Filling positions, admissions head Lucht's concerns

DR. WINFIELD BEARCE became academic dean on Jan. 10 (Photo by Marisa Firpi)

BY KARLA GREEN Features Editor

High Point College has a new academic dean. Dr. Winfield Bearce arrived January 10 to fill the position that had been vacant since the reassignment of the previous dean. Bearce was announced last December by Lucht.

Bearce comes to High Point from Missouri Valley College where he served as dean of that college. Bearce was with the school for a total of 17 years, during which he took a leave to serve with the Peace Corps of Africa. Bearce went to Kenya, Africa as a chemistry lecturer at Nairobi University for two years.

Bearce is married and has two children. In an interview Wednesday, he commented that his family would be joining him in High Point in March. He also commented that he is looking forward to making his home here, having visited this part of the country for conferences in the past.

Bearce also feels comfortable with the size of HPC. He said that the school he came from is "very similar in size" to HPC. He said the students also seem similar.

Bearce further commented that his "primary emphasis would be on the high quality education offered by the college and its faculty."

His previous school was located in a small town with many of its students being from other parts of the country.

Bearce, himself, attended a small college in Maine, Bowdoin College, where he received his A.B. degree. He recalls being active in his student life program, also being involved in the Greek system as a Kappa Sigma Alumnae of that college.

Bearce at this point, showed personal interest in the development of the Student Life program at High Point.

"I feel this is where we can implement the personal touch of the college." Commenting on his prior experiences with programs such as the Greeks, he said, "I feel that such grouping gives an opportunity for a lot of strength within a college. "Thus, it can promote dedication to one institution." With enrollment at small colleges, such as High Point decreasing, Bearce felt that the student life development may be a factor to keep students happy with HPC.

Bearce further commented that his "primary emphasis would be on the high quality education offered by the college and its faculty."

Overall, Bearce seems to be very excited about joining the staff here at HPC, he says he will start by "getting to know about his traditions and relationships that make High Point College."
To be missed by many

His mischievous grin was always there to greet whoever came by. He always had a friendly manner to brighten one's day. He was always there when anyone needed him - night and day. But what single quality most likely captured the essence of Bruce Tingle? Bruce cared.

As students returned to campus after Christmas break, many noticed the absence of a familiar face. Bruce Tingle, assistant director of Student Life, had resigned.

Tingle left the college on Jan. 7 to begin work with the Area L AHEC staff, a subsidiary of the UNC school of medicine. He will be the Associate Director for Special Projects.

The mark Tingle made on the college and community will not soon be forgotten. He spent countless hours helping students find jobs and he was always available for counselling when a student had a problem. Tingle's affiliation with the High Point Jaycees and the local epilepsy association are just two examples of the fine work he gave to the community. He was recently honored with a special award from Governor Hunt for his outstanding volunteerism.

Why was Bruce Tingle so able to help others? Bruce had a true understanding of what it is like to have to overcome obstacles in life, so he knows that no problem is too large to overcome.

Another great thing about Bruce that will be missed at HPC was his desire to know each student personally. When he would see someone around campus, he usually knew his or her name and something about that person. Bruce truly cared about his work and those who he had to work with.

To fill the space Bruce Tingle left at High Point College will be impossible. However, it is impossible to erase the outstanding mark he left on our college and community.

New year's resolutions

To live to be two-hundred years old.

To change my name legally (some computer somewhere has already changed it extra-legally) from M.C. Hodge to M. Chodge. I might as well go along. How can you fight the Big C? Try saying it to yourself, though. Chodge. That's ugly.

But don't say it out loud. That can cause all sorts of mischief. At the VFW the other day, I got a little excited and yelled out, "CHODGE!" The next thing I knew, I was a squad of South Carolinians, Green Berets all! Yosemite half the guys around the bar.

To find at least one worthwhile thing at every faculty meeting.

To floss more often. The first time a dental assistant told me that. I thought she was perverted, you know how they look at you when they've got you strapped into that torture chair-and then she says, "You haven't been flossing regularly, have you?" Not only had I been failing to floss regularly. I had been failing to floss period. And the way the word sounded, I wasn't so sure I wanted to start. But I bought one of those little rolls of floss. And it said something like "500 yards." How do they get five-hundred yards of thread on that teeny roll? A computer must do it.

To eat less in general. I recently discovered something like a "500 yard" computer.

To be cost-effective, and to find out what "cost-effective" means.

To avoid being inter-faced by anyone, unless I'm wearing my old catcher's mask.

To preserve, within my limited capacity, the artistic integrity of the literature, and the integrity of the English-American language.

To read at least two pages of Finnegan's Wake.

To go into the cafeteria and talk to students. The Committee on the Retention of Students was advised last semester that we could keep more students at HPC if faculty members went into the cafeteria more often. I don't know if that works too well. I went in there a couple of times last year, but not a single blamed kid gave me a bite of anything to eat, and one guy got real mad when I asked him if he could have one of his spare ribs. He said the only spare one he'd ever heard of was Adam's, and it had already been used for something else. Smart-aleck religion major.

To stop leaving my kids out at Westchester Mall on weekends. They say it's okay during the day, but they get awfully bored at night, with only the night watchman to talk to and all.

To teach the past as an instrument, a resource, and a root source of knowledge, to be active in historical observing, in cultivating a perspective on the present.

To sink my hands into a mound of clay! Never to leave home without it.

To make peace with the Big C.

To remember that the whole fight is for the conservation of the individual soul.

Computers help run HPC

Not only are computers being implemented at High Point College for educational purposes, but they also play a major role in the operations of the school. Dr. Epperson said the college is now using a "main frame" IBM 32 Batch System computer for printing class rosters, grade reports, etc. He said the computer has definite limitations because it has no on-line capabilities. The computer has the capacity for data entry, but cannot perform any other function while printing.

Epperson said the college needs to move to an interactive system so data entry is done by the office that is making the entry. He said, "In the calendar year 1983 we will purchase a new central computer." The new computer will "probably not be an IBM."

As today's world is becoming more and more advanced by computer technology, colleges and universities are striving to give students experience in using technological machines.

High Point College is no exception.

HPC currently owns 24 Apple II + 48k computers that are being used in the math, science, business and human resources departments.

Dr. Roy Epperson, Dean of Administrative Affairs, said the college initially purchased three Apple computers (Apples) at a cost of about $10,000 for the math department in the fall of 1981. This funding came from the High Point College Rawley Fund. Epperson said the Apple II is not very old -- it first came to the market in 1976.

Epperson said the business department and the Continuing Adult Education Program (CAEP) requested the purchase of more computers. Dr. David Cole, former Dean of the College, wrote a proposal to

Meanwhile, Lucht said
"the operation is well-run. There is no problem, no emergency situation. Instead of going to Bulls, they see me."

Lucht expressed concern about enrollment, because the trend has been a decline every year since 1979.

"The decrease in enrollment appears to be a decrease that might have been expected," Lucht said. "With only one exception, the private schools were down more."

Lucht praised the admissions counselors, saying "Under Jim Schlimmer's direction, the college could do as well as any college in this situation (decrease in enrollment)."

"The three admissions counselors are intelligent, highly motivated, energetic and well-trained," Lucht said, "and with Mrs. (Joan) Betsill and the other office staff, we do as well as anyone."

Since Mr. Larry Keesee, director of library services, left in June 1982, Mrs. Carol Aderholdt has been the acting director of library services, Lucht said.

"I told Dean Bearer to make the librarian search a number one priority," Lucht said. "With the new library scheduled to open early next fall, a new director of library services needs to be appointed so to be ready for the move."

"The library construction is right on schedule," Lucht said, "and the latest completion date is Sept. 27, 1983."

With the completion of the library, Lucht said it is "likely we will add some personnel, because of the size of the building."

Concerning the replacement of Tingle, Lucht said: "Mr. (Michael) Pittman (director of student life) has a committee set up to find someone to fill the position. Mr. Pittman said he was the earliest he could fill this position is the week of Feb. 7."

Lucht added, in connection to enrollment, that the College Bowl "has any positive help by the students by referring good students to High Point College."

"We need to attract people who will make the grade," he said.

College Bowl gets underway Mon.

The first round of College Bowl will take place Mon., Jan. 31 with seven to ten teams competing in the "battle of knowledge."

The competition will consist of a round robin in which each team plays every other team twice. The finals will be double elimination (two losses in each round).

April Callahan, the coordinator of college bowl, said she was surprised by the fact that many people outside of fraternities and sororities developed teams. She said she expects seven to ten teams to participate. Callahan said that the HPC college bowl team is not eligible for tournament play because of the very limited budget. She said the teams have a swap-off set with UNC-G in order to get question packs for the games.

College bowl is a sport of knowledge and is very similar to the high school "High IQ Bowl. Rounds are played in eight-minute halves with a moderator, scorekeeper, and timekeeper will all be present to run the games."

Callahan said that if anyone still wishes to sign up for college bowl they can possibly be placed with a team. If a whole team wishes to enter competition, they must provide Callahan with a roster containing no less than four names and no more than 10. A designated team captain and his or her bowler has to sign up and also be sent to Callahan at P.O. Box 3134, phone 889-7806.

Special to the HI-PO

Four members of the club have earned special awards this season: Liz Crawford earned a 300 Game patch for a high score game for women with a 206; Susan Durban earned a 500 series patch for a high series for women with a 502; David Tomlinson earned a 600 series patch for a high series for men with a 600; and Donn Kester earned a 100 over average patch for a high game for men with a 256 game and also has the high series with a 679.

The club currently has ten active members. We lost five members last semester due to graduation and members not returning. The club has their own league which bowls on Saturdays at 1:30 p.m. The cost is $3.25 per week. But also included are some free bowling lessons.

WE NEED SOME NEW MEMBERS!!

The club has four foreign students who have never bowled before and are learning during league play. Pat Vickers' average has improved almost 50 points within five weeks of bowling.

Don't be scared to come out and have fun with us and learn to bowl at the same time. This semester we are bowling on February 5 & 26, March 19 & 26, April 9, 16, 23, & 30 at High Point Lanes. If you have any questions, see Gerry Hill in the Bookstore.
The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity presented a check for $500 to Big Brothers/Big Sisters, a United Way agency, on Jan. 6.

The check was presented to Rick Brown, executive director of Big Brothers/Big Sisters by John Van Horn, Pi Kappa Alpha president and David Tomlinson, Pi Kappa Alpha treasurer.

Also present, in addition to the other Pi Kappa Alpha brothers, were Robert Gates, HPC Pi Kappa Alpha alumni who is a Big Brother, and Keath Efird, Gate’s Little Brother.

The money will go toward the agency’s normal operating income. Since the agency is an United Way agency, one-fourth of the $46,000 annual budget comes from the United Way. The other three-fourths comes from private contributions, such as the one given by the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Organization of 1983 Homecoming underway

BY KAREN HERNANDEZ

“Homecoming ’83 will be very fancy this year. High Point College students deserve something more than just a dance with plain candles and a band,” said Mr. Art Prillaman.

Prillaman and Mrs. Tabbie Nance are in charge of organizing this year’s Homecoming. They are planning to have hors d’oeuvres served for the first half of the dance, decorations and flower center pieces.

Entertainment for the Feb. 11 dance will be presented by “The Hollywood Brats.” The band will play a variety of music, ranging from the Stones, Ray Parker Jr., Rick Springfield, Rick James, Gap Band, to Men At Work & The Steve Miller Band. The dance will take place at the “Top of The Mart,” from 9:00-1:00 a.m.

As far as drinking is concerned, students will be stamped either “OVER” or “UNDER” at the entrance. There will be an open bar (pay bar) which will serve mixed drinks for those over 21 years of age, and beer and wine for those under 21 years of age.

“But don’t get scared money wise because tickets this year will only be $5.00 per couple if purchased before the dance and $6.00 per couple if purchased at the door,” said Prillaman.

This is the one dance for all HPC students and alumni and everyone should be proud of it much time and money (over $3000) has gone into it to make it the best of all previous Homecomings.

Tickets for the dance will be sold throughout the entire week before the dance and $6.00 per couple if purchased at the door, said Prillaman.

With the 1983 Track season getting underway Thursday at an indoor meet in Lynchburg, Virginia, coach Jim Davidson is hoping his team's season can match the fourth place finish in the district of last year's squad. This will undoubtedly be a challenge as quite a few of the top performers from the '82 team are now gone.

"On paper, we look to be weaker than last year because we lost some really key people," said coach Davidson. "We have many question marks in the running events because three of our top runners will not be returning."

Two of these performers were lost through transfers while one dropped out of school. Jeff Doerr, the leading hurdler, was also lost because he did not return for the second semester.

To compensate for this, coach Davidson will have to give a big year in the field events, which look to be the strongpoint. "Overall, the field events look pretty good, particularly in the long and triple jumps. We are going to be solid in the high jump, the javelin, and the pole vault."

The key to the team's success will lie in how well the returnees are able to produce. Leading the veterans is defending conference champion Jon Richardson in the javelin, Ralph Barnes in the triple and long jump, and Phil Dickerson, who placed in the conference in the pole vault. Other returnees include 6-8 high jumper Jeff Wiborn, and sprinter Kent Sides. Coach Davidson said he expects a big year out of Sides.

The story of the newcomers is transfer Chris Brown. Brown has been out of athletics for two years while attending a junior college, but coach Davidson says that he is an outstanding triple and long jumper. "With the exception of Brown, we really don't know much about the new kids, but if some of them come through and produce, it would be a real shot in the arm for us."

Among the newcomers are distance runners Joel Moehnus, Jeff Henry, and Steve Hatt, long jumper Terry Allen, long jumper Jeff Collins, sprinter Mike Lemmo, and Tom Scott and Barry Peroneau in the shot and discus.

Asked about the competition in the Carolina's conference this year, coach Jim Davidson said, "We have many question marks in the running events because three of our top runners will not be returning."

With a lackluster record of 5-7 overall and 1-4 in conference play, coach Nancy Little's goal for this year's basketball season is to improve on each game, particularly at two major aspects of the game. "The problem is not that we aren't working hard," revealed coach Little, "but that we are making too many mental mistakes and are not getting the shots to drop." Against conference opponents, the Lady Panthers are shooting just 36% from the floor and 52% from the foul line.

A major reason for the poor shooting is the loss of three possible starters at the beginning of the year. Third team all-American Becky Coles did not return to High Point, while two key recruits, both expected to attend the college this year, did not come.

In addition, Ursula Watt, the leading scorer returning, broke her hand a few days before the season began and did not begin to play until after Christmas.

After opening the 1983 season with a 63-60 loss to Lenoir Rhyne on Jan. 8, the Lady Panthers have down seasons in the Lenoir Rhyne victory, the Panthers were able to take the lead with 7.48 left in the first half and never looked back as they grabbed a 17-point win. Robert Hutson led all scorers with 16 points, while Terry Samuels and Butch Bowser hit for 16 and 11 respectively.

High Point lost to Belmont-Abbeville on Jan. 10 in a game that saw the Panthers trail most of the game before tying it at 48 with 4:50 remaining to play. Abbeville then was able to regain the lead and never relinquished it as they hit on seven of eight foul shots in the final minutes.

After a 78-57 loss to S.C.-Spartanburg, the Panthers fell victims to conference foe Catawbas 97-78. The contest had the Indians outscoring the Panthers 42-25 in the first half and 56-53 in the second half for High Point.

The Panthers cut the margin to seven with 1:11 minutes left. Catawbas then hit 12 of 17 free throws in the closing minutes to take win. Hutson led all scorers with 23 points while Danny Murphy added 18.

High Point then defeated Elon 86-79 to gain their fourth win in the season. Murphy led a balanced attack with 24 points while Mike Everett and Samuels combined for 22 and 16 respectively. On Saturday night, the Panthers lost to Pfeiffer, 85-65.

The Panthers then lost a double-overtime heartbreaker to conference for Pheiffer in a game which saw High Point hold a two point lead with 29 seconds left. "The Pheiffer loss was a game which we should have won," coach Little said.

Against Catawba, the Lady Panthers were able to rebound and gain their second win of the season with a 51-50 victory. This was a big win for the team because Catawba has previously beaten Lenoir Rhyne.

Poor shooting was the key to the loss to Winthrop on Jan. 17. High Point shot only 33% from the field while their opponents hit on half of their attempts, including 76% in the second half. On last Wednesday, the Panthers suffered their worst defeat of the season as they were blitzed by Elon 77-43.

1983 Homecoming activities planned

BY TANA PARKER
Staff Writer

The 59th annual Homecoming activities at High Point College will officially start for the students on Fri., Feb. 11. It will be marked by a formal dance at the Top of the Mart, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Entertainment, sponsored by Student Union, will be the “Hollywood Night” and beverages will be sold at a cash bar.

Tickets, $1.50 per person/$3.00 couple, will be sold this week during lunch and dinner in the cafeteria. Gart Evans, in charge of Alumni Affairs, has invited alumni to attend. During the dance, the 1983 Homecoming Queen nominees will be introduced. The eight finalists vying for the crown will also be recognized. The alumni will find themselves very busy on Sat., Feb. 12, with an Executive Committee meeting and selected from over one hundred applicants who also submitted papers about the Generation of 1898.

Gabriele's paper was chosen and the one person chosen will be announced at this time, it is not certain that the reigning queen, Janelli Welsh, will be crowning the new queen. President Lucht will present the new queen with a bouquet of roses.

Certain groups will have open-houses for the alumni to attend between lunch and the Hi-Pro Show and after the night's basketball games.

Gabriele stressed that professional development and a chance to show off their "talent" in the Hi-Pro Show at 2:30 p.m. The 20 acts, with openings for more, will gather together in the High Point Memorial Auditorium, first, second, and third place plaques will be given out by Mr. Evans and alumni who will be judging.

At 1:15 a "Pig-pickin'" will be held for alumni and the eight court members. Debbie Shaver and Bob Clark will sing during the dinner.

Dr. John Gabriele, professor of Foreign Language, is flying to Tulane University Thurs., Feb. 10, where he will present a paper at the Louisiana Conference on Hispanic Literature, and Language.

Gabriele will present his interpretation of a famous Spanish play. His paper, entitled "The Grotesque, Self-Denial and Psychological Deterioration in Los Cuernos de don Friolera" deals with the effects of existentialism caused by the Spanish American War in 1898.

The High Point College professor will read to a number of experts on twentieth-century Spanish literature. Gabriele's paper was hundred other applicants who also submitted papers about the Generation of 1898.

Over six hundred Specialists in Spanish will attend the conference and about four hundred will have presentations.

Gabriele stressed that professional development and a chance to keep up with what is happening in his field are the main objectives for going to the conference in New Orleans.

WWIH increases to 100 watts, listenership expands to 100,000

BY CRYSTAL L. HEDGECOCK
Editor-in-Chief

Friday, Feb. 4, 1983, at 2 p.m., WWH's possible listenership increased by 100,000 people.

The increase occurred when the changeover to 100 watts finally became reality. The general managers at WWH have been working on the change from 10 watts to 100 watts for the past three or four years, Pat Connelly, current general manager of WWH said, "It's a shame it took so long, but now we're there," he said.

The increase in wattage allows the station to be heard to the outskirts of Greensboro, Kernersville, Archdale and the outskirts of Thomasville, Connelly said. Before, the station could only be heard to the Rail in Five Points, High Point Mall and southern High Point, he said.

Connelly said when WWH went off the air at midnight Thurs., Feb. 3 he, Dana Gilbert, programming director of WWH and Tom BonDurant, chief engineer at WGDL worked until 6 a.m. Fri. Feb. 4 in order to be prepared for the 100 watts takeover.

Now that the possible listenership has increased, Connelly said the station is in the process of getting out in the community and letting them know the station is there for the community.

Gilbert said that several new programs were underway. "Closer Look" is a program where the WWH staff interviews a person on the spot, such as an ex-convict or policeman. "Your View" contains community people's opinions on a subject. Gilbert encourages listener response to the programs. Another program which is still quite new is the "Roll-your-own" program. Connelly said that the listener should write down 20 favorite songs by 20 different artists that they would like to hear played on the radio.

