our individual members of the Student Government, being considered "hearing" the case, do not have the authority to enforce rules. Our individual members of the Student Government are entitled to examine the rules and policies regarding rules, problems, procedures, grips, or anything anyone wanted to say.

Students raised questions about the need, value and purpose of certain rules.

The agenda for the third and final meeting included continued discussions on rules and their values and clarifications about dorm responsibilities and projects.

In conclusion, I'd like to stress that all dormitory officers and members are students and are human, just as you are. We, like just many of you, don't always agree with the rules we are to follow and enforce but regardless of our personal opinions, if something is a rule, it must be enforced. If rules have no value and aren't needed, let's eliminate them. Hopefully, we have gained some understanding of the rules and policies from attending the seminars.

Please make your gripes known. Communicate with your dorm council members or write arg. editorial to the paper so we can work for what you are residents want. We are elected by residents and are working for you.

Anyone who likes rock music will be glad to know that there is a large selection of good concerts in the area.

On September 14, Mountain started "the season at the Greensboro Coliseum". The lead off group was Wet Willie, who played selections from their new album.

Mountain consisted of the original cast of Leslie West, Felix Pappalardi, Jack Bruce, Pete Brown and Gail Collins. West played a drum solo that had his audience in total captivity. Pappalardi is always fantastic at his concert was no exception with his unbelievable solos.

Concerts in this area are annually follow a pattern. The fall season has many concerts, less in the winter, more in the spring, and very few during the summer.

The upcoming concerts at the Greensboro Coliseum are as follows: Black Oak Arkansas, Oct. 4; Steve Miller, Oct. 5; John Denver, Oct. 11; Earth, Wind, and Fire, Oct. 25, and the great ZZTop, Oct. 27; ending the fall season with Elen John, November 25.

Go get your tickets at Marty's Record Shop at the Westchester Mall or at the Coliseum and be there by 8:00 p.m. and enjoy the season.

The North Carolina Dance

at High Point College

Memorial Auditorium on October 8, at 8 p.m. A varied program including both ballet and modern works will be presented by this young professional company.

Tickets are available in performance. Students may attend without admission fee.

The Dance Theatre is a professional company of fourteen dancers resident at the North Carolina School of

The majority of the dancers are graduates of the School of the Arts.

The High Point College

program will open with

Vis-a-Vis, a work for eight dancers described as both athletic and hypnotic, with flashes of wit and humor.

Music is by Johannes Brahms, and the choreographer is

Charles Czarny.

The second work is Myth,

set for the Dance Theatre

two years ago by choreographer

Alvin Ailey. With music by

 Igor Stravinsky, this work captures the exotic quality of woodland creatures, nymphs and fauns. This is a story of love and rejection, and is known as an outstanding example of the work of one of America's finest modern choreographers.

The major work of the evening is The Grey Goose of Silence, a story ballet suggested by an Appalachian legend. Kathleen Fitzgerald, who has had guest appearance

at Wolf Trap, Virginia,

danced the role of Jenny

Goodwin, a teenager married to a brutal old man. Warren

Lucas, a native of Brooklyn,

New York, was Liberty Ames,

the blind black boy she falls in love with.

Steps suggesting mountain
clogs are used in one section for the men, and one section for the women is filled with patterns that recall old Scotch courtship dances. The troupe had a dozen curtain calls

carlier this year when they performed the work in

Reynolds Auditorium, Winston-

Salem.

Fall Sports at High Point College have a lot to offer this year, starting off with new teams. The Cross Country team has changed its home course and the Soccer team has moved into Albion Mills Stadium. The new men's homes mean very little the talent in the midst of all this is fantastic. The seasons are the midst of all this is the Panthers hosted a five Soccer team went undefeated, mean very little the talent in Stadium.

One senior. In the starting 11 of the new era of Soccer, while only one game that first year there are no seniors, which will one point of interest arrived at the Carolinas Conference. With the wins it leaves High wins from last year, but that one to High Point, since and sophomores along wish holds not only alot in store for one of which was a guy to play, but he did. King is only one of many talented people on the team. Gary Downing a Junior from Smithtown, New York is captain of the team this year, with sophomores Bill Redfern and Wayne Wright alternates. Downing is in his second year with High Point, but last year after one year of play he was voted to the All District 26 team.

There are twenty-five guys on the roster this year, and Alley feels that there is more depth than in the previous two years. He pointed out that experience is the key factor this year and will help the team.

This years team has only one player from a foreign country, and that being Christopher Isagoozo from Nigeria. Out of the starting eleven nine of them are from Maryland or New York. The top players this year are Timm Nichols-Soph.-Towson, Md.; Doug Challenger-Fresh-Wilmington, Del.; Jeff Potter-Fresh-Baltimore, Md.; Mike Ludwigson-Soph.-Scaford, N.Y.; Hunter Brett-Fresh-Smithtown, N.Y.; Tom Mackintosh-Junior - Bethesda, Md.; Jerry Goote - Fresh-Smithtown, N.Y., Wayne Wright - Soph. Timonui, Md. Top Reserves – Joe Ramsbohl, Md. Top Reserves -• Joe Trumala and Joe Meek. Both are seniors and have placed the highest of all the runners in the three previous meets, and if you think the four losses is any indication of what is to come this year you’re wrong. The High Point Cross Country team have that knack for winning and will shine on through before the season is over. Top Freshmen this year are Perry Macheras from Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem, N.C., Michael Hearn of Kinnelon, N.J. and Brian Sullivan of McLean, Va.

Cross Country is like Soccer, it has alot to look forward to in the future with alot of young and good runners.

Coach Bob Davidson said, “This is the most people we’ve had with a foreign country backgrounds in a number of years. We have good depth, but from a quality standpoint we may still be one outstanding runner away from having a very good team. However, with the people we have I expect us to do well this year.”

The quote came right before the season and alot of the expectations Allen. Had are coming true, the halfbacks and goalie are doing a great job, and if there is anyone to doubt this just look at the results.

The 1974-75 golf team opened practice last week at the Oak Hollow Golf Course. This is their home course during the season. The team which has a new coach, Woody Gibson, has seven lettermen from last year's team that finished very respectable in the district and conference tournament.

The returning players are Mike Sullivan, Ricky Watkins, Tom Crane, Tom Hartman, Jim Ivy, Stan Minka, and James Pegnaglia. The only member of last year's team who will not be back is Eddie Forward who this past summer became the assistant pro at Willow Creek.

Coach Gibson, a student here, has already begun setting up matches and plans to play several matches this fall against Pheiffer and Catawba. The team will also make a trip to Myrtle Beach for a weekend this fall to play the pro at Willow Creek.

The tryouts for the team should be interesting because of eight freshmen trying to make the team. The members of last year's team will not have it easy in gaining their regular position. The team consists of ten golfers who are positioned according to what they shoot in qualifying rounds. The top six are the golfers who play in the matches each week and will remain in that position unless someone can beat them out.

Next March the golf team will participate in the invitational tournament at Elon. This is the first year that High Point has been invited. Elon, who last year participated in the NAIA tournament in South Dakota, will be the tournament favorite. Other teams participating in the tournament will be Gardner-Webb, Atlantic Christian and Catawba.

HPC Footballers Beat ACC

The High Point Purple Panthers upped their winning streak to two consecutive games after crushing Atlantic Christian College, 4-0, on Tuesday afternoon, September 24, at the Panther soccer stadium.

The first goal came at approximately 10 minutes into the first half on a ball crossed by Tony Eltham from High Point. The ball was kicked into the net by sophomore Bill Redfern from about 10 yards out. The second goal came about twenty minutes later on a tremendous follow up effort by captain Gary Downing to give the Panthers a 2-0 lead at halftime.

In prelude to the third goal sophomore Tim Nichols trickled his way past two Atlantic Christian defenders and unloaded a blazing shot from about 25 yards out which bounced off the goalies chest and trickled to his feet. The goalkeeper tried desperately to recapture the ball in front of the goal when he collided with High Point's Jeff Potter and the ball skidded out from underneath the goalie and rolled gently into the net.

