Thanks to our staff and our patrons for such a dynamic year!

There is little reason not to mention the most important event/change that occurred this year. In March of 2020 as classes went virtual, librarians were encouraged to stay home. The library staff rose to the challenge and did wonderful work providing virtual library services to students and faculty who were home. I was very proud of what the staff accomplished. After the semester was finished, the staff completed a white paper on their experience.

As we put together this end of the year report, it was evident that things had changed. Here is a brief outline of those changes.

The gate count at all the library buildings was down as we lost two months of traffic.

Book checkouts increased.

Online access numbers increased in all categories, both searching and in access to full-text content.

The number of instruction sessions and the number of students in the sessions dipped but by very little.

As classes went online, we purchased a great deal of eBook access for our faculty and students, spending $20,000 for digital materials.

Library staff devised new methods to get physical and digital materials into the hands of patrons.

Major Milestones

- The Print Shop is now a part of the Media Department within the library. A FT staff was hired to run this service.
- We shared our chat platform with the HPU admissions department to chat with prospective students. LibraryH3lp is also being used by the success coaches to reach out to students.
- Our check-out service is being used by the Qubein School of Communication and by IT.
- We added a host of new electronic and paper resources – including American Historical Periodicals from the American Antiquarian Society, a nursing eBook collection in advance of the addition of a program in Nursing, the complete Oxford Journal Collection, several new health sciences titles including the Journal of the American Academy of Physician Assistants.
- 2019-20 Faculty Library Satisfaction Survey, was sent to faculty this spring. The wordle on the front cover was created using the narrative comments
- Archives now has its own URL <https://www.highpoint.edu/library/hpuarchives> and search interface using ContentDM software. This searchable interface makes for easier access to this wonderful historical content.
- Setup a scheduling system for students who want to make an appointment with a librarian. The software has been heavily used during this time of remote learning.
- Added a ReaderSpace to shelve, display, and promote current popular fiction and non-fiction materials.
- Worked with Interior Design students on ideas for a new space in the library as well as a concept for a new library facility.
- Worked to educate students and faculty on off-campus access via our online services blog-

Helping students—It is what we do

Reference services— Smith, Wanek, and School of Education library staff assisted patrons with 887 questions, roughly half the number of interactions from the previous year. The drop in interactions is likely due to a number of factors, such as the removal of directional and printing questions from reference statistics, as well as the pandemic. The Reference department head is developing, in collaboration with library staff, workflow solutions to assist in adapting reference assistance to virtual and modified in-person models.

Chat services— In 2019-20, we answered 2,109 questions . Our answer rate remained high at 97%. Although the busy times will vary, the months of November and April are very active on chat. While many of these regarded article access, database recommendations and off-campus troubleshooting, 85 research topics were recorded and tagged.

Reference Appointments—Our students may also make an appointment with a librarian and then meet virtually.

This year students enjoyed this easy access to a librarian!

Library Guides

Use of Library Guides or Libguides increased by 41 percent over the previous year. The top subject guide, course guide, and topic guide are the same as last year, but almost all saw an increase in views ranging from 30 to 65 percent higher

Most Viewed Libguide Overall:	APA Citation Guide (6th Ed.)	97,183 views (up 28%)
Most Viewed Subject Guide:	Pharmacy Subject Guide	2,904 views (up 60%)

Library Instruction - Helping Students and Faculty

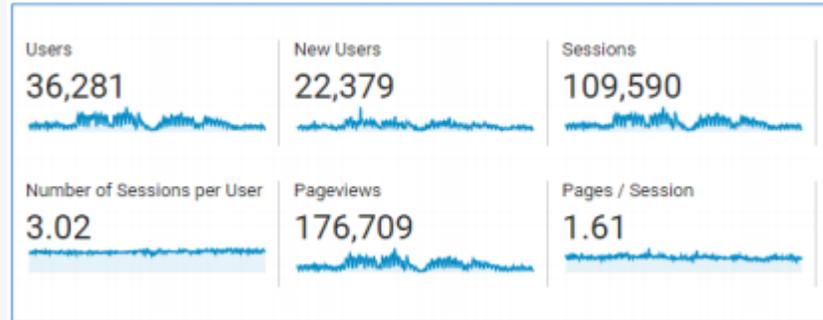

For 2019-20, librarians taught a total of 150 course-integrated research instruction sessions, reaching 2,814 students. HPU Libraries provides over 70 percent more research instruction than libraries at institutions of similar size. In addition to course-integrated instruction, librarians taught 66 workshops, 46 percent of total instruction sessions.