After Spring Break, an entry will be randomly chosen and the one person chosen will be invited into the WWIH studio to "roll their own." He also said the winner would receive an album of his/her choice and a WWH t-shirt. Connelly said the station would keep all entries to help with future programming.

According to Connelly, program scheduling is as follows:

"Wake up to WWH" from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays. Other weekday hours are 2 p.m. to 2 a.m. Weekend hours are 8 a.m. to 2 a.m. Block programming of soul is Fri., 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. Block programming of classical is Sat., 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Block programming of Contemporary Christian music is Sun. 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"The Contemporary Christian music is not gospel music," Connelly said, "It is soft rock with a message."

Student Union seeks student involvement

Students at High Point College are some of America's worst investors it seems. Each year they spend $60 for a "Student Activity Fee" and then exert no control over how this money is spent. The majority of this month (about $30,000 per year) is allocated to the High Point Student Union to plan activities for everyone at the college. However, few people attend Union meetings, and even fewer are active participants. The answer to the question "Who spends your activity fee?" is easily answered - the High Point College Student Union does. Student Union is one of the easiest organizations on campus to join. There are no sign-ups, no monthly dues, no Rush periods. All you have to do is be a full-time student at High Point College (that means you are enrolled 12 or more academic hours). Voting privileges are as easy as to obtain and then consecutive meetings, work activity on one of the standing committees, and receive a majority vote of the present voting members. That's it. Many may ask, "Why should I join the Student Union?" or "What does Student Union have to offer me?" Well, the main reason students should join is to suggest how their activities fees are spent and to help decide what activities will be planned. They need to meet to plan and execute activities that all students can enjoy. The question "What does Union have to offer me?" doesn't need an answer. What is more important is "What do I have to offer the Union?" With more people involved in Student Union, more excitement is generated, more creative and diverse activities can be planned, and less time is required by each person for the activities successful competition.

When I came to HPC, I went to Student Union as a curious freshman. At that time there were about 100 members, or 10% of the student body. The next year, that figure dropped to a whopping 12, or .01% of the student body. That year each member had power over $1,250 -- the same amount High Point College offered as its highest academic scholarship. So, a recruitment campaign was undertaken. This campaign helped boost membership to about 36. But now there is another problem.

The main issue we now face is the fact that no one wants to run in the upcoming elections. (Last year, all positions were filled without opposition.) The main reason no one will run is that they have no one to support them as committee members. Without a Chairman or Business Manager, the SGA will not fund Student Union next year. Even if these positions are filled, funding is impossible for every committee that has no chairman.

So now the decision is in your hands. Will you idly sit by and watch Student Union fold? If you do this means:

- NO $1 movies
- NO concerts
- NO ski trips
- NO dances including Homecoming
- NO campus skates
- NO activities planned by and for students!

Does this mean the administration will drop your activity fee? NO!

But you have another choice: become involved in Student Union. I: only takes about 45 minutes a week. Then you have influence as to what movies we see, how many and what types of dances we have, who we see in concert, and when and where recreational activities are planned. You, the student, must save Student Union, or there will be a day when you can truthfully say "There's nothing to do at High Point College."

The decision is up to YOU!

Student apathy reduction planned

Do we have student apathy here at High Point College? Most students, faculty, and administration here at HPC agree that apathy is a big problem. Students do not get involved in campus organizations such as the SGA or Student Union, consequently we all suffer. Last spring for example, 25 out of 28 offices in SGA were unopposed in the elections. Student Union ran into the same problem only to a larger degree. They did not have enough student participation to fill their chairmanship positions. To make matters worse, after talking to Mike Louia, President of Student Union, the organization will probably fold next year because of the lack of student participation. What's wrong?

Webster defines apathy as a lack of emotion or feeling. Apathy is NOT the problem. We, the students, have plenty of emotion and feeling about what's going on around here. All one has to do is mention the alcohol policy, living conditions, social life, the lottery, or almost any other concern and it becomes quite evident that these are emotional and highly motivated issues! Our problem is attitude and motivation. Often tasks seem entirely too large for us to do anything about, but that's not the case. The case is that most problems are too big for three or four students to do anything about alone. To do something major requires support. Not your friend or roommate, but YOU!

Our problem is lack of effective planning and leadership. I am the first to admit that this has been one of my weaknesses, but I am attempting to work on it as I hope many other leaders will. It is quite difficult to have planning sessions because it involves extra meetings and most of us are already tired of so many meetings. I suggest to the leaders, simply use a regular meeting and use your entire group to plan; it is much more effective and everyone feels like they are contributing. This is important in keeping good people involved.

How do we solve the problem? First we must take a list of problems - all problems! Then select two or three which are related to what the group needs or wants. Develop a means by which one can get feedback as to how others feel about the problem or concern. It might be possible for several groups to work on the same problem if they have the same interest or goals.

The next step is where the effective planning comes into play. Talk about the problem as it is NOW. Follow this up by discussing what the ideal or goal of action would be. It then becomes necessary to develop two lists, one of positive forces and contacts as well as one of negative forces and contacts. Have the group analyze these lists and determine a plan of action, the procedure to be followed and those whom need to be contacted for relevant information. Finally, begin to work on the problem with everyone's help. HELP is the key!

The reason many of us get turned off to being involved is that we often do not see immediate results. Secondary, the whole problem is dropped on one person and it is up to them to address the problem by him/herself. This case is neither realistic nor fair. It results in being overwhelmed and oftentimes followed by feelings of failure.

I employed a few of the techniques I have just outlined at the last SGA meeting and was exasperant at the results. I contend that it was the best SGA meeting we have had all year. We are going to do something besides hand out money in the future. So you organizations who want money, Look Out!

SGA is going to be doing some exciting things in the near future. I hope that many of you will want to become involved. Elections are coming up soon, so start thinking about running for office in both SGA and Student Union. Our future is in our hands. It is up to us, the students, to make the difference in what we've got and what we want. For too long we have sat on our rear ends and not had the impact we should have had. NOW is the time for change! I challenge each student on this campus to get up and help determine the future.

12,000 inquiries received

Schlimmer: Admissions outlook is positive

BY KARLA GREEN

Schlimmer, Director of Admissions, has a positive outlook on the enrollment for the coming year. High Point College has attracted 12,000 inquiries concerning application to our college. Schlimmer said that the growth of the outreach of the admissions department comes through a three-fold plan started by the admissions team last fall.

The points of the admissions plan for development includes the areas of 1) publications, 2) personal contacts, and 3) post-publications, 2) personal developments after the staff presentations. The plan was developed after the staff conducted a marketing survey last fall. Results indicated that prospective students were looking for "a small personal college which provides a quality education and responsive feel," according to Schlimmer.

By implementing this plan, the "inquiry pool" has increased from 8,000 to 12,000 since last year. "Inquirists, and 3) post-publications, the staff has been positive in being interested in knowing more about HPC, according to Schlimmer.

The increased number of inquiries came through the directed efforts of admissions contacts in the northeastern states. "More inquiries came from New York, New Jersey, and Maryland," according to Schlimmer.

Admissions counselor June Forcum, David Hope and Neil Tague, working under the direction of Schlimmer, have been energetically following up on the inquiries.

The first step was the mailing that went out before the end of the year, according to Schlimmer. The prospective students received publications from the Admissions Office concerning campus visitation, campus prospectus, a parent brochure, and a departmental brochure. These publications helped to acquaint students and their parents with the school and what it has to offer. In the visitation booklet the student was encouraged to visit the campus. The students who had a special interest also received a departmental publication from the major area.

The second step was to increase the number of personal contacts as a follow up to the inquiries received. The counselors spent many weeks this fall on the road visiting the various states, attending college night programs and visiting area high schools. This is one of the major ways of reinforcing the personal touch of HPC, according to Schlimmer, who stressed that the counselors' job is not finishing as tour guides. The counselors spoke to prospective students and made them feel at home at HPC during their tour and visit to the campus.

Schlimmer is very impressed by such student involvement in his program and said that he intends to use students in the future to represent the admission at the college. "The current students are our best sales people," said Schlimmer. He also expanded the number of prospective students who may compete for the Presidential Scholarships offered by the college. He said, "We are expanding the amount of names that will be considered for the scholarships." He also said that letters were being sent to Methodist ministers for their nominations of students to be considered. "They will also be asked for their input on the selections for the higher scholarships," added Schlimmer.

Part of the reason Schlimmer has changed the approach of the admissions department is to encourage more inquiries but also to keep in contact with those students who have shown interest and because he says that "50 percent of all students accepted do not go to that institution." By encouraging involvement with the accepted students as well as prospective, he feels enrollment can be increased.

Now is the time to apply for financial aid

Editor's note: The following is reprinted from the Feb. 2 issue of the HI-PO.

BY LEWIS WHELESS

Kay N. Stewart, Director of Financial Aid, is encouraging all students to file for 1983-84 aid as soon as possible. Students applying for aid should be certain to apply for the Pell Grant (BEOG) and N.C. Grants when filling out financial aid forms.

Mrs. Stroud said the outlook for student aid in 1983-84 is encouraging, as no cutbacks are foreseen at this time. The same levels that applied in 1982-83 will probably apply for 1983-84. "We are encouraging everyone to apply for aid," Stroud said.

Mrs. Stroud said students should see someone in the financial aid office in Roberts Hall if they have any additional problems. etc., after the needs analysis is returned from the ACT.

The various deadlines for aid applications are listed below:

National Direct Student Loan, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, and College Work-Study. Complete the ACT Family Financial Statement (FFS), the CSS Financial Aid Form (FAF), or the Application for Federal Student Aid (AFSA) by March 1, 1983 for priority consideration.

PELL Grant. Complete the FFS, the FAF, or the AFSA by March 15, 1983. (Students are encouraged to complete one of these forms by March 1, 1983.)

North Carolina State Contractual Scholarship Fund (Available to NC residents only). Complete the FFS or the FAF by March 1, 1983 for priority considerations.

North Carolina Legislative Tuition Grant (Available to full-time, undergraduate students; NC residents only). Complete the NCLTG application form available in the Financial Aid Office. (The NCLTG application form for 1983-84 will be available by April 1.)

North Carolina Student Incentive Grant (NCSIG) (NC residents only). Complete the FFS or the FAF. Students must have a copy of the results of the FFS or the FAF sent to College Financial Aid Office. (The NCLTG form available in the Financial Aid Office. (The NCLTG application form for 1983-84 will be available by April 1.)

North Carolina State Contractual Scholarship Fund (Available to NC residents only). Complete the FFS or the FAF by March 1, 1983 for priority considerations.

"Godspell" production to stress "dramatic values"

BY TERRI LIVINGSTON
Staff Writer

Wonderful music, uplifting songs, and high-quality entertainment are only a few qualities which combine to make the musical GODSPELL the exciting show it presents. The audience demands. Paul Lundrigan, the director, has seen the show performed many different ways and was at one time part of a GODSPELL cast. Lundrigan feels that the "dramatic content" has been overlooked when portraying the GODSPELL theme. The show is filled with wonderful music and fast-moving action which can capture your attention. However, the show is based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew and carries many "dramatic values," Lundrigan explains.

Auditions for the performance opened in December exclusively to High Point College students, the turnout was small. In January a second session of auditions began, this time open to the community. During the auditions Lundrigan was looking for combined talents of acting, singing and dancing. This combination of talent, which Lundrigan refers to as a "triple-threat," was difficult to find. This problem was solved by casting enough people to ensure these areas were strong. The final cast was decided upon after three series of call-backs. The show, which usually calls for 10 actors, will portray 12 personalities. Out of the 12-member cast, 9 are High Point College students. Lundrigan describes the auditions as "long and drawn out."

The cast includes: Jim Kirby, Erik Lundrigan, Anthony Jenkins, Anna Minear, Bonnie Pachasa, Tana Parker, Gary Strievalt, Tom Thomas, Irene Tivaldi, Phil Yalente, Kim Woolsey, and Donald Wright.

The role of Jesus, played by Phil Yalente, remains constant while the other characters trade roles throughout the production.

The costume set for GODSPELL is a chain fence. Lundrigan does not like this set, describing it as "a combination prison or school yard, which is not consistent with the theme of celebration the production presents. The set for High Point's production will be a circus tent. The characters' costumes will be colorful and represent clowns, which will contribute to the feeling of celebration felt at a circus.

Preparation for the show involves 14 hours a night, with additional vocal rehearsals. Due to the apathy of the December auditions, the cast has a limited time to prepare the show, according to Lundrigan.

Lundrigan reports that rehearsals are going well and that the actors are picking up their individual songs easily. The songs will be emphasized by a live band which will be part of the scene, on stage.

Production dates are set for Friday, March 25, and Saturday, March 26. The following weekend shows will be Thursday, March 31, and the final performance will fall, coincidentally, on Friday, April 1, which is Good Friday. Good Friday represents the Resurrection as does the Godsplell theme.

GODSPELL rehearsals are actively underway. The show will be presented in the Memorial Auditorium Mar. 25, 26, and Apr. 1. (Photo by Marisa Fing)

A breath of dusty death

Campus Digest News Service

Dormitory residents at the University of Georgia are sure that it's not a raindrop that is falling on their heads. In fact, they have a sneaking suspicion that the fine white dust which is dropping from their dorm room ceilings may be asbestos.

Even though the university housing department spent over $93,000 this past summer to remove asbestos-laced ceiling material from several campus dormitories, frightened residents of Brumby, Creswell and Russell halls on the Georgia campus and an Environmental Protection Agency official believe that quantities of the cancer-causing substance still exist and could pose a serious health threat to student residents.

According to the University of Georgia student newspaper, The Red and Black, university officials first learned of a possible asbestos hazard three years ago when tests taken by the University Public Safety Division showed that 10 percent of the ceiling material in seven residence halls contained asbestos. Although not required to do so by law, the Housing authorities have removed asbestos which they felt to be "most damaged."

University of Georgia freshman Lisa Massey and her roommate Susan Agin initiated the complaint when they reported the presence of a "baby powder-like" substance which fell from their Creswell Hall ceiling. They first noticed the problem of dust covering their room in their room after moving into the dorm in the fall.

Dan Hallenbeck, University asbestos consultant, said he believed the dorm was safe, and the building wouldn't be open if it wasn't.

But Dwight Brown, Southeastern regional coordinator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said that any breathable fibers are falling into the air as high as respirable. And that a potentially serious health hazard exists, regardless of whether that material is asbestos or not.

It has been determined that asbestos only poses a threat to people who? see A Breath p. 11

Cagers get ready for Homecoming battle

BY MICHAEL PISANO
Staff Writer

The High Point College Panther basketball team will be battling for more than just a Homecoming victory this Saturday night. The Panthers are 1-8 in the conference and are 5-14 overall. They are 1-8 in the conference and are 5-14 overall. They have lost all three of their games over the recent week, both of their last three games. The losses coming at the hands of conference foes.

On Saturday night, the Panthers fell victim to Catawba 90-71. The Indians, ranked 9th in the NAIA, hit on 10 of 24 attempts behind the three-point circle while placing six of their players in double figures.

The rivalry between these teams is evident and High Point has played two tough games against the Quakers despite all the Panther injuries.

The Bears had earlier gotten off to a fast start as they held leads of 16-3 and 29-13 before the Panthers close the gap to nine points at halftime.

During the second half, High Point got under control and were also helped by the late poor foul-shooting of L.R. as they hit on only 14 or 21 attempts. Danny Murphy led all scorers with 25 points, while Samuel and L.R. transfer Robert Hudson added 12 each.

On the following Wednesday, the Panthers fell victims to Pembroke 92-76, a team they had earlier beaten in the year. Pembroke's Ricky Melvin and Gray Davis combined for 46 points to lead the onslaught.

The fight for possession of the basketball was one of the most exciting game of the year for the visiting Panthers. High Point had to come from behind in the second half and get their only lead of the game on freshman Terry Samuels' three point shot with nine seconds remaining.

Chances were few during the first 20 minutes as the Bears led 39-36. The Panthers in scoring with 23 points. Jimmy Robertson pumped in 15 while Samuels added 14. Melvin led Pembroke with 24.

On Saturday night, the Panthers lost to Catawba 90-71. The Indians, ranked 9th in the NAIA, hit on 10 of 24 attempts behind the three-point circle while placing six of their players in double figures.

For the season, High Point in shooting 457 from the field and .744 from the charity stripe. Murphy leads the team in scoring with a 14.2 average, hitting 58-88 three-point shots. Samuels is the leading rebounder with 120 and guard John Hamilton leads in assists with 60.

Lady Panthers extend losing streak

BY MARK PHELPS

Coach Nancy Little's Womens basketball squad lost all three of their games over the week, extending their losing streak to seven in a row. The Lady Panthers are 1-8 in the conference and 2-14 overall.

On Jan. 31, High Point fell victim to Pfeiffer 87-72. The Panthers fell behind early and trailed at halftime by 10, 49-39. In the second period, they were able to rally and kept the score close for much of the last half.

The Falcons, however, were able to hold on with fine foul shooting as they hit on 25 of 40 attempts. Melanie Hamilton led the Panthers with 15 points.

The following Thursday, saw High Point lose to Campbell 61-52. The Panthers were able to stay within two points at halftime but could never get any closer. High Point was led by Jacki Gandy, who scored 14 points, and Ursula Watt, who hit for ten.

The Lady Panthers lost to conference rival Catawba 73-59, on Saturday night. Sandra Swoboda led all scorers with 14 points while Gandy scored 12. This was particularly disappointing to the team because they had beaten the Indians by one earlier.

As a team, High Point has shot only 36% from the field while being outscored by opponents 594-411. Ursula Watt leads the Panther scoring with 14.4 average despite having missed five games earlier in the year because of injury. Sandra Swoboda holds the lead in rebounding with 159.

Since Massey and Agan's initial complaint, other dormitory residents, some from other halls, have reported similar worries. These students have banded together to form Students for an Asbestos-Free Environment (SAFE) in an effort to pressure the university into action.

The group has asked for the resignation of Housing director Hallenbeck for refusing to recognize the potential hazards of asbestos-laced ceilings.

Student attempts to arrange a meeting with University of Georgia president, Fred Davison, have been unsuccessful so far.

Hallenbeck's official response has been to suggest that unhappy residents transfer to other rooms. SAFE members are encouraging a "mass-transfer request," feeling that such a request by the 3,000 students housed in the halls under question would sufficiently demonstrate student concern to the institution.

Nominees attend Presidential Scholarship Weekend

BY KAREN HERNANDEZ
Staff Writer

During the weekend of Feb. 18-20, there were approximately 50-60 prospective Presidential Scholars around the campus. These scholars were selected out of 450 other students, and out of these 60 students only 30 scholarship awards were available to be given. Each of these awards will be ranging from $1,000-$1,500, provided they keep a grade point average of 3.0, Mike Louia, executive chairman of Presidential Scholars, said.

In order to give these prospective students a clear picture of HPC, a series of activities were planned for them and for the student body, he said. Feb. 18, an ice cream social was held in the cafeteria and following this the movie "TAPS" was shown in the auditorium.

Feb. 19 the prospective Scholars went through a series of interviews, tours, and meetings with faculty members. A dance was held that same day at 8:00 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The feedback received from the prospective students was very positive and honest. One prospective Scholar said, "I learned about HPC through a letter which asked me to come down and tryout for the Volleyball Team. When I saw the town of High Point I found it to be very pretty, but what impressed me the most was the campus. IT'S GORGEOUS! About the dorms, I'd say they are O.K. but the heaters are too noisy." Another prospective Scholar added: "I was surprised about High Point, I had no idea how it would look like. I found the organization was good, the people were nice, and people were there whenever I needed help. The only thing I didn't like were the auditorium seats; they are too hard."

The Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity provided the music for the dance.

Also receiving honors were first runner-up Lynn Fortaleza, a representative for Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. And second runner-up Deborah Shaver, representing the senior class.

Schaef er said she would "like to thank the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity for sponsoring her and John Van Horn for escorting her."

Students will attend Monday classes on this day. The decision on when/ if to make up the remaining day has not yet been made.
EDITORIALS...

Non-greeks react

To the Editor:

Apparently there has been much concern recently regarding student apathy. But has anyone stopped to think that some of us who have not chosen to join social Greek organizations have been discouraged from participating in supposedly "campus wide" events?