The last goal seemed to be a perfect ending to a perfect afternoon for the Panthers. The opposition did manage to roll a few shots in on the Panther goal; however, sophomore goalie Wayne Wright was there each time to collect the loose balls and start the Panther attack upfield.

The win was Wayne and the team's second successive shut-out of the season. The victory was the result of a fine effort from every member of the squad. Coach Ray Alley was extremely impressed with the team's performance; however, he feels the team still has many areas which need to be improved upon if there is to be a championship soccer team at High Point College in 1974.

Women's Volleyball

by Karen Redfern

On September 26th, the women's intercollegiate volleyball team traveled to Durham, N.C. to take on the Duke Blue Devils. Being the first match of the season, it proved to be very exciting.

In the first game, High Point College was dominating the game 13-6 when Duke called a time out. Duke's determination was overwhelming and the Devils came back to win the first game 16-14. The High Point women, not pleased with the outcome went into the second game with high hopes of victory. Success was inevitable when the women entered the game and they came back to win the second game 15-12.

Both teams, wanting the third game, entered the match with strong determination. Many aggressive actions were made by each team but Duke came out the victors. The score of the third game was 15-6 and even though the win was that of Duke's, the Panther's pride was strong because they played the best they could.

The Panthers next match is October 3rd at home at 7:00 PM against Pembroke and Guilford. Come support your team.
FALL INTRAMURALS
by Joyce Diamond and Dale Williams

This fall intramural sports are alive again at High Point College. The girls tennis intramurals, sponsored by "Kacky" W. is going strong with matches being played all through the week. There are four eliminations, and a big final match. Playing as the "pros" do, the players have to play eight matches, winning by two. The matches are played on the college tennis courts in the afternoons. You are invited to participate, as a spectator or player. If you wish to play you may sign up in the gym.

Intramural football started its season on Thursday, September 26, with Lambda Chi against the Buss on Boys. Intramural football consists of eight teams, each having a minimum of fifteen players with nine participating on the field at a time. This game of flag football, plus other intramural sports was created to give the student body a wide range of activities to participate in. Although these are open to every student, only 60 percent participate.

At the close of football season a small trophy will be given to the team winning the most games. A playoff will result only if there's a tie between two or more teams.

Anyone wishing to play may contact Barry Miller at the Physical Education Department.

A new service organization called the Ambassadors Club has been formed by the Student Government Association as an aid to the College Admissions Office. Problems have been encountered in the past in finding friendly, well informed students to act as tour guides for prospective students, and the basic purpose of the new organization will be the promotion of good campus and community relations through filling this need for campus tour guides and escorts. Membership in the Ambassadors Club requires filling out an application, being recommended by a member of the faculty, and attending a weekend seminar on methods and techniques of communication and public relations. Approximately twenty-five applications were reviewed and accepted by the Club Committee for the 1974-75 school year, and the new members, under the direction of Mrs. Shelton and Mr. VonCannon and other interested members of the faculty and staff, will assume their duties in providing this much needed service to the college during the month of October.

He said the new members will be completing the pledge process and attending a weekend seminar on methods and techniques of communication and public relations. Approximately twenty-five applications were reviewed by the Club Committee for the 1974-75 school year, and the new members, under the direction of Mrs. Shelton and Mr. VonCannon, will be given to the team winning the most games. A playoff will result only if there’s a tie between two or more teams.

Student Union Helps with Movies

by Rob Cagle

The Student Union is in the process of presenting a selection of movies for the entertainment of H.P.C.’s students. Heading the movies and lecture section is Mart Slater.

The movies are shown on Thursdays at 3:00 p.m. and at 8:00 p.m. Admission at the door is fifty cents, which is considerably cheap compared to the prices at local theaters.

The first movie shown, “Dirty Harry” on September 19 and 20 was a success. Student Union Chairman, Robert Goode was pleased with the turnout of over two hundred students and he expects greater results for the coming attractions.

“The Train Robbers” will be shown on October 3rd and 4th; and “Omega Man” will appear the following week. Coming soon will be “Summer of ’42”, “Billy Jack”, “Deliverance”, and “The Candidate”. Remember to check your Student Union calendar for these dates.

President

“I’ve heard this argument before. I think that involvement by a massive number of students on campus is impaired by the fact that students consider this particular ethical stand to be absurd. As far as I think that we have to look at it from a financial point of view. If the college is to exist and remain on firm financial grounds, we need the money from the church," he inserted.

“...so what really comes down to is we’re selling our soul to the Church?” I asked again.

“I didn’t say that.”

“Thank you, Mr. President.”

Public Library is featuring "History of the Cinema," a series of monthly cinema classics. The film for this month is "The Madwoman of Chaillot" starring Katharine Hepburn and Danny Kaye. Showtime is Oct. 3 at 7:00 p.m. in the library community room. Other films this month will be presented by the High Point Public Library as a community service, free of charge, on the first Thursday night of the month.

The High Point Golf Association is sponsoring their Autumn Open on Oct. 26. Entrants must be members of the Golf Association.

Last, but not least, don’t forget the ‘Haunted House’ presented by Parks and Recreation and the Youth Council of High Point. Located at 106 W. Ray Street, the ‘Haunted House’ will run from Oct. 25-31. Come on out and get a scare.

Humanics Fall Retreat

The Fall Retreat, which took place on Sept. 13, 14, 15, was the first major activity of the year in the Human Relations Department. The retreat gives an opportunity for new and returning students to interact with each other and to learn more about what Humanics has to offer them.

The purpose of American Humanics is to recruit, educate, and develop young people for careers in youth agency leadership. This is done through a total program consisting of a Human Relations academic major and co-curricular program coordinated by a counselor provided by American Humanics. These co-curricular opportunities are seminars with agency speakers, field trips to agency events and activities, and a student association operated similarly to a model youth agency.

This year is retreat featured several distinguished guest speakers - Mr. Don Snider, Mr. Daren Hutchinson, and Dr. W. Hobart Hill. Activities included lectures by the speakers, followed by recreation and fellowship in the evenings.

On Sunday, October 6 and Monday October 7, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Rosbrzky will be visiting the Human Relations Department students here at High Point College. Mr. Rosbrzky is chairman of the board of American Humanics, Inc., and both he and his wife are very dedicated to American Humanics and what it stands for. During their stay here they will be talking to as many students as possible, and a pizza party is being planned for Sunday night at 8:00. This get together will be held at Pepoli’s Pizza Den and all Humanics students are encouraged to attend.

Tutorial Program

by Cathy Calloway

The orientational meeting of the tutorial program was held on Thursday, September 19. The purpose of this meeting was to explain the program to the tutor/mentees.

The tutorial program is a branch of the Youth Services Bureau. A counseling service located in High Point, the Bureau is a kind of liaison with the juvenile court system. They try to keep children out of trouble and out of the court system. It is believed that a lot of problems begin at school when the children have not learned at early ages and will not pay attention in class.

On September 24, Mrs. Graves, a professor at A and T University, spoke to the High Point College tutors about the task that lies ahead of them. The tutorial program tutors children from ages six to sixteen. However, the majority of the children are from ten to thirteen years of age. Most of the children come from broken homes or are slow learners. They are on very low reading levels and math levels. Many children have parents who do not care about them. Therefore, the tutors serve as big brothers and sisters as well. Mrs. Graves gave the tutors a formula called LACE. L is for listen, A is for acceptance, C is for communicate, E is for experiment. These four qualities are essential for the tutors to possess. The children being tutored need not only reading and math skills, but a friend as well.

The High Point College tutorial program desperately needs people who are willing to give their time and friendship as tutors. Anyone interested should contact Lydia Brown, Box 3122 Campus or Ken Phaiah, Box 3480 Campus. Mr. Cope is the College advisor.