Web Access – www.highpoint.edu/library

Each year the HPU Libraries website domain sees a great deal of use. Much of this comes from referring pages which link to the library website. Last year the website saw 109,000 sessions (last year - 103,000) and 176,000 page views (last year 170,000). 55% were new visitors.

About one third of the users come to the library pages from on-campus and most prefer using Google Chrome although the use of Safari has increased.

Finally, this chart shows the most commonly visited library web pages. Contact Us, Media and Archives are always well used but Library Locations and Resources A to Z were the most accessed pages.

Library Purchasing

The library purchases items to support the research and studies of our students, staff and faculty. We also purchase materials on-demand for our faculty and students; we call these “books on demand” (BOD).

This year the library purchased more content in eBooks and eStreaming formats so that our students and faculty could have access from off-campus.

Interlibrary Loan

Due to the coronavirus, total ILL numbers were significantly lower than last year. On the other hand, because we were one of the few libraries that were open, lending actually increased. We borrowed about 2,000 items and lent 1,500.

Interlibrary Loan (yearly)	2015-16	2016-17	2017-18	2018-19	2019-20	Totals

Did we meet many of the objectives that we set for the 2019-2020 school year?

1. Execute “blended staffing” so that all staff are associated with a department and their responsibilities are well defined.

Endeavor to make all staff aware of their role in the library by encouraging them to work with staff who will provide them with challenging projects and important task.

- All PT staff have been aligned with a department and most use their time and skills in other service areas. This means that staff who are working a weekend or late evening shift have projects and other duties to work on during the quieter times during the semester.

2. Assure that library collections and content are visible to our patrons.

Now that the collection has been reset and we have established normal maintenance workflows. We need to work on methods to be assured that the collection is discoverable, clearly defined, and well presented for the discovery of our patrons. (Note: this goal took on a new meaning as we entered the stay at home part of the semester. Making certain that digital access was working properly became a top priority)

- We have worked on several projects to assure that HPU purchased content was discoverable.
- Checked database links and assured that links to renewed content worked properly.
- Worked to check links in the Library Guides that direct students in classes to content.

3. Focus on the content, structure and layout of a new library facility for HPU.

In 2018-19 the faculty library committee completed work on the concept of a new library. A student and faculty library satisfaction survey, meetings with architects and consideration of new library facilities all fed into this 8-page memo. It is time for us to consider what departments and services will be housed in the new facility.

- At this juncture, we have student and faculty opinions that were gleaned from two library satisfaction surveys. We have the work of the library faculty committee, and we have the concept work as presented by two design architects who worked for the University.
- We established a library guide as a place to store new materials from these sources and also from outside resources - <http://guides.highpoint.edu/FutureLibrary>
- For now, this project has been placed on hold as uncertainty about safely meeting the needs of students puts pressure on the planning for future projects.

What new goals and objectives have we set for the 2020-21 school year?

A Note: In light of current events it seems best that all library departments and library staff devote themselves to making certain we are doing the best that we possibly can to provide our students and faculty with access to digital resources from both on and off campus.

1. Assure that we have policies and the staff has the necessary skillsets in-place to provide online library services to our patrons, including:

- Access to online content

Librarians are regularly testing digital access and are proactive in our outreach to students

- Access to online instruction and virtual research consultation

New role for the Library guides. We will use them for teaching as well as informing students of what we do.

- Policies that support ready access to digital content

With each book purchase we look at providing digital content instead of paper. We are also considering more large eBook collections—Project Muse and the Harvard Business Review leadership collection are two examples of these eBook collections.

- Methods to provide traditional library services to an off-campus population

All of our students can now request that books be sent to their home address.

Virtual appointments and virtual workshops are very popular.

Librarians are focused on in-person, hybrid or digital methods of presenting resource content to students and are willing and ready to adapt instruction to the needs of faculty.