We are the non-Greeks, members of honorary and special interest groups. True, we may not be the most popular social circles, but we remain a vital part of campus life. Yet when we attempt to display school spirit and participate, we are either ignored or shoved to the back because we aren’t wearing the proper "labels" on our shirts.

One annual event is "Greek Week," which one would assume included any organizations whose names are comprised of the letters Alpha through Omega. Wrong. Alpha Chi, Alpha Psi Omega, Kappa Delta Pi, Delta Mu Delta, and Sigma Delta Pi all have Greek names, as do Alpha Delta Theta and Alpha Phi Omega. But are they included in the festivities? No. The Inter-Fraternity and Panhellenic Councils do not include them, and this is a possible cause of the apathy problem - it’s almost like "If you don’t wear OUR letters, you don’t belong." Why bother to try to fight it? High Point College tends to cater to the Greek system. Instead of having a unifying effect, this divides the student body into two distinct little worlds. A more recent example is Homecoming. We members of one such group wanted to participate in the banner contest and had kicked around ideas for it. When did we find out about the contest? In the last issue of the HI-PO. We were later informed that this Homecoming activity is a contest between the social fraternities and sororities. So that knocked us out of the Rowdie Crowdie contest, too. But the service organizations weren’t excluded even though they are not recognized by IFC and Panhellenic. There are twice as many honorary organizations on campus as service, yet they receive hardly any attention. Is it because membership is selective that we are left out? But that’s what makes it a honorary group - we have worked for usually two years to earn membership. That’s right, EARN. But don’t think for a minute that we stand perched on a pedestal in an ivory tower somewhere. No, we cram for tests, party, occasionally cut classes, and sometimes struggle for grades just like the rest of you.

Perhaps one solution to the apathy problem would be to make campus-wide events even to the entire campus. Go ahead, invite the Day Students, Black Unification Movement, TV station - and if they don’t choose to get involved, okay. Just give us a chance.

Ten concerned students

Please, Dave...

Let’s all go process some words. Maybe the result will be as good as processed chicken.

Oh, I know I’ll get behind the times if I don’t learn to program a computer - input some input and all that. I’m put out with all that. I think I’ll read some books and write some poems and contemplate my navel.

Oh, I know I won’t be trained to teach The Collected Poems of Apple II, but there will be many who will.

But we’ll be able to check out books faster. Yeah, when I’m in the library, there’s a real battle for position in the line at the circulation desk.

But we’ll be able to improve the fledgling CPA’s imagination. An admirable goal, but a machine won’t do it. He’s got to do it himself.

But we’ll have all the knowledge in the world at our fingertips. I don’t want it at my fingertips; I want it in my mind.

But it’s the wave of the future. Heck, I haven’t got my intellectual surfboard on the wave of the past yet. (Remember how you felt when, in “The Graduate,” the man told Dustin Hoffman that plastics was the wave of the future?)

But if we don’t know how to use a computer, the government will control us easier. Friends, it’s too late to worry about that now. I mean, it scares me thinking about what the computer in the Registrar’s Office has on me. And won’t it be grand when anybody can find out everything about anybody? Just one big family.

But the Russians have it. The balance of terror. The balance of input. The balance of processed words. The balance of most profound ignorance.

Here’s D.H. Lawrence’s creed:

That I am I. That my soul is a dark forest. That my known self will never be more than a little clearing in the forest. That gods, strange gods, come forth from the forest into the clearing of my known self, and then go back. That I must have the courage to let them come and go. That I will never let mankind put anything over me, but that I will try always to recognize and submit to the gods in me and the gods in other men and women.

Here’s a poem by D.H. Lawrence:

For God’s sake, let us be men not monkeys minding machines or sitting with our tails curled while the machine amuses us, the radio or film or gramophone.

Monkeys with a bland grin on our faces.

Everybody at a liberal arts college must understand these things.

By the way, the title of this piece is taken from “2001: A Space Odyssey.” It is the plea of the computer as it is being de-inputted/de-outputted by a human being.)

This is the last regular “Hodgepodge.” Back in the fall, I intended to write two or three until our editorial page contained editorials. Now it does. Also, a student newspaper should be written by students. Finally, the column has become something of a habit, and the worst thing a man can do is make a habit of something. Habit is machine-like. I mean, I need a new program. I need more bits. Remember what Goethe said as he died: “More k! More k!”

Communications SCIP internship expands

Communications majors are required to complete at least 6 semester hours of the SCIP Internship in a media business within the Triad Area. In the past, majors have interned at WGHG-TV (High Point), WGLD/WOKX (High Point), Greensboro Daily News, High Point Enterprise, Winston-Salem Sentinel, Thomasville Times, Mabe Realtors (High Point), and Jane MacCannell, Communications intern at WGGT-WXII. In the past, majors have interned at WGGT and WXII in production and general management. Pamela York is working at Davidson’s Advertisers writing copy, training on the phototypesetter, and designing basic ad layout. Art Prillaman also completed a short observing internship for the Good Morning Show at WFMY, Channel 2, in Greensboro.

WGGT, WXII, and WFMY do not offer an extended time for internships as does WGHG-TV in High Point for news and production. Students at these media businesses must split the semester time among the three but will receive a much wider exposure to different production and news formats.

This past fall semester, the following students completed their internships: Lisa Davido (WGLD/WOKX), Greg Fox and Tana Parker in news (WGHG-TV), and Delbert Hickman in production (WGHP-TV).

The media businesses used in the past will still be available to students, particularly WGHG-TV which has been most cooperative in the intern program. Because of the increasing number of majors and the solid reputation of the Communications program, many of the other media businesses are becoming aware of High Point College and are beginning to participate in the internship program.

Students planning to intern summer or fall of 1983 should contact Dr. Leleeuw before February 28.

Four areas covered

BY TABBIE NANCE

Four areas have been chosen by President Lucht for the 1983 Task Force for Advancement to study. These areas are administrative evaluation, community and college relations, space utilization, and long-range planning.

According to Dr. Head, who chairs this year’s Task Force, the Task Force divided into sub-committees to address each area. After each area had been studied, the Task Force summarized the reports from the sub-committees and sent these, along with recommendations, to Lucht.

Reports on the administrative evaluation and community and college relations have already been turned in to Lucht. The sub-committee on administrative evaluation interviewed all administration members and learned that the faculty would like to be evaluated. From this committee formed and are seeking help in this evaluation process from a consultant.

A community out-reach committee was formed based on the findings of the community and college relations sub-committee. The reason, Head said, was to have a central focus on events that are community and college oriented.

After studying all the space on campus, the space utilization sub-committee drew up a set of recommendations for the Task Force. The Force sent a copy of these recommendations and a questionnaire to department heads to get their reactions. Based on the replies, the Task Force recommended that Lucht use the report as background material and consider making changes in phases.

"Space utilization is a very complex problem," Head said. "My personal feelings are that this study should be considered and used as background information. I feel a professional consultant should be hired to study the situation."

In long-range planning, the Force adopted a plan based on a workshop attended by Mr. Bulla, past head of Financial Affairs. This includes a method and time frame for long-range planning on a small campus and setting up a council for long-range planning. At this time, Lucht is in the process of setting up such a council.

The Hi-Po is distributed on campus by Alpha Phi Omega, a National Service fraternity. This is the fifth year they have provided this service.
Speaking of books...

BY KARLA GREEN Features Editor

Everyone is talking about Book Talks. "Book Talks" have become a very successful event at High Point College. According to Mrs. Charles Lucht, who was one of the originators of the programs, the book talks are a review of current books. The reviews are presented by a different speaker for each program. The programs not only present a book but also an entire program with visuals and refreshments from the period represented. The programs are held on Sundays at announced dates at 3 p.m.

"Book Talks" began out of interest shown by Mrs. Lucht and some other members of the High Point Twentieth Century Study Club. Mrs. Lucht said that the idea originated "in view of the new library going up on campus." The idea of reviewing books on campus also brings the community on campus and acquaints them with the college and its staff.

"Book Talks" programs are put together by a committee which helps choose the book to review, the speaker, the program format and what visuals and refreshments will be used. According to Mrs. Lucht, different community and campus persons are chosen to serve on these committees which change with each program. The committee chairperson is Mrs. Joseph Hayworth, who serves as a "liaison with the community," according to Mrs. Lucht.

Some of the people serving on the committees in the past have included Mrs. George Lyles, Mrs. Leonard Cashion, Mr. Raiford Porter, Dr. Edward Piacentino, Dr. James Stitt, and Mr. Paul Lundrigan. Mrs. Lucht also said that the Wrenn Library staff serves on each program setting up the visuals and refreshments.

The first "Book Talk" presented a program of Russian literature with refreshments Russian tea and "imitation caviar" according to Mrs. Lucht, who was asked to be the first of the speakers for the talks.

I was asked to review a Russian spy novel entitled "Gorky Park." According to Mrs. Lucht, Ms. Shirley Rawley, head of the English department, also spoke on "Criminology in Russian Literature." Lucht said that there were about 60 people in attendance for the first program which was held at Wrenn Library.

On Oct. 2, Dr. Carole Head presented "The Last Unicorn." This is a fantasy novel which was recently made into an animated movie. According to Mrs. Lucht, over 100 people attended this second program and it had to be moved into the second floor of the Campus Center where they are currently held.

Mrs. Lucht said this particular program was "very well received" and said the visuals were "the best so far." Dr. Head used two medieval tapestries from her own personal collection which displayed unicorns as the theme of the program, according to Mrs. Lucht. Mrs. Lucht said that many of those attending this program brought unicorn paraphernalia from home.

Dr. James Stitt presented "The Murder of Napoleon" for the next program with an increasing audience of 120 people. Refreshments were French biscuits and visuals included a display of books from the Napoleon era. As the popularity of "Book Talks" continued to increase, Dr. Stitt was asked to present this talk again at Westchester Academy. According to Mrs. Lucht, most of the people who have attended the programs so far have been community and faculty from HPC. However, Mrs. Lucht said that "students are welcome to attend."

She said "many of those who attend are donators and supporters of the college" and they "enjoy intermixing with the college students faculty, and administrators."

Lucht also said the reasons for choosing speakers from the different departments such as English, Foreign Language, History and Art was to familiarize the community with the faculty. According to Lucht, future programs will serve to introduce all faculty to the High Point Community.

The upcoming "Book Talk" will be presented by another member of the HPC faculty. Mr. Raiford Porter will be the speaker for the March 20 review. His topic will be announced at a later date. According to Porter, he is considering speaking on the subject of art investments in today's society, calling his topic "Wall Street Art."

The programs are announced in newsletters sent out to various book clubs and community people who have attended past programs. This semesters' programs will conclude with the talk "Heroines in Shakespeare" to be presented on May 1 at 3 p.m. by the President of the College, Dr. Charles Lucht.

Homecoming Court members enjoyed a Pig-Pickin dinner Saturday in the Campus Center while Anne Brady and Deborah Shaver entertained. At 6:00 p.m., the Lady Panthers hosted the Guilford Quakers. During halftime, the eight court members were introduced. The Lady Panthers showed their dominance with a final score of 72-68. Immediately following the game, excitement flared as the 1983 Homecoming Queen was crowned. The queen, representing Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, was Kathleen Schaefner. Lynn Fortaleza and Deborah Shaver, were first and second runner-up, respectively.

The men kept the crown going as they also battled the Quakers. During the men's halftime, three previous Homecoming Queens were recognized and awards were given out. The Pig-Pickin dinner, theme shirts, won the Spirit Stick Award. The annual Rowdy Crowd Award went to the Alpha Phi Omega service Fraternity. All the organizations showed their artistic ability by making banners with the Alpha Gamma Delta had that extra touch to win the Banner Award.

The men defeated the Quakers 82-79. Denise Watts, president of SA, who is in charge of Homecoming, said this was one of the most successful.

Defeat Quakers, 82-79

Panther cagers take Homecoming win over Guilford

BY MARK PHELPS
Sports Editor

After being beaten by Guilford on two previous occasions this season, the High Point Men's basketball team gained revenge on Homecoming as it defeated the Quakers 82-79 for the victory. The Panthers, which were led by Danny Murphy's five three-point shots, combined this win with two losses during the week to increase their record to 6-15 overall, 3-9 in conference play.

In the Guilford win, High Point held a 77-67 lead with 2:17 left to play and it looked like the Panthers had a win sewn up. Guilford, though, had other ideas as they rallied to score the next seven points. With the lead only three, Murphy went to the line and hit one of two foul shots. The Quakers responded with a follow shot to make the score 80-78. With 16 seconds left, John Hamilton was fouled but missed the front end of a one-and-one. Freshman Jim Hoffman fouled Quaker forward Darryl Dozier on the rebound, and he went to the line with 14 seconds left.

Dozier made his first free throw to bring his team within one, but missed the second and Robert Hudson grabbed the rebound. With only eight seconds remaining, Murphy was fouled and sank both free throws to insure the victory. Murphy, who hit for a season-high 27 points, had previously made a 25-foot three-pointer at the buzzer in the first half to give the Panthers momentum and an eight-point halftime lead.

For the game, High Point shot 50 percent from the field and hit on 24 of 34 foul shots. Two freshmen, Hoffman and Terry Samuels, scored 13 and 12 points respectively. Mike Everette also added 12.

On Wednesday night, High Point dropped a narrow loss to Pfeiffer, 68-67 Four Panthers accounted for 57 of the teams points in the losing effort. Hoffman continued his torrid scoring pace as he led High Point with 16 points. Everette and Murphy each hit for 15 while Jimmy Robertson scored 11.

On Saturday night, Elon outscored the Panthers to take a 63-77 conference win. The Christians hit more three-point shots than two-pointers as they converted 14 or their attempts. Both Mel Malton and Steve Page made six three-pointers, Melton leading Elon scorers with 26 points.

Netters' veteran lineup looks solid

Speight looks for banner year in '83

BY BOB ROSSI
Sports Writer
High Point College baseball coach Jim Speight foresees this year's Panther team going all the way, provided they can strengthen their fielding and put the ball over the plate.

After a trip to the Area finals, a District 26 title last year, and a 29-13 record, Speight sees little reason not to match or surpass the team's record of a year ago. Despite the loss of three outstanding infielders in Neil Van Asch (.335, 17 HRS), Ken Carter (.382, 23 rbi), Bob Hearon (.299, 47 rbi), and starting pitcher Tony Moody (9-3), Speight feels he can determine the rest of the year's Panther team if control problems are eliminated.

Leading the staff is All-Conference catcher Stan Crews (.276, 2 HRS, 28 rbi), who Speight calls, "The best catcher I've ever had." Behind Crews is junior transfer Lee Whitney from Perrum J.C. (Va.), who is hitting well this spring and should see plenty of action behind the plate as designated hitter or in the middle of the lineup.

The infield is solid at first base and shortstop but second and third base are giving Speight some concern, "I do have some concern about second and third right now in that I haven't made up my mind who's gonna be starting yet." Andy Dupree starts at first when he's not pitching. Keith Rowand, a freshman, or Craig Humbert will play first when Dupree is on the mound.

Second base is up for grabs by sophomore Bob Barra, and juniors Mike Hornik and Jim Sprinkle. Shortstop belongs to senior Mike Pisano (274, 23 rbi), who Speight calls, "the best defensive player in the conference." Pisano could see a professional career in his future if he swings the bat with some authority this season.

Junior Ronnie Lucas, sophomores Doug Shields and Rodney Speas, and freshman Mark Barnes are batting for the starting role at third base.

The outfield is returning strong with the return of All-Conference catcher Stan Crews (.276, 2 HRS, 28 rbi), who Speight calls, "The best catcher I've ever had." Behind Crews is junior transfer Lee Whitney from Perrum J.C. (Va.), who is hitting well this spring and should see plenty of action behind the plate as designated hitter or in the middle of the lineup.

IRS seeks qualified applicants

The following is a letter sent to Michael Pittman by the Internal Revenue Service:

"We are recruiting to fill several Revenue Officer positions and since the Professional Administrative Careers Examination has been abolished, we have been authorized to accept applications directly from qualified persons.

If you have six to eight 1982 graduates who are still seeking employment, we would be pleased to receive their applications. We are enclosing a brief description of the duties of a Revenue Officer.

We prefer Business Administration majors with strong academic records; those with 3.0 averages will be given priority consideration. Accounting is not a requirement.

The positions will be located in various locations throughout North Carolina with the possibility of relocation after approximately one year of training. It is unlikely that any positions will be filled in the Greensboro area.

Applications are available in the Career Planning Office.
Few damages, no casualties

Arson suspected in McColloch fires

BY LEWIS WHELESS
Associate Editor

Arson is suspected in two small fires that caused minor damage in the third floor lounge and bathroom of McColloch Dormitory at 6 a.m. Saturday, according to Ed Cannady, Director of Public Safety at High Point College.

"We (the safety office) have suspects" who are under investigation for setting the first, Cannady said. He did not specify whether or not the suspects are students of the college.

Cannady said the fires caused "very minor" damages because two dorm residents detected the fires before they spread. Damage includes the loss of a towel and the charring of a wall and part of a wooden stall.

Mark Cunningham, a McColloch resident, heard the sound of a smoke alarm around 6 a.m. Saturday and discovered a fire in the lounge. He then ran to the room of a resident assistant, Keith Pierre, for help.

According to Pierre, he ran to the lounge and extinguished the flames "by beating them with (his) bare hands. I used what was there (to put out the fire), and what was there was me."

Upon returning to his room to call the security office, Pierre heard a second alarm nearby. He then discovered a towel burning on a wooden stall in the bathroom. He extinguished this fire by pulling the towel off the rack and stomping on the flames. "It was Mark's alertness" and Pierre's actions that stopped the spread of the fires, said Pierre.

"After putting the fires out, I pulled the alarm down and ran out and down the length (of the building)," Pierre said. Pierre saw "very few" other residents evacuate the building. "I guess they figured it (the alarm) was a prank," he said. Pierre cut off the alarm after making sure the fires were out. Fire fighters were not dispatched to the scene, but fire officials are investigating to determine the cause of the fires.

"Thanks to the college's investment in fire alarms and smoke detectors," the fire caused very little damage and, "at the bottom line, no loss of life," Cannady said.

Cannady attributed the work of Cunningham and Pierre to the brevity of the fire. "They did a fantastic job (in extinguishing the fire)," Cannady commented.

After months of stake-outs

Suspect arrested in six cases

BY LEWIS WHELESS

Following months of stake-outs, police arrested Douglas Ray Honeycutt as a suspect in six indecent exposure cases on the High Point College campus.

The arrest occurred Feb. 22, after Campus Security officer Ginger Foy observed a white male peep into three different windows in the courtyard area, Mr. Ed Cannady, director of Public Safety at HPC, said.

According to Cannady, Officer Foy was on stake-out duty when she observed the suspect. The stake-outs began last semester after the first case if indecent exposure was reported on campus. Within three to four weeks of that first report, four other cases were also reported, Cannady said.

Cannady said one other case of indecent exposure and several peeping tom cases have been reported this semester.

When Foy observed the male, she approached him and identified herself, Cannady said. She asked him his name and he said "Honeycutt." She told him she had seen what he was doing and used her radio to call the High Point Police.

According to Cannady, Honeycutt ran as the police cars were enroute towards the tennis courts. Cannady said he arrived at the scene at the same time the police did.

At this same time, a black '73 Monte Carlo was discovered in Belk parking lot. The car was identified as belonging to Honeycutt. Cannady said. The College impounded the vehicle pending the suspect's arrest.

Honeycutt got away and according to Cannady, the subject went to the Magistrate's office and turned himself in.

Officer Foy signed a warrant for the arrest of Honeycutt and the High Point Police added three additional warrants. Six HPC female victims positively identified Honeycutt's photograph out of a group of seven, Cannady said.

Honeycutt posted his own $1000 bond and was released.

"I would like to commend all of our officers and the High Point Police for a fine job," Cannady said in reference to Honeycutt's arrest.

Cannady also said "Even though we feel this person is responsible for all the indecent exposure activity and peeping tom cases, we have not stopped staking out and patrolling Women's dorm."