It's New... Reading Lab Proves Helpful

This year, in addition to the regular program of English courses abundantly found in Cooke Hall, there is now a new course; Developmental Reading 151, with Dr. William DeLeeuw. Developmental reading 151 is designed to aid students in developing reading and study skills. This one hour credit course requires one hour of class per week as well as two hours of lab study. The course carries with it the benefits of the newly created and organized Reading Lab, which is located adjacent to the Writer's Lab on the second floor of Cooke Hall.

Aside from the bright color scheme and comfortable atmosphere, the lab is also equipped with reading aids and special programs designed to make learning more pleasant and enjoyable. The lab provides SRA Reading Programs, EDL Readers and Pacers, auto-tutoring composition and reading, Craig Readers, cassette programs as well as a large range of text books, paper backs, and scads of information of reading habits and skills.

Dr. William DeLeeuw, a course teacher as well as lab manager, has two student aids: Miss Anne Stanfield and Miss Vickie Overman, who work with him keeping materials up to date and helping the lab run smoothly.

Dr. William DeLeeuw also takes care of skills testing, for course students as well as testing for students outside of the course who are interested in becoming more familiar with their own reading and study skills and habits.

Looking toward the future the Reading Lab will soon add to its resources, study carrells (you know, those little individual booths) which will offer a better study opportunity and atmosphere.

The Reading Lab is open from 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. daily and 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday. Dr. DeLeeuw invites students and faculty who have not yet had an opportunity to visit the Lab to come by and check the place out.

Seniors:
Plan Ahead

Education, job, then life insurance. That’s usually how it goes. But Pilot’s Senior Plan changes the traditional order of events. If you are a senior in college, you are eligible for this plan that recognizes your need for life insurance right now. Establish your life insurance while you are finishing your education. It makes sense. The younger you are the lower the premium rates are. The sooner you start, the sooner your policy builds cash and loan values and becomes an important part of your financial planning program.

In a surprising announcement, it was made known yesterday that the HPC Tower Players Fall play of "Mame" has been canceled. The play, which was originally scheduled to open on Parent's Day weekened, was beset with troubles from the first, but the mysterious and sudden cancellation of the show came as a shock to everyone involved. Such an event has never occurred in the college's drama department before.

As of press time Caroline Rausch, Department Head, was unavailable for comment.

Freshman Elections Ends In Runoff

Freshman class elections were held Tuesday, October 22. There was a brisk turn-out and 126 ballots were cast. Competition was tough among the contenders for president, resulting in neither of the top two candidates receiving majority. Both Wilma Moran and Andy Wubbenhorst were on the ballot in a runoff election to be held Wednesday, November 20. Also on this ballot will be Kevin Gudzak and Tim Harper who both mounted write-in campaigns for the position of freshman class legislature representative but did not receive a majority of the votes cast for that position.

The new vice-president of the freshman class is Nancy Heines. The new secretary is Tosi Alonso who managed a successful write-in campaign. Germaine McCaulay was elected treasurer. Lee Hackney and Donna Luff were elected to the freshman class legislature representatives and Ed Grandpre won a landslide decision in the race for judicial representative. All of the candidates are to be commended for the effort they exerted in obtaining the interest and support of their classmates.

The runoff election for freshman class president and legislature representative will be held Wednesday, November 20 from 16:00 A.M. until 3:00 P.M.

HPC Library Accepts Donations

High Point College and Dr. Conrad of the History Department were hosts to a distinguished guest bearing gifts recently. Mr. Robin McNab, Vice Consul and Assistant Trade Commissioner of the Canadian Consulate in Atlanta, donated, on behalf of his Government, 100 books to the High Point College Library. Subjects of the volumes ranged from economics to Canadian novels and poetry.

This is also being done at other colleges and universities across the country for the purpose, according to Mr. McNab, of enlightening Americans about their neighbors to the north. Mr. McNab explained that former President Nixon once referred to Japan as America's biggest trading partner when in reality, it is Canada, with about 25% of America's exports going to Canada. The United States buys more from Canada than it buys from Great Britain, Japan, and West Germany combined.

Mr. McNab, and presumably his counterparts at other Canadian Consulates across the country, hope to correct misconceptions such as these and, hopefully, improve relations between two neighboring giants which have seen a certain amount of strain develop recently in their affairs with each other.

The SGA Referendum

On Wednesday, November 20, a campus wide referendum will be held on a proposed constitutional amendment to establish an inauguration date for elected Student Government Association officers. The proposed amendment reads as follows:

"Section 1. Article 10 of the Student Government Constitution amended to add section Q. "The inauguration of the elected S.G.A. officers shall be conducted within seventy-two (72) hours after the results of the election have been announced, providing there are no appeals. The location of the ceremony shall be established by the chairman of the elections committee of the Student Legislature."

Section 2. This act shall become effective upon ratification."

According to the Constitution of the Student Government Association, "An amendment shall become a part of this constitution when ratified by a two-thirds majority vote of the student body voting."

This proposal was approved by the Student Legislature last spring. It came as a result of the controversy concerning the spring S.G.A. elections.

Barber Shop Quartet

The Music Department and Student Union is sponsoring the Aristocrat Barber Shop Quartet Thursday, November 7, at 15 P.M. in the Cafeteria.

The Aristocrats are International finalists and the winner of the Dixie Division of the Society for the Preservation of Barbershop Singing in America. They are in demand throughout the nation. They have been given standing ovations wherever they have performed. We are most fortunate to have this entertaining group to sing for us.

The Music department will offer a course in Barbershop Singing during the 1975 Interim. You may pre-register for "Barbershop Singing" for Men and Women 3 Hours Credit. Course No. 2921.
Notes From All Over

It is always nice to open a column with an optimistic note. Dean Guy has recently talked to me about the dorm seminar program, which I consider to be one of the best ideas to come along in a great while. I urge everyone to take notice of this program, and by the way to join in a hearty round of applause in appreciation of such a richly thought provoking activity.

Philosophical observation: I happened to be in the room last week when my room mate made a phone call home - to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Inside of five minutes time he was engaged in an animated conversation with his mother, from the other side of the equator. The world has shrunk to the size of a marble.

"The truth of a statement has nothing to do with it's credibility. And visa versa."

Editorial

Dear Sir:

The average citizen has learned not to become involved in verbal conflict with the Fourth Estate as that august body will always have the last word. I feel, however, that I must reply to an editorial in your recent issue which casts aspersions upon the academic program of High Point College.

The gist of the editorials comments seemed to be that High Point College was not offering "relevant" courses because the Methodist Church opposed new curriculums or courses. It was also indicated that anytime a new course was proposed that course was turned down by the academic administration.

In answer to the charges let me say that neither Methodist Church, the High Point College Board of Trustees, nor any other group has ever directed the curriculum at this institution. In the ten years that I have headed the academic area, I have never been approached by the Church, trustees, or other organization in regard to curriculum matters. In addition I should mention that, historically and practically, the Methodist Church has been in the forefront of innovative education and is recognized as the leading teacher education agency among Protestant sects.

In regard to academic administrations refusal to consider new courses, I would like to issue a challenge to the editors. I think the editorialist to meet with me in open forum and state when an innovative course has been presented by students or faculty which has been discouraged by the administration or the Educational Policies Committee. If the editorialist had made an investigation by conferring with the Dean of the College or the Educational Policies Committee, he would likely have made some sort of key for unraveling some sort of key for the best in myself and the best in High Point College. Of course, I face the fact that what's good for the former may not be for the latter.

I've asked myself what good it does to write a column for people to read? I've written about ten or twelve columns for this newspaper in the past two years. Three of those columns dealt with the alcohol policy of the college or the alcohol practices of the student body. Nothing much has changed, in fact, the mere thought of the situation makes it seem that much worse. The alcohol policy of students and the school has become-like war. Nobody likes it, but it is a tradition.

Then I asked myself what good it is to talk about Christianity? The God saviors think I'm a heretic for saying Ghandi went to heaven and people ought to be nice to sinners. And the cynics think I'm a fool for believing that Christiandom will ever be perfect. Why? Because the organ cause they're bigger than me. Then I'd pray as seriously as I knew how that God would strike the steeples of that mammoth structure (stretching like a varicose vein across the face of the earth) with a bolt of lightning. After that I'd go outside where Paul and Chuck would be waiting with the organ and we'd drive it over somewhere and hock it. Then we'd take the money and start organic gardens in backyards on Commerce Avenue. That's what I'd really like to do, but those guys down at Wesley Memorial would likely have me arrested which would upset my parents.

But that would be the life. (If you've read Hildreth's article elsewhere in the paper, you know he'd enjoy it, too.)

Dear Editor,

I am writing to voice my opinion on the conditions of the Day Student Parking Lot.

We could rob from the rich and plant gardens, repurpose houses, hang curtains, sing after supper for the poor. I think singing, laughing, hi-jacking, robbing, it's all good so long as really don't need all that stuff anyway, and then sleeping the grass would be such fine things to do. But I don't have the nerve and besides stealing is against the ten commandments, so I won't do that.

I'm sure that there real are alternatives to the wrong things. Jesus was such a grand sort and he was nothing like the people who go Churches and sleep through sermons. He seemed to have great time living, running around knocking over tables and beating up money-changers. His water to wine was a real hit in his day, but I doubt it would go over too well at the High Point College library.

I look at the vast moose facade we call reality and mourn for the zeal, the fine the sense of adventure that the men became apostle knights, and main courses was less for Roman long. It's gone, folks. We've replaced magic with television, adventure with football and Jesus has become a figure on a stained-glass window that is worth more than he ever was. I've heard tell of, or had any use for.

It makes me wonder why I write columns instead living right. It makes me ashamed.

Parking for day students is terrible below the acceptable standard. My comments will be pointed only toward the abuse and possible corrections of the available space and the deplorable conditions of the lot.

The space allotted for day students to park is inadequate for the present enrollment. Dorm dorm also park on the lot illegally which makes it virtually impossible to find a place to park. May I suggest that the parking lot be policed as an important measure to relieve the parking pressure. Then a permanent measure, some one should seriously consider increasing the present lot or constructing a new one in a another area for day students.

ZODIAC TRACK FOR NOV. 1 - NOV. 3

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 20] Curb your anger this weekend. Things may tend to provoke you rather easily. Now is a good time to finish one of those many projects you've begun and abandoned half-done.

TAURUS [Apr. 21-May 20] Life is likely to appeal to your sense of humor this weekend. You may acquire some possession for your room or home that you've wanted for a long time. Good time financially.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] Spend some time on domestic affairs now. You've done lots of partying lately and probably need a rest. Things are easy moving now, with nothing really exciting happening.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] You're back at your home base now, content with life, and ready for a quiet time of solitude. Others however, may not understand this basic trait and may disturb you frequently.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] Honors or recognition may come your way now. Take time out from work to do something you enjoy. And remember to treat so-called "inferiors" as equals - you'll have more friends.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] Sarcasm does not become you, nor will it win you friends. Your perception of others thoughts may cause friction if you want it to. Show a more friendly attitude.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] Your moods may alternate like the symbolic scales, and others may find you hard to cope with. You may get involved in several club or group activities now, which is good.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] Your love of solitude may keep you in right now. Get out and meet people. Let someone know what's going on in your head. A good time for research or bookwork.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] Watch those sudden impulses of yours. Your honesty and complete frankness may come in handy now. Should be a good time for travelling and meeting new people.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 20] Your far-ahead planning may have gotten slightly out of hand, but things should straighten out soon. Organization will help you through the rough spots.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 21-Feb. 19] Probably a humdrum time because few people share your ideas and opinions, no matter how great. You may feel unappreciated now, but that will change soon.

PISCES [Feb. 20-Mar. 20] Someone may take advantage of your willingness to help. Use that vivid imagination of yours for a worthwhile project.

Interium Registration

Registration for interium term begins on November 11, 1974. During interium it is customary to take no more than three credit hours. The theory is that the student can concentrate better when taking one course every day for several hours than when he is taking numerous courses but only several times a week. This system, which is used at many other colleges is designed to break up the fall semester in such a way that while taking the same amount of hours a student will have more time to devote to each class. It is meant to be a change of pace and a rest from the normal routine, and to make that long first semester seem shorter.

Students are encouraged to evaluate the interium system and the courses taught during the time. It is the time when innovations in courses are likely to be tried out for size, so investigate carefully and see what can be gained from this period.

Scarrit Admissions

Arden Schlesinger from Scarritt College in Nashville, Tennessee will be on the campus of High Point College on Nov. 20 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. He will be in the Religion Department. He will be available to speak to interested students about careers in church work. Mr. Schlesinger will be discussing the major offerings at Scarritt in religion, Christian education, drama, behavioral science, church and community work, and evangelism.

Scarritt College is a senior college and graduate school of The United Methodist Church designed for the education of lay workers. Its graduates serve the church in every state of the union and in fifty-nine foreign countries. Graduates from Scarritt are in great demand in the church. Members of last year's class received between five and thirty job offers upon graduation.

Those interested in discussing full-time careers should contact Mr. Schlesinger when he is on campus.
Book Review

The Rah-Rah Days

Entertaining, nostalgic, humorous, irresistible glimpses of days gone by are provided by Oliver Jensen and the Editors of American Heritage in College Album (McGraw-Hill, $8.95 to 12/31/74; $10 thereafter).

Rare photographs collected all over the country bring back the whole range of campus life from the early days, when only a handful of young men attended a small number of institutions, to the bustling present, when education is America's biggest business.

Here are the Ivy League of long ago and the new, raw colleges of the windswept prairies; the classrooms, the august preceptors, the sports, the clowning; the coming of higher education for women; and the fads and revolutions that students, apeing the outside world, have inflicted on bedeviled administrations.

"Our aim has been to recall the changing look and the lasting flavor of the American college experience across the past century and more," writes Jensen in his Foreword.

Eight sections make up the book's curriculum, abundantly illustrated and highlighted by vivid anecdotes. "In the Beginning" recalls, among other things, that a Harvard student's quarterly bill in 1804 amounted to $33.57. "A Primitive Brotherhood" recalls the college man's world of the 19th century. "And a Sisterhood" shows how women slowly infiltrated the masculine retreats, then established a full-fledged college of their own.

"Light and Learning" delves into the charisma of great teachers. "Cheering Sections" celebrates such glories as the season the Yale football team scored 698 points to 0. "High Spirits" runs the gamut from goldfish to nudity to riots. "Signs of the Times" revives hay rides and Marijuana Smoke-Ins. "Last Words" echoes pompous blessings on the eve of the conquest of the world.

Freedom

By Paul Hildreth

What is freedom? Do we define freedom or do we exercise it? Freedom is not always freedom from but, in many cases freedom to. To be free means being able to direct one's will in any desired direction. Freedom from is like escaping from bondage. The pushing away of existing circumstances and developing our own ideas.

Freedom to is being able to choose that which we desire, after we have gained freedom from our former situation. Do we consider ourselves free, when we conform to every passing tide, of the majority's approval?

Freedom consists in exercising the right to be ourself. We disagree and yet we adhere.

Freedom is not adhering unless we believe or wish to believe. The basis for freedom is formed by the individual, not the tide of popular opinion. We all at one time or another say we want to be free, but never realize what we want to be free from or free to.

The word freedom is used loosely and carelessly. Freedom for me has a deeper meaning, a meaning that goes back to man's creation. In his evolution or his divine creation, man had or acquired the ability to come out of himself, and hope to be where he was not; to see that which others did not see. Freedom or to freedom from is expressed by the I in everyone, if ever it is expressed at all.
Sports Review

Undefeated and virtually assured of a berth in the NAIA District 26 soccer playoffs, High Point College can clinch at least a tie for its first Carolinas Conference soccer championship Saturday afternoon in Wilson, N.C., against Atlantic Christian College.