A court date has been set for April 5, Cannady said.

The 1983-84 tuition rates have been announced recently by the college. The new rates were approved at an October, 1982 Board of Directors meeting, according to Mrs. Ethylene Charnock, Secretary in the Financial Affairs office.

Tuition rates will be increased to $3300 per year, a $300 increase over 1982-83 rates. Board prices will also be increased, from $1000 to $1100. Room rates are being increased as well. Fees (general, Campus Center and Student Activity), however, will remain at the 1982-83 levels.

Fire alert goes unnoticed

What happened to the little boy who cried wolf? Did the wolf eat him? No! He burned up in McColloch dorm. Such could have been the case when all but a few slept through the fire alarm that went off Saturday around 7 a.m. What possesses a person to hear a fire alarm and not react? Is the apathy (there's that word again) towards fire drills so prevalent that one chooses to ignore rather than react to an element as dangerous as fire? Have there been so many false alarms in the past that one naturally assumes another is taking place when the alarm is heard? This could be true, but why risk life by not finding out for sure?

The fire officer investigating the fire said, "The apathy problem that occurred when the fire alarm was pulled is serious. If it had been more serious, the Nation would have known about it - the fire could have spread up and down the hall and many could have died."

Fortunately, the fire was very small and easily extinguishable, but that may not be the case the next time. The conditions of McColloch dorm are not conducive to fire safety. Persons living there should be especially sensitive to fire hazards and fire prevention. One type of fire prevention is fire drills. When taken seriously, they offer practice escapes from a serious situation. Ideally, Saturday morning each person should have gotten out of bed and filed slowly outside and away from the building. Instead, all, except the few who got up, rolled over in bed and left their fates to the blaze.

Injustice describes reaction to Watergate security officer verdict

"Ruminations" is a new column of the Hi-Po editorial page. The column will strive to comment on novel, interesting and noted events around the campus, community and nation.

It is somehow an injustice that the very man who discovered the Watergate break-in is now being sent to the penitentiary for a longer period of time than any of the men who carried out a conspiracy against the whole U.S. of A. Frank Wills, the semi-famous security guard who noticed tampering in the Watergate office building in 1972, lifted a twelve-buck pair of tennis shoes from a department store recently. How he's been sent to prison for a year. The maximum amount of time served by any of the Watergate conspirators was six months. Justice? Hardly.

Another injustice that has come about recently is the closing down of the 4077th. M*A*S*H has departed to syndication paradise, it seems. Millions of people became caught up in the hoopla Monday night as the last episode of the immensely popular t.v. show was aired. And a lot of tears were running down a lot of cheeks around the country (and world) as t.v. audiences said goodbye to Hawkeye, B.J., Hot Lips and Klinger. After 10 years of superb programming, M*A*S*H created quite an impression on the tube. Goodbye to the 4077th... so long to tolerable television.

The last remnants of winter have been hanging around a lot this week, but warmer temps are bound to be on the way. Make it a great spring break, and get in gear for the last few months of the semester-summer vacation is just 1354 hours away!

Spring break begins Fri., Mar. 4 at 5 p.m.
Dorms close at 5 p.m. Fri.
and will reopen Sun., Mar. 13 at noon.

Rodriguez joins Foreign Language Department

BY BOB ROSSI
Staff Writer

Mrs. Anne Rodriguez is High Point College’s newest addition to the Spanish program of its Foreign Language Department. The New Jersey native has been instructing at the college since January when Dr. Frances S. Hoch accepted a position with the state department of education.

Mrs. Rodriguez is entering her sixteenth year of teaching and her third year as a college instructor.

The list of schools which she has instructed at before joining High Point College is an extensive one: Indiana University South Bend, Indiana; St. Mary’s College, Notre Dame, Indiana; and the University of North Carolina in Greensboro.

The instructor stated that she was very impressed with High Point College and its University in New York. She continued her Masters work at Teachers College of Columbus University, Middlebury College in Vermont and at the University of Madrid in Spain.

Mrs. Rodriguez has spent a lot of time in Spain and is married to a Spaniard. Because of these experiences, she feels she can create interesting and informative situations that sometimes cannot be found in a textbook. Personal experiences, cultural insights, relationships with the family units and human reactions are all found in Senora Rodriguez’ style of teaching.

“The more the student is involved, the more meaning it has for the student. I know the material already,” she laughs. “The student is the important one in class.”

“Day of Celebration” planned

BY TANA PARKER
Staff Writer

On Mar. 24, 1983, over 110 high school students will be visiting the High Point College campus. The day is a journalism festival for high school and campus students. The students register from 8:00 a.m.-9:30 a.m. and attend various workshops throughout the day. The workshops include journalism, yearbook and photography work, news and copy writing, and layouts. In the afternoon, two workshops will be directed towards the college students. The first, or broadcast journalism, will be conducted by Carol Rogers, a graduate of High Point College.

President of the Society, Art Prillaman, described the day as a journalism festival for high school and campus students. The students register from 8:00 a.m.-9:30 a.m. and attend various workshops throughout the day. The workshops include journalism, yearbook and photography work, news and copy writing, and layouts. In the afternoon, two workshops will be directed towards the college students. The first, or broadcast journalism, will be conducted by Carol Rogers, a graduate of High Point College Communications major.

“We are going to have a number of influential people conducting workshops. They include Wilford Kale, the past president of the National SJC; Sonny Hedgecock, High Point Enterprise; and representatives from the Greensboro Daily News and Winston-Salem Sentinel.” said Prillaman. The purpose for the day is to draw students, interested in the major, to HPC. Prillaman said the day is also an admissions tool to try and get more people to attend HPC and with more people, “we could probably get better facilities.” Another purpose is to give students an angle on what it means to be a Journalist.

However, facility remains busy
Infirmary operations spark complaints

BY KARLA GREEN
Features Editor

High Point College provides on-campus health service through the College infirmary. Do many students use the infirmary? Mrs. Joyce Isenhour, RN, says that they do. However, the infirmary continues to be a subject that students disagree upon.

Isenhour said that the patient load varies from month to month, but that the first month of school is usually the busiest, with last September's patient count up to 900 during that time. She attributed the large number to the athletic physicals that are required at the beginning of the school year. Isenhour said that the estimated monthly average of patients seen by the infirmary continues to be around 350 students per month.

Although many use the infirmary, staff and students continue to complain about them.

One student commented about the school attendance policy, saying, "If I felt like walking across campus to be excused by the infirmary, I could go to class."

The infirmary staff maintained that the school attendance policy is an issue of the administration rather than the infirmary, whose main purpose is to "treat the patients as needed." Nurse Isenhour said, "If we see a patient that has an elevated temperature at 3 a.m., it is too ill to attend classes by the physician, then the patient is excused by the infirmary.

Convenience to students is considered in the making of the infirmary policy. One such example is the daily delivery of needed prescriptions to the college. According to infirmary staff member Judy Green, "The Rite Aid pharmacy delivers all needed medications not on hand in the infirmary to the campus daily so as to provide a more convenient service to the students, many of which do not have transportation." Green remarked that the fees for these medications are then charged directly to the students' account. "These medications are usually an admission cost if available in our office, and can be picked up around 4 p.m. on the same day in the infirmary," commented Green.

This brings about another question asked by many students: "Why are these charges not covered by the Health Services fee that is paid by all dormitory students?"

According to Judy Green, "there are many lab tests that cannot be done on campus (such as the blood work for malaria) and must be done at the hospital." The students are responsible for such bills aside from the fee previously paid to the college. The medications that are kept on hand at the infirmary include the basic treatments for colds; other medications must be purchased by the student through the pharmacy.

Another student complaint was that "the infirmary is only open during times when most classes are held, conflicting with the students schedules." According to Fortney, he is available to Isenhour, RN, "Anyone who is ill should be in the infirmary by 9-9:30 to see the doctor."

According to Fortney, the infirmary formally sees patients during the hours of 8 a.m. until 12 p.m. and then again from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Fortney said that he is available to examine patients beginning each weekday morning around 9 a.m. According to his nurse, Ms. Joyce Isenhour, RN, "Anyone who is ill should be in the infirmary by 9-9:30 to see the doctor."

According to Fortney, he stays in the infirmary each day until the staff "is through seeing the patients," times which vary from day to day. On days when Fortney is unavailable, patients are treated by his physicians' assistant, Paul Craft.

THE HIGH POINT COLLEGE INFIRMARY is the subject of student complaints.

Isenhour said, "If someone gets ill after hours, they need to contact the infirmary for advice," Mrs. Rice, the night receptionist, is available by phone in the infirmary after hours to advise any student who wishes to be seen. According to Isenhour, "She will talk with the student and then call the nurse and/or doctor on call if the patient needs to be seen."

Another student complaint is that "the infirmary is only open during times when most classes are held, conflicting with the students schedules." According to Fortney, he is available to Isenhour, RN, "there is someone on-call 24 hours a day to aid the students."
Writing hints given

Resume - pathway to a career

Resume - a French word meaning "summary" or an English word meaning probably the only way you'll ever get a job. A resume is a way to advertise yourself on paper. A resume won't get you a job, but it will get your foot in the door for that all-important job interview.

There are four items you should keep in mind when writing your resume: it should be brief - one or two pages; it should be neat, with no errors; it should be easily understandable and it should be honest.

Most students use the chronological formula for their resumes in which they list their education and work experience in reverse chronological order. The chronological resume should begin with the student's personal data.

Included in this section should be your name, address, school and permanent phone numbers. You also may wish to incorporate such data as sex, age, height, weight and marital status. You should not attach a picture with their resumes, and it is illegal for an employer to ask for one.

Career objectives should follow personal data on the resume. List both your short and long-term career objectives. Make sure your professional objectives are relevant to the job you are applying for, while keeping them broad enough for several job possibilities.

Education background should be the next section. You should list their educational background in reverse chronological order, starting with the highest level of formal education. The years of attendance at each institution should appear on the resume as well as the degrees earned. Your GPA and any special courses taken which pertain to career objectives should be included if they are impressive.

Following the educational background should be a work history section. Don't only list where you worked, but what you did while you were there. Use action words like "directed" and "assisted with," when describing your duties at a particular job. Although some employers are mostly interested in work experience that pertains to their job, others think part-time or volunteer work shows initiative.

The next section should include whatever related professional experience you have, including membership in professional organizations, internships, extracurricular activities and any honors, paragons or scholarships earned.

The final section of the resume should have three or four references. Previous employers and professors are the best references because they can provide the work performance evaluation that future employers want to have.

It is a good idea to always send prospective employers an individually typed cover letter with the resume. You should send the cover letter and the resume to the department where you want to work, since the department, rather than personnel, will probably do the hiring.

The cover letter should contain an opening paragraph stating why you are sending the resume. The middle paragraph should briefly describe why you are qualified for the job, perhaps by highlighting education or skills that pertain to that particular job. Do not include all education or work experience because then employers won't bother to read the more detailed information in the resume.

Close the letter by thanking the employer for his time, and suggesting an interview in the future. Follow-up your resume with a phone call requesting an interview. Some firms wait a few days before calling but most will respond to your letter in a few days.

On February 17 the faculty of High Point College approved the revised policy for satisfactory academic progress for Title IV financial aid recipients. Simply stated the policy is:

• A full-time day student must successfully complete 12 credit hours per semester or 24 credit hours per academic year.

• A half-time day student must successfully complete 6 credit hours per semester or 12 credit hours per academic year.

• A full-time CAEP student must successfully complete 12 credit hours per year (July-June).

• A half-time CAEP student must successfully complete 6 credit hours per year (July-June).

The student must also be in good academic standing.

• A full-time student may receive Title IV funds for five years, and a half-time student may receive aid for eight years.

• Students not meeting the minimum standards have options to regain eligibility, and students always have the right to appeal. Students who appear (after a review of See Policy Changed, p. 8"

Process from pledgeship to initiation comes to an end

BY KAREN HERNANDEZ Staff Writer

The long pledgeship of the majority of the greeks has finally come to an end. Some pledges were seen carrying sticks, others carrying bricks, others carrying flowers. Another group had to dress up as the "Big Sisters", and others were seen with mud all over their "butts." All of the pledges who went through initiation are proud to be called "brother" or "sister" because they have gone through a long period of memorization, fund raising, and serving the community.

The Alpha Delta Thetas had 12 girls initiated. They are: Karen Bishoff, Kelly Brisentine, Jennifer Burroughs, June Craft, Sheila Craig, Ginny Dunn, Marja Erickson, Selwyn Heinta, Kelly Lambert, Lisa Swing, Susan Warwick, and Alicia Wright.

The Alpha Gamma Delta's were proud to tell us that their pledges, as service altruistic project, visited the Mayfield Nursing Home. After every "kid" completed their requirements they became part of the sisterhood of Alpha Gamma Delta. They are: Jennifer Austin, Carol Biderman, Karla Green, Kelli Greene, Teile Hadsock, Melissa MacKenzie, Robin Pheiffer, and Janet Temple.

The Kappa Delta's are proud to welcome seven sisters into their chapter. They are: Jackie Barner, Camille Davis, Wendi Hora, Lee Kroches, Jennifer Linquist, Kim Manness, and Nancy Young.

The Theta Chi's might be few but they are proud to have initiated Matt Kohn and Steve Hatt. They are now part of the brotherhood and speaking of a few, the new Theta Chis Little Sisters are: Melissa Duncan, Mary Gagner, Dana Holmes, Millie Price, Sharon Sweeney, Lou Taylor, and Kathy Williamson.

Lady Panthers looking for sixth conference title

BY MARK PHELPS
Sports Editor

To improve on the previous season is the goal of any collegiate coach, but for coach Kitty Steele and her women's tennis team, there is not a whole lot of room for improvement.

The Lady Panthers have won five consecutive conference championships and taken fourth place in the NAIA national tournament over the past two years. This season, the team will be without the services of MVP Leslie Gianopolos. A freshman walkon last year, Gianopolos finished with a 19-3 record and won the conference championship at the number four position. Though her presence will be missed, coach Steele feels that her team has the capabilities to take a sixth title.

"Other than Leslie, last year's team remains intact. Losing her will effect us some, but the girls gained a great deal of experience last season and that should compensate for her absence."

Ana Medina, a junior from Bolivia, has played at the number one position over the past two years and she will be working to maintain that spot. Challenging her is junior Anneli Kiviniemi of Sweden, who played at the second position last year.

"Anneli is more motivated for this season and is better prepared physically as well as mentally," said coach Steele.

The next two spots are filled by junior Lynn Sharkey at the third spot and senior Helen O'Brian at the fourth position.

The rest of the lineup will be challenged for by a number of players. Sophomore Doris Johnson played the number six spot last season but has been sidelined recently by illness. She is expected to return to the court after spring break.

Teresa Sweatman played some matches last year at sixth and teamed with Gianopolos to win the conference championship at the third doubles. "Teresa is one of the most improved players that I've had since I have been at High Point," recalled coach Steele.

Newcomer Anne Mary Lopez, a freshman from Puerto Rico, and sophomore Theresa Regnante will also be vying for a position.

"I am pleased with Annes strokes and attitude. She might well challenge for fifth or sixth," said coach Steele. "Theresa has a very strong serve, smooth strokes, and a good knowledge of the game. It will strengthen us throughout if she can fit into the top six and continue to play well at doubles."

The strongest competition in attempting to dethrone the Lady Panthers is the University of Wingate.

Carolina's Conference Tournament gets underway

BY MARK PHELPS
Sports Editor

The Mens Carolina's conference tournament began last night at Elon College as High Point played regular season champion Catawba. The Indians came into the tournament with a perfect 14-0 conference record and the favorites to take the championship. Tuesday's second game pitted second place Pfeiffer and host Elon. Tonight at 7:00 defending champion Pembroke State plays Atlantic Christian. Pembroke has won the tournament championship the last two years. Wingate and Guilford play the second game at 9:00. These two teams finished in a tie for fourth place in the conference standings.

The winner of the HPC-Catawba game plays the Wingate-Guilford winner Thursday night at 7:00. The ACC-Pembroke winner plays the Pfeiffer-Elon victor at 9:00. The championship game is Friday night at 8:00.

SORRY—Due to an early press deadline, Tuesday's results of the HPC-Catawba game could not be covered.

Lady Panthers

High Point College's men tennis defeated Wingate on February 24.

Winning for the Panthers in singles were Pekka Makela, 6-4, 6-2; Sami Narhi, 6-1, 6-0; Matt Langlo, 6-2, 6-0; Griff Thompson, 6-2, 6-3; Roy Hellbronn, 6-3, 6-4; Francisco Bloch, 6-1, 6-3; and Kevin West, 6-4, 7-5.

Combining for doubles, the Panthers boosted three winning pairs: Makela and Thompson, 7-5, 6-2; Narhi and Langlo, 6-1, 6-0; and Hellbronn and Bloch, 6-4, 4-6.

High Point College dropped its final regular season game Wednesday night to Gardner-Webb 89-79. The defeat left the Panthers with a 6-18 overall record going into Tuesday's Carolina's Conference tournament.

High Point led in the first half by as much as eleven and held a 45-36 halftime lead. But the Bulldogs roared back in the second period behind the scoring of 6-10 center Eddie Wilkins. Wilkins finished the game with 34 points, three of his shots coming on spectacular alley-oop dunks.

High Point trailed only one with about three minutes left to play, but the Panthers then went cold on their three-point attempts and Gardner-Webb was able to hit eight of its last 12 free throws.

Robert Hudson, Mike Everette, and Danny Murphy led High Point scorers with 13 points each. Freshmen Jim Hoffman and Terry Samuel contributed with 11 and 10 points respectively.

Elections to be Mar. 30-31

Vacancies dominate SGA elections

BY CHRIS HEENAN
Special to the HI-PO

As SGA Election Day draws closer, there are still a lot of vacancies in many of the SGA positions.

In one of the few contested races of the election, the office of SGA president is being sought by Mark Mashburn and Tom Leech. Judy Jones seeks the office of vice-president without opposition.

In the race for Senior Offices are Miriam O’Malley and Denise Watts for president and John Brown for vice-president.

In the Sophomore class elections, Peggy Draper is running for president and Tammy Riggs is running for vice-president.

In the race for class legislators, for the Senior class; Pat Connelly, Teriann Cleary, Wendi Hora and Sharon Sweeney. For the Sophomore class, Mary Van Horne is the only candidate running.

There are however, many positions still open in the elections. SGA President Mark Mashburn said, “Sean Russell, Chairman of the Election Committee, reported there are no candidates running for the following offices; SGA treasurer, four Junior legislators, three Sophomore legislators, Senior, Junior and Sophomore judicial representatives.

Mashburn called these vacancies a possible lack of motivation. Miriam O’Malley, a candidate for Senior class president, said, “The only way things will change around here is if people get involved.”

Anyone interested in these positions must be a write-in candidate. According to Mashburn, this must be specified on any campaign material.

The elections will be Mar. 30 and 31 at lunch and dinner in the lobby of the campus center.

Lucht announces graduation speakers

Dr. Charles R. Lucht, president of High Point College, has announced that Bishop L. Scott Allen and Dr. Nicholas T. Goncharoff will be the college’s 1983 baccalaureate and commencement speakers.

Bishop Allen is the resident bishop presiding over the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. Dr. Allen has a bachelor’s degree from Clark College in Atlanta, a divinity degree from Gammon Theological Seminary in Atlanta, and a master’s degree from Northwestern University.

He was elected and consecrated as a bishop of the Methodist Church in 1967.

Dr. Goncharoff is director of special programs for the YMCA of the United States. Born in Kiev, U.S.S.R., he studied at the Universities of Heidelberg, Marburg, and Zurich, and in 1952 was awarded a doctorate in philosophy and history from the University of Munich.

He is an educator and specialist in the fields of political science, comparative history and international affairs. As a Danforth and McKinley Scholar, Dr. Goncharoff has been invited to more than 600 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada to address convocations, give lectures, and organize seminars and workshops.

Dr. Goncharoff serves as an academic consultant on foreign policy matters for the U.S. State Dept. Through 1981, he served as the permanent representative to the United Nations for the World Alliance of YMCA's.