The Panthers have romped to a 7-0-1 record this season, including a perfect 4-0 conference mark. The tie was the Panthers’ fifth win of the season. The loss was 1-0 to Duke and 3-0 to Appalachian State.

Keying the defense has been junior Barbara Abbott, a Deep South selection at fullback a year ago, and freshman Kim Van Acker. Leading the offense has been senior Ann Lombardy and freshman Joda Hayman.

High Point returns home on Tuesday, Oct. 29, against East Carolina University in the only home match remaining on the schedule as the squad points towards the Deep South tournament at UNC-Greensboro in early November.

Women’s Field Hockey

High Point College’s field hockey team travels to Catawba College Friday, Oct. 18 for a rematch against the Indians and will be looking for its fifth win of the season.

The Lady Panthers downed Catawba 3-1 in the latest victory of the season, which has been the most productive from a won-lost standpoint in a number of years.

Other victories this year were against Guilford, Wake Forest and Campbell, and the 4-2-1 record includes a 2-2 tie with UNC-Greensboro. The losses were 1-0 to Duke and 3-0 to Appalachian State.

Kieving the defense has been junior Barbara Abbott, a Deep South selection at fullback a year ago, and freshman Kim Van Acker. Leading the offense has been senior Ann Lombardy and freshman Joda Hayman.

Dear Sir:

Recently I had the opportunity to have lunch with my freshman group in the cafeteria. After hearing repeatedly over the years of the poor quality of food that the cafeteria offers, I was pleasantly surprised to hear their meals.

Thank you, ordered, scripts and chorus books from Tams-Whitmark had to be returned, dancers have made themselves sore for nothing, and almost the entire cast has a vague feeling somewhat like a person who has just completed a large and intricate jigsaw puzzle and then had it fall to the ground.

Perhaps for those students who plan to be professional actors it is a feeling they should get used to. For the rest of the students and the faculty who are used to a fine Parents Day production, it is a feeling they should never have to encounter. It is a shame that they have to.

Atlantic Road Race

By almost any measure, the Champion Spark Plug Road Racing Classic at Road Atlanta, October 27 -- November 3, is a goliath affair. It is a logistical masterpiece. A statistician's dream. Quite simply, it is the longest and largest championship auto race in the world.

Known as the "Olympics of Auto Racing," the Champion Classic brings together 450 Sports Car Club of America amateurs from 35 states for a week-long run-off event which ultimately decided the club's national champions in a clockwork series of 21 half-hour sprint races November 1-3.

Including pit crews and officials, more than 2,500 participants will make the annual pilgrimage to Road Atlanta next week.

For the statistician, the field of 450 drivers includes 17 of last year's 21 national champs back to defend their titles, and 31 former champions dating back in several cases to the very first "runoff" which was held at Riverside Raceway, California, in 1964. Participants will cover a total of more than 20,000 miles in practice and competition over Road Atlanta's 2.52 mile circuit, and spectators will be treated to more than 900 miles of actual championship racing in the final 3 days of the speedfest.

The Champion Classic is an amateur -- or club racing -- event, and as such there is no "purse" for winners. That doesn't keep the event from ranking as one of the world's richest races, however. More than $140,000 will change hands, in the form of travel expenses paid for by the SCCA, and manufacturer's contingency awards, paid to winners based on exclusive use and endorsement of certain products.

Gregory at HPC

HIGH POINT, N.C. - Dick Gregory, human rights activist, will speak at High Point College on Thursday, November 21, at 7 p.m. He will discuss current social problems. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the College business office or at the door of Memorial Auditorium immediately before his appearance.

Gregory has reached his wildest audience as a guest on Late night television talk shows, although he has become one of the most sought-after speakers in America on college campuses. He visits more than 300 colleges annually.

He became famous in the Daniele Berrigan Comes to High Point

Daniele Berrigan will be on our campus in the Chapel, on Nov. 25. He will be here from one in the afternoon until five. One of you may remember the spring play last year, "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine," which was written by Daniele Berrigan, and tells the story of the Berrigan brothers and some faithful friends who protested the Vietnam War as a large file of draft papers in order to keep them from being drafted and to symbolically show their disgust over the war's use of napalm in Vietnam. Berrigan was a priest of the Catholic Church.

Faculty Profile

by Betty Pennington

High Point College has six new full-time teachers and three new part-time teachers.

Mrs. Quinto is the new face in the P.E. department. She received her BS at Winthrop College and her M.Ed. from U. Va. She and her husband and two children have been living in High Point for four years. Mrs. Quinto was previously taught in Virginia Beach Va. Long Beach, S.C., Plain Edge, N.Y., and Ferndale Jr. High in High Point. Mrs. Quinto coaches the women's field hockey and women's tennis teams. Her interests include bicycle riding with her kids and swimming.

The Amazing World of Kreskin

by Gary Keaton

"Extra! Extra! Extra!"...

"The Devil made me do it!"... To those of you who didn't attend Monday night's performance of Kreskin at High Point College Auditorium, these quotes may seem unrelated and meaningless. Even the students who shouted them still don't quite understand why. For most purposes these quotes are unrelated but Kreskin used them effectively to show that our minds may hold powers greater than our wildest dreams, if developed properly. Kreskin himself seemed to be amazed and delighted as his feats were continually successful. His performance at HPC was the most successful event this year, without five hundred people attending.

Even the most hard nosed skeptics were stunned by the feats which seemed to have no scientific explanation. Before a nearly full house, Kreskin did much and nearly full house, Kreskin did much. He has recently turned his attention to the problem of hunger. Earlier this year he ran from Chicago to Washington, covering some thirty to forty miles a day of the 900 miles, as part of his crusade to focus attention on the problem of hunger.

But Kreskin, when asked if he amazes himself occasionally, said the "minds have no limits" and I am always finding new powers or things I can do recently on the Carson show I tried a new thing and failed, but I don't consider myself a failure because I have not mechanical and can not be checked in advance. I feel that the human mind is a mysterious entity in that it can improve upon past failures by itself. So sometime I'll try that thing again and it will succeed.

Kreskin admits that he is a showman: "Anyone who commands an audience is in show business". He also admits that when performing he does his act in such a way as to create awe, for the effect, but he also wants to create respect for the human mind and its powers.

"I do not give people magical powers," he said, referring to a recent incident in Dayton Ohio where he helped an eyewitness to a bank robbery recall the license number of the getaway car. "I merely help people organize their own thoughts to help them use their own mental powers. I can not hope to make somebody remember something that they never knew before."

Is it possible for others to develop similar powers? "I can't teach others to do my feats; I can help them prepare themselves to organize thoughts more effectively, but practice and an inborn ability also is part of my power, much as a master violinist or athlete has inborn skill that must be developed over years of hard work."

In speaking of his audience, Kreskin said, "I love the show, for they are the ones that make my work worthwhile. Without them I would not be where I am today. Some, however, treat me as a liar and a fraud merely because they can't understand - call it a fear of the unknown maybe, I don't know."

I feel that Kreskin uses his apparent wisely - for when you consider the possibilities - Let me pose one question. Assuming that Kreskin's powers are real (and I have come across no instance where they have seemed otherwise) if Kreskin had been born two thousand years ago, would we be reading about him today as merely a showman, or perhaps the leader of a respected school of thought?

To all those interested, Kreskin is teaching a course in Parapsychology at Seton Hall University in New Jersey next fall.
Halftime

In an otherwise dark building, one light in one room shone forth. From that room came the sound of what seemed to be someone brutally beating a defenseless typewriter - almost to death. It was well after midnight.

Early the next day this same person could be seen in a car, scribbling furiously on a pad he held in his lap. After reaching his destination, he proceeded to beat the dickens out of still another typewriter. Earlier that week another man could be seen talking to numerous people, and once again writing like a maniac the entire time. He could be seen in stores, talking business, gaining the goodwill of merchants and proprietors, smoothing complaints and making promises.

This person was constantly harried by people who had not had time to show their gratitude. It was well after midnight.

Dear Mr. Editor,

The continuing routine of the "Dan O'Toole and Phill D'Agostino Show" has now seen quite a few curtians and I feel that it is about time to make a few comments.

McCulloch is an old dormitory in obvious need of a face lift. This has been a problem for the dormitory for years and has been the source of resentment for destructive behavior by residents and non-residents alike. This has been the case this year, and it is my contention that in the past it was the case because of a combination of a lower quality resident and a lack of pride (or of something to be proud of). It has been shown by this year's residents that it is possible to be involved, and I hope to follow that if you have an old building, you have an unenvisioned environment.

We have had run-ins with our residents, of course. We have given out numerous warnings and fines. But when Mr. O'Toole and myself went out on a limb to have our 3rd floor lounge carpeted and renewed, they can say that it is a situation of one word "half"; half of what people tell you will do, they won't; half of what people tell you is garbage period; no matter how long a time they have to do anything, they will take half again as long to accomplish it, even if they assure you they are very fast - remember that they're always half fast. This concerns not only the Hi-Po and my staff, but a basic attitude on the campus, maybe everyone in the world. But let me ammuse you with my particular problems as an example, the problems involved in running a student newspaper.

My staff. Yes. I've got an Associate Editor that doesn't associate, a Lay-Out Editor that must lay out all the sun, I sure don't see her around here, a Business Manager that pretty much minds his own business-no one else, and an Advertising Manager that as of this writing I haven't seen in over a week. Most of my reporters don't report and the last time I called an office hour in the publication room was myself.

Many of our advertisers do not pay their bills, many people expect free services of the paper with nothing in return. Many people gripe about the paper, its quality, what it says, or how it's handled. On one occasion I remember a rather pretty young lady who, after being quoted in the Hi-Po was one mass of technical errors which was poorly written and sloppily handled. "Very nice for you to be so honest in your opinion; would you like to work with us and make it better?" With the same exasperating smile. "No."

After the last issue was printed I was running around campus asking for my stock of papers in the appropriate places (our Circulation Department is non-existent) when I happened to recross my path upstairs in the Campus Center. I found a mass of shredded papers on and around one of the tables where someone had ripped a two-for-one pizza ad out of every issue and laid it on the table. The paper scattered all over the place, apparently without having even read it.

I have written several editorials attacking some policy or other of the administration, but this one is attacking the students. I have rarely even imagined a more self-concerned and apathetic group of people anywhere before. This shredded paper was a classic trick over the campus. Many students never got to read that issue because they were all torn into birdcage lining by the time they got to a stack.

If you have been reading Pat Jobe's columns lately you know that I think Pat is no good. If you think nothing has changed in the near future - speaking mainly of the student body. He's right. There is nothing that can shake you out of there of your stupor. I've tried everything. Not only does anything this paper says have little effect on those who read it, but most of you bithering...

So may I take my hat off to Mr. Bill Guy and Ann Boyles, Mr. Jack Thompson, Mr. Carl Dalbey and in particular our man for making living in McColloch not something to be ashamed of, but something to actually be proud of.

Thank you.

P. D'Agostino

Dear Editor,

For the last few weeks, especially on weekends, the residents of McCulloch have been plagued with a most unusual problem. The problem is that someone has been breaking into our basements and liberating the oppressed fourteen year old girls, who we have kept locked in our basement and let's look at this situation from a humane point of view: without those girls working their fingers to the bone in our boiler room.

By Pat Jobe

Evaluating a group action from the inside is, at best, highly biased. But I suppose if you make a habit of reading this column, you're used to it. I'm attempting to evaluate the what and why and how and why again of what has come to be known as the CAN movement and I'm also trying to sell its attributes to the campus. CAN is a group that has come about as a result of the initial form of the phrase Christian Action Now, but it's more than that. When Chaplain Teague opened a can of worms hoping to stir the conscious, the spirit of HPC to action, affirmative action to confront crucial issues in the college and community.

The response, though positive, was less than thundering. Yet the appeal to action has not been completely unheard. By November 14 students and faculty will have met with city officials to confront the problems of sub-standard housing in the city. If this meeting is a success, students may find themselves working with the poor of this city to help them face a winter that is predicted to be rough.

But let's back up to the examine the roots of this movement and to challenge its potential. On September 23 seven administrators and faculty members showed up a McColloch dorm to engage the residents of that dorm in some thought provoking dialogue. Dr. Earl Crow questioned the validity of High Point College's claim to being a Christian College. He stated that our graduates fit the mold of middle class America far better than the standards set by Jesus of Nazareth. Dr. Allen Thacker responded to Crow's contentions by saying that one might be able to fit them in.

So the question was left unresolved in the minds of most observers. In fact, I observed that most of the students didn't give a holy hoot whether or not the school met its claim of Christian institution. That fact alone seemed to justify Dr. Crow's asking, "Does High Point College challenge you to face questions to challenge our conscience?"

Few answered.

Dr. Murphy Osborne presented evidence that High Point College has offered a Christian option to those who wish to involve themselves in Christianity as the college sees it. He noted that many fraternity and sorority projects are service oriented, that many forms of worship.

Foreign Students At H.P.C.

Every year foreign students come to the U.S. to attend High Point College. One such student is Deborah Buell, of Cali, Columbia; South America. The States are not totally new to her, when she was a sophomore in high school she was a foreign exchange student in Canton, Ohio.

When asked why she came to High Point College, Ms. Buell replied, "I wanted to attend a small conservative college in North Carolina." Debbie commented, "My first impression of High Point College was that I had chosen a school which was too conservative." At first instead of finding a variety of people on campus with different interests, Ms. Buell was disillusioned by the stagnant and apathetic attitude of the students. In spite of this, Debbie made many close and wonderful friends.

When asked about the academic situation at HPC, Debbie said that there weren't enough challenging choices within each major. Ms. Buell's major is theatre-education. She is presently teaching Creative Dramatics at Westchester Academy, and is finding the experience rewarding. "I believe the best way to learn is through experience."

Debbie thinks that both the city of High Point and HPC are culturally deprived. There is a lack of stimulating activities such as concerts, lectures, musical and theatrical performances.

The Spirit To Act

by Sylvia Petrea

People crowd into the room talking nervously, some laughing to ease the tension. Make-up is applied skillfully, females helping males with the finishing touches. Then street clothes are exchanged for lavish bold costumes, some velvet, some with sequins, others with bold stripes.

The stage manager takes a quick inventory of people, then calls them into place. The orchestra begins to play, the audience is silent. The curtains rustle gently as actors take their stands. At last the music swells, and the grand drape begins to part, and the actors begin to perform to an empty auditorium. The show has been cancelled, the set destroyed, the costumes returned, and the make-up never ordered. But the spirit remains with the desire to perform.

Ms. Buell feels that there should be a gathering of all foreign students at the beginning of each school year. "This way we could meet one another and learn from different cultures."

"As for holidays, there should be something organized for the foreign students who can not go home over the vacation." The dormitories remain open for those students but it becomes boring and lonely with the campus otherwise empty. Fortunately, Debbie has been able to visit relatives living in the U.S., or return to her family in Cali.

This year Debbie is living off campus for the first time. By meeting her neighbors she is being exposed to older people who are native North Carolinians. "When you live off campus you acquire a greater freedom, but not without discipline and responsibility."

Ms. Buell finds the American way of life challenging and fast-paced.
 Panther Kickers Finish Season

By David Wooten
Sports Editor

The setting was perfect, the weather was right, the crowd good and the Northeast Junior High School band played. Yes, everything was perfect except the District 26 Championship was won by Belmont Abbey 3-1.

The Panthers, who finish this year 11-1-2, served a valiant try but Belmont Abbey’s Mosadou Soussi and Kualid Khalifa got in the Panthers’ way to capture the crown away from High Point.