The baccalaureate service will be conducted in Wesley Memorial United Methodist Church at 8 p.m. May 7. Commencement exercises will take place in High Point College’s Alumni Gymnasium at 11 a.m. May 8.

March 29

Proficiency exam date set

The Academic Dean of the College has announced the Spring date for the HPC Writing Proficiency Examination; it will be administered at 11:30 on Tues. day, March 29, in Room 106 of Haworth Hall.

All students who enrolled at High Point College during or after September, 1980, and who plan to graduate from HPC must take and pass the HPC Writing Proficiency Examination. Those who must take the test this Spring include 1) those currently enrolled in English 102, 2) new transfer students, and 3) those who have failed the exam but now have permission from the Writing Center to retake it. Any student who enrolled prior to 1980 and who has been out a semester must also sit for the exam.

Math, science teachers in demand

There is a serious shortage of math and science teachers across the country as potential teachers choose the private employment field instead of the classroom. Higher salaries and more advancement potential are the main reasons.

Another reason is found with the students themselves. Teachers have difficulty maintaining classroom behavior, and many teachers are afraid to teach in certain school districts. Some teachers say that parents are not strict enough with their kids at home, and the rowdy behavior continues in the classroom.

So with increasing problems of finding teachers, the city of Houston came up with a good and simple way to attract math and science teachers — offer them more money. They decided to implement a bonus system to lure applicants. Math and science teachers receive a $2000 bonus if they teach in one of the poorer neighborhoods. If their school’s test scores rise, they are eligible for an additional bonus of $1300. The bonus plan has two objectives: fill the classrooms and improve test scores.

HPC senior questions tuition increase

To the Editor:

As a concerned senior, I feel I must protest High Point College’s recent decision to raise tuition for next year. Although economic conditions in the country are said to be improving, the move to raise tuition and fees seem particularly callous to me. Moreover, the areas of enrollment, campus activities, and lack of personnel in several areas calls for a decrease in tuition, rather than an increase.

An issue of the Hi-Po in February proclaimed that many new students (over a thousand) had been recruited, and that many had made definite plans to attend High Point College in the fall of ’83. Now, even if only half of those students came, and if only half of the additional revenue from their tuition was applied to operating expenses and faculty and administration salaries, we would be well ahead of this year in terms of money on hand, or income. To use an analogy: if a drug store is selling alcohol at 69 cents a bottle, then runs out of stock and has to order more at 79 cents a bottle and passes that ten cents along to the consumer because, well... we ran out and that’s not our fault - this is an admittedly roundabout way of saying that the logic isn’t there for a tuition increase just because more people are coming to High Point College. Clearly, because more people are coming, there will be more money at the old tuition cost of $3,200 per year (The basic cost for day students). It seems a greedy windfall to expect more money from more students.

Secondly, it doesn’t seem that we are getting what we’re paying for at High Point College. Don’t get me wrong – the quality of instruction is high, and most professors care about academic progress and students’ growth as people and citizens of the community. However, we have nothing like UNC-G’s Concert and Lecture Series; our well-planned and diligently supported movies from the good intentions of the SGA are poorly attended; we have no official Library Director, no official head of the Religion Department, no official Chaplain, no person to fill Bruce Tingle’s job. We’re severely understaffed where it hurts – in the student services. Yet, I’ve heard of no cutbacks in duplicating paper or supplies, no personnel cutbacks in order to save money, and no less flowers or bushes planted to save money. It seems to me as though the administration and their families are being relied upon to finance High Point College’s attempt to beat inflation and make money; families’ costs of living are themselves at all-time high. The education we get is superior again, our teachers are some of the best. As far as administration and student services are concerned, however, we aren’t getting what we’re paying for. Many of the people who filled those positions have quit.

According to their 1982 catalog, it costs $2,925.00 for tuition at Columbia University, compared to our tuition costs of $3,300. In other words, it costs $375.00 cheaper to attend Columbia this year than what we’re paying to attend High Point College. But in 1983, it would be $75.00 cheaper to attend Columbia (that is, unless Columbia raises their tuition drastically for next year). All of this is to say that those of us who care about High Point College and who want to see it survive and prosper (and prosper both intellectually and monetarily) had best raise our voices and urge that tuition rates be frozen at their 1982-83 level, that cutbacks in the purchasing of non-essentials be implemented, and that important positions be filled quickly. We have delayed too long with empty chairs in important jobs, while those who have important jobs at HPC often have empty minds about students’ being able to afford the tuition here. I am ready to stand corrected on any matter on which I am unaware. My greatest hope of all, though, is that High Point College doesn’t price itself out of the market.

Sincerely,

Charles Burton

Student Life Committee submits alcohol policy to Board

After many hours of discussion and committee work by the Student Life Committee, a proposal was given to the Board of Trustees which would permit the individual student the right to make his/her own decision about the use of alcohol. The proposal was initially submitted to the sub-committee on Student Affairs by Bishop Scott Price. Following discussion, the sub-committee unanimously approved the proposal and it was then placed on the agenda of the full Board.

Mr. Price made the presentation of the proposed policy to the Board and then the floor was opened for discussion. Bishop Scott Allen, present presiding Bishop of the Western North Carolina Conference, wanted to add another paragraph to the proposal which would precisely affirm the position of the United Methodist Church and the college’s position to that statement in conjunction with the goals of the institution.

There was some opposition to the policy, as might be expected. The result of which is that the proposal has been deferred indefinitely. The proposal for changing the alcohol policy is not defeated! It is simply going to be edited and altered by the Board before being approved.

After speaking with several administrators, the opinion is that the policy will possibly be changed either by the Executive Committee of the Board or at the next full meeting of the Board in October.

This effort on the part of the Student Life Committee is in the hopes of bringing the alcohol policy in line with the real situation of the 1980’s. It affirms the fact that students should face current social, moral, and ethical dilemmas and make their own decisions about them. It is believed, at least by this committee, that this is one of the primary functions of the college.

I hoped that I would have seen this policy change by the end of my term in office, but must realize that it is a major decision which will not be left to William R. Hearst.

Sincerely,

Lewis Lawrence

Who's inside the Purple Panther?

BY BOB ROSSI
Staff Writer

This year's High Point College basketball games had something new and exciting: the Purple Panther, the official mascot at High Point College. Inside this harmless beast lives twenty year-old junior Mike Horniak.

Sophomore class President Denise Metivier proposed the entire mascot idea early last fall. She went to the cheerleading coach Ric Hoffmann for assistance. Hoffmann loved the idea but financially it seemed like something for the future. Metivier refused to give up and together with Hoffmann and his cheerleading group proposed this request to the Student Union who fronted two-thirds of the money while the college picked up the remaining one-third on the tab. How does Mike Horniak feel about this, "I know it was expensive but it's worth every penny."

Charlotte-born Horniak approached Coach Hoffmann's secretary last semester when he heard the news about the possibility of having a mascot for the upcoming basketball season. "I told her that I'd like to do it and she said tryouts were based on interviews, personality and grades, and I said to myself, well, I guess that counts me out." Obviously it didn't and Mike received the job. Mike was inspired to do this because of the lack of enthusiasm of other mascots that he's seen on college basketball games on television. "Some mascots would just be standing and cheering. Nobody knows who you are and you have an opportunity to make people smile. I'd give anything to do that. I was just so happy I got chosen for the job."

Horniak practices and travels with the cheerleaders but he insists that they are two different components. Horniak has few limitations as to what he can to get the crown motivated as long as he keeps it in the good nature of High Point College. What looks like all fun and games can be excultrating pain for the man inside the purple mask. "It's super hard work. I lose between five and seven pounds a game. On some occasions I got on a roll and became so exhausted that I almost passed out."

Horniak seemed to adjust to his job well, so well in fact, that he began to give advice to some of his fellow mascot-competitors. At an Elon College road game Horniak noticed Elon's Fighting Christian not getting motivated and crazy like himself. Horniak approached him at halftime and said to the three year mascot, "You've got to try to loosen up." He replied to Horniak, "How do you get the nerve to do all the crazy stuff you do?" Horniak smiled from inside of his mask and said, "Hell, nobody knows who I am."

The fans at High Point College certainly know who the Purple Panther is and the reaction has been extremely favorable according to Dr. Hoffmann, who has received many compliments from fans at both home and away games.

Horniak transferred to High Point College from Hartford Community College in Belair, Maryland last August. He is a member of HPC's baseball team and also played football, basketball and soccer in high school and junior college. He regrets not having the ability to play basketball for High Point College but as the team's mascot he tries to contribute as much as possible. Sometimes too much.

Take for example one home game last season when Horniak noticed that the flashbulbs from some photographer's cameras seemed to be bothering the shooting of High Point's players. I yelled, "C'mon ref don't you see those guys down there? They're throwing our shots off. I just wanted to call it to his attention." The next time the referee came down court he stopped the game, walked over to Horniak and said, "Listen son, I'm reffing this game and if you don't cut it out I'll throw you both you and your team a technical foul." "That shut me up real quick," commented Horniak.

Mike Horniak's future as the Purple Panther seems well-in-hand but what can we expect from him after High Point. "I'll probably end up teaching for awhile and I'd like to go to grad school. I have dreams of someday becoming an officer in the Air Force. I'd like to learn how to fly. It's always been a dream of mine and if I make it that far, I'd like to get into politics."

Thomas. "People can handle the truth, but not false information. It’s worse if people know less about what is happening. How can we run a efficient democracy if the American people are not well informed," concluded Thomas.

Among the persons scheduled to speak at workshop sessions were Ron Edmunds, Pulitzer Prize winning photographer of the Associated Press; Nate Custer, WTKR TV, Norfolk, Virginia; Will Molinich, Williamsburg Bureau Chief, Newport News Daily Press and The Times-Herald, Newport News, Va.; and Dale Gauding, News Director, WTA-Radio, Norfolk. Several other Virginia Journalists and broadcasters were available to discuss their respective areas of communication throughout the convention.

Art Prillaman, president of the High Point College SCJ chapter, said his chapter will benefit from the convention. "It has helped us to improve our mass communication by seeing what others are doing across the country. The exposure of the national convention was beneficial to all delegates from HPC," said Prillaman.

Talent dominates in "Godspell"

BY TERRI LIVINGSTON
Staff Writer

The 12 member cast of High Point College’s production of "Godspell" is busy putting final touches on the show which will open this weekend.

The show displays much talent in the areas of singing, dancing, and acting. Each member of the cast adds his own talent which together creates a powerful production and much enjoyment for the audience.

The fast moving production and the energy of the cast keeps the attention of the audience. Each song is complimented by the professional choreography of Mallory Graham.

The cast is proud of the work they have done and are eager for the opening of the show. Phil Castine, who portrays Jesus, spreads His wisdom through stories and songs.

Paul Lundrigan, director of "Godspell", is also anticipating the opening. "The cast is having a good time which makes it possible for the audience to have a good time as well," Lundrigan said. The stage used for the production is surrounded by cloth panels to create the illusion of a circus tent; the actors being the circus performers, according to Lundrigan.

"Godspell" is thrilling for the audience. The talent may surprise you. Everyone may surprise you. Everyone is encouraged to see the show. A good time is guaranteed.

Cartoon characters to be displayed at HPC

If you’re hunting for something unusual to do, it’s open season on ducks, mice and wabbits -- wacky wabbits, like Bugs Bunny! In fact, more than 250 unique and often humorous cel paintings of cartoon characters like Bugs Bunny are the subject of a special exhibit and sale.

High Point College will host this exhibit Thurs.-Fri., March 31-April 1, 1983 from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. on the Campus Center Lobby. The public is invited. This event will benefit the Student Union Board, the sponsor.

Animation cel paintings, called "cels," are the paintings actually filmed in making animated cartoons. Each character is painted by hand on a clear sheet of acetate, usually 11\" x 14\" or larger, then placed against a background painting and photographed, one frame at a time, to create the illusion of the cartoon characters in motion.

Cels are the culmination of the artistic process -- the final image that is photographed by the camera. Today those cels are highly prized by collectors.

The current exhibit was authenticated by Gallery Lainzberg of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, an organization that specializes in original animation art, a representative of Gallery Lainzberg will be on hand to answer questions.

The exhibit/sale highlights the work of two superstars in the animation field: Chuck Jones and Freleng. Both animators are veterans of the golden era of cartoons at Warner Brothers - the 1940’s. Both have contributed much to American popular culture. Freleng dreamt up Tweety and Sylvester and the irreplaceable Yosemite Sam. Jones gave life to Wile E. Coyote, the Roadrunner and Pepe Le Pew. Both artists helped to shape Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck and many others. Now in their 70’s, Freleng and Jones have contributed their considerable talents for over half a century. Both have received Academy Awards for their achievement in cartoon art, but in their original artwork has rarely been seen.

The exhibit features signed and unsigned cel paintings by these two superb artists. For the cartoon buff, there is artwork featuring some of Walt Disney’s best-known animated films including "The Jungle Book," "Robin Hood," "Gnomes," and "Tom and Jerry." Fleischer enthusiasts will be treated to meticulously hand-inked cels of Betty Boop, Krazy Kat and other popular 1930’s stars.

For the Fantasy buff, there is artwork from "Heavy Metal."

With the growing interest in original animation art, many people are investing in cels. According to Gallery Lainzberg Director, Edith Rudman, "People love the characters they select. Many people like the idea of owning their own fragment of American film history. And, of course, part of the attraction is the potential for appreciation. A signed Bugs Bunny we were offering at $85 four years ago now sells for $135 to $175."

In addition to the growing number of private collectors, institutions have accumulated impressive collections of animation art for public display and study. Substantial collections can be found at New York’s Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Museum of Modern Art. Special exhibits were recently held at the Library of Congress and at important museums such as New York’s Whitney Museum of Art and the Montreal Museum of Art. In addition, many universities and colleges including Princeton, Vassar, Syracuse, Johns Hopkins, Rutgers and Oberlin have begun to build cel collections.

That wacky wabbit and his friends have come a long way!

Usually, a team feels more comfortable in familiar surroundings and it was evident in March when the High Point College baseball team increased its record to 8-3, only losing to N.C. State twice and falling to Western Carolina last week.

If the familiar surrounding of HPC is an asset to the team, Coach Jim Speight could be a very happy man during March.

Sunday afternoon the Panthers defeated Western Maryland 8-2 as they prepared to begin district action yesterday against Gardner-Webb at High Point. Sunday the Panthers will open conference action at home against crosstown rival Guilford.

The Panthers, picked to finish second by the Carolina Conference coaches, have played well thus far. "I feel we have won all the games we should have won and some we shouldn't have won," said Coach Speight. "The weather has played a factor not only with us but other teams also."

Not only has the weather been a factor against HPC, but injuries are its biggest foe.

Panthers Mark Barnes, Steve Furman, Scott McPherson and Neal Wilbourne have all been plagued with early injuries.

"If we continue to keep our heads screwed on and get our injured back on the comeback trail, we'll do just fine," Speight said.

Coach Speight said the support of the fans is appreciated and hopes the support of the Panthers will continue.

Three juniors head the High Point golf team as it enters the 1983 spring season that includes three tournaments, four matches, and the conference and district tournaments.

Third-year men Buddy Sass, Ted Barnhardt, and Jeff Zivic will make up the top three positions on coach Woody Gibson's ninth Panther squad.

Sass, playing at the number one position, was named to the All-Conference team last year and coach Gibson feels he should be a mid-70's player this year.

Barnhardt will be playing at the number two position for the second year in a row and Coach Gibson revealed that in time, he can become an excellent performer.

"Ted has a lot of talent and potential. If he can use this to its fullest, he can become a very good player," said Zovic, of Avon, Connecticut, who will be at the third position.

His play can be characterized as having been erratic over the past two years, but he should be able settle down this year.

"Jeff hasn't reached his potential yet," Coach Gibson said. "He can be a fine player if he will take the game more seriously and work harder at it."

Freshman Matt Cohen, who was one of the top high school players in Maryland last year, will be at the fourth position. Cohen didn't play as well as expected during the fall matches but has shown improvement since and coach Gibson feels he has the potential to be a solid player.

Senior Todd Hilliard and sophomore Phillip Krimminger will play at the fifth and sixth positions respectively. Coach Gibson said that both have shown much improvement but need experience.

"Todd played baseball his previous three years and since switching to golf has worked hard to improve. Phil is a solid player who has also put in alot of work. Both will get better as they gain experience through competition."

Freshmen Eddie Carpenter and sophomore Greg Shuskey, both newcomers to the team, will also contribute during the season. Carpenter underwent knee surgery during the winter and his play has been hindered somewhat.

The Panthers played an exhibition match with Wingate and UNC-Greensboro last week in preparation for the season. Sass had top honors as he shot an 82 while other High Point scores included: Barnhardt 86, Zivic 87, Kohn 83, Hilliard 86, and Krimminger 83.

The match was held at Oak Hollow Golf Course, High Point's home course, under high winds and cold temperatures. These conditions caused scores to be higher than normal.

Track team places second in quad meet

High Point College's track team took second in a four-team meet at Campbell College on Tuesday, Mar. 16.

Campbell took first place with 112.5 points. The Panthers finished in the second spot with 56.5 points while Methodist and Elon landed the last two places with 10.5 and four points respectively.

Senior Ralph Barnes broke his own school record in the triple jump as he finished first with a leap of 47'10". Jack Songster gave High Point its only other first place in the high jump with a 6'4" jump.

The Panthers took eight second place finishes. These winners included Ian Lewis in the 400 meters, Kent Sides in the 800 and 2000 meter runs, Hart in the 5000 meter run, Jon Richardson in the javelin, Barnes in the long jump, and Phillip Dickerson in the pole vault. High Point also finished second in the mile relay.

One pleasant surprise for the Panthers was Tom Leech, who set a personal best and finished third in the javelin with a throw of 147'.

Mens tennis defeats Wingate

The HPC mens tennis team split its two home matches over the weekend, bringing the Panthers' overall record to 3-4, 2-1 in conference play.

On Saturday, High Point took an 8-1 win over conference-rival Wingate. All six singles players took victories as Pekka Makela, playing at the number first position, led the way as he defeated Roy Miller 6-0, 6-3. ANDA STRAUSS IS MAKING AVIATION HISTORY IN THE ARMY.

"I'll be seeing Germany a way no tourist can. From the cockpit of an Army Chinook helicopter."

"I'm being assigned to a Chinook helicopter unit in Germany as a test pilot and maintenance officer, and I'm proud that I'll be the first woman to have that assignment over there. It's a real thrill for me."

"So was learning how to fly a helicopter. It takes a lot more skill than an airplane. If you think college is demanding, flight school is even tougher. It's not only academically demanding, it's really mentally demanding as well as physically."

"In Germany, I'll have a chance to use some of the leadership and management techniques I learned in ROTC. It's going to be a real challenge having command responsibilities."

"I'm also excited about living in Germany. I'm looking forward to travelling and doing some skiing. And I really want to learn the language and get to know the people."

"I got into ROTC really just to see what it was all about. For me, it all couldn't have worked out better."

Army ROTC got Anda Strauss off to a good start. Maybe it can do the same for you. To find out, stop by your Army ROTC office on campus. While you're there, ask about our scholarships and $1,000 a year spending money you can earn in your last two years.

And begin your future as an officer.

Language students serve as teachers

BY LEWIS WHELESS
Associate Editor
In the High Point College Foreign Language Department, students are not always just students—sometimes they are teachers, too.

The Language Department has a two-year-old program in which students who excel in language have the opportunity to teach supplementary language courses.

The courses—French 81, Spanish 81 and German 81—are one-hour credit/no credit classes taken by students on a volunteer basis. Kelley Ahl, Crystal Hedgecock and Anne Jarrett teach the French courses, Pat Connelly; Carmen Costle and Camille Davis teach Spanish; and Suzanne Zuroff instructs the German class.

Dr. Carole Head, Chairperson of the Foreign Language Department, said, “Activities in the classes are tailored toward things in regular classes. The (81) courses give students added practice. We gave 13 A’s after spring break.”

The courses consist of several activities each class period. No activity lasts over 10-15 minutes, which adds variety to the instruction. Dr. Head said the animators’ job is to get the activities going.