Peter Ranney is to be commended for a fantastic season as goalie 11-1-2 is not bad for a guy who has never played soccer before in his life. Of course he was not goalle for all the games but worked and proved he could control the ball in the state. In the game against Elon he was hurt and even though the blood showed through from his knee he continued to play.

The championship game was a repeat from the regular season match between the two schools, which was won by High Point 1-0 on a Jeff Potter goal in the second half.

The two clubs battled to a 0-0 tie in the first half with neither club being able to score but having some great opportunities to be saved by some outstanding defense. The defense of both goalies was really super and the scoring that came in the second half was gotten by slipping it through.

Mosadou Soussi scored the first goal on a midfield fly that fell into the left corner of the goal. High Point tied it up a minute later on a Tim Nichols feed to Eric Herr for his third goal of the playoffs.

With 8:43 showing on the clock Soussi broke in with a head butt to give Belmont Abbey the lead and win. Kualid Khalifa came back with 5:45 left and pushed one from the corner.

The game ended with the Christians victorious but the struggle and the true form of championship teams were seen.

BE BACK NEXT YEAR.”

Now back to the story, the Panthers reached the finals by virtue of its 5-0 win over Elon in the first round.

In the win the Panthers used its speed and defense to perfection, taking 52 shots at the goal to Elon’s 19. Scoring for High Point were, Gary Downing, Jeff Potter, Bill Redfern, and two by Eric Herr.

Downing scored the only goal in the first half powering one in from in front of the goal, getting it unassisted.

Potter got the second half rally going on a direct kick after Elon was called for hande. Here got first one of the game on an assist from Jerry Gosie. Redfcrn talleyed the fourth goal unassisted after a great save at the other end by Paul Goehle. The last goal came on a head butt by Herr after Potter cornered kick the ball from the left side. Everyone saw action in the game, even manager Jorge de la Vega.

The High Point College Purple Panthers will have to go to the hard work without the assistance of Pete Collins this year, but Jerry Steele will be relying on alot of speed and quickness to pull the Panthers through.

The Panthers will be coming off a 10-18 record, but have hopes of making the nine close games from last year turn the other way. The team lost nine of their games within one to three points last year.

There will be six returning men from the 1975 squad, all coming back with a lot of hope and dedication to put High Point high in both the District 26 and Carolina’s Conference. The men returning are: Paul Cloud - Winstonton Salem, N.C.; Paul Mattos - Senior - Rocky Mount, Va.; Greg Bennett - Senior - Winston Salem, N.C.; Ray Cole - Soph. - Greensboro, N.C.; Mike Glover - Junior Jamesstown, N.C.; and Pearlee Shaw - Soph. - Gibsonville, N.C.

One newcomer to the team this year bring a little bit more height, with two standing 6’8 and one 6’7. The new men are: Leon Dickens - Soph. Roboro, N.C.; Glenn Bethea - Soph. - High Point, N.C.; Ron Engelkamp - Fresh - Baltic, N.C.; Tom Jones - Soph. - Brooklyn, N.; and Sherman Johnson - Fresh - Wilmington, N.C.; Billy Lee - Fresh - Statesville, N.C.; Mark Bishoff - Soph. Camp Springs, Md. Dickens has been in school since the beginning of last semester, but was not eligible to play in second half of the season for the Panthers. Bethea is not eligible this semester due to transfer, but will be seeing action in the spring term. Shaw and Mattos are the two leading scorers from last years team, Shaw averaged 12.0 a game and Mattos 11.1. Collins was the leading scorer with a 23.6 average.

Collins will be the leading rebounder with a 13.0 average, but once again Shaw and Mattos jump in there with 6.9 and 5.7 respectively.

Johnson will be the man Steele will probably go with in the center position, but will be getting alot of added help from the forwards. The forwards positions will be filled by a race between Jones, Shaw and Glover.

The men fighting in the backcourt will be Dickens, Mattos, Cole, Bennett, and Cloud, and we will also see some action at the forwards position. Cole was a forward in high school but was switched to guard because of his outside shooting potential. "We’re trying to develop poise, because we feel that is the biggest thing to do, control the tempo, the control, the break, just keeping together.”

Steele plans on using the speed techniques this year, and he said, "We’re going to play a smart press, pass and run with the ball. We will also be playing more people so as we won’t have to rely on just one man for the scoring, like last year.”

Last year Collins was the big point getter for the Panthers, but this year Steele feels it will be more balanced with the load not being dumped on one man shoulders.

The Panthers lost quite a few games last year in the closing minutes of the game, and I ask Steele what he plans on doing to avoid that this year. “Use a little more quickness. In the closing minutes it’s a little mans game and we are definitely improved in that department this year.”

Steele picked out four teams in the conference that will be the teams to beat this year.

"First off the freshman in this league play an important role," but I think Guilford, Elon, Lenoir Rhyne and Catawba will be the teams, but it is hard to say with new faces in the lineup."

The Panthers open their season this Tuesday night, when they take on Warren Wilson here in the Alumni Gym at 8:00. It will be the first meeting of 2 teams that have not played each other in several years and should be an exciting game.

The team will also be involved in one other game against Limestone, here on November 21 and on November 26. We will have several games that week the Panthers will be involved in the Fayetteville tournament with Campbell, Pembroke, and Catawba.

Steele added a few extra thoughts at the end of the interview. “We think the team is really working hard, they’ve shown up fairly good in three scrimmages, and were the interest of the study body. We are going to try and add some entertainment to our half time shows this year. We would also like to express our appreciation to the cheerleaders for their hard work."

In conclusion, there will be some thrillers in store this year and all thoughts point to go as the Panthers take to the floor Tuesday night and leave victorious. GOOD LUCK PANTHERS!!!
Film Festival No. Two

The Writer's Club is sponsoring Film Festival Number Two on November 18, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. in the Empty Space Theatre. Three short movies will be shown, The Great Train Robbery, Dream of a Rarebit Friend, and Rescued from an Eagle's Nest, which will last approximately 30 minutes. As a pioneer, his achievements were important. He was the first to devise the "Story film," and created the first narrative western in The Great Robbery (Edison. 1903). He introduced social consciousness into the cinema, inaugurated film editing to heighten suspense, was the first American to use visual effects and encouraged to use these facilities.

According to one student presently involved in the Reading Lab 151 course, The Reading Lab is a good place for studying because it is quiet. I can get three hours of studying done in one hour because there are less interruptions. The only problem I see is that there could be more evening lab hours." The Reading Lab is open during the following hours: Mon. 9-12, 2-5, 5-7; Tues. 9-12, 1-3:30, 3:30-5; Wed. 9-12, 2-5, 5-7; Thurs. 9-12, 1-3:30, 3:30-5; Fri. 9-10, 11-12, 1-3.

Reading Lab Offers New Courses

Beginning its first year at High Point College, the Reading Lab is designed to aid incoming freshmen and new transfer students in developing necessary reading and study skills for the college level. Located in Cook Hall, room 20, the lab contains SSA reading programs for all levels, timed reading programs, tapes, and over 100 recent paperback books. Under the direction of Dr. William DeLeu, the Reading Lab also offers two courses, English 151 and 152.

The basic criteria for English 151 and 152 is the California Reading Test which determines reading vocabulary and comprehension. The test consists of six basic parts: general, mathematics, science, and social studies vocabulary and reading comprehension in following directions, reference skills, and the interpretation of materials. Each area is separately scored so an evaluation can be made of the areas where work is needed.

English 151 is one credit hour course which meets one hour a week and requires two hours a week in the Reading Lab. This course stressed reasoning power, not speed, and emphasizes the study skills needed for college level work. Any student scoring below the 25 percentile on the California Reading Test is required to take English 151 and complete the course when he makes a satisfactory score (within the 50th percentile). Until this score is obtained, the student must attend all class sessions and complete lab work. By scoring high on the California Reading Test (75th percentile), a student can earn the two hours credit, and since English 151 is offered for credit/non-credit, it is impossible to fail.

English 152 is designed for those students who have no reading problem, but want to increase their reading skills. Like English 151, it is also a one credit hour course meeting one hour a week and requiring two hours a week in the Reading Lab. To complete English 152, a student must score within the 75th percentile on the California Reading Test.

The lab work for both English 151 and 152 is individualized, concentrating on the areas in which each student needs help. Reading Lab materials include: resources on listening and taking notes, study methods, comprehension, and taking examinations. Students may also bring readings from their other classes to lab, and are encouraged to do their studying for other courses in the Reading Lab.

At the completion of English 151 or 152, students will be asked to evaluate the Reading Lab. Problems which have already been stated are: conflicts in the afternoon scheduling of lab, inadequate lab space for the 55 students presently enrolled, and the adjustment problems in learning new reading and study skills. A major problem in the time factor involved in taking the courses. Even though the class meets only one hour a week, two hours of lab may be needed for some students.

As a new program, the Reading Lab has also had its accomplishments. Out of the students who took the California Reading Test midterm, two were able to complete the course with scores in the 50th and 75th percentile. This just proves, as Dr. DeLeu says, "It can be done." The Reading Lab will also serve as a liason for the new three credit hour course offered in secondary education. Thirty-two. The High School. Students, therefore, will be able to use lab materials to help them with their student teaching.

According to one student presently involved in the Reading Lab 151 course, "the Reading Lab is a good place for studying because it is quiet. I can get three hours of studying done in one hour because there are less interruptions. The only problem I see is that there could be more evening lab hours." The Reading Lab is open during the following hours: Mon. 9-12, 2-5, 5-7; Tues. 9-12, 1-3:30, 3:30-5; Wed. 9-12, 2-5, 5-7; Thurs. 9-12, 1-3:30, 3:30-5; Fri. 9-10, 11-12, 1-3.

All students are welcome and encouraged to use these facilities.

Parents' Day Talent Show

Friday, Nov. 16, the High Point College Student Union is sponsoring a talent show. The show starts at 8:00 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. Admission is free and all are invited.

Judges are: Mrs. Ray Moody, Barbara Probert - a member of the N.C. Art's Council, Howard Coch - Choir director at Wesley Methodist Church, Ray Moody who is a member of the Arts Council. Two were able to complete the course with scores in the 50th and 75th percentile. This just proves, as Dr. DeLeu says, "It can be done." The Reading Lab will also serve as a liason for the new three credit hour course offered in secondary education. Thirty-two. The High School. Campus Police Reorganized

by Ray Harris

It is strange what people learn to take for granted. Some people and services become so much a part of the environment that they become just taken for granted. In this case, it was the Campus Police. I found out from our Campus Police. I found out from one of our Campus Police. I found out from the Campus Police that they are on 24 hour call, day and night. Also, for Welch Detective Agency, the Campus Police is the Supervisor of whom are new here. In other words, our Campus Police are just a part of that unobtrusive background. Who are these people who you just might notice walking around, or gliding by in their car at night?

In search of an answer to this and other questions this reporter entered a small (and obtrusive, naturally) office located in the rear of Harrison Hall - you know, it's just down the street from the washing machines.

By chance and uncustomed luck the officer on duty that day happened to be Lieutenant Oakley, who is the Supervisor of our Campus Police. I found out from him that there are six members of our current force, all of whom are new here. In other words, our Campus Police has been rebuilt into an entirely new force. All men come from Welch Detective Agency, which apparently arranges the contract through the college. Also for the first time, this year the Campus Police is on 24 hour call, day and night.

As the interview proceeded, I sized up Lt. Oakley as a powerful and friendly man with a faint trace of distaste in his voice. I don't know why he feels kind of helpless out there on his own. I tell you we need a little more help from the police, and of course the S.B.I., the county sheriff, and Campbell, but two weeks ago the glory going around for everybody this year, the Panther team was one of four goalies who just existed on this campus to do a fantastic job with what they have available to them, and we should appreciate their responsibility.

The one thing that Lt. Oakley requested me to emphasize in this article is that the Campus Police don't just exist on this campus to hand out parking tickets to the students. They all quite seriously regard their primary responsibility as the protection and safeguarding of the people who live on this campus, as well as the literally guardians of our welfare.

Field Hockey Has A Winner

By David Wooten

Sports Editor

There was a little bit of glory going around for everybody this year, the Field Hockey team going 11-1-2, the Cross Country team winning the District championship, and the women decided they wanted a little bit, so they went out and finished up with their best season ever in Field Hockey, going 6-5-5 for the year.

The girls experienced some good times and some bad, but one of the good times was a 2-2 tie with UNC-G this earlier this year. UNC-G was ranked as the number one team in the state. The Lady Panthers bowed to number two ranked Duke 1-0 in a real tough battle also.

It was a fairly young team, having seven freshmen, with five of those in the starting lineup, two sophomores, three juniors, and two seniors. The team will only lose one of its starting eleven and that being Cindy Wood.

Ann Lombardi was the leading scorer for the team, ramming in nine goals for the year. Lombardi a junior played left end position.

idiots don't read it. I can't even get enough of you to work on it put it out on time. if the college didn't accept almost anyone who graduates from high school, and offer courses in better ways to make bayberry candles most of you wouldn't be here anyway. I'd be willing to bet that half of you aren't learning anything. Mamma and Daddy to invest your tuition money in a good name, but leave them. I think the faculty and administration is the only one to read this editorial. I bet I can sit here and insult the entire student body and not get any reaction, verbal or written. Perhaps if you out there with brains in your head, I'm not asking you to think, I'm just asking you to think. We may be out of practice. I just want you to tell me that you think sometimes, and sometimes have motivation to do more than eat and sleep. Write me a note, or tell me, or send smoke signals. I'm not picky. I need to be reassured. I just want to see how many of you answer.

money. But let's not go to extremes.

I must hand it to whoever is in control to the hot water; he must have an IQ of at least...four. But he is consistent. For the last three weeks I have been getting hot water on the same schedule: erratically on weekdays and never on weekends. And "thanks and a tip of the hat" go to our dorm daddies, who somehow seem to disappear every Saturday morning when we need hot water the most (they've probably gone home to take showers.)

Really, everyone talks about how bad it is to take a cold shower, and how it's pure hell to wash your hair. But what's worse is to shave with cold water - that is, to try to shave with cold water. It can't be done. Last week I tried; before I had done two square inches of my face, I went through two blades and three stypyic sessions. By the end of that weekend, I told her that I wouldn't be able to shave before we went out. She told me to come to her room and shave. Boy, did I get some strange stares as I walked into her room with my shaving kit.

I do believe I'm getting off the topic. The question arises: What can we do about it? Complaint? Obviously that's not going to help: we've complained before and no one has listened. So what can we do? I suggest that if the college wants to turn off our hot water, they leave me at that. But until we get hot water regularly, why don't we leave the lights in our room on twenty-four hours a day. Not just the big floor lamps, but every light in the room. If we drive up the electrical bill, even a little bit, there is a good chance that we would get some attention from the college. Maybe even a little consideration. This is the way big businesses work, this is the way little business works.

service is conducted on campus, that many organizations have a religious flavor. Students defended the school, complained about the discussions, attacked the school. They spoke of the effect the school had made and had not made on their spiritual lives. But Paul Hildreth is soap box fashion echoed the sentiments of the action movement. He said there is no vehicle for Christian action.

On October 8 another meeting was held this one in Women's dorm. Dr. Crow, Mrs. Rawley and Rev. Teague attended as did Paul Hildreth and 1. The discussion centered around the nature of the man Jesus, his posture as a modern American and the contrasts between that man and the upper and middle-class American of today.

For the first time in this session the action movement was challenged as possibly stirring up trouble for sake of itself. The women that night were challenged as possibly stirring up trouble for sake of itself. The women that night were also challenged as possibly stirring up trouble for sake of itself.