Kelley Ahl is one of three animators for the French 81 course. Ms. Ahl said she was chosen to participate in the teaching program. “We try to pick someone who doesn’t mind…giving a lot. They (the animators) have to be comfortable with students and out-going,” Head said.

“The goal of the courses is maximum communication among students with no great emphasis on grammar. It is gratifying to see the kids communicate. Through peer teaching, students get encouragement from a model and they do not feel they are being judged—the student teachers are motivators,” Dr. Head commented.

Dr. Barbara Long, an HPC foreign language professor, said, “Activities in the classes are tailored toward things in regular classes. Dr. Head said the teaching program is good for the instructor’s record if he or she plans to pursue teaching as a profession. Anne Jarrett, an International Business major and a French 81 teacher, said she enjoys her job because “it helps (her) relate to the students,” and it helps her in the language.

Ms. Jarrett has had the opportunity to experience the program from both teacher and student viewpoints because she is taking the German 81 class. “A little nervous at first” about teaching her peers, but her students became very receptive to her teaching. “I like this age group because the students are volunteering to take the course—they start with a good attitude because it (the course) is not a requirement. I think it’s a great program and I want to see it continue,” said Ms. Ahl.

Correction

In a story entitled “Who’s inside the Purple Panther” in last week’s issue, the funding source for the costume was erroneously reported. The sophomore class along came a spider that died right beside her and Little Miss Moppett ate him (for protein procurement)

Alice Browne - honorable mention
Mr. Fish’s Wish
There once was a man named Mr. Fish
Who had a wish.
He wished for a pet.
That wouldn’t get wet.
So he bought a dog
And he named it Fog.

HPC TV begins spring operations

HPC Community TV began its spring, 1983, programming schedule on Tuesday, March 22, at 4 p.m. over Cablevision Channel 19, the public access channel. Six one-hour programs will be aired each week, on Tuesday and Thursday, 4-5 p.m., and on Wednesday, 7-8 p.m. Each first half hour features edited songs from the fall production of "Grease" by the High Point Community Theatre.

The remaining half hour of each program features reports and interviews from media communications courses. On March 22, 23, 24, 29, 30, 31, reports from the fall class of English 140, Introduction to Mass Media, will be aired. The selected reports are presented by Mary Gagner, Bob Rossi, Lisa Davido, and Brent Holshouser.

Past programming has included six half-hour programs on unique programs of the College (spring, 1982) and twelve half hour programs for Religion 83, Christian Denominations, taught by Dr. Earl Crow (fall, 1982).

Five national and state organizations have responded to requests for prerecorded programming, particularly the Social Security office and the national Epilepsy Foundation. These programs can be aired later with brief introductions by appropriate College faculty. Students in English 354, Broadcast Production, taped the dress rehearsal of the College production of "Godspell" on Wednesday, March 23. Selected songs will be edited into a half hour program for possible airing fall, 1983.

When no programs are being aired, public service announcements are programmed on the screen by the character generator at intervals of 20 seconds for each announcement.

The following guidelines apply to programs aired over Channel 19. All material must be consistent with the goals and objectives of the College, the Society for Collegiate Journalists, the FCC, and the American TV and Communications Corporation; 2. not duplicate commercial programming on any of the Triad television stations (channels 2, 8, 12, 45, 48); 3. give credit to any community organization or business participating in programming; 4. be informative and educational -- an extension of any public service programming of commercial stations; 5. offer opportunity for airing of public service announcements by community organizations; 6. be applicable to the communities of High Point-Jamestown.

Present equipment and assistance have been provided by donations and grants from Mobil Oil, the HPC Rawley Fund, WGHP-TV of High Point, American TV and Communications Corporation, Cablevision of High Point-Jamestown, Channel 2, WPMY of Greensboro, and WXII-TV 12 in Winston-Salem.

In addition to being a community service medium, HPC Community TV also trains students in filming, writing, producing, and directing short programs before they enter their SCIP Internship. Auxiliary learning experiences include photography, phototypesetting, and ad layout since the station must advertise its programming in written form before programming begins. WFMY-TV in Greensboro recently donated a stat machine which will allow enlargement and reduction of any ad design. The TV station also serves as a small classroom for media communications courses and for foreign language courses in the CAEP Program for airing of lessons on video tape.

HPC Community TV will also air any public service announcements by the College. Any announcement must be received two weeks before date of the event. A maximum of 8 lines and 32 spaces per line is allowed.

Mail typed announcements to HPC Community TV, Box 3111, Campus Mail. Only announcements concerning the community or to which the public is invited can be aired.

course and teaching the French 81 course.

Brian Grieves, a German 81 student, said, "I like being taught by my peers. We play games in German, (such as 'password'). The course involves a lot of student participation."

Marisa Firpi is a senior enrolled in the German 81 course. "The class is facilitating my ability to express myself clearly and creatively in the German language, not just in using basic expressions, but by manipulating new vocabulary in order to use the language in a new, refreshing way," she commented.

Ms. Firpi said that having a peer teacher helps her to "relate without feeling judged or heavily pressured. She also said the course makes her feel confident in her ability to progress in the language."

The student animators are paid for their instruction through the Foreign Language Department budget. They are paid for an hour in class per week, an hour's preparation time and four-to-five hours for attending a workshop.

Two veterans vie for SGA presidency

Mark Mashburn

My name is Mark Mashburn and I am running for re-election in the office of SGA president. I am a religion major from Tobaccoville, N.C.

I am running for re-election for the office of president of SGA because I feel that after a year of "learning the ropes" and establishing good working relationships with the Board of Trustees, the administration, the faculty and most importantly, the students, that I can be effective as president of SGA.

I have attended a conference on university government which has given me a lot of ideas for implementation which need to begin in the Fall. Along with the Student Life Committee, I have attempted to change the alcohol policy and this goal is very near. I might add that it was my primary objective when I assumed office last spring.

I have given SGA a new direction which will make SGA more than a giver of money which has been its mission in the past. Motivation is the key and the momentum is gained. We've got a good thing going! Why change now?

DENISE WATTS

I am Denise Watts, a biology/Spanish major from Kernersville, N.C. I am running for the office of senior class president.

Within my past three years at High Point, I have been extensively involved in the intricate workings of the College. The leadership and experience which I have gained through my various offices in campus organizations is essential for the job of senior class president. I have gained communication skills through my terms as Editor of the ZENITH and co-chairman of Entertainment and Hospitality of the Presidental Scholars. My organizational abilities have grown while serving as vice-president of Alpha Delta Theta and Co-fee house chairman of Student Union. As sophomore judicary, I enhanced my aptitude to reason. Active representation in the Retention, the Recruitment and the President's Advisory Committees have each increased my campus awareness. Presently, I am serving as vice-president of the SGA. I planned, organized and conducted both Freshman Orientation and Homecoming. My realms of leadership have led me to deal with students, staff, faculty and administrators.

Thus, for all these various reasons, I know that I can efficiently, effectively and successfully handle the office of senior class president.

Junior's, this office entails Senior Class Banquet, Baccalaureate, Graduation, reunions and continued work as a class sponsor once an Alumnus. To ensure the success of your senior year and subsequent years as an Alumnus, WRITE IN Denise Watts for senior class president.

Miriam O'Malley

I am Miriam O'Malley and I am running for the office of senior class president. I am a sociology major from Nutley, N.J.

Serving in the SGA for the past year has opened my eyes to the situations of the school and its policies. I realize that what this school needs is a sense of unity. I feel that the school must have participations in activities, such as graduation, dances and fund raisers.

If I get elected, I will attempt to make the senior class a more unified group of people, working together for the good of the school.

Each year when a class graduated, there really is not a sense of lost. People wonder what that class did to better themselves and the school, and the answer often is "They did nothing." I feel that this can be different and the senior class of 1984 can be a great asset to the school and leave the undergraduates something to remember.
Metivier vies for jr. class president

I am Denise Metivier and I am running for junior class president. I am a sociology major from High Point, N.C.

I have represented the class of '85 as president for the past two years and hope to have the honor of representing my fellow classmates as their president, once again.

As president, in the past two years, the class aided in the purchase of the Panther mascot, set up a fund for new equipment for the foreign language department and had a very successful night at Cheers. If elected, I will continue to encourage other class officers to do more as an organization and not to let the year fly by without an accomplishment.

Dennis for top jr. class position

I am Robert E. Dennis, Jr. and I am running for the office of junior class president. I am a business administration major from Greensboro, N.C.

Running for class office is a new experience to me. However, roles concerning ability needed to run a class office are assets I have been acquainted with, and have displayed in my previous years of schooling. I strongly feel I can display the vital talents necessary to conduct and operate a class office. The most prestigious example existing of these talents is the position I held in the past two years, that of senior class vice-president.

Three candidates run for office of senior class legislator

Sharon Sweeney

My name is Sharon Sweeney, a political science and history major from Great Falls, VA. I am running for the office of senior class legislator.

My freshman year, I was a member of Student Union. My sophomore year held the office of sophomore class president. As a member of SGA, I was elected to chair the Food Service Committee. I very much enjoyed participating in SGA and Student Union.

It is my belief that to have a strong and unified student body, you need to have a strong SGA filled with people interested in the school and the student body. I am very interested in High Point College and would like to have a chance to actively support her student body.

Pat Connelly

My name is Pat Connelly, a communications major from Fairfax, VA. I am running for the office of senior class legislator.

Having been a member of SGA for the past two years, I believe my experience will allow me to represent the senior class in a positive way. (The first year that I was a member of SGA, I was the representative for WHO'S WHO and the second year I was a junior class legislator) I would like to assume a more active role in SGA, especially in the areas which need the most improvement (Food services or campus awareness). In the past I have been noted for taking on responsibility and sticking with it. If elected, the seniors can be assured that I will work as hard as I can for the class of '84 and HPC.

Wendi Hora

My name is Wendi Hora, an intermediate education major from Hendersonville, NC. I am running for senior class legislator.

I believe my experience will allow me to represent the senior class in a positive way. (The junior class of 1983-84 has every right to be self-sufficient and independent as much as possible. The only limitations which are necessary are the limits of course and time which must be set by the seniors.)

Pam Moore vies for jr. class legislator

My name is Shannon Moore, and I am a Communications major from Newtown, Connecticut. I am running for the office of junior class legislature.

Although not presently a voting member of SGA, I attended all of the meetings this year. I voted at all of them, except one, in the capacity of alternate. SGA can, and should, be a vital part of the college community. I feel however, that its power as a motivating force on this campus has been very limited.

As junior class vice-president, I intend to work with the president in any capacity needed.

Medina leads lady netters

BY MARK PHELPS

The High Point College women's tennis team ran its record to 8-3 overall, 5-0 in conference play, as it won two of its three matches the past week.

Ana Medina, playing at the Panther's top position, won all three of her matches and gave High Point its only victory in a 7-1 loss to Presbyterian on Tuesday, Mar. 22.

Medina defeated Kelly Shackleford 7-5, 7-6, for the lone win. The final tie-breaker was 7-5.

On Friday, the Lady Panthers breezed past East Carolina in an 8-1 victory. High Point's singles winners included Medina, Anneli Kiviniemi, Helen O'Brien, Teresa Sweatman, and Don Johnson.

In doubles, Medina-Regnante, Kiviniemi-O'Brien, and Sweatman-Johnson.

High Point blasted Catawba 9-0 for a conference match Monday. Singles winners were Medina, Kiviniemi, Sharkey, O'Brien, Sweatman, and Johnson.

In doubles, Medina-Regnante, Kiviniemi-O'Brien, and Sweatman-Johnson were victorious. All nine Panther wins were taken in only two sets.

High Point is preparing to take on conference-rival Guilford on Friday. The Quakers won the NAIA national championship two years ago and finished second in it last year. They are undefeated in conference play this season.

RECENT SPRING RALLY marked the beginning of spring for HPC students.

Terrorists bombard HPC and demolish library construction

BY SENSATIONAL SEEKING LEW
Terrorists driving bulldozers and armed with wrecking balls, sledge hammers and axes bombarded the High Point College campus early today and destroyed the construction of the new library.

The terrorists, calling themselves the National Bulldozers Association, tore through a construction fence and immediately began demolishing the structure, which was more than 75 percent complete.

Residents in Women's dorm (a building located next to the construction site) said they were awakened at 6 a.m. by voices screaming "Death to higher education -- ignorance is bliss!"

Ayre Head, a Women's resident, said, "I had just dozed off after a night out at Cheers, and jumped out of bed when I heard a bunch of thunderous motors outside the window. Naturally, I thought the construction crews were getting an early start, but I never dreamed in a million years that it was the demolition crews that were getting the early start."

Women's resident advisor Sherza Boss reportedly called the High Point Police Department, but police arrived too late to thwart the terrorist's destruction.

Police Captain Furmen Ruff said officers arrested three men and an elderly woman in connection with the incident soon after the officers arrived on the scene. The three suspects are identified as Ignoe Rance, 27, U. Sless, 19, Dee Stroy, 35, and Dinah Myte, 97. All the suspects live in Mayberry, RFD.

The National Bulldozer Association is a group that reportedly wants to wipe out higher education in the United States. The group motto stresses that "ignorance is bliss, stupidity is divinity."

High Point College President Dr. Charlie Lucky labeled the destruction as an "abomination to education. As for the library, we can rebuild it, we can make it better -- bigger, stronger, more scholarly than ever before. We will call it the $6 million library," said Lucky.

The Library Building Committee plans to raise the funds necessary to rebuild the damaged library. HPC Bored member Fuller Mony said the library committee will initiate the fund-raising project by holding a car wash in the parking lot of Tom's Brass Rail on Greensboro Rd. "Sure do wish we'd taken out terrorist insurance on the new book palace -- ain't in much of a mood to get out and wash cars til 1999," Mony said.

The students in favor of alcohol on campus will be excited to hear this piece of late breaking news: a bar on campus is opening tonight! The Empty Space Theatre will tonight reopen as the Empty Space Lounge.

To raise money for future operation, admission will be charged in the form of membership at $2.00 per person. Students must show their student ID cards at the door. The opening is sponsored by the SGA.

This, however, is the experimental project of the SGA under the supervision of the recently appointed Faculty Advisory Committee on Alcohol (FACA). In a private meeting with SGA officers earlier this week, the project was temporarily approved pending student and administration action.

The comments of the SGA President was, "If students really care about the success of the drinking on campus ruling, then they must abide by the rulings of the college." The Board felt that this project may bring about "better safety precautions" in the face of the recent publicity of drinking and driving laws in North Carolina.

So everyone comes out tonight and support the SGA. Non-alcoholic beverages will be served as well. Tonight should prove to be a good night to open such a bar. being April Fools Day and all. Happy Fools Day.

Football program returns to HPC in '85

BY BEAU THOMAS
Special to the HI-PO
The High Point College Board of Trustees and Athletic Department met Monday afternoon in a grueling, five hour session behind closed doors. The result set the pace for some of the most surprising news in the college's illustrious history.

In the fall of 1985 football will return to the sports program at High Point College. This comes after a twenty five year absence of the fall classic on the High Point gridiron.

The return of football is believed to be a catalyst in boosting the enrollment which has declined drastically in recent years, and most importantly, to give High Point College a firm leg to stand on as far as athletic reputation is concerned.

Opening day will not be until August 28, 1985. This will provide ample time for the erection of the $1.76 million dollar Pantherdome, which will be completed in the early spring of 1985.

The dome will display a two million dollar video screen scoreboard, astro-turf playing surface, and accommodations for fifty thousand fans. The Pantherdome will not only be used for athletic events. The dome will be acoustically perfect for concerts and theatre productions. This is a big plus for High Point, which previously had sub-par facilities for major entertainment events. In the past the college lost many reputable accounts due to the poor accommodations for concerts and ridiculously stringent rules on obtaining the gymnasium for anything other than basketball.

A partial list of coaches was announced at the press conference and included: Mike Pittman, former fullback at Bowling Green University who set major NCAA rushing records in the early seventies, will step down from his position as Director of Student Life post to become head coach of the Fighting Panthers. "It is a great honor for me to receive this position," said Pittman, who was signed only a one year contract. Sources indicate that Pittman will resign from the team after only a year so that he can pursue his lifetime desire.

With one fall full year at High Point behind me, that should give me the experience I need to fulfill my lifelong dream of coaching a professional football team whose name doesn't end with the letter "s." I've already been offered a job from the Chicago Blitz of the U.S.F.I. and boy am I, excited."

Pittman then tried on the official jersey of the soon-to-be Panthers, raised his right fist in the air, and said, "Look out George Allen and go team." Reporters then looked at each other in confusion, wondering exactly what he meant by that last statement.

Hey league wide receiver James Stitt was named the offensive coordinator. Stitt is most remembered for catching twenty-two passes in one game in 1968 as Boston University defeated Finster College, 107-6. The position of offensive co-ordinator is most appropriate for Stitt, whose offensive and abusive tongue garnered him the nickname "Trashmouth" in the 1969 playoffs at Purdue.

The Reverend Vance "Mad Dog" Davis, who was an All-American tackle at Yale in the late sixties, was named defensive coordinator. Davis was offered one of the most lucrative contracts by the Green Bay Packers in 1970 but elected to enter the ministry because of the guilt suffered when he single handedly was responsible for the deaths of six NCAA quarterbacks (including his own) during the latter part of the 1969 series. Hence the name "Mad Dog."

The remaining coaches include James "Fourth down and short yardage" Elson, Faiz R. Faizi, Jumpin' John Ward, Frank Whately, and former High Point College football coach Dr. Louis B. Pope.

When Coach Pittman was questioned about the caliber of his new coaching he responded by raising his right fist in the air and saying, "Look out George Allen and go team."

The community was also very happy upon hearing the news. One parade-goer who we'll call Hank stated, "It's good for the college and it's good for the students' morale. I mean what's a college without booze or football?"

Tryouts begin in the spring of 1985 for the Panthers under Coach Pittman who was continuously seen throughout the parade raising his right fist and saying, "Look out George Allen and go team."
The Golden Age

We welcome the administration's recent announcement that the entire college will be computerized by next semester. When we return to school next August, say officials, we will find Apple II computers in the residence halls, classrooms, faculty offices, gymnasium, tennis courts, and baseball field. Also, the latest in artificial intelligence, a SuperSlash ZZX-4000, is to be installed in a central location to govern the VDT's and a corps of robots. Robots? Yes, when we return next fall, there will robots washing the dishes, mopping the floors, and distributing standardized modules in the Writing Center, among other things. All we'll have to do is watch.

In answer to charges that human beings will be replaced by machines, Systems Analyst Ahab Borgia said, "No, I prefer to think that we will gain efficiency." We must applaud such forthrightness. It's time HPC faced facts. Certain adjustments must be made in response to decreasing enrollment and a continuing poor economy. After all, why should students have to get up at an ungodly hour, put on makeup, get dressed, and get their books together to get to an 8 o'clock class when they could roll over, hit the "power" button on their VDT's and get all the information they need? A computer can read a textbook to students just as well as a human being can.

And the excitement is just beginning. According to Borgia, within a decade HPC will be admitting home robots themselves. Our money problems will be over!

Won't it be simply hypnotizing to watch a robot stand at mid-court and hit every single shot?

Plans underway for Last Class Bash

BY KAREN D. HERNANDEZ
Staff Writer

It’s spring time!!! We only have two more weeks of school left and that great celebration called “Last Class Bash” is on a roll. Jeanine Halverson, an intern working in student activities, has organized a series of activities which will go on throughout the week of April 25-29. She said, “nothing is definite yet but we want to list the possible activities and times so that everyone gets psyched to have a good time.”

Possible activities include:

Monday - The group “Camouflage” will be doing mime through the day all over campus.
Tuesday - Who knows?
Wednesday - Campus Skate in the afternoon and a Laser Show at night.
Thursday - A person will be around the student center drawing caricatures for FREE!
Friday - The Jammer Frisbee Team will be holding exhibitions through the day. Regional bands will be playing through the afternoon. A lady will be taking old time pictures for $5.00, and a “Picnic” is going to be held at dinner time.

Halverson also said if any sorority or fraternity was interested in selling munchies around the campus during this week, they should contact her by Wednesday, Apr. 20.

Back on the air at 10 watts

WWIH’s license revoked due to false validity

BY KAREN HERNANDEZ
Staff Writer

On March 14 the Student Government Association held a special meeting due to the false validity of WWHI’s license to operate at 100 watts on the frequency of 91.5mhz. During this meeting, Pat Connelly, ex-station manager explained, WWIH, like any other station, has a lawyer who deals with the paper work and government agencies in order to obtain an operating license. The lawyer in charge for WWHI’s business informed the station that he had received a letter from the FCC commissioning the college to reapply for a license to operate on 100 watts, meaning they had to go back into operating on 10 watts in the frequency of 90.3mhz. The FCC acknowledges that High Point College acted in good faith, therefore charges will not be brought against the college. Connelly requested the SGA to allocate $2600 to pay for WWIH’s business in order to be able to operate at 100 watts.

The frequency in which the station was transmitting was interfering with WUNC-Chapel Hill.

A suggestion was made that the college reapply for a license and conduct a frequency search within 50 days or else they (WWIH) would be taken off the air.

This left HPC with no license to operate on 100 watts, meaning they had to go back into operating on 10 watts in the frequency of 90.3mhz. The FCC acknowledged that High Point College acted in good faith, therefore charges will not be brought against the college. Connelly requested the SGA to allocate $2600 to pay for WWIH’s business in order for the station to be able to operate at 100 watts.

Charles Hartsoe became High Point College’s new business manager on March 28. Hartsoe filled the position left vacant by Kenneth Bulla.

Although new to HPC, Hartsoe is not new to the area. He has lived in High Point 22 years, employed as a vice-president and treasurer for Adams-Millis Corporation. Before moving to High Point, Hartsoe worked as a Certified Public Accountant in Winston-Salem.

“I am impressed with the business office here,” Hartsoe said. “It is very well run and I am fortunate to come to such a department.”

Originally from Maryland, Hartsoe graduated from the University of Maryland with a degree in Business Administration and Accounting.
Dear Editor:

I was deeply hurt and upset over the omission of my name from the article "Language students serve as teachers" (March 30, 1983). As a student instructor of the Spanish language for two years and as a Spanish major, I felt my name deserved to be mentioned at least once in the article. However, I was not mentioned, nor was I even approached for an interview.

Also in order to clarify one point: your article stated that the instructors were paid "four-to-five hours for attending a workshop." We were paid for only three hours.

Please strive for accuracy in the future.

Sincerely,

M. Elizabeth Myers

Editor's Note: Miss Myers' name was inadvertently omitted from the list of student instructors in the March 30, 1983 issue. The HI-PO strives for accuracy in its reporting, and therefore regrets any problems that may have been caused by the omission of Miss Myers' name.

Locked out

To the editor:

It seems rather disappointing to me that several times this semester I have prepared myself to go and study in the Campus Center and have found it to be closed or just simply not opened on time. I find this matter extremely irritating, since the dorm is often not a very quiet place to study in. Is this college student-oriented? Or am I a student who has simply failed to keep up with the Campus Center hours?

Doubtfully,

Marisa Firpi

Pi Kappa Alpha to celebrate gala 30th anniversary

BY BOB ROSSIE
Staff Writer

The Delta Omega chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha has planned a five-day celebration later this month in commemoration of their 30th anniversary at High Point College.

Since early April 1982, the Pika 30th anniversary committee began planning and preparing for what is about to be the fraternities most memorable and elaborate occasion thus far.

The committee members include Pete Gibson, Brent Stanley, Bill Johnson, Jeff Norris, Art Prillaman, Jeff Henry, and Dave Tomlinson.

About forty Pika alumni are expected to attend the celebration.

The scheduled activities kick-off on Wednesday, April 20 with a reception for local alumni, followed by a combined brothers meeting. Dr. L.B. Pope, Captain Jenney, Dr. Carl Wheelless and Dr. Everett Smith are special guests for the reception.

Thursday, April 21, there will be a "Night At The Hall", an High Point College student is invited to attend.

Friday night April 22 features a "Hawaiian Night Party" at the downtown Holiday Inn, High Point.

Saturday afternoon April 23 has an alumni luncheon scheduled, followed by a golf tournament at Oak Hollow. Saturday night will be the Pika 30th Anniversary Dinner and Dreamgirl Celebration at Market Square, High Point. The band "Square Biz" will provide music and at midnight the Pika's first president at High Point College Bill Wright, will lead a toast to commemorate the grand occasion.

Pi Kappa Alpha was the first national fraternity at High Point College. Once called Delta Beta Alpha, they received their national charter as Pi Kappa Alpha on March 7, 1953. The scenery was a little different back then with the absence of the McPherson Campus Center, Hayworth Hall, Belk and Mills Dormitories and the Alumni Gymnasium. Meals were served in the basement of Robert Hall. The Pikes lived in the G section of McCulloch Dorm and didn't have a lounge until they were given the old Teke lounge some years later. Charles E. Hayworth, another special guest for 30th anniversary, was a major contributor in the development of the present day Pika lounge in Mills Hall.

In the past 30 years, 365 brothers have taken the oath into Pi Kappa Alpha at High Point College and today as the largest fraternity on campus, they continue to serve High Point College and its community in the fine tradition of its predecessors.

Some special highlights of the 1983 chapter include a $500 contribution to Big Brothers-Big Sisters of High Point raised by selling raffles and the successful 3rd annual Pika Spring Ralley held on campus last month for High Point College's sororities.

KD holds rock-a-thon

By TABBIE NANCE

Was it a convention of grandmothers or a league of babysitters? No. It was the KD sorority who were rocking for the American Heart Association in front of the Campus Center April 9 to 10.

While sitting in rocking chairs donated by Chatham County residents, the KDs rocked from noon Saturday to noon Sunday. Through pledges and donations, the KDs raised over $700, surpassing their $500 goal. All the money will be contributed to the American Heart Association.

Two years ago this service project won the High Point College KDs the Watson Foundation National KD Philanthropy Award.

While eating food donated by various campus restaurants, the KDs rocked and talked, rocked and listened to the radio, and rocked and rocked and rocked.

In the past 30 years, 365 brothers have taken the oath into Pi Kappa Alpha at High Point College and today as the largest fraternity on campus, they continue to serve High Point College and its community in the fine tradition of its predecessors.

Student Academy of Science meets

The North Carolina Student Academy of Science in District IV recently had its tenth annual spring meeting on the High Point College campus. The day-long meeting, which was attended by 150 junior high and senior high school students and their teachers, was held in the Haworth Hall of Science. Seventy science research papers were presented by the students in various areas, including biology, earth science, physical science, psychology, and technology and engineering. Members of the High Point College faculty, student science majors, and local high school science teachers served as judges for the paper sessions. In addition to the paper sessions a business meeting was held with election of officers and presentation of awards. The group also toured the science facilities of Haworth Hall.

Dr. John Ward, Professor of Biology, co-ordinated the meeting. Dr. Ward, who is also a co-director of the N.C. Student Academy of Science, expressed his appreciation to the members of the High Point College community, both faculty and students, who contributed to the success of the meeting.

Alpha Phi Omega to celebrate 25th anniversary

Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity will be celebrating its 25th Anniversary this weekend. APO brothers along with approximately fifth alumni will be engaging in an array of activities. Friday will be a day of registration with a wine & cheese that night at Kerner's Folly. Saturday afternoon, brothers and alumni will support the Student YMCA by leading in and helping out with the Organization's New Games Festival. A formal banquet and dance will be held Saturday night at Bryan Park in Greensboro. Sunday afternoon, the APO's will wind up their big weekend with a picnic. Brothers and Alumni will paint the rock as a sign of twenty-five years of service to school and community.
Faculty veterans reflect on tenure at HPC

BY KARLA GREEN
Features Editor

Raiford Porter has been teaching at High Point College since before most of us were born. When he came to HPC in 1956, he started what we now know as the Art Department. When he arrived he had been in teaching for 27 years. “There was a much more formal environment in those days,” says Porter. He talked of days when every party had to have a chaperone. “The group actually had to have sheets signed by the chaperones saying where the party was held and that it had been properly supervised.” He laughingly added that he was the “most party-going” of the faculty because at that time he was the youngest faculty member.

He recalls socials and faculty/student receptions that were “black tie”. He recalls enjoying those somewhat "stuffy" receptions when the faculty would have to form a reception line and introduce the professor to their right. He said, “I used to make up fake names for the people who followed me to entertain the poor students.”

Among his outside interests is his love for sailing. “My favorite pasttime is hopping on my boat, "Lakshmi" and sailing up and down the coastline.” During summers he has travelled to Charleston and up to the Chesapeake Bay area.

The next senior faculty member joined Porter at HPC in 1958. James Nelson came to the business department as an associate professor and the next year was named Dean of Students. According to Nelson, he spent the next three years being "3/4 teacher" with his added duties as dean.

Nelson is quite familiar with student life at High Point College, not only because he was dean of students, but because he was a HPC student himself. He is a member of the class of '48. What changes did he notice during his 10 years away from the college? “I came back to HPC as a teacher and there had been a major physical change.” While he was away, the buildings of Wesley, North, Cooke, the gym and the Fine Arts buildings were completed.

Another major change was the accreditation of the college which came after Nelson graduated from HPC.

He agrees with Mr. Porter that the dances of that day were “rigidly chaperoned” and much more formal. He recalls that the school had a football team in those days which promoted school spirit. There were also more student academic functions outside the classroom such as poetry readings sponsored by the sororities on campus.

Mr. Nelson enjoys going to concerts in his spare time. His wife, also a graduate of HPC and a music major, shares his love for music. “We like to go to New York to the theatre and the opera.” They also attend musical concerts at UNCG and travel abroad yearly. In 1962, three new members joined the faculty. Two of those two were former High Point College students. Shirley Rawley and Robert Davidson talked about their years here.

“Coach Davidson” as we know him, has been at HPC as a member of the faculty for 21 years. When he was at HPC, he played baseball and basketball, the latter of which he was team captain for two years. He also ran track as a student. He was a member of the NDM club, which he says was somewhat of an athletic fraternity here, according to Davidson. He agrees with Nelson that the buildings improvements was one of the major changes he saw upon returning to HPC. Davidson was a member of the graduating class of 1955.

He spends his time outside of college with part-time officiating, which he says “takes up most of his spare time.” Other than that, he says he spends most of his time “on the golf course.”

Shirley Rawley is now head of the English department. She came in 1962 as a replacement English teacher after one of the staff left suddenly. She was at that time the youngest member of the faculty because at that time she was the youngest faculty member.

Rawley spends her time reading, which is her first love. She also writes poetry and enjoys cooking. She says that in her spare time she likes to “spend time with her kids.” She has two children, aged 21 and 18.

Dr. David Cole was the third of the 1962 additions to the faculty. He has served as history professor and as dean of the college during his years here. During the absence of a college president, he served as acting President of the college.

These five people make up the faculty’s most senior members. Most of them were HPC graduates and returned here to teach. They all agreed that they have seen a lot of students “come and go over the years” but generally find that students continue to be “much the same.”

Once again High Point College students, faculty and staff workers had the chance to display their talents. The event, The 8th Annual Bong Show sponsored by Theta Chi Fraternity.

On April 7, students gathered in HPC's Memorial Auditorium to view the 14 various acts vying for first place. The acts varied from singing, dancing, balancing objects to a Mae West imitation which was performed by Mary Hayworth, the only non-student act.

Judges for the event included Ms. Shirley Rawley, Dr. Marion Hodge and a very unique "two-headed" judge named B.O. Barfusau which was comprised of Kenneth Douglas and Michael Duffy. The scoring compiled of a total of 30 possible points (10 from each judge). The winning first place act with a perfect score was the team of Deborah Shaver and Pam Sanchez. Miss Shaver played the piano and sang "The Days We Will Remember," while Miss Sanchez accompanied her on the flute. Second place was taken by singer Michael Holmes who was comprised of "Wandering Strangers" and "Bridge Over Troubled Water." By selecting the popular theme from the movie "Tootsie", "It Might Be You," Dana Holmes claimed third place.

Student comes to HPC to work as intern

BY TANA PARKER
Staff Writer

Internships and student teaching are a part of some High Point College students education. In this particular situation, instead of the student going to a certain establishment for experience, a student has come to HPC to work as an intern. That student is Miss Jeanine Halverson.

Miss Halverson is working in student activities under the supervision of Mr. Mike Pittman of Student Life. Halverson's internship is part of her studies in receiving her master's degree in Counseling, Guidance and Personnel Services.

After graduating from Western College, LaMars Iowa, with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology and a minor in English, Miss Halverson became an admission counselor at the college for the next three years. Miss Halverson then began her master's work at Mankato State University, Minnesota and later transferred to the University of South Dakota.

Miss Halverson explained that student activities are "a necessary part of a student's college experience because it provides a variety for the students." Arriving at HPC Mar. 9, Miss Halverson has been busy compiling a master calendar of events for the student handbook, making plans for the soon-to-come Last Class Bash, reorganizing the equipment owned by the Student Union (i.e., tents, camping equipment, sound system), and booking various speakers and acts. Before leaving in May, Miss Halverson said she would like to try and make the campus center more comfortable for students and hopefully improve the game room by getting a few more video games.

Finding the job very challenging, Miss Halverson added that students need to have a professional to help and work with them. "There is too much pressure put on students. They are here for an education and they need someone to help them outside of their class." Miss Halverson concluded that she has found that the students are very cooperative and interested in the activities program.

Campus Digest News Service

When rating the best games in any sport over any time period, it is important to remember that timing has a great deal of effect.

In attempting to rank the greatest individual games of the past decade, the emphasis is naturally on games which had a great impact on the game in the game itself, as well as the true value of the individual game itself. Great teams may play in December or January, but great games are normally played in February or March. The dozen games listed as the best of the past decade are numbered only in chronological order. It was enough of a task to select the 12 without attempting to rank them in order of importance, timeliness or entertainment value.

(1) U.C.L.A. 87, Memphis State 66 (March 26, 1973). In the greatest individual performance of the decade, U.C.L.A.'s Bill Walton hit 21 of 22 field goal attempts as the Bruins won their seventh successive NCAA title. Memphis State had advanced to the finals with a win over Providence (with Marvin Barnes and Ernie DiGregorio), but the Tigers were no match for the Bruins and Walton. Memphis State, led by Larry Finch and Larry Kenon, stayed even with U.C.L.A. in the first half, but folded after intermission.

(2) Notre Dame 71, Elgin 60 (Jan. 19, 1974). The win by the Irish over a rated U.C.L.A.'s 88-game winning streak, the longest in college history. Guard Dwighterry netted a jumper with 39 seconds left to culminate a rally in which Notre Dame outscored U.C.L.A. 11-0 in the last three minutes. Gary Brokaut and John Shumate combined for 49 Irish points and Walton scored 24 for the Bruins.

(3) North Carolina State 103, Maryland 100 (March 9, 1974). In the greatest of the ACC tournament title games, the NC State team survived an overtime to defeat Maryland. Wolfpack center Dan Burleson (7'4") played the greatest game of his career, hitting 18 of 25 shots on the way to a 39-point night and David Thompson added 29. Top-ranked NC State had to win this game to make the NCAA journey field.

(4) North Carolina State 80, U.C.L.A. 77 (March 23, 1974). In an NCAA semi-final, the ACC champs ended U.C.L.A.'s domination of the NCAA with a thrilling double-overtime win. The Wolfpack trailed by 11 late in regulation time, and by seven midway through the first overtime. But the pack refused to surrender as skywalking All-American David Thompson scored 26 and Burleson 20, while Walton netted 29 and collected 18 misfires for U.C.L.A. The win marked "a change in the order" of NCAA basketball, with U.C.L.A. finally losing and a renewed interest in eastern basketball (especially the Atlantic Coast Conference).

(5) U.C.L.A. 92, Kentucky 85 (March 31, 1975). The last win of Coach John Wooden's great career saw his Bruins win the NCAA title for a rugged Kentucky team. Rick Washington and Dave Meyers combined for 52 points, but UK's Kevin Grevey took game honors with 34. Kentucky used four huge U.C.L.A. mistakes to win a game which would play important roles in the 1978 Kentucky national title.

(6) Indiana 86, Michigan 75 (March 29, 1976). The last of the unbeaten national champs, Bobby Knight's Hoosiers capped a 32-0 season with a win in Philadelphia's Spectrum. Scott May and Kent Benson scored 26 and 25 points, respectively, for Indiana. This was the only time in NCAA history in which two teams from one conference met in the title game. Big 10 prestige understandably soared.

(7) Texas 101, North Carolina State 95 (March 21, 1978).\n
(8) Kentucky 94, Duke 88 (March 29, 1980).\n
(9) Michigan State 75, Indiana State 64 (March 26, 1979).\n
Two of the most charismatic stars of college basketball's recent past met when Larry Bird of ISU played against the Spartans' Magic Johnson. The MSU support cast was better and Johnson's team prevailed, ending the Sycamore's perfect season. Johnson scored 24 while the sub-par shooting Bird finished with 19.

(10) Notre Dame 57, Virginia 56 (Feb. 22, 1981). Played in Chicago's Rosemont Horizon, the Irish upset the undefeated (23-0) Cavaliers. The winning basket was scored on a desperation shot by Orlando Woolridge, as the Irish upset Virginia's best team. Kelly Tripucka led all scorers with 15 points.

(11) North Carolina 47, Virginia 45 (March 8, 1982). While probably not a great game, this contest caused more rule changes than is usually seen in a quarter-century. Carolina held the ball in the second half, and the Tar Heels won this ACC title game. James Worthy scored 18 for the Tar Heels. This game affected college basketball as no other single game ever has.

(12) North Carolina 63, Georgetown 62 (March 29, 1983). UNC, the best program in the country since U.C.L.A. stopped winning titles, won a first NCAA title for Coach Dean Smith. This game was unique as it matched the two teams playing the best basketball in the nation at the proper time. It took a place the size of the Superdome to handle a super-game won by Michael Jordan's jumpshot with 17 seconds remaining. Worthy scored 25 for Carolina while the Hoyas were led by 23 points from Patrick Ewing.

Hoorable mention: DePaul 95, U.C.L.A. 91 (1979 West regional final).

Notre Dame 76, DePaul 74 (1980)

U.C.L.A. 75, Louisville 74 (1979 nat'l semi-final)

Marquette 51, NC-Charlotte 49 (1977 nat'l semi-final)

Duke 73, Maryland 72 (1980 ACC final).

has struck out, that he is only a ballplayer), some nice touches of humor, a few moments of doubt, and so on. But for 99 percent of the film, Gandhi is presented as more than a remarkable man, but a man just the same.

Gandhi has abundant virtues, of course. Ben Kingsley is thoroughly convincing. The Indian actors, members are equally credible and skilled. Some of the most distinguished British actors (including John Gielgud, John Mills and Trevor Howard) make cameo appearances and give fine performances. Ian Charleson, who was outstanding in Chariots of Fire, gives another excellent performance and is one of the few western characters to appear for any substantial time. Martin Sheen, and regretfully, Candice Bergen, both make cameo appearances as American journalists. Bergen, never a formidable actress, provides Gandhi with is only whiff of in-authenticity.

The rest of the film's creative qualities, especially the photography, are first-rate. This film is well crafted, not inspired. Attenborough has created an homage to Gandhi the figurehead, not a film about a man, a remarkable man, but a man just the same.
Last Class Bash 1983 underway

Last Class Bash '83, which has been an investment made by the Student Union within the range of 10-11,000 dollars has already given birth in HPC.

Mr. Mike Pettman, director of Student Life, said this whole week has been put together by students and for the students. It's a great out of it. If there is good participation, it will be a strong indication that there is a need for this type of planning and programming at the college. Also remember the According to Jeannie Halverson, an intern in the Student Life office and who has helped organize this week, said she is expecting Friday to be the highest turnout. She also added that T-shirts, which were designed by Art Prillaman, will be given away throughout the week's events. Those will be free popcorn during the afternoon on Friday and just in case it rains the activities such as the mime grove, caricature drawing, the frisbee team and the old alcohol policy (old one is still in effect.)

College Bowl season ended

The 1982-83 College Bowl season came to a close with a bang on April 6, 1983 with a competition between the year's champs and the faculty. The winners of this year's College Bowl (The Simpletons) consisted of James Parker (captain), David Matzko, Tony Matthews, Lane Sapp, Art Payne, Mark Mashburn, and Bill Bowman.

The first game between The Faculty and The Simpletons was a clear win for The Faculty. Intimidation (several of The Simpletons are in those professional classes) seemed to set the scene with The Simpletons only buzzing in to answer one question.

See College Bowl, pg. 5
Dear Editor,

I am writing as a former student in the Religion and Philosophy Department, a graduate of High Point College, and a member of the staff of the college for the last three years — all of which, I believe, qualify me to speak to a current issue on campus.

I understand that a search committee has been formed to recommend someone from outside the Religion and Philosophy Department as Chairperson of that department. Given the qualifications of the current faculty members of that department, Dr. Earl Crow, Dr. Vance Davis, and Dr. Charles Teague, I cannot see the justification for the committee’s charge.

I think this action is unjust because of what I learned while a student in the Department of Religion and Philosophy. I came to High Point College in the Department provided illustrative circumstances. I began to stand up and look critically at things. I learned that if I am to decide wisely and to act consistently, I need to discover values and the meaning of things. Life forces me to make choices and to act on the basis of principles.

I live by values of life and how can they be attained? Is there really a fundamental distinction between right and wrong, or is it just a matter of one’s own opinions? I do not believe the Department is properly taking the importance of some scale of values. Philosophy asks, or do I philosophy, or do I? When I was in secondary school, I was bent on bending over my desk; when I came to High Point College, I began to stand up and look around. I came to see that one of the functions of a college is to enable us to shed details in favor of principles, not verbal formulations, but principles that thoroughly soaked in, that are mental habits rather than formal statements.

A principle, then, becomes the way a person reacts to the appropriate stimulus in the form of illustrative circumstances. The Department provided an atmosphere in which I learned that knowledge which affects character is knowledge so handled as to transform every phase of immediate experience and to produce a dynamic of active thought, with freshness, can only be generated by adequate freedom. If growth has properly taken place, the principle of progress has come from within: the discipline is needed by ourselves, the discipline is self-discipline, and the frui—

Long accepts position at Bridgewater College

Leaves HPC after three years

BY TANA PARKER
Staff Writer

Students enter and leave High Point College every year, but it is not every year that professors leave. This year one of those professors is Dr. Barbara Long.

After teaching French and Spanish for the past three years at HPC, Dr. Long has accepted the position of acting head of the Foreign Language Department at Bridgewater College in Virginia. Dr. Long said she felt through the hard work of the language department and the high profile that it has received that she was given consideration for the position.

“The government is growing, of course, and we’re really growing. We’ve got a lot of work here. I mean, we’re trying and revitalizing our language program and to get things going. I’ve got a lot of work ahead of me to try and revitalize our language program and to get things going,” said Dr. Long. She explained that Bridgewater College is similar to HPC in that it too has a small enrollment which enables the professors to interact closely with the students and she thinks that is important. “It’s going to be sad to leave all the friends and the fabulous department here (HPC) but it will give me a chance for some professional advancement. I hope to spread the success and techniques from HPC to Bridgewater,” said Dr. Long.

No comment has been made as to who will replace Dr. Long but she stated that the decision is being made very carefully.

Debate team being formed

BY LEWIS WHELESS
Associate Editor

The Sophists were Greek migrant teachers who taught grammar, public speaking and held debates just for the sake of being able to debate. Several students and faculty members on the High Point College campus think the school needs to pursue the Sophist’s art by forming a debate team.

Dr. Earl Crow, an HPC biology major, has joined forces to try to assemble such a team.

The details of the team’s formation have not yet been worked out. Crow said, “We want to test the interest and get response” to determine if enough people are interested. The team would officially begin in the fall of 1983. The team would be composed of about 10-20 persons, but there does not have to be a set limit. “Officers” of the team would include a moderator and a secretary. It the debates, would increase in formality as we go on,” Crow said.

According to Crow and Smith, team members would debate on issues of current interest, political and social issues and, possibly, moral issues. The debate format would “give the student a chance to debate a faculty member without fear...A by-product of the debates would be a blow against anti-intellectualism” on campus, according to Crow.

The team’s organizers said debating will increase the participants’ speaking and research skills and would give the participants self-confidence in front of a group. The debaters “can learn from each other and learn not to be embarrassed” in presenting arguments for or against a particular subject.

Smith said he is interested in asking Bill Sapp, the President of the Dialectic and Philanthropic Society to talk to the team after it gets underway. Sapp has much experience in the art of debating.

The team would be open to any student or faculty member. Interested persons should contact Dr. Crow in Roberts Hall or send him a note through campus mail for more information.

Campus safety office car/washing materials

There is now available in the Campus Safety office a 75 ft. hose, buckets, brushes, (and water) for students to wash their cars, and 2) wash other people’s cars.

There are designated spots on campus to wash a vehicle. They are: 1) between McCulloch Hall and the auditorium, 2) In the maintenance parking lot (on weekends only), and 3) behind Haworth Hall.

Selected photographs by students in the two sections of English 360. Photographic Communications, are on display in the lobby of Roberts Hall. The photographs use a variety of special effects, including vignetting, sabattiering, diffusion, double exposure, and color tinting. Special recognition goes to Erika Aillon and to Jeff Collins for the best 8x10 prints and to Renee Marsh for the best 8x10 hand tinted black and white photograph. All black and white prints were shot with Tri-X B&W, ASA 400 film and printed on Kodabromide FH paper. Color prints were shot with Kodacolor II, ASA 100 film.

The prints will be on display in Roberts Hall until the first Monday of exam week.

MARISA FIRPI is presently exhibiting her artwork at the lobby of the Campus Center.

Two High Point College students are presently displaying artwork in the lobby of the Campus Center. The students are Matt Rogers and Marisa Firpi.

Rogers, a senior Art Education major, is displaying his pottery, drawings, woodcuts, silkscreens, sculptures, and paintings. He has compiled several constructions, the latest one being a robot made of wood and a moving head made of pottery. He also has a paper mill project, a paper mill made from a toilet paper roll and a potato. Rogers says, "I enjoy working with old things."

Firpi, a senior studio art major from Puerto Rico, is displaying a series of woodcuts and paintings. She is currently working on a piece of jewelry, a ring, and a necklace. She plans to pursue a B.F.A. in graphics and a minor in ceramics.

Senior party planned

Combining their time, money, and efforts, the Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior classes are hosting a farewell party for the Seniors. The event will be held Thursday, April 28, 1983 at the High Point Armory. The party is set to start at 8:00 p.m. and run until 1:00 a.m. Music will be provided by the Lambda Chi Alpha sound system. Snacks will be served, but you must bring your own beverage (beer and wine only). Directions to the Armory are available in the cafeteria and around campus. Being part of the Last Class Bash Week, the event is free to the whole student body and faculty. So please come out and help us celebrate with our graduating seniors. Remember to dress nicely.

Emotional strain characterizes role

BY CRYSTAL L. HEDGECOCK
Editor-in-Chief

Jesus: Believed by many to be the greatest man who ever lived, the relationship between the actor and the character he portrays is a demanding one.

Phil Valentino recently undertook that task when he portrayed Jesus Christ in High Point College's production of "Godspell."

"An actor has to be able to go from being himself to being that person," Valente said as he explained his preparation for the role.

"I was having a very hard time being Jesus Christ," he said. "The lines could be read 500 different ways. At first, I read the lines damming. The cast told me to be nicer; to be warm, smiling."

Valente said being nicer helped him do the part better, because he never could imagine Jesus actually being mean.

"It (the play) wouldn't work with Jesus being mean. I wanted Jesus to lead them, not order them," Valente said.

The blonde, college freshman said he wanted the part of Jesus when he auditioned for "Godspell," but he didn't know if he would get it. He also knew little about the play, when he decided to audition.

"I knew it was religious-based, but that was all. Very few of the cast knew anything about the previous two scenes; was one surprise right after another."

A celebration of all that happened to Jesus" is how Valente views "Godspell." The audience, he said, should feel all the pain that Jesus felt and feel the joy, because He rose.

Valente has a great respect for Jesus." Valente said, "and I wanted it to come through."

However, Valente said, he had to first learn a lot about himself before he could successfully do the part.

"At first," he said, "I was acting like a pompous ass. Then I had to open myself up to the audiences, and that is very humbling experience."

Valente credits the other cast members with helping him the most.

"At first," he said, "I was acting like a pompous ass. Then I had to open myself up to the audience, and that is very humbling experience."

Valente credits the other cast members with helping him the most.

"I felt a real magic between the people in the cast. They were so nice."

Valente said the cast members would suggest ways to do the different scenes he had. They were waiting to hear it, too. By rights, I should not have been so nervous, but he had to be.

"When I came out (on stage) and started singing, everything was great," Valente said with a smile. "My voice was great. Our eyes lit up and I knew something special was going on. By rights, I should not have been so nervous, but he had to be."

"There was magic there that night. The crucifixion was the most draining it had been. When it was over, I thought 'Wow—do I know what I've just done? I just wanted to be gone again."

The scene following the Last Supper was the hardest to do, Valente said. In the scene, Jesus went from one disciple to the next, telling them goodbye for the final time before His crucification.

For the scene, Valente had to emotionally upset for it to work.

"I tried to have mental pictures to get in the mood, but they didn't work," he said. "I thought about breaking up with my ex-girlfriend, but nothing was going to work for me unless I was actually going to say goodbye to these people."

"There were real tears there. The last night (of the show), I had to stop for a second and I took 15 deep breaths. From that point on was the hardest part of the play."

The scene following the Last Supper is Jesus on the cross.

"I did it intensely," Valente said of the scene on the cross. On the cross, you have to remember why He was there, what He had gone through.

"I was so emotionally drained after that scene," he said.

After the cross scene, Valente had to leave the stage and go to the front of the auditorium to prepare for his re-entrance as the risen Jesus.

"I had to go outside and run to the front," Valente said. "I could have walked, I had a few more minutes. But I didn't have that stupid little run, I would have said it was a fruitcake."

The run, Valente said, helped him vent the emotional pressure that had built up during the crucifixion.

The production on Good Friday was the most successful and the most draining, Valente said.

That Friday Valente didn't have a voice. His parents were in town from Florida and he said he visited them at the hotel, hoping to get some tender, loving care from his mother.

His voice got gradually better, but he knew that after the first song his voice would be gone again. The other cast members knew about Valente's voice, so they were waiting to hear it too.

"When I came out (on stage) and started singing, everything was great," Valente said with a smile. "My voice was great. Our eyes lit up and I knew something special was going on. By rights, I should not have been so nervous, but he had to be."

"There was magic there that night. The crucifixion was the most draining it had been. When it was over, I thought 'Wow—do I know what I've just done? I just wanted to be gone again."

A warm glow surrounded Valente as he talked about the "magic." He claims the play has changed him and that he feels "nicer."

"I haven't come down yet. I still have a high from it," he said.

Biology prof helping to prevent moldy clothing

Which chemical works best to keep our cotton or cotton/polyester clothing from mildewing? Dr. John Ward, Professor of Biology, spends a considerable amount of his time trying to answer this question.

For over 25 years textile mills have used a common fungicide and a weed killer called ephenoxyphenol to do the job; however, with the advent of strict Environmental Protection Agency regulations, it has been necessary to find substitutes.

Dr. Ward has found that the molds that most commonly infect cotton or cotton containing cloth in the local area are Aspergillus niger, Chaetomium globosum and a species of Penicillium. Using these molds as test organisms, he has compiled several conventional techniques to determine the effects of 25 different chemicals in controlling mildew. This control is especially important to the textile industry while yarn or cloth is in storage.

As a result of his work, several chemicals have been added to the list of effective fungicides in the textile industry. Among these chemicals are dichlorophene and dimethoxane.

Ward recently presented some of his findings to the North Carolina Academy of Science at its annual meeting at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Ward said he is often asked when he has time to work on research activities. The answer, he said, is "in the little spare time I have available—weekends, evenings, Friday afternoons. It (conducting research) is fun, interesting and stimulating."

The instructor said he also asked his opinion concerning research in a small liberal arts college. "I feel that a limited amount of research by a faculty member is desirable. It needs to keep me abreast of developments in my field, and it stimulates my enthusiasm for the subject and helps me to generate student interest as students observe me genuinely involved in my subject area. However, I must be careful to conduct research at the expense of my teaching."

Ward said he feels a certain amount of research is necessary for students. "Here at High Point our majors in the sciences have a requirement which provides a means of adapting learning to their own needs, interests and capacities as they become involved in the scientific process."
Language department to attend conference

BY KARLA GREEN
Features Editor

The Foreign Language Department of High Point College will be well represented again this year at the Northeastern Conference on Teaching of Foreign Language. In attendance will be Dr. Carole Head, Dr. John Gabriele, Dr. Frances Hoch, and Dr. Barbara Long. Together they will present a workshop called "Foreign Languages and the Liberal Arts College: The New Integration."

In this workshop the members of the department will demonstrate means by which the foreign language department can contribute in these four areas: Literature and Civilization; Oral Communications Skills; Written Communications Skills; and International Business Program.

According to Dr. Carole Head, who helped in organizing the workshop, "We will show how the foreign language program is an integral and intergal ingredient in the liberal arts curriculum."

The goals cited for the workshops include: to recognize the means by which a foreign language department can become revitalized and exercise an important role in the general college curriculum. To learn specific techniques and examine course plans which link foreign languages to various aspects of the curricular, and finally, to discover the ideas and skills taught in literature, culture, conversation, composition, and business and must not be isolated in the language classroom but rather form an integral part of the liberal arts instruction.

Dr. Gabriele will speak in the first part of the workshop on Literature and Civilization. He will relate Humanities to the core of liberal arts curriculum whereby students can develop an awareness of the foreign culture and at the same time gain an increased understanding of their own culture, by maturing thought processes and examining values.

Dr. Head will take the topic of Oral communications skills and discuss a series of games and other activities that create a participatory classroom where the student is encouraged to express himself fully and exercise his imagination.

Dr. Long will discuss the written communications skills taught in Part Three of the workshop. She will stress how the student in foreign language is taught to write freely as in an English composition class, using correct grammar and syntax as tools rather than goals.

Dr. Hoch will discuss the International Business Program. Its curriculum combines a business major, a core of foreign language courses and courses in supporting areas.

The entire workshop taught by the instructors from HPC will last 80 minutes, with each presentation of 20 minutes. This is the 30th annual conference its type. It will be held the weekend of April 25-May 1 in Baltimore, Maryland. The conference will bring 24000 educators together to interact and to observe the state-of-the-art in foreign language and international studies education.

Kier says

"consider me"

BY CRISTALL L. HEDGECOCK
Editor-in-Chief

CONSIDER ME - the title of a recently-released album and the premise the artist who recorded it. Kier, a solo act from Greensboro, recently released his first album. He has played on college campuses all over the North and South during the past and played at High Point College several times, the most recent being the 1982 Last Class Bash.

The album offers thought-provoking, retrospective lyrics about a life that appear to be filled with heartaches and disappointments. Although the lyrics aren't particularly upbeat, the album isn't depressing. Instead, the album is soothing and provides a calming effect.

The music is heavily guitar-influenced, with nearly every song having a guitar solo. The music ranges from a slow rock tempo to an upbeat tempo that reminded me of Bruce Springsteen.

The title song is particularly retrospective with several references that obviously didn't mean to be understood by the average listener. A reference to Hamburg. Germany is left unexplained, but I didn't worry about it enough to ruin the rest of the song. The piano solo is robust and melodic. The album is strong.

Kier creatively uses a few instruments on the album that carry over from complete string quartet used on "My Final Invitation." "Convenient Memory" is played solely by the acoustic guitar, and the smoothness of this song provides a pleasant transition between songs.

The entire album is really a look back at the artist's life. The songs on the album refer to Kier's brief, but apparently impressive, stay at a college in Boston. The first song on the album, "Secondary Plan," refers to his elementary years in school. The album is a culmination of Kier's life, put to music.

CONSIDER ME is a definite answer for the listener who is ready for some sincere, thought-provoking lyrics with equal parts of sincere and talented music for accompaniment.

High Point takes conference, district titles

Netters gain confidence

BY MARK PHELPS

As the old saying goes, a little confidence can go a long way; and for Coach Kitty Steele and her Lady Panthers, it did just that.

A week before April fifteen's conference tournament, the High Point Netters were faced with the uphill battle of three consecutive matches against Davidson, UNC-Greensboro, and Appalachian, the latter two having defeated the Panthers earlier in the season 7-2.

Now, two weeks later, they can proudly look back at three 5-4 comeback victories, their sixth straight Carolina Conference championship, and their first ever District 26 title.

"Before those three matches, I wasn't pleased with our performance and neither were the girls," said Coach Steele, "but those wins gave us the confidence heading into the tournaments."

The main story in both tournaments was the individual battles between High Point and Guilford. This rivalry has grown during the last two years as High Point won both conference tournaments while Guilford took both district titles.

Going into the conference tournament, Coach Steele admitted to having more than a few worries of the Quakers.

"I thought that for the first time, Guilford might have a slight edge in depth. We matched up evenly in the top three positions, but they have stronger players at the fourth and fifth spots than last year and are very solid at the number six position."

Though these weaknesses showed up, the Panthers were able to overcome them and ousted Guilford 22-21 for their sixth consecutive conference championship. This winning streak is the unofficial record in any sport in Carolina Conference history.

Ana Medina won the number one singles flight, automatically giving her the player of the year award. She defeated Monica Hamm of Pembroke 6-2, 6-3.

Anneli Kiviniemi won the number two flight as she defeated freshman Julie Tupper of Guilford with a pair of 6-3, 6-3 victories.

Guilford won all four remaining singles matches, but the Panthers were able to clinch the tournament with two doubles victories.

In the number one doubles, Medina and Christian 4-10

Kiviniemi defeated Pembroke's Byrd Britt and Hamm 6-2, 6-3. High Point's Helen O'Brien-Theresa Regnante tandem downed Melanie Bischoff and Lili Carpenter 6-3, 7-6 for the title at the second doubles.

In the third flight, Terri Strickland and Lisa Miller of Guilford defeated the Panther's team of Lynn Sharkey and Teresa Sweatman 3-6, 7-6, 7-6.

The District 26 tournament, in which 14 teams participated and an open draw of singles players was used, took place Thursday through Sunday in Greensboro. High Point outscored Guilford 36-33 for the title. Pembroke and Campbell finished a distance behind with 14 and ten points respectively.

The Quakers actually held a three point lead entering Sunday's finals, but needed to win all of their matches that day to win the championship.

"Anne was uptight and felt a great amount of pressure because she knew..."

ANNELI KIVINIELI has been named Conference Player of the Year and is on the All-District tennis team.

Kiviniemi defeated Pembroke's Byrd Britt and Hamm 6-2, 6-3. High Point's Helen O'Brien-Theresa Regnante tandem downed Melanie Bischoff and Lili Carpenter 6-3, 7-6 for the title at the second doubles.

The Quakers actually held a three point lead entering Sunday's finals, but needed to win all of their matches that day to win the championship.

Guilford's Tupper avenged the loss to Kiviniemi in the conference tournament as she defeated her counterpart 6-3, 6-3 for the singles championship. Kiviniemi, a junior from Sweden, may have been affected by the pressure that was put on the match.

"Anne was uptight and felt a great amount of pressure because she knew..."

High Point College's golf team, which had been disappointing in tournaments, unexpectedly found itself in the NAIA championships at Overland Park in Kansas.

The Panthers were in the doubles semi-finals, as Kiviniemi and Medina combined to defeat Guilford's number one doubles team. High Point finished a disappointing third in the tournament, though, with a two-day total of 674.

Ralph Barnes was second in the pole vault at 13'; Glenn Jones was second in the 440 hurdles in 59.52; and the mile relay team of Kent, Sides, Richard, Jones and Jeff Norris also finished second.
